Tank Cars Blowing Up Cause Million Dollar Fire In CNR Freight Yards

2 Sheds, 130 Box Cars Destroyed By Flames At Montreal Bonaventure Station; 7 Firemen Taken To Hospital With Injuries

MONTREAL, Aug. 24—(CP).—Railway and fire department sleuths today picked through hundreds of square yards of smouldering wreckage, trying to find just why a group of tank cars blew up in mid-Montreal Monday and touched off $1,000,000 conflagration. No lives were lost in the spectacular fire, which started in the Canadian National Railway freight yards behind old Bonaventure Station. One fireman was still in hospital today and six others were treated for burns and cuts.

The fire was believed to have started when an oxygen tank in a general freight shed blew up. This, in turn, touched off a railway tank car of naphtha and then a gasoline tank car. Railway workers and firemen managed to unload a boxcar of dynamite in the yards and to remove from danger 10 more cars of naphtha.

Today, the freight yard was still smouldering. About 130 box cars stood on the tracks, their walls charred and their cargo damaged. Firemen kept an alert watch to see that no further fires broke out. Several freight sheds were gutted but R. C. Caughan, president of the CNR, said in a statement that the yard was back in operation handling freight on a reduced scale.

"It's the worst fire I've seen in 35 years," a fire department official said.

All Firemen Called

As the flames reached their height, 60 hoses played water into the inferno. Three alarms brought every available fireman from all Montreal stations to the scene.

Hoses criss-crossed the street, downtown traffic was tied up for blocks, and police struggled with a surging crowd of 10,000 onlookers.

The explosions might have been followed by yet another had not

Gasoline Bylaw Battle Heard In Court

Three heated hours of hearing were held in court today over the contentious city bylaw regulating closing hours of garages. Opening session of the case was marked with sharp exchanges of counsels. Witness E. A. Outram, City Clerk of Peterborough, who was under fire of W. J. Arthur Fair, defence counsel for the garage operators charged with violating the bylaw, for more than an hour.

The hearing has been adjourned by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, until Aug. 31, when it is expected the full court day will be kept fairly clear for continuing.

The case before the court today was one against John Russelle, Water St. garage operator. It alleges that the accused kept his garage open, contrary to the bylaw, on the evening of July 24 between eight and 9.30 o'clock.

Another charge against Russelle, and similar charges against three other city garagemen were adjourned until the same date.

Hearing today was mainly to establish the legality of the bylaw 4701, passed by city council July 12. Defence counsel Fair and Special Prosecutor Alex Elliott clashed frequently on cross-examination by Mr. Fair of City Clerk Outram, first witness. At one time, Magistrate Philp told Mr. Fair not to "waste the time of the court" and not to "try to mislead the witness."

The main point of contention was how, when and because of what action, the city council had passed the bylaw.

PC John Morrow, who had investigated the alleged infractions of the bylaw, was the only other witness called.

Demand Holdup Man

OSHAWA, Aug. 24 — (CP). — Jack Sikorski of Hamilton was remanded today until Aug. 31 on a charge of robbery with violence of a brewers warehouse messenger last Aug. 16.

Chinese Prices Tumble 25 P.C.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24 — (AP). — Commodity prices tumbled as much as 25 per cent today as China completed its first 24 hours of conversion to its new gold yuan currency.

The operation, the Central Bank of China announced, netted the government approximately $1,250,000 worth of gold, silver and United States dollars. The receipts were in payment for the gold yuan, which in the first 24 hours also brought to the banks an estimated total of 10 trillion old Chinese dollars [illegible] currency and freedom from the unbridled price increases of the last three days when government controls were lifted before the change-over.

Turns Back On Civilization But Has Explaining To Do

EDMONTON, Aug. 24—(CP).—A 60-year-old Washington, DC, man who zoomed northward from Edmonton two weeks ago in search of a spot where he could get away from civilization, bumped homeward on horseback today.

When V. G. Murray gets back, he'll have some explaining to do to the RCAF, which spent more than $35,000 looking for him when his twin-engined Cessna aircraft vanished Aug. 7 after filing a flight plan to Grande Prairie, Alta., 240 miles northwest of here, on what he said was the first leg of a trip to Fairbanks, Alaska.

RCMP officers found Murray at lonely Nose Creek, 75 miles southwest of Grande Prairie and well off his announced course. He appeared none the worse for his 16-day outing.

The plane, well-stocked with supplies when it left Edmonton, was missing. Its fate, and the story of Murray's back-to-nature holiday would have to await completion of the 50-mile trek to Wembley, nearest outpost of the civilization he shunned two weeks ago.

First hint of Murray's plans come after his disappearance when a Washington friend told of a letter he had received from Murray the day before, in which he told of "an abandoned airfield with some buildings in the wilds of Northern Alberta, 100 miles from the nearest road or trail." There he hoped to "get away from it all."

RCAF officials commented Murray appeared to have surveyed his course carefully before his departure. They added they would ask the Transport Department to file charges against the pilot if it was established that he had given a false destination for his flight.

Garfield Case Feeling Out Tory Leadership

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 (CP)—W. Garfield Case, member of parliament for the Ontario constituency of Grey North, said today he "will not hesitate" to enter the contest for leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

The 49-year-old former mayor of Owen Sound, released a 1,000-word statement "regarding the possible leadership of the Progressive Conservative party and my own personal aspirations with regard thereto."

The leader, who will succeed John Bracken, will be chosen at the party's national convention here Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and Oct. 2. Mr. Bracken is retiring because of ill health.

Mr. Case outlined his views on Canadian problems and said:

"I am convinced that if we are truly the alternate party we must forthwith convince the Canadian electorate that we are fully capable of taking over.

"To achieve this I will not hesitate to project myself into the leadership contest. While lacking in parliamentary experience, nevertheless I have friends who believe in me and who feel that I have the benefit of vast experience in that level of government closest to the people."

Second Name In Field

Mr. Case is the second man to announce interest in taking over from Mr. Bracken. The first was John W. Hanna, 59, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature for Huron Bruce.

Better-known party members mentioned prominently as leadership candidates have thus far made no comment.

They include Premier Drew of Ontario; John Diefenbaker, member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskaatchewan; Gordon Graydon, member for the Ontario riding of Peel, and Donald Fleming, member for Toronto Eglinton.

Other Commons members said in the running are Howard Green, Vancouver South; E. D. Fulton, Kamloops; A. L. Smith, Calgary West; J. M. Macdonnell, Muskoka-Ontario, and John T. Hackett, Stanstead.

Also mentioned as possible nominees are Murdoch Macpherson, prominent Regina lawyer; Dr. Sydney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, and Ivan Sabourin, party leader in Quebec.

Mr. Case said in his statement [illegible] ers of the House of Commons who are fully capable of providing the aggressive type of leadership we are seeking today."

Belgium Sends Book Honoring Canadians

QUEBEC, Aug. 24 — (CP). — Countess De Saint-Marcq of Belgium will visit Ottawa in a few days when she will present Prime Minister King with a golden book bearing the names of all Canadians who helped free her country.

The Countess, president of the Organization of Remembrance of Gand, now is here meeting next-of-kin of Quebec soldiers buried in Belgian cemeteries. The ORG was founded by citizens of the city of Gand in memory of Canadian soldiers killed in the liberation of Belgium.

During an interview Monday, the Countess said that half of Belgium's farm population would immigrate to Canada if it were not for Canada's requirement that settlers have capital of 250,000 francs ($2,500).

"A farmer who already has 250,000 francs would rather stay at home," she said.

Plan Inquiry Into Riot At Wasaga

May Put More Police Around Resorts, As Business Dropping

WASAGA BEACH, Aug. 24—Provincial police have been ordered to make a complete report to the Attorney General's department on Saturday night's rioting which broke out here between two rival gangs of Toronto youths.

Police sources say the outcome may be more police at the summer resort and a tightening up of enforcement of the Lord's Day Act at the beach, known to be one of the "liveliest" in Ontario.

Residents say the gang warfare is resulting in a loss of business. A number of parents phoned their daughters and ordered them home immediately.

Meantime police are investigating a possible connection between the theft of a licence plate here and the riots which resulted in injury to two persons.

The licence plate was on an automobile stolen in Toronto which was chased near Toronto at 90 miles an hour by a motorcycle officer. Police said they believed the car was used by some of the Toronto beannery gang to make their escape from here Saturday following the fighting. Police found the abandoned car near the restaurant the gang frequents and from which its name is derived.

Won't Permit Berlin Election

BERLIN, Aug. 24 — (AP). — Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky announced today that Germans in the Russian zone will not be allowed to hold community elections this fall.

The Russian commander said the voting will be put off for one year. It is the first time in the occupation that one of the four powers has postponed an election.

Sokolovsky issued his order over the protests of the zone's two non-Communist parties—the Conservative Christian Democrats and the Rightist Liberal Democrats.

Non-Communist leaders have claimed the Communists want the elections put off because they feared they would suffer a severe defeat. The Communists have claimed the people are "too busy working for recovery" to vote.

Seek To Have Liquor Vote Set Aside

COBOURG, Aug. 24—(ENS)—Hearing of evidence in connection with an application to have the Campbelford liquor vote set aside, commenced this morning before Judge M. A. Miller. The application was brought by Wm. Hogle of Campbellford, campaign manager for the wets. Defendant in the action is John F. McGregor, returning officer, J. F. R. At the recount the affirmative vote standing on the liquor store was 7.2 less than required 3-5 majority and on the beer store it was 2.6 less than the required total.

First witness was ex-mayor Ernest Ayrhart of Campbellford who said that in polling station No. 2 the pencil would not work and he used his fountain pen.

Allegations that irregularities had occurred in the taking of the referendum are listed in the writ issued by the petitioners.

In Ward 2, it is alleged, the pencil in the polling booth was broken and voters had to mark the ballots in ink. In Ward 4, it is said, there was no pencil and in the same ward, four persons who were not residents are alleged to have voted without the right to do so.

In Ward 3, the writ alleges that the stub of a ballot was found among the refuse and in Ward 1, it is charged that a returning officer told a number of duly registered voters that they were not entitled to vote. The same returning officer allegedly left [illegible] and [illegible] Toronto for [illegible] were told that one ballot was for a liquor store and one for a beer parlor, whereas the matter of a beer parlor was not being voted upon, and as there is much opposition in Campbellford to such place, the writ alleges that this misleading information caused many to cast a negative vote. The final allegation is that representatives of the negative side hung around the polling places and asked questions of the inside scrutineers.

Allege Women Steal $900 From Campbellford Drover

Following a complaint laid in Peterborough early this morning, by a Campbellford drover, two women were arrested and are being held in Toronto by Toronto city police. The drover, Fred McArthur, told police the two women had stolen $900 from him just before midnight Monday evening when the three were together in Peterborough. His complaint started an early-morning search by phone and police radio and by eight a.m., the Toronto officers reported the two women had been taken into custody.

Provincial Constables Joseph Hanson and Keith O'Shaughnessy handled the case from the Peterborough end, and they report the names given by the two prisoners at Toronto were Mrs. Max Taylor and "Miss Outwater." Both women are said by police to be residents of this city.

The two will be brought to Peterborough today and will face a charge of theft.

Given Lift

McArthur told police that he had given the two girls a lift as they were hitchhiking along the highway between Oshawa and Peterborough. At Peterborough, the girls are alleged to have made off with the proceeds of a stock sale McArthur had made in Toronto that afternoon—about $940 in cash.

Police learned that two women answering the description had commissioned a city taxi to take them to Toronto at midnight.

Immediately, a province - wide alarm of the missing taxi with the two passengers was broadcast by provincial at Peterborough. Within 15 minutes, Toronto City Police advised that the pair had been located at a Toronto hotel. More than $800 of the cash has been recovered.

Only information as to the identity of the two were given as the names "Cecile" Taylor, "Mary Outwater".

Chambermaids Walk Off Job

TORONTO, Aug. 24 — (CP). — More than 50 chambermaids walked off the job today at the large downtown King Edward Hotel and guests were left with the possibility of having to clean up their own rooms.

Hundreds of persons were registered in the hotel and many others awaited rooms but the girls refused to be coaxed back to work. Both union and hotel officials were pleading with the maids to end the walkout which started when the girls came to work this morning.

A spokesman for the maids said the group was "impatient" with the progress of wage negotiations started July 8. They are asking a pay boost of 85 cents a day, which would bring their earnings to $5 a day.

Union officials said the work stoppage was a "walkout" and not a strike.

A provincial government conciliator has been detailed to investigate the dispute.

The planes were two-engined C-47s. They plunged into cornfields around this village, 14 miles northeast of Frankfurt. The planes were returning to Wiesbaden from Berlin, where they had delivered supplies.

Parts of the planes rained down on the village after the crash, but no one was hurt. The roof of one farmer's house was destroyed.

Both planes were burning when they fell to earth.

The Mayor said that American engineers were pulling apart the wreckage with cranes and bulldozers in an effort to find the bodies of victims.

Tito Posted At Top Of Russian Blacklist As Campaign Stepped Up To Drive Him Out

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 — (AP).—Russia and the Balkan satellites are stepping up their campaign to oust Marshal Tito as premier of Yugoslavia, diplomatic officials said today.

These authorities point to increasing violent denunciation of Tito from every top Communist official in Eastern Europe outside Yugoslavia.

In addition, party leaders in Italy and France also have lined up beside Moscow in condemning Tito as a "traitor" to the Communist cause.

Government officials familiar with Eastern Europe say the disagreement between Tito and the Russian brand of Communism now is so fundamental it rules out any possibility of compromise.

This increases the change that Tito may, in desperation, turn to the west for support, but there is no real sign of such a move yet.

And, despite the swelling stream of anti-Tito invective, officials here say they regard it as unlikely that Russia or any of her satellites will order troops into Yugoslavia.

Allies Now Optimistic About Talks

Extension Of Meetings Has Averted International Crisis

MOSCOW, Aug. 24 — (AP). — A qualified source said the Western envoys and Russia have reached a general area of agreement during talks climaxed Monday night by a long Kremlin interview with Prime Minister Stalin. The informant said technicalities lie ahead for adjustment but that these are not trifles and will require considerable negotiation.

Walter Bedell Smith, United States ambassador, emerged from the Kremlin after the meeting in a buoyant mood and declared "we're going to have more meetings." He added later:

"We're always optimistic. We expect the best and prepare for the worst."

The meeting Monday night, attended by Stalin, Foreign Minister Molotov, and Smith and his British and French colleagues, lasted four hours and 40 minutes.

The informant said today that the seven Kremlin conferences, two of which included Stalin, have a "fair" chance of resulting in a solid agreement. He said prospects are far better today than they were at this time on Monday.

The source said the Western Powers and the Soviet Union now have reduced their terms to the "lowest denominator."

New Ideas

(Whitehall sources in London said Stalin introduced certain "new ideas" which offer hope for an East-West settlement in Berlin. The introduction of these unexplained new thoughts dispelled fears that the diplomatic exchanges would break down, the informants said. They added that prolongation of the Moscow negotiations averted a potentially ex-

CCL Suspends Mine Workers

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 — (CP). — The Canadian Congress of Labor today suspended the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers because of an article published in the union's paper attacking A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and of the CCL.

Ask 33 Million To Operate United Nations In 1949

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 24 (CP). — Secretary-General Trygve Lie asked today for $33,469,587 to operate the United Nations in 1949.

The figure is about a million dollars less than the 1948 budget. It goes before the 58-member General Assembly in Paris next month for approval.

Despite the slash, moves already are under way in the UN to cut the total still more. The first of these came in a report from the Assembly's advisory budgetary committee which believes at least $1,500,000 can be lopped off.

The UN is financed by its member countries in accordance with a scale of contributions based on the ability to pay. The United States pays the largest share — about 39 per cent.

Estimates for next year show the first downward trend in the three-year history of the UN. The 1948 budget was $19,390,000. The total climbed to $28,290,241 in 1947 and $34,825,195 for 1948.

Lie explained the reduction next year is due mainly to the elimination of extra expenses for holding a General Assembly away from Lake Success. The 1948 Assembly is being held in Paris at an additional cost of more than $1,000,000.

The biggest chunk of the budget -$24,335,300—covers supplies, equipment, services and salaries at Lake Success. Lie said he planned to increase the staff next year from 2,881 to 2,936.

Other major items at $2,516,650 for meetings of the Assembly, council, commissions and committees; $3,526,590 for the European office in Geneva, and $695,257 for the International Court of Justice in The Hague.

Lie estimated the UN miscellaneous income for next year at $783,350. This covers such items as sale of used equipment, sale of publications, interest on investments and rental income.

Jury Decides Wasni Killing Is Justified

Testify Warnings Given Suspect Before Shot Fired

HAMILTON, Aug. 24—(CP).—A coroner's jury decided Monday a city detective was justified in shooting to death Frank Wasni, suspected holdup man.

Wasni was identified by three witnesses as the driver of the automobile in which two men escaped after grabbing $12,000 in cash and cheques, intended as a bank deposit, from a brewers' warehouse employee in Oshawa.

The jury decided Acting Detective William Homer was performing his duty in firing at Wasni after giving him warning.

Homer's testimony, corroborated by another officer, indicated he chased Wasni after spotting him in a parked automobile on a downtown street, shouted repeated warnings to him, fired warning shots and then pumped a bullet into the fleeing man, aiming low.

Hamilton police said earlier they had identified Wasni as one of the gunmen who robbed the messenger. Jack Sikorski of Hamilton was arrested here and has been returned to Oshawa to face charges in connection with the holdup.

Identify Wasni

Marjorie Gabriel (who is said to have been sitting in car) accused the police of murdering her friend. She said Wasni would have dodged behind a parked car and shot it out with the police if he had been carrying a gun. She said she had heard no warning given Wasni before the fatal shot was fired.

Acting Detective Albert Bunn and three persons who said they saw the shooting, corroborated Homer's evidence that warnings to stop were shouted.

Three Oshawa citizens identified Wasni as the driver of the escape car. They were Harry Whitaker, customs appraiser who remembered seeing the car going the wrong way on a one-way street, Bernice Hains, 19, service station attendant, and Mrs. Gladys Scott, dispatcher in a taxicab office.

Say Stern Gang Kidnapped Consulate Clerk

JERUSALEM, Aug. 24 (AP)—John MacDonald, United States consul-general here has protested to the Jewish governor of Jerusalem that the Stern gang kidnapped and mistreated an American consulate employee Sunday.

MacDonald said the Sternists seized George F. Paro, a confidential clerk, and held him for seven hours, during which they handcuffed, blindfolded, slapped and questioned him.

An Israeli army source said the Sternists kidnapped Paro and called him a "damn British spy" because he bears a faint resemblance to a British detective who left Palestine four months ago.

After Paro was released by the Sternists he was held for another nine hours by Israeli military police. Asked why the army had held him so long a spokesman replied:

"To clear up such a mystery in nine hours is not bad police work."

MacDonald said he had filed a full report of the incident with the United States state department and had sent a strongly-worded protest to Dr. Bernard Joseph, Jewish military governor in Jerusalem.

Meets Strangers

MacDonald's story of the incident was as follows:

Paro struck up an acquaintance with a man and a woman in a cafe early Sunday morning. The man offered to drive him home and Paro accepted. The woman disappeared and a second man took her place. The first man explained he wanted to drive the other home first and Paro agreed.

After driving for a time two men told Paro to get out. A third man, in uniform, appeared and snapped handcuffs on Paro under the guise of shaking hands.

"He slapped me across the face and called me a 'Damn British spy,'" Paro said.

"There were about a dozen others standing around, most of them in nondescript uniforms. They took me in the room of a building and blindfolded me with a cheap, brown scarf and told me to sit on the floor."

For an hour, he said they cursed him, accused him of being British, insulted him and then began questioning him.

"They asked me if I had any Arab friends and all about my vacation two weeks ago when I visited Beyrouth, Damascus and Amman. Then one of the told me in a Peter Lorre monotone: 'If our investigation fails to bear out what you've told us, you'll be shot like a British spy tomorrow morning!'"

After questioning him for another hour, Paro said, he noted under his blindfold that three were pointing rifles at him. Then someone fired three shots out a window. After that they gave him the "silent treatment."

At about 8 a.m., they put him in a car, drove him around and transferred him to another automobile. After being taken into a building he found himself in the hands of Israeli military force.

The blaze broke out at about 3:40 p.m. EDT just as 200 steel and wooden freight cars were being unloaded. An oxygen tank blew up in shed No. 1, and in less than 15 minutes the whole yard, from Chaboillez Square to Mountain Street bridge, was aflame.

Blast followed blast as the fire reached tank cars and drums of naphtha. Policemen, sweating in the 110 degrees heat at the edge of the blaze, kept pushing the crowd back out of danger.

Blows In Windows

The last explosion blew in the leaded windows of the Queen's Hotel Tavern, showering glass over waiter Maurice Cyr and 10 customers who were placidly drinking beer. No one was hurt.

The station, long a Montreal landmark, was only saved because firemen repeatedly extinguished blazes on the roof.

The Canadian Pacific Railway offered to help the CNR meet difficulties caused by the fire. Freight cars and use of CPR yards were offered if needed.

It was perhaps ironical that the flames spared Bonaventure station, which is slated for demolition in a street extension scheme. Central station has been the main passenger depot since the war, with Bonaventure used only for local runs.

Garfield Case

He likened himself to Hon. C. G. Power, Liberal, member of Liberal policies and ra... the recent Liberal leadership section.

Wants Dynamic Leadership

Said Mr. Case:

Like Mr. Power, MP, with his regard for Liberalism, I am anxious to see our party provide a dynamic type of leadership that will inspire confidence and faith, not alone in our integrity and ability, but something that will appeal to the youth of our land and to all Canadians who believe in the future of this great country."

For years, Canadians' freedom and individual rights have been bartered for "political expediency, largely to appease the socialists whose doctrine I consider a menace to freedom and justice and the rights and dignity of the individual."

"...The people quite properly look to the Progressive Conservatives to end this rule of despotism and bureaucratic control."

He urged "return to responsible government." Farmers should be assured of fair prices, labor of continuous employment at a wage maintaining "the highest possible" standard of living. Industry and commerce must be able to plan with confidence and assurance.

Wasaga Demands Police Protection

WASAGA BEACH, Aug. 24 — (CP). — Merchants in this Georgian Bay resort, one of Canada's largest holiday centres, Monday demanded police action to curb further outbreaks of rowdyism like the Saturday night fights that resulted in 13 youths being arrested on charges ranging from disturbing the peace to assault.

The merchants said the fighting between rival gangs from Toronto is ruining business along the miles of sandy beach, where week-end visitors swell the resort's listed population of less than 1,000 to as much as 100,000.

A. C. Jessop, justice of the peace who arraigned the 13 youths following Saturday night's riots, said year-round residents "would like a law whereby as soon as known rowdies show up, they could be told to get moving. Unfortunately, in Canada, we can't do that.

J. R. Murray of Cleveland, O., one of three persons injured during the fighting, said he had never previously seen any of the 20 youths who attacked him.

Residents said the Toronto gangs have "terrorized the beach all summer."

Industrials Weaken As Trading Drops

TORONTO, Aug. 24 — (CP).— Industrials weakened in narrow fractional range as trading dropped to almost a standstill. Golds, Western oils and base metals were steady although showing signs of weakening.

Papers, steels and refining oils weakened in industrial groupings as losses remained in fractional range. Ford A was down ¼ and International Paper weakened ⅜.

Hollinger gained 10 cents in senior golds and Teck-Hughes was easier. Eldona, Gunnar, Base Metals were steady on mixed gains and losses. Base Metals Corp., Cailinan, Flin Flon, Consolidated Smelters, and International Nickel were fractionally easier. Waite Amulet was up 5 cents and Normetal, New Calumet, Sherritt and Macdonald were penny gainers.

Home Oil eased 10 cents in Western oils and Calgary and Edmonton was down 5 cents.

Fear 150 Drowned

TOKYO, Aug. 24 — (AP). — More than 150 Japanese Monday were reported missing and believed drowned when the railing of a concrete bridge collapsed in Niigata Harbor. The bridge was jammed with spectators at a fireworks display.

Deplore Marriage Curbs

GENEVA, Aug. 24 — (Reuters). — The economic and social council of the United Nations Monday formally resolved that "it deplores all legislative and administrative measures which deny a woman the right to leave her country of origin to reside with her husband in any other." The resolution also condemned legislation denying a women freedom to choose a husband.

Union Forsakes Wage Demand, 'Met' Will Open

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 — (AP). — The Metropolitan Opera, a New York institution for 65 years, will have a 1948-49 season after all.

The Opera Association said late Monday that 12 unions with membership among the Met personnel had agreed to shelve demands for wage increases and other benefits. The association said this would make possible the production of opera this winter.

On Aug. 4, the association had cancelled the season. It said a $220,000 deficit had been incurred last year and that demands for higher pay and other rising costs made too great a burden.

In an effort to prevent similar situations in future years, the association said a'l its contracts with unions will be made to terminate not later than June 30 each year and to provide that all negotiations for the following seasons must be completed by that date.

George A. Sloan, chairman of the association's board, and Charles M. Spofford, president of the opera association, said in a statement the agreement with the unions was "the result of a co-operative approach to a common problem."

The statement said it would be a mistake to assume "that the major problems of the Metropolitan have been solved.

"Despite the fact that the house is practically sold out at every performance," the statement said, "our box-office receipts from 7,000 subscribers and the general public are not sufficient to meet constantly mounting costs in the complicated business of producing grand opera."

Appoint Meek Milk Director

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (CP)—C. M. Meek, former chairman of the Ontario Milk Control Board, has been appointed director of milk operations in the provincial agricultural department, it was learned Monday.

Mr. Meek, along with other members of the milk board, resigned to facilitate the setting up of a new board in line with the recommendations of Ontario Royal Commission on milk. Other board members were W. G. Ovens of Peterborough, representing distributors, and W. H. Wilmont of Sharon, representing producers.

Members of the new board will be paid by the government and will meet once a month to determine policy, with Mr. Meek handling detail work. Judge A. B. Currey of Gore Bay has been mentioned as a prominent candidate for chairmanship of the new board.

Indications here were that the four powers may issue a public statement shortly on the talks.

It is not definitely known whether this will be tonight or tomorrow or the netx day. It is obvious there must be conversations in the four capitals. There is little indication of how much ground the announcement will cover, but it is reported it should be sufficiently substantial to put at rest some of the rumors circulating around the world.

It was learned on excellent authority the three western envoys took their case to Stalin after a snag developed in recent meetings with Molotov.

It was the second session the Soviet ... attended official ... meetings 9, Aug. 12, and Aug. 16.

Monday night's meetings opened in the Kremlin at 9 p.m. and was believed to have been the longest talk Stalin ever has had with foreign representatives. It exceeded by one hour the longest previous session in the current Kremlin talks, which began July 31.

Smith said Monday night's session was interrupted only for "tea and cakes."

Drafting Report

After the meeting Smith returned to the Embassy with British representative Frank Roberts and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau. They retired almost immediately to Smith's third-floor study.

It was assumed they would draft their report on the meeting for transmission to their governments in Washington, London and Paris.

During Monday night's session a report spread in the Soviet capital that Smith and Roberts were planning to leave Moscow soon -- Roberts possibly today. After the meeting, however, it was presumed that both diplomats had cancelled such plans.

Smith told foreign reporters in a recent letter that he assumed simultaneous statements would be issued in the four capitals when the four-power talks end

City Solicitor Quotes Story Of Roman But Will South-enders Appreciate It?

Rev. Edgar C. Moore of St. George's Anglican Church might appreciate the advisory reference by City Solicitor Huycke last night to Fabius Cunctator.

Something was being said at the city hall about the extension of George St. through Morrow Park, and Mr. Huycke was suggesting thtat the council avoid putting on pressure for court action in the proposed expropriation proceedings.

He was telling them about Fabius the delayer who kept out of arms length of a Carthaginian army, eluding and evading decision until the invaders packed up and went back to Africa.

Whether the south end petitioners for the street extension would appreciate that policy to the extent of withholding court recourse until next year is probably quite doubtful, but according to the information and prospects relating to Morrow Park Mr. Huycke was inclined to recommend to the council the peculiar merits of the Fabian way.

Find Fresh Vegetables Dumped And Burned

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—(CP). — Truckloads of fresh vegetables are being dumped and burned almost daily in the Boutbee Avenue dump, residents of the East Toronto district said today.

City officials said they had no idea who was responsible for the waste.

John Goodman, a district resident, said one trucker told him the load being dumped had just come in from his farm that morning. He quoted the trucker as saying distributors offered him only three cents a head for his cabbage and he preferred to dump rather than sell at that low price.

Canada's Scrap Iron Shortage Said Critical

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 — (CP). — Canada is facing a critical shortage of scrap iron. There has been a drop "to almost nothing" in supplies flowing in to steel furnaces and iron foundries, Steel Controller F. K. Ashbaugh, said today.

"Stocks are not bad," Mr. Ashbaugh said.

To maintain present output of about three million ingot tons of steel annually, on which the country's industrial life depends, Canadian steel producers must buy approximately 800,000 tons of scrap a year. In addition they use about 1,500,000 tons of basic pig iron and 800,000 tons of "circulating scrap" which comes from the mills.

It is shortage of scrap in the purchase field that is causing trouble. Mr. Asbaugh said some scrap has been obtained from the West Indies and Australia and that efforts are being made to get additional supplies from Germany and Japan.

Talks concerning disposition of German scrap supplies are under way in Berlin, Mr. Ashbaugh said. No decision has been reached.

(Earlier this year, British authorities expressed concern at the possibility that much of the scrap supplies from the Ruhr, most of which had been going to Britain, might have to be diverted to the United States as the result of new arrangements for financing the combined occupation zones.)

Canadian scrap requirements were filled by domestic supplies before the war in the normal course of production, use of discard of equipment. The shortage at present is a direct result of the war. To some extent from 1939 on and very markedly after 1942, Canadian industrial production was directed to the manufacture of war supplies.

Mine Workers Attacks U.S. Act

By DAVE McINTOSH

TRURO, N.S., Aug. 24 — (CP). — In an attack on the United States Taft-Hartley Labor Act, President Freeman Jenkins of the United Mine Workers (C.C.L.) District 26, said today "if United States employers are able successfully to impose that slave bill on American workers it is beyond doubt that attempts will be made to introduce similar laws in Canada."

In his presidential report to the 22nd annual U.M.W. convention, Mr. Jenkins also hit at the Nova Scotia Trade Union Act, the Dominion Coal Board, the "shocking indifference" of the Federal and Nova Scotia governments to unemployment.

Mr. Jenkins listed four main problems which, in the opinion of union officers, faced the U.M.W.:

1. To restore the standard of living of membership to the level at which it stood before this year's price increases, or, if possible, to raise it.

2. Unemployment in the Maritimes.

3. Labor representation in legislative bodies.

4. Strengthening of the union.

The stocky, black-haired president said there was one point in regard to wages that it was essential the union clarify.

"We have always been told in the past that it was impossible to pay the Maritime miners adequate wages because of American competition in central Canada. This can never again be accepted as a reason for sub-standard wages for the Federal government now has a settled policy of so administering subventions that they will enable our coal to compete in central Canada. As we told the coal board, a subvention policy for coal must have as its primary purpose the greatest possible output of Canadian coal, a fully adequate wage level for the coal miner."

The C.C.F. Platform

The C.C.F. met in Winnipeg last week to clarify its ideas and to work out a program for a first term in power if it should be lucky enough to be chosen to govern Canada at the next general election. The program includes the nationalization of the banks, the railways, the iron and steel industries, and a firm control over meat-packing and fertilizer-making; coal, electricity, gas and oil would also be nationalized. In other respects private enterprise would be "helped and encouraged". This seems to us to be a very large and ambitious program; the Labour government of Britain attempted no such program, and yet it is already in difficulties. The Labour government of Australia has tried its hand at nationalizing the banks without satisfactory results. Whatever may be said about the C.C.F., no one will accuse it of lacking confidence.

* * *

Canadians upon the whole do not seem to have much confidence in the C.C.F. In the last six provincial elections the C.C.F. has not met with any success which would mark it as a serious contender for power in a Dominion election. Furthermore, the C.C.F. has changed its character very markedly; it began as a farmers' party, and now it appears to be primarily a labour party. This is a type of confusion which contains powerful seeds of discord, for although the C.C.F. may say that there is no difference of aim between the farmers and the industrial workers that is not true in practice. Costly food makes for high wages; high wages make for costly goods; costly goods make for costly food. Britain knows that the only way to break this visious circle is to achieve greater production — which means harder work at no increase in pay.

* * *

Many of the leaders of the C.C.F. are clever men, just as well able to see through a brick wall and to understand simple economic facts as anyone. We cannot understand, therefore, why they go on telling their followers that impossible things are possible under socialism. Why do they think that transportation would be cheaper if the government owned two railways instead of one, particularly as they have guaranteed that the nationalized railways would employ as many people as they do at present? Why do they insist that prices can be lowered without lowering wages, when Britain has proved, plainly and painfully, that they cannot? Why do they not explain that if prices are to be lowered and wages left at their present levels, heavy subsidies would be needed which would raise taxes? And what makes the C.C.F. think that protection-in New Zealand, which was suffering recently from the fact that its emigration exceeded its immigration; one is in Australia where a financial mess of considerable magnitude appears upon the horizon; one is in Britain, where the socialist government has found that the basic rules of economics are the same for socialists as for other people. The C.C.F. platform is ambitious, but that is not enough to make it impressive.

Frederick Philip Grove

Canada has lost one of her great men in Frederick Philip Grove. He never held an official position; he never grew rich: he was a writer, and perhaps with Goldwyn Smith he stands as one of the two Canadian writers who deserve to be called "men of letters". A Swede by birth, educated in such a manner that he was truly an inheritor of the ages, he chose to become a Canadian, and in time we shall see that he was one of the greatest of Canadians. In our Third Column today we reprint a part of a speech which he made twenty years ago about our country; it is as true now as it was then, and we think that it gives something of Grove's special quality as a thinker.

All his life he was dogged by misfortune, yet he was not a melancholy man, or one resentful of fate. Canada, often so hard to immigrants, turned her sourest face upon him. Ill-health and unaccountable misfortune struck heavy blows upon Grove and his heroic wife, but he never lost that essential serenity which is the final gift of life to truly great spirits. And at last, when the recognition came which made him a figure of renown in the whole civilized world, Grove was paralysed, deaf and barely able to enjoy the sweets of his success. To this day vast numbers of Canadians do not know his name; his country's government never felt impelled to relieve his poverty by any small pension; the austerity of his writing repells many who attack his books. His was indeed a life of few tangible rewards; his happiness was proof, however, that he found great rewards in the mind.

One of Grove's finest books is his autobiography, In Search Of Myself, which appeared in 1946. It contains much for Canadians to ponder. Consider this passage: "...in Canada I was the first novelist to rely, for what is commonly called 'the plot'...on a deepening of human sympathy for, on an understanding of, the chief characters rather than on a heightening of curiosity and excitement; I imagined that a small fraction of my potential public had come to acknowledge that fact. It will be seen that I had not yet gauged the capacious dearth of mature judgement and sure taste in Canadian readers. Nor had I as yet fully comprehended the utterly hopeless ineptitude prevailing in what is commonly called literary criticism in Canada; for that I had to study its attitudes to others than myself. Surely, in a population of nine millions there must be a handful of people capable of appreciating genuine effort; but I still failed to see how small that handful is".

Another passage from this remarkable book, which bears upon the foregoing, is this: "Art has its being, not in the activity of the artist — which is only its occasion—but in the mental and emotional reaction of him to whom it is addressed: there is no true and only material; what is commonly called its material should properly be called its tools".

While his books endure, Grove will always be with us, and they are far from being the least of Canada's possessions.

Silly Psychiatry

A group of physicians who are experts in mental hygiene assembled recently in London, and they have been asked by a New York doctor, Frank Fremont-Smith, to band together to use psychiatry to destroy prejudice. In his own words, he invites them "to use the powerful rays of human intelligence to penetrate the tough outer shell of suspicion, prejudice and hostility, and thus release the untapped energies of goodwill and co-operative effort which lie in the heart of man".

This is very queer talk from a man of supposed scientific training. How does he know that untapped energies of goodwill and co-operative effort lie at the heart of man? We suggest that Dr. Fremont-Smith does not know anything of the kind; he merely hopes it is true. He is talking through his hat. Obviously he is no follower of Sigmund Freud, for that deeply realistic thinker held the opinion (shared by many theologians) that the desires which lie nearest to the heart of man are anti-social, and that man's co-operative and benevolent result in imposing upon mankind certain prejudices which psychiatrists believe to be desirable. Such silly talk discredits psychiatry, which is not a cure-all.

A world without suspicion, prejudice and hostility would be a very strange world. It would, we think, be an impossible world to live in. Our object, surely, is not to rid ourselves of these characteristics, but to control them, and to direct them against those forces which are evil and destructive.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Butter is soon to appear in half-pound, tinfoil-wrapped packages. To be used as a form of currency, we presume, as nuggets were in the prospecting days.

Psychiatrists are now pursuing the notion that frustrated children are that way because they are taught by frustrated teachers. And who frustrates the teachers, we ask? The children, of course. It is our old friend the vicious circle.

Nationhood

By FREDERICK PHILIP GROVE

(Editor's Note: The paragraphs below are from an address delivered more than two decades ago.)

YOU hear a great deal, these days, of the inexhaustible resources of this Dominion. I have no doubt they are very great. Just now great, I, not being versed in such matters, must leave to others to estimate and to ascertain.

Great, too, are the resources of such stretches of land as the Atacama Desert or of those islands off the Pacific Coast of South America whence guano is shipped to all quarters of the globe.

Great, in their antiquity, seemed the resources of Spain to the ancient Romans. There is a tradition that the same Romans coveted Britain because its soil held tin. No doubt many of those barbarous Britons grew very rich through the trade. In fact, we read in Tacitus that, with the Roman trade, such "alluring vices" — his word for luxuries— "such alluring vices as the porch in front of the house, the bath with hot and cold water, and the pride and pomp of the formal dinner-table" found their way into the remotely northern province. But the canny old philosopher adds, "This sort of thing they, in their ignorance, called culture whereas it was merely part of their slavery."

IT is a comfortable thing to sit back and to listen to our orators exalting the seemingly infinite wealth of that country which happened to give us birth or home. We like to feel flattered by the illusion that, when our wealth is praised, at least part of the glory redounds to our credit. Does it?

Those among us who were born in this country could not very well help themselves even though they might wish to have been born in warmer climes; and had they been born in poor Serbia or on the barren rocks of Greece, they would have had to be satisfied, too. Those who came from choice, I suspect, showed largely that they had sense enough to go where milk and honey flow.

WE may wish to feel that we have developed this country faster than any country has ever been developed before. Is that a fact? The truth of the matter is that, in the settlement of this country, here was repeated the age-old story of all colonial settlements— and not always has it been a creditable story. Thus was Aeolia settled in Asia Minor; thus Sicily between the Ionian and Tyrrhenian Seas; thus the coast of Massilia which became Narbonensic Gaul and is today the south of France. Credit? Credit to whom? To chance? To geologic processes? To God? Of a certainty, not to us.

Is wealth or—the same thing under another name—material civilization at any time or in any country a thing to boast of? It is a well known fact that genius is commonly rewarded by the erection of statues to the dead —whereas in life it went hungry. It is a no less well known fact that Greece decayed when it grew rich; that Rome never developed that indigenous culture of which the republic had exhibited the germs because it grew rich before it had done so. Wealth produces at no time true values.

WHILE travelling, recently, in the east of this great Dominion, I heard one of our orators prophesy that Canada, by virtue of its still untapped resources, was destined one day to become the centre of the British Empire. The assertion contained nothing new. One day, indeed, Canada may be able to feed those parts of the British Empire which are unable to feed themselves. It will continue —as it does already—to supply the world with nearly all its nickel. It will send its coal around the globe. It is probable that it will mine its magnetite ores and ship them west to be smelted into iron and steel. It will do all these things the moment it will "pay" to do so. The empire of Rome was fed by Egypt and Sicily. What, apart from that, was Sicily to the ancient world at the time? What is it to us today? Thus Canada has already become the granary of the British Isles.

Is that our ambition? If so, our ambition is small.

* * *

LET me point out a danger lurking in such a situation. Spain, Sicily, Egypt — like Canada and the United States—were, by the accident of their being colonial countries, prematurely brought into contact with advanced material civilizations for which they were at bottom not prepared.

In the past, true civilizations have grown out of a spiritual soil, not a material one. Is that we, in the present, cannot be truly great except through what posterity will call so. Posterity is a word we hear all too rarely today. For with nations as with individuals, "Fame is the recompense, not of the living, but the dead"....

* * *

THAT Canada is one day going to be the economic centre of the British Empire may well be; those who know more about such things than I do assert it; but it is nothing to boast of. We did not lay down the clay of its plains which bears its wheat-fields. We did not lift up its mountains nor wear them down to the point where they reveal their hidden treasures. We can boast only of what we have done ourselves. We can boast of the fact that we have stood out against the enormous pressure exerted upon us by a more powerful sister-nation; and that we still represent an individuality in the American family. If we are worthy and able to hold on to and make truly ours what was handed down to us by our fathers——whether those fathers lived in the British Isles or in Central Europe or in the Eastern provinces of this Dominion—if we prize our spiritual heritage above material things, then, perhaps, in the distant, and yet, as the lives of nations go, not too distant future, Canada stands a chance of counting as one of the spiritual units which will go to make up a greater British Empire; just as Greece came to mean, not Athens or Sparta, but Asia Minor and the Sporadic Islands as well. Canada has been tested, in the past, in a way unique in modern history; it has stood the test. And that is all we can say at the present moment. The future lies on the knees of the gods.

UNCHALLENGED

Letter To The Editor

HOSPITAL AND SEWER

Sir: Peterborough Civic Hospital was given life by an Act of the Legislature, receiving Royal assent on the 22nd. of day March, 1945, and the estimated cost was $600,000; approximately $40,000 a year requires to be repaid by the ratepayers for 20 years.

The Act provides for the election of nine ratepayers as Governors of the institution, and this is an autonomous body. This was a sensible provision, and care was exercised in the selection of the first board of governors.

Mr. John R. Marshall, as chairman, is an extremely capable, efficient and public spirited citizen, who has the advantage of being master of his own time, which he is giving almost entirely to the hospital plan.

Apprehension is being expressed by some of our ratepayers as to the cost running in excess of the $600,000. This may be true. The contract was executed on April 28, 1947 with the Eastwood Construction Company Limited on a cost plus basis, and architects were named to supervise the work. It could hardly be expected in these times of uncertainty in prices of supplies of materials and labour that the estimated cost would not be increased considerably. Apprehension should be allayed, I think, by reason of the Dominion Government's offer of over $30,000,000 a year for five years for hospital construction and health care.

What these grants will mean to Ontario if the province takes full advantage of them is now announced by Ottawa. For hospital construction Ontario is offered $4,336,439 for the coming year provided that the province contributes a like amount. Ontario's cancer grant, provided the province puts up dollar for dollar, will be $1,167,503.

The province will receive $1,284,235 for mental health services, $740,751 for tuberculosis control, $1,466,150 to strengthen general public health services, $158,777 for crippled children, and the same amount for combating venereal disease and for health personnel training. There is $196,570 provided for an Ontario health survey; out of a total estimate of Dominion grants for this year now estimated at $30,020,300, the sum of $9,667,979 is earmarked for Ontario if the province accepts the conditions, which would involve an Ontario expenditure of $5,500,000."

If the Ontario Government accepts this Dominion Government offer, the hospital will receive a great deal of aid, and it means much for the Civic Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital.

People are becoming more conscious of the need of care for those who are ill, and the hospitals are becoming much more essential to us in our way of life.

Sacrifice by taxpayers for education and hospital care is one of the best dividend paying plans that we could adopt. The disciplinary influence of our teachers in schools in shaping the course of our future citizens will save us building jails, houses of correction and avoid disturbances of family life that result in a poorly trained populace.

Cobourg has been served with a mandatory order issued by the Ontario Department of Health requiring the town to establish an efficient sewage disposal plant. The town of Cobourg has called for tenders, and the estimate is set at $225,000.

Mr. Harold B. Rye stated very well that Monaghan some 20 years ago made an effort to prevent the corruption of the Otonabee River, but by some failure to proceed, the clean-up plan is just where it was about a quarter of a century ago. I think I was city solicitor at the time, and a number of the aldermen including the Mayor of the day made certain promises which subsequent councils did not carry out.

The Hon. Harold R. Scott, M.P.P. could walk into the office of the Ontario Minister of Health, The Hon. Russell T. Kelley, and in fifteen minutes with the support of Mayor Ovens could have an order issued compelling the clean-up of Little Lake and the river. This order would compel action to be taken, preventing Canada Packers and others defiling the waters of Little Lake and the Otonabee River. In other words, Mayor Ovens has this whole situation in the hollow of his hand, and with the assistance of the genial Hon. H. R. Scott, who is said to be always interested in the welfare of Peterborough, a clean-up order could be obtained in time for the next Council meeting.

I have written the Ontario Minister of Health telling him of the foul conditions of the Little Lake and the Otonabee River, and I have been answered with excuses, so I am now offering a solution of the condition to Mayor Ovens and the members of the City Council.

Yours,

G. N. GORDON.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

And God said, Let there be light: and there was light. (Gen. 1: 1-3.)

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God.... In him was life; and the life was the light of men. (John 1: 1, 2, 4.)

* * *

The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined. (Isa. 9: 2.)

No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him. (John 1: 18.)

A BRITISH OPINION

What Peterborough Needs ... Adequately Wired Homes

Grandfather's wiring system served him well. His electrical needs were simple.

Have you ever figured how much of the electrical equipment you want in your home was not available ten years ago — twenty years ago? The Red Seal Plan will take care of the new electrical appliances you use now, and those you will want in the future during the many, many years the house is occupied.

Up to 1923, a home owner or builder had no means of knowing what amount of wiring was needed in a home, consequently, when Electric Ranges, Refrigerators, etc. were purchased, rewiring was usually required.

The Electric Service League developed the Red Seal Plan whereby a certain, definite standard was set up, and a Red Seal placed on the house so that the builder and owner could immediately identify those houses that conform.

Advantages Of RED SEAL WIRING To Home Owners

1. The house will be wired according to our accepted minimum standard while under construction so that expensive additions will not be required.
2. The service will be of sufficient capacity so that present and foreseeable future electrical appliances may be used at 100% efficiency.
3. The range wiring will provide speedy and efficient operation and satisfaction for which it was intended.
4. Convenience outlets, switches and lights will be placed as required, and that each switch will be of its correct type.
5. Red Seal wiring increases the present and future resale value of all homes. Buyers want adequate wiring for up-to-date electrical living.

This Is What Post-War "RED SEAL" Standard Requires In Ontario

Ample Wiring is the Essential Base for an Electric Home

If you want an electric home, as nearly everyone does, look first at the wiring — the capacity of the main service, the number of circuits, the number of outlets and switches. Better still, insist on having a "Red Seal" certified wiring job carrying the approval of the electrical industry.

Electric Wiring In All New Homes Should Be Checked and Certified to the "Red Seal" Standard of Adequacy

The use of electricity is a daily part of family life. Probably half of family household tasks depend on it. And electric service depends on the wiring — on its capacity, on the number and convenience of outlets, switches, and the general layout. The "Red Seal" standard of adequate wiring provides these features.

If you are building a house or apartments, specify a "Red Seal" wiring installation. Ask your local Hydro to check the adequacy of your wiring and to provide a "Red Seal" certificate. There is a large seal for display in front of the house during construction, and a smaller transfer seal for permanent certification on the switch-box. This service is FREE.

36,000 householders in over 100 Ontario cities, towns, villages and townships already enjoy the benefits of "Red Seal" wired homes. Their housing investment is protected by provision for electrical convenience in every part of the home. The best builders and contractors insist that wiring in the homes they build should meet or exceed the "Red Seal" standard of adequacy.

Local Hydros and progressive contractors throughout the province are co-operating with us to point out the long-term need of adequate wiring. Ask your electrical contractor or the Red Seal representative at your local Hydro for literature and further information on the "Red Seal" standard of adequate wiring.

House of David Takes Win In Handy Style Over Petes

A huge crowd at Riverside last night saw the House of David ball team defeat the Petes 17-6 under the lights in a draggy and one-sided exhibition. Nearly 3,000 fans packed the place and they saw some entertaining clowning by the visitors and a good game till it blew up in the fifth. Gunner Whitehill looked good till then but the potent pro bats got to him and shelled him from the hill. Bill Edger took over and fared just as badly as the bearded crew hammered out a total of 21 hits, eight for extra bases. The lights were poor and some cheap hits were counted.

Lefty Dinardo not only pitched steady ball, though they got six hits off him the last two heats, but he led his side at bat with a triple, two doubles and a single in five. They all hit at least once. Freddy Garvey and Al Menzies led the locals with the stick, each having three for five. Menzies and Mackness hit homers in a row during the second inning.

Soccer Executive Agrees To Remain

Soccer players, through their club representatives, apologized to the soccer executive at a meeting in the "Y" last night for any unsportsmanlike actions or remarks and urged the officers to remain in office. The president and secretary-treasurer had given notice of resignation. On being assured of obedience to orders and co-operation from all, the officers decided to carry on.

President William Gracie recommended that each player in future be suspended for three games if he is ordered off the field. The rest of the meeting dealt with coming games and interpretation of rules, the latter given by Tom Garland.

Games this week: Tuesday, O'Halloran's vs Petes, with Tom Garland referee. O'Halloran players unable to make it are asked to contact the manager.

Wednesday, CGE vs Legion, with W. Harris referee.

Thursday, O'Halloran's vs Lindsay, T. Garland, referee; and no games listed for Saturday.

Westclox Girls Win Title Over Marines

Westclox retained their senior Girls Softball League title and will go into intermediate "A" PWSU playdowns after beating Marines 6-2 at the Bowl last night before a slim crowd to sweep the final series in four straight. The loss eliminated Marines, though they battled hard and played errorless ball. The Clockers, too fielded well behind six-hit hurling by M. Downer and they hammered out 15 hits off E. Whittaker and M. Hill, who took over in the sixth frame. Only four of the Marines struck out and but one of the champions.

B. Morrow and N. Whetung were the fielding stars for the Westclox crowd, while M. Behan and S. Curits went well for the losers in this windup game. Nona Whetung had a perfect night at bat for the victors with two doubles and three singles in five. B. Larmer hit a hard homer and a single in four tries to top Marines at the plate, and M. Behan crashed through for a triple. It was a good game all the way.

The teams:

Westclox; A. Anderson, cf; B. Morrow, ss; J. Vass, 3b; M. Hawthorne, c; N. Whetung, 1b; V. Dorsett, 2b; B. Rome, lf; I. Clarke, rf; V. Clarke, rf; M. Downer, p.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Here is a question that was asked yesterday afternoon: "Who is supposed to remove the bowls from the green after an end has been completer?"

We told our friend that we did not know offhand, and as the thermometer was hitting somewhere around 90 degrees, we did not care much. However, we did say that we would look up any information on the subject and let him know. As far as we can find out there is no rule to cover such a case, but we are going to suggest that it might come under "Courtesies of the green."

A number of the boys are taking in the big tournament at Oshawa to-morrow. Included in the skips are R. F. Downey, Judge Smoke, J. Matthews, R. Burns, George Coleman and Harold Coleman.

To-night Groups 1 and 2 and on Thursday night Groups 3 and 4.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Some of the City Baseball League teams have hung up spikes for this season while others are busy prancing down the OBA playdown path. And one wonders which player this year will win the Fred Craig Memorial Trophy. It is given annually by The Examiner to the minor baseballer judged most valuable to his team. Alex Kay has been the judge the past two seasons, and the trophy was put up for competition three years ago. Jack Sisson won it in 1945, Al Menzies took it in '46, and Kenny Pammett was the winner last season. This trophy is in memory of the late Fred (Josh) Craig, popular sports editor of this paper, who died in the spring of '45.

Oshawa plays the juvenile Kinsmen at six tonight in Riverside. Naturally, all game announcements in the summer carry a "weather permitting" tag. The Motor Citizens took a 6-2 win in the first of their OBA series, but the Kin can get right back in the hunt by a victory this time. And the bantam Lions are at home tomorrow eve at six in Riverside to Trenton in their playdown series. Midget Aces were to go to Lindsay, while our peewee Trojans have till Saturday to find a few cars for their trek to Kingston. Intermediate Petes await word of the Belleville series, and senior Petes play Batawa tonight in Belleville. Our junior Kiwanis are off to Oshawa tonight, and the same clubs play back here Friday—a playoff joust with proceeds going to Wimp Borland. That's the ball setup at the moment.

Jack Leads Parade

Scoring marks for the Petes' lacrossers, released by Secretary Mick Magee—including last Friday's fixture—show Jack Foote leading the parade with 61 points. Just one ahead of Arn Dugan. These are for league games only. The Vitarelli brothers aren't far behind. Most of the players are showing up real well on the offensive, if they can maintain the pace in playoffs. The team goes to Huntsville tonight and then plays Huntsville here Friday, leaving the Petes but one more home game after that—with Oshawa. We're told Ostranders are putting up a fine watch for the local player voted most valuable during playoffs and playdowns, fans to vote on it.

B-A and Legionnaires tangle in two men's softball games at the Bowl tonight, starting at seven. The third and fourth frays of their best-of-seven serial for the city title. Legion won the first two, so the B-A bunch must pull up their sox and get going tonight or they're out of luck. Should they take both, it'll be tied up tighter than traffic around the Kresge fire, and they'll go back at it Wednesday p.m., having traded a night with the girls' loop. Likely another whopping outdoor crowd on deck.

Hail, The Champs!

Westclox girls are champs again. They took Marines 6-2 last eve at the Bowl to sweep the senior series in four straight. And now they go into PWSU intermediate "A" playdowns. A habit in recent years with the classy Clockers, an experienced and well-coached crew. Started off the season in shaky style, minus a number of stars of a year ago, but they picked up as they went along and always looked like winners. M. Downer pitched well for 'em last p.m. as N. Whetung hit five for five, besides fielding in fine style. As did B. Morrow. Marines made it a battle but couldn't quite get in there. More action Friday, but we haven't the dope as yet.

By far the biggest ball crowd of the season—nearly 3,000—took in the exhibition at Riverside last night. They had a lot of chuckles at the clowning of the House of David touring pros, but the game itself was slow and one-sided. Ended up 17-6 for the bearded boys. Lighting system was poor and fielders missed a lot they would have taken in daylight. The winning pitcher was just so-so, no better than Gordie Muffitt of Batawa, but everyone of them could hit like nobody's business. Whitehill and Edger were both belted hard in a few innings. Garvey and Menzies led the local clouters, the latter and Mackness hitting hard homers.

Made Them Hustle

Owen Sound senior "A" lacrossers had their hands full edging the senior "B" Petes 11-8 in their exhibition here last night. A dandy effort by the Creighton crew, and the locals can't be much out of "A" company at all, eh? The Crescents were bigger but played it clean and some 2,000 fans saw the best game of the year as both sides hustled and dished up some fancy passing, shooting and checking. Nothing wrong with the goaltending on either side, and all the local gutted-stick guys rate orchids for their work. It demonstrates the fact that the Petes can really turn in a high-class lacrosse effort when it is necessary. Good stuff.

Hogan ... Denver Trouble

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 24. — (AP). — Ben Hogan, top money holder, Monday night told his version of happenings at the recent Denver open golf tournament which led to reports that his stock took a nose-dive with Denver sports fans.

He denied Denver reports that he refused to pose for a picture and turned his back on a fan who asked for an autograph. He claimed that never in his life had he refused such requests.

Explaining his failure to appear at presentation ceremonies following the tournament he won, Hogan said:

"I played in front of Freddie Haas. I had to catch a 5:30 train to Salt Lake City. When I finished I didn't think I had a chance to win — but as I entered my hotel my wife said the radio reported I had won.

"I immediately called the tournament headquarters and talked to a Mr. Dawson, telling him I was sorry I had left and asked him to accept my apologies. He said he would tell the other officials—but apparently my message went astray, for the Denver story says that when Mayor Quigg Newton called for me to present me my cheque the 'fans waited in vain and the money finally was accepted by a PGA official'."

East City Gets First One From Trenton

East City Bantams, coached by Russ Scriver and managed by Ray Pammett, opened their best-of-three OBA playdown series with a 14-4 victory in Trenton last night. The return game may be played here tomorrow night, though there was some talk last evening in Trenton that the team could not make it at this time.

Larry Cunningham threw three-hit ball and fanned 16 in a swell showing for East City, though he walked seven in seven innings. He had good support in the field, while Ken Pammett led the winners at bat with a homer and two singles in five tries. Withers smacked out a triple and single in four, and Cunningham had a four-bagger. None of the losers got more than one safety. The teams:

Quakers One Up In Final Series

Quakers edged Nashua 7-5 at Quaker Park last night to take a 2-1 game lead in the best-of-five Industrial Softball League finals. A good-sized gallery was on hand and saw a neat number. The teams play there again tomorrow night.

Nashua outhit Quakers but the latter bunched blows with Beggs' ninth-inning homer the clincher. Reid hit a homer for the losers and had three for four bingles. Pryde and Sanderson had two for four each. For Quakers, Lomax Beggs and Wesenberg were the big guns. Sanderson and Shine both pitched steady ball most of the route and generally had good support.

Quakers: Hay, cf Horton, 2b; Shine, p; Beggs, 3b; Fisher, lf; Renwick, ss; Ash, 1b; Lomax, c; Wesenberg, rf.

Owen Sound Ekes Out Win Against Petes In Hot Fray

By FRED MAYBEE

Lacrosse fans witnessed the finest display of the season at Miller Bowl last evening as Owen Sound Crescents defeated the Petes 11-8 in a clean, hard game.

Weight and experience pitted against speed and fight as exemplified by Peterborough found neither team giving quarter as the locals matched every move the visitors made to the final bell. Owen Sound scored four in the first quarter but Ostranders came back in the second to outscore their rivals four to one. Crescents added four in the third but the locals added four against two in the final. Bob Breakspear with two and Dootch Vitarelli and Gordon with one, matched singles by Alumn and Harden.

For the visitors, Alumn, Kazarian and Harden were outstanding with Wooton strong in the nets. For Peterborough, Hill played a swell game in goal while Chute, Horton, the Breakspear brothers, Dootch Vitarelli, Emmett Creighton and Magee looked best, with every man good before a fine crowd.

The teams:

Peterborough: Goal, Hill; defence, Chute, Magee; centre, E. Creighton; wings, B. Breakspear, Dugan; rover, Foote; alternates, J. Breakspear, D. Vitarelli, Horton, Dundas, Connolly, L. Vitarelli, Smith, Gordon.

Owen Sound: Goal, Wooton; defence, Alumn, McWhirter; centre, Schordoff; wings, Gillespie, Kazarian; rover, Campbell; alternates, F. Smith, Perdue, Shortridge, Harden, Johnson, A. Smith.

Braves Cool Off Brooks 3-2 As Reds Nose Out Phillies

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Braves, following the battle plan of the old New York Yankees of knocking off your closest rival, take on the runner-up Cardinals in St. Louis tonight after successfully disposing of a Brooklyn bid for their league leadership.

Billy Southworth's hustling Braves cooled off the Dodgers, 3-2, in 14 innings Monday to win the four-game series, three games to one.

The loss dropped the Dodgers into third place, the idle Cardinals taking over second, 2½ games behind the Braves.

Both the Braves and Cards have their pitching aces primed for the two-game series. Righthander Johnny Sain has been nominated to face the Cards tonight with Harry (The, Cat) Brecheen, clever southpaw, as his opponent. Brecheen has beaten the Braves three times in four decisions, while Sain has won three and lost four against St. Louis.

Before 32,499 fans at Brooklyn Monday, the Braves won out in the 14th when Phil Masi and Connie Ryan socked consecutive doubles against Rex Barney, fourth Dodger hurler.

Play Overtime

Mike McCormick sent the game into overtime when he belted the Brooklyn starter, Paul Minner's, first pitch into the lower left field stands in the eighth inning. The blow was McCormick's first homer of the year and it tied the score at 2-2.

The Dodgers scored once in the first on a double by Marv Rackley and a single by Gene Hermanski. Boston tied it up in the second when Sibby Sisti beat out a hit with the bases loaded.

Brooklyn regained the lead in its half of the second on Peewee Reese's single, a sacrifice and another one-bagger by Minner.

Only one other game was played in the National League, the Reds nosing out the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-2 in 10 innings under the lights at Cincinnati on relief pitcher Harry Gumbert's homer.

Relieves Blackwell

Gumbert relieved starter Ewell Blackwell in the eighth inning after the lanky righthander injured his shoulder again. Gumbert led off the 10th with a drive over the left field wall off Schoolboy Rome, third Phillie pitcher, to break up the game. The fourbagger was Gumbert's first hit of the season and he was the only batter to face Rome, who came in for the Phillies in the 10th.

In the lone scheduled American League contest, the New York Yankees crushed the last-place Chicago White Sox, 11-1, in a night game at New York. The victory was the seventh straight for the Yanks, and it enabled them to move within one game of second-place Boston and within 1½ games of league-leading Cleveland.

Allie Reynolds went the route for the Yanks to post his 13th win. He lost his shutout in the eighth when Aaron Robinson homered.

Joe DiMaggio paced the Yanks' 14-hit attack against four Chicago pitchers by driving in four runs on a single and three-run homer. The homer was his 28th and the four runs batted in enabled him to tie Boston's Vern Stephens for the circuit lead in that department at 112.

Mosher To Ask Expulsion Of Mine Union

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 — (CP) — A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCL) Monday night said the Brotherhood would request expulsion of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO) from the Canadian Congress of Labor at a meeting today of the Congress Executive Council.

Mr. Mosher, who is president of both the CCL and the Railway Brotherhood, said "false and malicious" statements were published in an article in the official journal of the Mine Workers Union last July 19.

It is understood that the article suggested that members of the Railway Brotherhood were angered because their officials allegedly said they were willing to settle for 20 cents an hour or less when negotiating for wage increases in July.

'We feel that we can't have these people making false and malicious statements of that kind," said Mr. Mosher.

R. H. Carlin of Sudbury, president of the Mine Workers Union is expected to be present at today's meeting of the council. His union has been affiliated with the CCL for about six year.

Ex-RCAF Mechanic Jailed For Theft

TORONTO, Aug. 24 — (CP). — Kenneth Jay, 28, former RCAF mechanic, was sentenced Monday at nearby Cooksville to three months definite and six months indeterminate for receiving goods valued at $7,000 stolen from the RCAF hangar at Malton airport during 1947. He drew one month concurrent on theft charges.

Four other men face charges in connection with the thefts.

Jay said he sold some of the stolen equipment to the other accused without telling them it was stolen. Police said equipment found in Jay's house and hidden on his property included motors, radio tubes, air compressors and electric power units.

Jay told the court he first went to the hangar to get some tubes to build a radio set but returned later when his wife became ill and he needed money.

Expel Sudbury Mayor From Meeting

SUDBURY, Aug. 24—(CP)—Mayor W. S. Beaton of Sudbury was expelled Saturday night from a meeting at Bigwood, about 30 miles southeast of here, when delegates from other Northern Ontario communities took exception to the mayor's remarks.

It was expected the matter would be raised at Monday night's meeting of the Sudbury council but the meeting adjourned after discussing only routine business.

The Bigwood meeting last Saturday was called to discuss means of expediting construction of the new Sudbury-Parry Sound highway.

Delegates accused the Sudbury mayor of making insulting remarks. He was ushered from the night session by two delegates, one from Sudbury and the other from Parry Sound, who grasped him by the arms and hustled him to the door.

The mayor and K. L. Trilley, Parry Sound delegate, started bickering durin an afternoon meeting. The Parry Sound delegates, taking exception to one remark, leaped to their feet and were advancing on Mayor Beaton when Sudbury delegates placated them.

Delegates claimed the mayor later made insulting remarks about Progressive Conservatives in general and accused two Sudbury aldermen, Edward Eaton and Larry Lamoureux, of conspiring against him at the last election.

Highlighting the program was pretty Donna Grescoe, Winnipeg violin virtuoso.

Burwell Evans of Brantford, tenor, was among the others who appeared.

PORT STANLEY, Aug. 24—(CP)—Enforcement of Ontario's Sunday blue laws here rests with the municipal police, E. W. Haines, crown attorney, indicated Monday.

The said that provincial police will not be called in "because the Ontario Attorney-General's department has instructed that the matter be handled by municipal police."

Mr. Haines' comments followed information that amusement concessions were running wide open here last Sunday night, contrary to the Lord's Day Alliance Act.

"The Attorney-General's department does not want the provincials called in or they will have to make a province-wide check of all lake resorts where amusement concessions are operated," he said.

What will happen next Sunday has not been indicated. Mr. Haines said the matter is one to be decided by Chief of Police Kenneth Brockmeyer.

Chief Brockmeyer said he will make a check if he is asked by the crown to do so.

Beef Held Over In Stockyard; Prices Easing

Beef producers themselves in their mad stampede to sell livestock when the embargo on the export of cattle to the United States was lifted, were caught pricewise in glutted stockyards in Toronto yesterday as 8,000 beasts were left unsold. It was not the housewife's determination to stop buying meat at higher prices, called buyer's resistance, but hot weather and indifference of United States buyers, that really turned the trick.

Shoppers in Peterborough certainly did their share of cutting down on meat buying last week in city shops but one packing house official said that if they had studied the prices carefully, they would have found prices comparable to those asked before the embargo-lifting became effective. At any rate, stocks are moving slowly and packers think it is a safe bet that Mrs. Peterborough can go ahead with normal meat buying and pay at the same level as offered two weeks ago and if buyers' of livestock continueto show indifference, prices may be lowered considerably. The local packing firm report no livestock holdovers yesterday.

FIRE SALE CROWD, estimated well over a thousand women, was packed in a solid line from Loblaw's Groceteria on Charlotte St. to the corner of George and Simcoe Sts., as early as 8.30 a.m. today. Two hours later the line-up had shortened to only one block long as the vanguard of shoppers filled the Richard Hall store and started coming out the exit with, their wares.

1,300 Eager Women Queue To Get Fire Sale Bargains

It's an ill smoke that blows nobody any good. That would seem to be the attitude of hundreds of women shoppers who queued this morning for the "fire sale" at the Richard Hall department store on George St. Two elderly Peterborough residents said they thought it was the largest crowd they had even seen lined up outside a store in this city.

The sale was not scheduled to commence until 9 a.m., but a queue had already formed from the store's entrance half-way down to Charlotte St. two hours previously.

By the time the doors were thrown open the tightly-packed line extended south on George St. to Charlotte St. and west to Loblaw's. Three policemen were keeping the huge but good-natured crowd of bargain-hunting housewives in order. Even the late comers waited patiently in line apparently satisfied that there would be some bargains left for them as well.

Inside the store three off-duty policemen, dressed in uniform, allowed so many shoppers in at a time and scrutinized each lady's handbag and parcel as she left.

Charles Saunders, manager, said he had expected a large influx of customers. He had temporarily tripled his staff of clerks from the usual 30 to 90 to cope with the crowd.

Blankets Went Fast

When the store opened the big rush was for a pile of 300 flannelette blankets which had been dampened during the Kresge fire last week. Within 20 minutes not a single one was left.

"I guess nobody will have to worry about the coal bill this winter with all those blankets sold," commented one male from the sidelines.

Asked why he didn't go inside instead of standing on the street kibitzing, he replied

"Think I'm crazy. I went through the first war OK but I'd never risk my neck by battling with these bargain-crazy women at a fire sale."

The building still retains the faint odor of smoke which did most of the damage when it flooded in from the $200,000 Kresge fire.

The last of the long line of customers entered the department store shortly before 12.30 p.m. And it was calculated that nearly 1,300 persons had filed in by that time.

"It certainly exceeded my expectations," said Mr. Saunders, who had staggered his staff over the lunch period so some could eat while the others looked after the waves of shoppers.

When the throng left the scene of the fire sale it separated into small groups and began to swell the sales in other downtown stores.

Restaurants also benefited indirectly as many out-of-town people were among the crowd.

Damage to the stock at Hall's was caused by smoke and water; nothing was burned. The eager housewives swamped cashiers and clerks as they presented their purchases for payment and wrapping.

"Oh brother, won't I be glad when this day's over," said one red-faced and sweating clerk.

Blewett Horse Wins 8 Out Of 9

Stan Blewett obviously made a good investment when he bought the racing gelding "Victory Hy" from Frank Farrington of Brantford six weeks ago. The four-year-old has run up a string of eight wins in nine starts. At that rate Mr. Blewett has not only "got the nut off" as they say among the carneys, but he has shown a nice profit.

The parentage of Victory Hy goes back to Kentucky. He won both Tuesday and Wednesday at Belleville fair last week and repeated at Trenton Saturday. His best time was at Trenton, a mile in 2.13½.

Mr. Blewett said the Trenton races attracted a big crowd. "I think we are going to see the same turnout this week providing we get the weather. The starting gate has taken out the delays that used to hold up starts and spoil the show for most fans. I'll have my own horse here, and I brought the good pacer "Peter K. Lee" owned by McCool of Pembroke. He rates in free for all company. His last win was at Trenton.

Union Jack Wiggles Up And Down Pole

The Union Jack which overlooks the War Memorial on Confederation Square has been flying at a point midway between Half-Mast and full mast for a considerable period of time.

This is bad enough. But when during the last three days, members of the army staff at the Armouries have observed that the flag has been alternately creeping higher and lower, the call to bring a halt to this "act to the prejudice of good order and military discipline" roused them to action in the matter. Investigation revealed that the lanyard on the mast was dangling in the breeze some fifteen feet above the ground, thus clearing up the mystery of the fluctuating flag. Furthermore, the bracket to which this lanyard is secured, is broken. Now the flag is secured in its proper place at the top of the mast by a series of unorthodox twists and knots in the lanyard.

Before opening the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto on Friday, the Mountbattens will leave by train on Thursday for Port Hope, arriving there at 4.45 p.m.

A BIT CONFUSING

A person garbed in men's trousers, a sport shirt, and having a close-cropped boy's haircut entered a Chinese restaurant this week, and after eating, asked where the ladies' washroom was. The Chinese manager became a bit indignant when this person insisted. Finally police were called. The constable was shown the person and walking up said, "What's the trouble lad, don't you know how to behave in a restaurant?" "Boo-hoo, I'm not a lad, I'm a lady." So the "lady" was shown the street instead of the washroom, and told to dress like a lady and not like a man.

Space Problem Worries Fair Officials

Setting the stage for the Exhibition picked up speed this morning under the compulsion of just another day's margin until the reopening Thursday after eight year's wartime layoff.

For the children who are not interested in agricultural affairs, Queen City shows were putting together rides and drives and the other attractions of the midway. So, that question is answered. Roofers were racing against time spreading sheet aluminum on a horse barn. Cement mixers were laying a walk into the main exhibits building where G. A. Gillespie had a space problem on his hands. He had oversold allotments for manufactures' displays.

First arrivals of horses were stabled, but the main ranks of livestock were not due until Wednesday. Clouds this morning screened some of the August heat out of the air and suggested possible rain during the night. Probabilities today mentioned scattered showers for Wednesday, and if they hold off until the bulk of the last minute work is completed they would be welcome for their aid in laying dust in the east half of the park.

Thursday is opening day and also children's day, and from all appearances the directors were going to have preparations complete by Wednesday night. Thursday is also junior farmers' day with judging competitions on the grounds for young men. The girls coming from seven or eight counties have been allotted the market hall. The junior department winds up with dinner at the Empress Hotel at which the boys and girls will be guests of Canada Packers.

Water Pollution Dept. Headache?

Disposal of acid waste into a stream or river is a matter for investigation by the Department of Lands and Forests, Bob McCabe, president of the Peterborough Fish and ame Association, said today.

Recently the Kingston Chamber of Commerce said that the Visking Corporation, which plans building a plant near Lindsay, had attempted to purchase property near Kingston, but had been refused, since the acid waste from their plant would pollute the Cataraqui River.

"There must be a pretty good reason for Kingston to refuse that company. I think they must have had a pretty thorough investigation there. Certainny if a factory willp ollute a stream, the Department of Lands and Forests should look into it." Mr. McCabe said.

Lindsay Commissioner Admits Fluid Waste From Plant Will Contain Sulphuric Acid

Claims Approval Given By Ontario Dept.

LINDSAY, Aug. 24 (Examiner Special—The Ontario Department of Land and Forests, in charge of provincial resources of fish and game, was consulted for approval before negotiations were concluded with the Visking Corporation of Chicago for the million dollar plant they are going to build here, Dan McQuarrie, Commissioner of Industries, told the Examiner Monday afternoon.

"We are just as interested as ever in good fishing for tourists, and we are not going to do anything to injure it," Mr. McQuarrie said.

He was referring to a news report from Kingston that the fluid discharge from the Visking plant was destructive of fish and other aquatic life, implying a serious menace to the Scugog waters of the Kawartha district. Kingston was one of the cities in eastern Ontario sureveyed by representatives of the Chicago company, manufacturers of sausage casing. Directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce objected that effluent from the Visking factory would contain a concentration of sulphuric acid "which would have killed fish, frogs and other aquatic life over a wide area, and also the birds which feed on them".

Will "Eat Concrete"

David Jack, Kingston city engineer, advised the Chamber of Commerce that the acid would "eat concrete" and could not be permitted to flow through city sewers. Only vitrified tile could stand up to tne effects of the factory's waste fluid. Dr. A. R. J. Boyd, Kingston's M.O.H., said the acid "would kill everything in sight".

"We didn't have to wait for anybody from Kingston to tell us the facts about the Visking Corporation," said Mr. McQuarrie. "We are just as interested as they are in fish and game protection. This matter of sulphuric acid discharge was explained to us by B. H. Shenck, the assistant manager of the firm, and it was discussed in the course of negotiations. We were told that the acid content of the fluid leaving the plant is 1-10 of 1%, and that it would be thoroughly diluted before reaching the Scugog River.

We were also told about the need of laying vitrified clay tile pipe, and it transpired (I didn't know it at the time) that Lindsay's sewers are all of vitrified pipe. So, we don't have to worry about any part of our sewers being "eaten away".

What we are going to do is to lay a mile of sewer from the site of the Visking factory to the river, and we feel satisfied that the small content of sulphuric acid is going to be diluted beyond doing any harm.

More than that, Lindsay is realizing that we have to build a sewage disposal site. We have the location in mind. I do not want to embarrass our town council by assuming to speak for them, but it just may be that we shall have a sewage disposal plant in operation by the time the Visking people are in production. That is as far as I can go in that direction.

Discussed With Dept.

This question of factory effluent was gone into thoroughly with the Department of Lands and Forests, and I think also with the provincial Department of Health. We wanted to satisfy ourselves before closing negotiations with Visking Corporation.

That is Mr. McQuarrie's reply to the Kingston Alarums. He also said that the Scugog River meandered six or seven miles from Lindsay to Sturgeon Lake, assuring voluminous dilution of the 1-10 of 1% sulphuric acid content in the factory effluent.

The Visking Corporation factory is to be erected on 17 acres on Colborne St. at the north side of the town and on the east side of the river. Town Clerk A. L. Allely informed the Examiner that the proposed sewage disposal plant site was also to the north, outside the town limits, but on the west side of the river. Present municipal thinking suggests that the sewage from the east side would have to be syphoned through a main laid under the river to connect with the sewer on the west side that would be laid to the sewage disposal plant.

Mr. Allely did not appear to be as optimistic as Mr. McQuarrie about the prospect of completion of the sewage disposal plant in time to carry off the Visking discharge, but he did say that this subject has been receiving the town council's consideration.

Unsalaried Officer

Dan McQuarrie is the Registrar of Deeds for Victoria county, and is Lindsay's unsalaried Commissioner of Industries. The story of his part time activities in attracting new industries to Lindsay is generally known in the district, and it is literally an enviable accomplishment.

The Examiner showed him a proof of the Kingston news item. The last paragraph was a passing reference to another industry looking for a location. It was as follows: "Mr. J. M. Hughes, Secretary-Manager of the Chamber of Commerce reported that a representative of a large printing concern was looking for a five-acre site for a plant in central-eastern Ontario, which includes Kingston. No decision had been announced yet, he told the directors."

"We also know about that company," Mr. McQuarrie commented with a smile.

Resort Section President To Investigate

DUNSFORD, Aug. 24. (Special) —Gilbert Watson, owner of Gil-Mar Lodge, Sturgeon Lake and president of the Resort Section, Ontario Hotel Association, said Monday, he expects to get in touch with Lindsay officials at once over a report that industrial waste from a proposed plant will hurt the fishing.

Mr. Watson was commenting on a report from the Kingston Chamber of Commerce that the Visking Corporation, manufacturers of meat casings would dump a effluent into the river containing sulphuric acid. This acid according to the Kingston story would kill fish and every bit of marine life in the water.

"I don't know how far-reaching the damage from this will be" Mr. Watson added, "but I intend to get in touch with Lindsay town officials at once. I don't for a minute think that officials of the town of Lindsay will allow such a condition to start. They have a bigger investment in good will than this firm would ever return to them in pay-roll and taxes."

Mr. Watson pointed out that the Government has spent millions in restocking and it is only during the last few years that this long-range program has started to bear fruit in better fishing. "The merchants of the entire district are benefitting from the fishing and the resort business far beyond anything an industry could contribute," he said.

"If it is true that this industry will put sulphuric acid waste in the Scugog river, I don't think for a minute that town officials of Lindsay, or the business men will permit such a condition to develop. They can't afford to, because there would a storm of protest heard from one end of Ontario to the other," Mr. Watson said.

"Up to this point we have had excellent cooperation from cottagers, lodge owners, and the citizens generally in keeping our waters free of pollution and thus maintaining the heoth of the people, and safeguarding the fish and other marine life so necessary for a flourishing tourist trade."

Mr. Watson said the Kawartha Lakes Cottagers Association formed about two years ago would be notified at once, through the secretary, Mr. Clifford Bean, Toronto. "An investigation will be made, and the resort owners will satisfy themselves on the extent of the danger," Mr. Watson said.

He added that the Resort Section of the Hotel Association would support any move started by any group to maintain pure water and good fishing anywhere in Ontario.

No officials of the Visking Company were in Lindsay Monday, but Dan McQuarrie, industrial commissioner admitted to an Examiner reporter that the company official had said that one tenth of one per cent sulphuric acid effluent would be in the waste going into the sewer.

At Kingston, members of the Rod and Gun club asked several straight questions of the officials when it was learned that this effluent would go into the Cataraqui river. Soon after the meeting it was learned the comjany abandoned the idea of locating in Kingston.

W. Austin Peters, immediate past president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, Kingston said "It would seem that we asked them too many questions about their process."

Claims Body

Cosmetic Styles Sure to Change

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(CP)—Television may revolutionize the cosmetics industry and change the color of your make-up.

That is what experts say.

In television the old-type make-up is not satisfactory; make-up is in light brown tones, starting with an almost tan foundation base, brown eye-pencils and eye-shadow and an orange-red lipstick.

Television lights bring out a girl's freckles or a man's beard, unless the skin is covered with a smooth foundation. The usually photogenic Clare Booth Luce was a striking example of this when she was on television at the Republic Convention in Philadelphia. Her friends—and Mrs. Luce were horrified at the result.

Rouge is definitely out. However for television a deeper shade of brown is used to accentuate cheek highlights and emphasize ths lines of a face.

To cope with the bearded look on men's faces a simple pancake foundation is used, to which is added a second lighter, almost white pancake. The men may look as if they'd fallen into the flour box under ordinary light but before the television cameras, it's just right.

Skirts Climbing But New Look Still In Paris

Skirt-lengths have climbed but the "new look" remains in Paris fall fashions, Miss Marem Foltz, Montreal fashion expert said yesterday on her return from a three-week trip to France and Britain.

"Skirts are two or three inches shorter for this fall—to about midcalf—but the trend started last year has not been deserted. It merely has been improvised upon," Miss Foltz said.

Asked if the Paris touch would predominate Canadian-designed fall clothes, Miss Foltz said: "No matter what the claims to originality, you always will find Paris as the predominant influence."

She said current collections in the French capital, "aside from a few completely fantastic evening gowns," are more wearable and have more general appeal than last year's. "There was something for every woman" she said.

The small hat and flat shoe dominating North American fashions recently are well-represented in Paris houses today, although "no designer has made the mistake of combining a low-heeled slipper with too-long skirt as seen so often in America."

Outstanding collection for Miss Foltz was Christian Dior's, inventor of the "new look" last fall and creator this season of the "extended profile" in evening gowns, an arrangement of yards of material in the back, forming a greatly exaggerated bustle.

"Great for standing around," Miss Foltz said, "but not at all sittable."

HAT AND HAIR-DO — There has been an increasing trend toward a tie-up between the hat and the hair-do, with more and more milliners and hairdressers working together to create a harmonious silhouette. The hat is a brown satin and black velvet bonnet with a feather trim. The hair stylist has left the forehead clear and pushed the hair back into deep waves over each ear with finely curled ends. To accommodate hat changes the line is away from the face, more downward and backward than in past seasons. The back hair curls softly up at the nape of the neck. This is a hair-do that remains nicely flat and tidy when the hat is removed.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Marital Golden Rule Based On Understanding

Are you the kind of a husband or wife that you would like to have if you were married? It is a queer thing that husbands and wives never seem to ask themselves that question. Most of them take it for granted that whatever they are, they are better than the party of the other part deserved, so they let the matter ride at that.

Dorothy Dix

Even the few married couples who make a conscientious effort to be good mates are good after their won fashion and taste, which comes about as near to hitting the mark and giving satisfaction as it would for the husband to buy his wife's hats, or the wife to feed a hungry man on dainty sandwiches and fancy ice cream because she liked him.

The average man's notion of being a good husband is to feed and clothe his wife, and if he sends her a bunch of flowers on her birthday and their wedding anniversary, he thinks he is superduper. The average woman considers she is being a perfect wife when she is a good cook and housekeeper and doesn't inflict her family on her husband more than half the time.

And neither one stops to consider whether these virtues, admirable though they are, are just what their mates craved in a life partner. Probably no husband ever tries to put himself in his wife's place and ask himself if he would like to be treated the way he treats her.

Swap Places

About money, for instance. Of course, he toils like a dray horse to support her. She has a shopping ticket at the best stores and dresses like a fashion plate, but what if she never has a dollar of her own that she can spend as she pleases? Suppose she has to come like a beggar to him for every nickel. Would he like that?

And the tired business man. It is generally recognized that he needs some relaxation after his strenuous day in the office, and that his wife should be ready to put on her prettiest clothes and step out with him into the bright lights. The wife has also had a hard day, cooking and washing and baby-tending, but just let her even mention going out for a little diversion. Her Weary Willie throws a fit, and nothing that she can say budges him out of his easy chair.

And being grouchy at home, and dumb, and quarreling over the bills, and so on and so forth. How would a husband like to be married to a woman who never made any effort to be an entertaining and amusing companion and who never spoke at home except to find fault?

And the shoe fits equally well on the feminine foot. How would a woman like to have a husband who made her work like a galley slave to prepare him elaborate meals, yet never said even a "thank you" to her; who wore expensive clothes himself, but raised ructions if she bought a $5 hat; who criticized her grammar and her pronunciation and nagged her about everything she did and didn't do, and who was so busy with his clubs that he had no time to devote to his family?

Wouldn't it bring about a marvelous domestic revolution if husbands and wives would only try to treat each other the way they would like to be treated if they could change places?

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, August 25

A sudden and quite unpredictable turn of events, or possibly some exciting offers or propositions for changing plans or tactics, could have power to assist major objectives into a "new high" in lines of outstanding or surprising significance. There are implications of out of the routine performance, with novelty, originality or inventive genius figuring perhaps with dramatic reactions of public interest or recognition. Innovation, exceptional skills and bold initiative could bring drastic change. Such could figure in personal or romantic adventures.

Those whose birthday it is, may enjoy a surprising turn of events coming as it were "from the blue" and giving a dynamic push to cherished affairs of radical importance. By dint of exceptional talents, ingenuity and creative skills, there is prospect of recognition and approval coming from public sources. It is a time for putting over novel or ingenious ideas or projects, which may affect the career, prestige and the romantic life as well. Work for advanced fulfillments with boldness, ingenuity and originality.

A child born on this day may have exceptional talents, with an urge for the unique, unorthodox and novel, which could secure it a spot in the public eye.

CAUSE OF LIGHT

Light is caused by vibrations from the ether. When these vibrations fall on the eye they give rise to the sensation of sight.

ONE OF THE MOST STRIKING ensembles seen in current Paris collections was this wrap-around skirt in red, white and black taffeta, which finishes in a spiral pouff at the back. Fastened at the waistline with a fan-shaped diamond clip, it is worn with a high-necked top of black silk jersey. Bearing the world-famous name of Schiaparelli, it looks like a winner.

Slim Silhouette Keynoting Styles of Paris Houses

By FLORENCE MILLS

PARIS, Aug. 24—(AP)—Slim lines replace the padded outlines of the new look in most of the French fall fashion displays thus far.

Skirt lengths remain about the same, from 10 to 14 inches from the floor, but much of last year's exaggerated fulness has been removed from the silhouette.

One of the few designers clinging to the bouffant line is Christian Dior, author of the "new look" who shows a silhouette in which a full circular skirt is lined with buckram from waist to hem, to make it stand out, parachute fashion.

Main points emerging from the shows indicate trends. Waistlines are extremely tight. Waistline seams fall anywhere from the top of the ribs to mid-hips level. Many dresses are cut in three sections, bodice, waist yoke and skirt.

Skirts are mainly straight with an abundance of detail placed around the hips, or comprise a close fitting sheath which merges into a deep flounce at the knees. This last is the nearest thing to a new silhouette so far. Swing skirts have replaced the fabulous fullness of the "new look" dresses. Many have built-up waistlines that extend nearly to the bust and are teamed up with dressy blouses or wool-jersey sweaters.

A general back-to-the-twenties trend is perceptible but most have a definite 1949 flavor.

Furs For Emphasis

The loose, wrap around coats that have no buttoned fastening are clearly lifted from this era, and the addition of fantastically long and luxurious fur stoles and fur lining, which run the gamut through mink and chinchilla, leopard and cony, supplies the modern touch.

Hips are spotlighted with fur also. Many jackets peplums are laid around with fox or persian lamb.

Some coats are so voluminous they look like capes into which colossal sleeves have been inserted. Brief coats look like full cut editions that Chinese coolies' wear and often have graduated hemlines that dip at the back. Some, particularly Dior's, are stiffened with buckram. Many are fur-lined.

Capes of all lengths, topping dresses or adding extra warmth to heavy winter topcoats, have staged a comeback.

Evening wear has changed very little. Billowing dresses, long sheaths, slit to provide a little leg movement, and grecian drapery are all featured. Satin is the favorite so far for billowing skirts, the most popular length seems to be ankle level in front, dipping to the floor in back.

Broadcloth, in all weights, heavy blanket veour, wool jersey and plaids are prime favorites for coats and dresses. Colors range through beige, soft greys, deep browns, forest greens, with occasional sun yellows and brilliant reds. All shades of puce, mulberry and lilac are popular.

Women Seeking Greater Voice In Church Work

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 24.—(AP).—Women attending the Assembly of the World Council of Churches here want a greater voice in the administrative affairs of the church.

They feel they've been relegated too long to minor roles in church activities.

One layman, speaking for his wife, said she is everlastingly at sewing circles, helping with a church dinner or at similar tasks. Before her marriage she had four years of business administration in college and several years experience in a business firm.

Her sister, an expert in child psychology, also helps peel potatoes for church dinners. Both say they enjoy such homely chores, but feel they could contribute something more to the management and program building of the church.

"Why," asked another woman, "should our church orphanage, run entirely by women, be managed by an all-male board of directors?"

Mrs. Twila Lytton Cavert, a United States Presbyterian lay leader, and other women leaders expressed concern lest the whole problem of women's work in the church become confused with the specialized question of ordination of women.

Matter of Concern

In only a few countries and only with a few churches and women, they said, is ordination a burning question. Almost everywhere, however, the question of women finding appropriate and responsible work in the church is a matter of concern.

They especially want a voice in church government and in the management of church organizations.

Women have no quarrel with the World Council, which is giving them their first chance to have an adequate discussion of the matter.

They have found further encouragement in the fact that Dr. Karl Barth of the Swiss Protestant Church Federation, a world famous theologian, has come out on their side.

Jas. G. Wharry Outlines Aids To Businessmen

At the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club on Monday, James G. Wharry, vice-president and general manager of the Quaker Oats Vo., pointed out some of the outside aids that help management to run a business today.

He outlined one need: "Canadian and American businessmen are most interested in knowing what share they have of the market." This is essential if the company is to be run efficiently, he said.

Two survey systems were cited as particularly helpful. One that disclosed the amount of a product that was sold through retail outlets and the other the amount of the product consumed by families. These figures, calculated to within two per cent for the product as well as its competitors, removed much of the guess work, he stated.

"With these surveys your competitor knows your business within a two per cent error."

Mr. Wharry spoke of the value of aptitude tests for applicants for the position of salesman. While conceding thata these were often expensive he felt that they were economical in the long run ass they screened the misfits without placing them on the payroll for six months or a year.

Six types of undesirable applicants were singled out: the person going through divorce proceedings; one who has "gone broke"; one who is at present getting more than the prospective employer can afford; one who feels he is lowering his social status; the person who has been with one firm for many years and then decides to start all over again; and the "rolling stone" applicant who has held many positions over a short period of time.

Mr. Wharry was introduced by Peter LaBranche and thanked by Leslie Woodruff.

Among the many guests, a number of them Americans, were: R. B. Atwell, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Dr. R. W. Stuzzleline, Enidcott, N.Y.; Wallace Bunton, Toronto; D. A. Shay, Port Hope; Jaseph Humphrey, Montreal; Charles L. Wood, Warren, Ohio; John Fisher, Rittman, Ohio; Harry Burgoyne, St. Catherines; Fred D. Long, Park Rapids, Minnesota; E. J. Richardson, Toronto; H. D. Gill, Toronto; Paul Irwin, William Gedson, and James Dutton, Jr., of Peterborough.

GANG WAR, RESULTING in arrest of 13 members of Junction Boys and rival Beanery Gang from Toronto's west end, terrorized Wasaga Beach over the week-end. Outraged residents are up in arms. Riots, which involved innocent bystanders, started on roadway in front of Davey's dance hall (left). It later spread down highway to beach.

Beef Prices Jump 10 Cents In Many Ontario Centres

By The Canadian Press

Housewives were paying more for beef today in most Canadian cities as dealers reached the end of stocks purchased before last Monday's lifting of the embargo on beef export to the United States.

In Toronto, one large department store yesterday raised sirloin prices from 70 to 85 cents a pound. In Winnipeg between five and 12 cents was added to top-quality beef, and Vancouver housewives paid two to four cents more than last week's 84-cent sirloin prices. Montreal prices were unchanged.

An official of the Toronto Union Stockyard predicted a drop in retail prices because of the glutted yards today. United States buyers are taking only top quality beef, leaving more than 8,000 cattle unsold Monday, the largest holdover in the yard's history. He said that retailers were not buying meat because of hot weather, buyers' resistance and low vegetable prices. Butcher steers were off 50 cents to $1, selling at $13-$18.

Only Canadian point to report a drop in beef prices from last week was Kitchener, where commercial grades dropped three cents.

Ample Supplies

Many Toronto butchers said they still have ample supplies from last week and are not charging extra until new shipments arrive. However, one large store sent most beef prices, including hamburger, up 10 cents.

In London, Ont., top grades of beef jumped 14-16 cents a pound. This brought sirloin to 93 cents, T-bone and round steaks to 85 and hamburger up to 55 cents a pound in one store. Sarnia prices advanced about 24 cents, with minced round steak boosted to 85 cents from Saturday's 69 cents.

Ottawa housewives are paying 58-75 cents for sirloin which retailed at 58-65 last Monday. Perhaps the lowest prices range in Canada, Ottawa, round steak costs 52-65 cents, formerly 52-60 cents, and short rib roasts 42-43, formerly 38-42.

Prices Unchanged

In Montreal prices remained unchanged from last Monday at 83 cents for sirloin, 88 for T-bone and 69 for round steak.

A strong buyers' resistance is reported in Winnipeg where many retailers say they do not want to raise prices until the cattle market is steadier. However, op-grade beef now is selling five to 12 cents higher at 68-75 cents. Some lower grades range from 45-49 cents.

Most Halifax butcher stores kept beef prices unchanged. Retailers said wholesalers have upped their prices, but for the time being the dealers are absorbing the increase, fearing possible buyer resistance.

Red Dean Plans Visit To Canada

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 —(CP) — Dr. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury who was refused a visa to the United States, is expected to arrive in Canada early in November.

Nicknamed the "Red Dean" because of his sympathy for Russia and Communism, the 73-year-old Church of England clergyman is scheduled to visit Ottawa Nov. 8.

He will deliver an address under the auspices of the Ottawa People's Forum, a group that discusses politics as well as social trends. Rev. J. Gregory Lee of St. Peter's Anglican Church is chairman of the organization.

It was not known what other plans there were for Dr. Johnson's visit here.

Collapses On Show

BLACKPOOL, Lancs., England, Aug. 24 — (Reuters). — Stewart McPherson of Winnipeg, who in the last two years has become one of the most popular figures in British radio, collapsed in a theatre here Monday night during a performance of the BBC show "20 questions." A doctor later said McPherson's illness was "nothing serious."

DR. HEWLETT JOHNSON, Dean of Canterbury, who has been refused a visa to the U.S. to make a speaking tour in behalf of the American-Soviet Friendship Society. He visited Toronto in 1945.

Ask Gov't To Replace Hanging Punishment

TORONTO, Aug. 24 — (CP) — The United Church of Canada's general council will be asked to approve a recommendation that Canada replace hanging by a "more scientific and humane" form of capital punishment, it was learned Monday night.

The action is urged by the church's Hamilton conference. The resolution appears on a 425-page agenda for the general conference, schedule for Vancouver Sept. 21 with delegates from across Canada and Newfoundland attending.

The Hamilton conference urges that the meeting set up a special committee to study capital punishment, but makes no recommendations.

Russia Anxious For Share In Ruhr's Coal

BERLIN, Aug. 24 — (AP). — The Communist press is beating the drum again for a Russian share in western Germany's coal-rich Ruhr.

The demands, seemingly timed with the Moscow negotiations which drew Berliners' attention today, appear to be an outgrowth of the Soviet zone's economic troubles, which the western press has reported on the increase since the Soviet blockade cut it off from Ruhr output.

"It can be regarded as pretty certain," the Russian-controlled newspaper Nacht-Express said, "that the question of Russian participation in the control of the Ruhr was raised in Moscow."

Demand for a share in the rich coal—and steel-producing area of the Ruhr came as the official United States military government newspaper, Die Neue Zeitung, brought new reports of "chaos and hunger" in the Soviet zone.

It also came on the heels of Gen. Lucius D. Clay's latest report on economic conditions in the west, which by contrast, reported a 10-per-cent gain in Bizonia's industrial production for a post-war high. The report said brightest spot was iron and steel production in the Ruhr.

In Frankfurt, the newspaper Frankfurter Rundschau said Monday that but traffic between the American and Russian zones of Germany will be resumed Friday.

The British military government announced Monday night it had blocked an attempt by the Central Bank of Berlin, which is in the Russian sector, to get 3,000,000 east marks unfrozen from the British sector.

Meantime border incidents continued in the tense city.

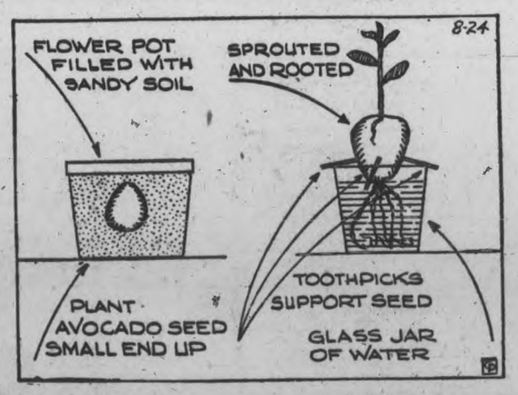
Avocado For Novelty Plant



By DEAN HALLIDAY

Few people realize when they prepare an avocado for a salad that the large pit or seed which is discarded can be made to produce a novelty plant. There are two ways of propagating it: In a pot of soil or in a glass jar partly filled with water.

If the seed is to be planted in a pot, first soak it in warm water for four or five days, then wash the film off gently and plant the seed in a flower pot filled with fresh, rich soil. Make sure that the smaller end of the seed is up, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Leave the pot in the sun for several weeks, water it frequently and the plant will grow rapidly. The leave, when they appear, will be a bright glossy green.

An avocado pear tree also can be grown by suspending the seed in a glass jar of water. First stick three toothpicks in the broad base of the seed to support it above the glass jar, as illustrated.

Keep the jar filled with water so it just touches the seed. In a few weeks slender white roots will start down into the water. Meanwhile the seed will begin to split at the top and from between the two halves will sprout a stem with leaf buds and leaves, as illustrated.

When the top and roots are fairly well developed, start adding soil to the water. Keep adding soil gradually until the plant is actually growing in thick mud.

From then on it can be transplanted into a flower pot filled with a rich soil and handled like any house plant. It can be set out of doors in a sheltered spot for the summer but must be brought indoors again before the first frost.

This year the world's wonders will be gathered at the C.N.E. in greater profusion than ever before. A stupendous Air Show! The world's leading bands! Thrilling musical events! Leading sport attractions! The greatest Horse Show ever! Spectacular exhibits from foreign lands! The newest wonders of science, industry, electronics, transportation! Fashion Show, Flower Show! A thrilling spectacle presented daily before the C.N.E.'s huge new grandstand and starring Olsen & Johnson! A free car and other gifts every night. The glamour of the Midway! Come to the C.N.E.

Every drop of blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every 7 minutes. When kidneys fail to filter out impurities, your system slows down. You may feel tired, headachy—with painful joints and aching back!

Because both kidneys and liver act as purifiers of the blood, the most effective treatment should help both. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills do this, thoroughly and efficiently. When you use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, you can be sure of a reliable product used by Canadians for over half a century.

If your back aches, or you feel "under the weather", get after your kidneys—try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

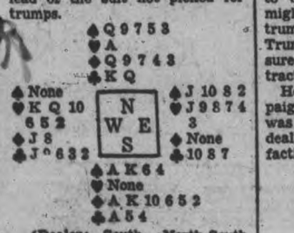
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SUIT MAY BE RISKIER

ORDINARILY it is safer to play a slam contract in a suit declaration than in No Trumps, if there is a well-fitting suit to use for trumps. The reason is that so doing affords the declarer a chance to ruff out some of his losers. But sometimes the No Trump contract is the less risky. That is particularly so when the pair has two long suits that fit well, and is true for two reasons. First, the suit chosen for trumps may not break, whereas at No Trumps you may be okeh if either of the two suits breaks well. Second, in a suit contract with a fitting long suit on the side, there is a great danger of a defensive ruff from an opening lead of the suit not picked for trumps.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	1♥	2♠	3♥
4♥	Pass	5♦	5♥
7♠	7♥	Pass	Pass
7♠	Pass	7 NT

That was gorgeous bidding, especially by North. Note how he showed his slam prospects at once with his jump on the first round, since he had that great diamond fit. Then, after South cue-bid the opponents' suit with 4-Hearts, he took his time in showing the diamond fit by using the minimum of 5-Diamonds.

When South then went to grand slam in the diamonds and West overcalled with 7-Hearts, North passed that—a beautiful forcing pass—to see if his partner wanted to double. With the fine fit for spades, South properly switched into grand slam in that suit.

Then came the most beautiful bid of all. North, realizing that there might be a losing trick somewhere along the line in spades or diamonds, if either was trump, saw that there would be two strings to the bow in No Trumps, in which the slam should be possible if either suit proved solid. He also realized the danger of spades as trumps when he had so many diamonds to fit his partner's suit; if a diamond happened to be led, the leader's partner might be blank in the suit and trump it. So he switched to No Trumps, and as it developed assured the success of the big contract.

Herbert J. Gerst, great campaigner of Norfolk, Virginia, who was the doughty North on this deal, obviously got lots of satisfaction from it.

Tomorrow's Problem

With the heart Q led, how should North play to make his 6-Spades?

Banta Nearing 25-Game League Record

By The Associated Press

Jack Banta, Montreal's hard-throwing right-hander, has an opportunity to become the International League's frist 25-game winner since 1945.

The 23-year-old hurler became the first pitcher in the loop to win 18 games this year when he pitched the league-leading Royals to a 2-1 victory over the runner-up Newark Bears in the first game of a doubleheader Monday night.

Not since Jean Roy won 25 games for Montreal's 1945 pennant winners has an International League pitcher won as many. No pitcher has won more than 20 games since Roy ran up 25.

Banta yielded only five hits. The Royals snapped a 1-1 tie in the ninth on a single by Dick Whitman, a wild pitch and another one-bagger by Johnny Simmons.

Montreal also won the nightcap, 4-0, behind the eight-hit pitching of Clarence Podbielan.

The twin setbacks cut the Bears' lead over Rochester Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, who are virtually tied for third place, to three games.

Divide Twin Bill

Rochester divided a double-header with Syracuse Chiefs, while the Leafs split a pair with the last-place Baltimore Orioles.

The Leafs nipped the Orioles 4-3, behind veteran Nick Strincevich, but the Orioles grabbed the second game 6-4, as Ernie Groth became the first Baltimore pitcher to win 10 games this year. Four-baggers by Ed Levy, Al Cihocki and Bill Martin accounted for five of Baltimore's runs.

In the Rochester - Syracuse game, after Bill Reeder pitched the Wings to a 3-0 two-hit victory in he opener, Bud Bebber twirled the Chiefs to a 9-0 triumph in the nightcap.

In a single game, Jersey City Giants beat Buffalo Bisons 6-3 Hal Bamberger, with a homer and two doubles, packed the Giants' 13-hit attack.

Fined $25 And Costs On Income Tax Charge

Bernadette Hackett of Montreal was fined the minimum of $25 and $1.75 for failing to make returns of information on income tax forms relating to the estate of Honore LeBrun. The accused is executrix for the estate and pleaded guilty to the charge through counsel, James Dunn

Second Offence

Only liquor case disposed of in court today was a charge against John Jordan of 629 Union St. He pleaded guilty, as a second offender, to being drunk in public and was fined $50 and $2.50 costs.

Pinning Hopes On 2 Cripples

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(AP). — Britain's indoor winter boxing season opens next month with Promoter Jack Solomons pinning his hopes for a fat season on two ring cripples.

They are heavyweight Bruce Woodcock, whose jaw was fractured 17 months ago, and Freddie Mills, world light heavyweight champion, who has a couple of floating bones in his back.

If those old favorites can be taped up to hold together for 15 rounds a few times this winter, it looks like a great season for the British fans.

Who knows but that Woodcock may win the world heavyweight title right here next year?

Woodcock will top the bill on the opening show Sept. 21 against an opponent from the United States.

Woodcock's comeback will answer the question as to whether the British champion was permanently injured when Joe Baksi hammered him into submission in April, 1947. Bruce has been in a hospital or resting ever since. He has put on weight and vows he is fit.

Red Guerrillas Seek New Home

ATHENS, Aug. 24—(AP)—The Greek army, turning north and east from the Grammos Mountains, today routed guerrillas who were moving toward the Vitsi area with the apparent aim of finding a new home for Communist "free Greece."

A communique said the rebels entered Greece from Albania directing west of Kastoria. Government troops blunted their advance and sent them scurrying toward the southeast. A spokesman said this stopped their march toward Vitsi.

The Vitsi area consists of some 20 to 25 square miles. It is directly north of Lake Kastoria in the triangle formed by the juncture of the Greek, Albanian and Yugoslav borders at Lake Presba.

About 1,000 rebels were reported in Vitsi last week. The Greeks reported 1,500 heading that way from Albania after the retreat from Grammos.

Military headquarters also said 3,000 guerrillas escaped from a government trap near Slemnitza and crossed into Albania.

KING TO RETIRE AFTER OCTOBER PARLEY

GUARDED BY TWO policemen, two Englishmen, employes of the Jerusalem Electric Company, sit in court in Jerusalem, charged with espionage by the Israeli Government. 3 Gunmen Stage 2nd Raid On Bank and Grab $2,000

MONTREAL, Aug. 25—(CP).—Three gunmen today held up the Boyce and Mont Sabre Streets branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale, the same bank that was held up last Friday, and escaped with about $2,000. The gunmen entered the bank around noon. The manager, Roland Langlois, two employees, an adult customer and a little girl were ordered to lie on the floor.

One of the gunmen then snatched a pile of bills from the teller's cage. As he joined his pals in their escape he kicked Manager Langlois several times in the ribs.

It was believed the three made their getaway in an automobile.

Got $7,000 Week Ago

Last Friday a single gunman walked into the bank, fired two shots and ran out with $7,000, stuffing the bills in a brief-case. He was pursued by Langlois and another employee, armed, and dropped the brief-case in his flight. Shots were fired at him and he was captured in a nearby field by police after the bank employees and a pedestrian had cornered him.

Police believe today's gang may have been accomplices of the Friday gunman, subsequently identified in court as Bob Roberts. Roberts had an accomplice in a waiting car, with Ontario license plates. The accomplice managed to escape.

16 People Killed At Honolulu In Plane Crash

HONOLULU, Aug. 25 (AP)—Sixteen persons were killed Tuesday night and four were injured critically when an Okinawa-bound United States air force Superfortress crashed into a parked plane at Hickham Field.

The plane, apparently attempting a forced landing because of engine trouble, struck a parked C-47 transport. It had been instructed to land at the Honolulu Municipal Airport, adjacent to Hickham Field, after it had reported trouble.

As the B-29 came down it apparently struck the tail of the parked C-47 before its own wheels touched the ground, witnesses reported.

The Superfort came in at an altitude of 150 feet and missed the Municipal Airport. The pilot trunked the plane in an attempt to circle and bring it back in but a wing caught the transport plane.

The Superfort crashed into a concrete power substation and exploded. The crash put out all of the field's light momentarily but emergency lights flashed on as firefighters reached the flaming wreckage.

The four survivors either [illegible] were rushed to hospital where doctors said their condition was serious.

The Superfort hit with such force that one engine was thrown 100 feet ahead of the main fuselage and wreckage was scattered over a 100-yard-square area. It was one of Hawaii's worst peacetime air disasters.

Surveyor Missing

GOLD BRIDGE, B.C., Aug. 25 — (CP). — A 60-year-old surveyor was missing Tuesday night in the wooded mountains surrounding this uranium boom town as heavy claim-staking continued throughout the entire area.

Prospectors and police joined in a wide search for John Munroe, one of a four-man crew lining and staking out claims in the radioactive slopes of Tommy Creek and Mount Bob.

Last week Munroe, an experienced trapper-woodsman, told storekeeper George Simpson: "I'm going out into the hills. Keep this money ($40) for me." He hasn't returned to camp.

Cave-Dwelling Boys Arrested For Thefts

TORONTO, Aug. 25 — (CP). — Two cave-dwelling juveniles, both 14-year-olds, were arrested by police overnight and charged in connection with a series of house thefts.

Police said the boys who lived in a cave at Maple Creek in suburban East Toronto, were responsible for ransacking several houses where damage exceeded the amount of the loot.

When Scarboro detectives descended on the cave they found a third 14-year-old boy showing hte others a .25 calibre revolver. Police said it was stolen from the home of A. W. Macdonell a brother of Judge Ian Macdonell.

Police said the homes of prominent persons in the east suburban district were among those looted. Most of the articles taken were small but two rifles were stolen from one home.

Tourists Set New Record In Ontario

18,000,000 Visitors Come To Province Since Start Of Year

TORONTO, Aug. 25 — (CP). — Ontario's biggest tourist boom in its history brought 18,000,000 visitors to the province this year, it was announced today by Travel Minister Welsh. Before the year is over he expects the number of tourists to reach 21,000,000.

A questionnaire filled out by tourists shows few complaints. visitors approve of the hospitality Ontario residents extend to them and do not complain about the conditions of highways. However congestion of highways during holiday weekends caused some trouble and a few complaints have been received about high prices.

Col. Welsh said that generally speaking most tourists do not feel they have been paying too much for accommodation. He believes that resort operators who ask all they can get are gradually putting themselves out of business.

During the early part of the season forest fires raging through northern sections limited travel to an extent, he said.

"Unfortunately many American newspapers created the impression that the whole province was ablaze. They apparently do not realize the vastness of Ontario."

Barbara Ann Gets U.S. Visa

TORONTO, Aug. 25 — (CP). — Barbara Ann Scott, Ottawa's world skating champion, visited the United States consul-general today and obtained American visa for use "early in the fall."

"We are getting these papers today so we will be ready when the time comes for Barbara Ann to cross the border," said her lawyer, Robert Hicks. "We have had several deals put up to us but so far nothing definite has come out of them. We haven't signed anything since the original papers signed with the Music Corporation of America."

Accompanied by her mother, Barbara Ann made a one-day trip to Toronto from her summer cabin at Brockville.

"The ring which I accepted as a friendship ring from George Fulford, Jr., I returned to him," she said. "It was a beautiful diamond ring which belonged to his grandmother and he wanted me to have it. I guess it was silly of me to wear it, but I did. Everybody thought I was engaged, but I'm not."

Cruel World Boy 4 Finds No One Wants To Keep Him

MONTREAL, Aug. 25 — (CP). —Gaston Lalande's name is only one of hundreds in juvenile delinquency prevention bureau files but for a four-year-old, life has given him a rare pushing around.

A few days ago, police found the brown-haired boy wandering in the streets. He didn't know whether his name was Lalande or Belair but he did remember a number of addresses where he had lived.

With those facts, missing persons bureau found his mother, homeless and helpless in a hospital public ward. From her and other sources they gleaned this story:

Gaston's mother and father separated shortly after he was born. Unable to keep the boy, she sent him to live with a poor but goodhearted family.

But in Montreal's crowded east end, an extra child can be a burden so Gaston was tossed from one family to another until last month a garage mechanic took him in.

The boy slept on auto seats while the garageman tinkered at night. When that method of living proved unworkable, the mechanic decided to make a change.

Last Monday he took the boy for a walk and gave him a nickel for an ice cream cone.

When Gaston came out of a restaurant munching a cone, the garageman had walked out of his life.

That is where police found the boy. Now his case is going before the juvenile court which will find him a home.

Decide Toronto Doesn't Need Drive On Gangs

TORONTO, Aug. 25—(AP).—Mayor McCallum reported today after conferences with senior police officials that Toronto police are closely in touch with activities of youthful "gangs" in the city and it is not necessary to launch any drive to eliminate them.

He told Board of Control after his conference with Police Chief John Chisholm and Magistrate R. J. Browne that the police could quickly quell any outbreaks of rowdyism such as that at Wasaga Beach on Georgian Bay last week-end when rival Toronto gangs staged a near-riot.

The mayor's action followed reports that members of these two rival gangs took part in rioting at Wasaga Beach, 80 miles northwest of Toronto, last week-end.

The mayor said he will ask for a special police detail. "We're going to ferret them out and see that the gangs are smashed."

The provincial attorney-general's department was said to be considering laying more serious charges against the 13 youths—11 of them from Toronto—arrested at Wasaga Beach. They are scheduled to appear tomorrow in court at Barrie, 30 miles southeast of Wasaga, on charges ranging from drunkenness to assault.

One official said an assault on J. R. Murray of Cleveland, O., who said he was sitting on a hotel verandah when "about 15 youths" attacked him, may provide the basis for more serious charges.

Breaks Down

BARRIE, Aug. 25 — (CP). — Frank Stothers, suspected leader of the so-called Beanery gang in an affray a nearby Wasaga Beach at the week-end, sobbed today as he was returned to jail cells here on a week's remand on charges of assault and participating in a riot.

"My folks have deserted me," said the 21-year-old, tears streaming down his face. "I don't want to go back to jail for another week of it." Bail in his case was fixed at $500 but no one showed up to go his bond.

John Bakur, a 21-year-old charged with drunkenness after the Wasaga outbreak, was fined $10 and costs.

Temperatures Hit New 1948 High

TORONTO, August 25 (CP)—Southern Ontario sweltered today as temperatures reached a new high for 1948 and continued to soar.

The Dominion public weather forecaster at nearby Malton airport said thermometers may go over the 100-degree mark. Most places in southwestern Ontario had reached 90 by noon EDT.

Toronto was the highest reported at 12 noon with 96. Most reports come from airports and temperatures were expected to be slightly higher in sheltered cities, towns and villages.

Some of the noon temperatures across the south of the province were: Windsor, 91; London, 90; Malton, 94; Kilealoe, 90; Stirling, 93; Centralia, 91. Ottawa was slightly cooler with an 88.

The high temperatures are expected to last little more than 36 hours in most sections affected by the extreme heat. Cooler air is on its way from north-west Ontario, the Weather Bureau reports, and it should reach the south part of the province by late Thursday.

Soviet Shuts Consulates Across U.S.

Shut US Consulate In Vladivostok In Retaliatory Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP) —State Secretary Marshall said today the United States will accept Russia's order for closing the American consulate in Vladivostok.

Marshall told a press conference that the Russian action, announced Tuesday night as a climax to a dispute over runaway Russian school teachers, is regrettable but not a serious matter.

The American consulate official in the Pacific port was so circumscribed in his activities that he was able to accomplish little, Marshall said.

Moscow also cancelled a 1947 agreement to permit reopening of the former American consulate in Leningrad. Marshall told reporters that no progress had been made toward the opening the consulate there.

Along with this action, the Russians ordered the closing down of their consulates in New York and San Francisco. That move speeded up a sready recall of Soviet citizens from the United States.

Under Embassy

Marshall noted that the Russians will still have the Amtorg organization with head quarters in New York for conduct of business affairs in the Utited States. He also said consular sections presumably will continue to be maintained in the Russian embassy in Washington.

The United States State Department Aug. 19 asked the Russian Government to recall Jakob M. Lomakin, Soviet Consul-General in New York because of its activities in the Kasenkina case.

Lomakin is scheduled to start home Saturday. The United States note informed the Russian government that Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina would not be turned over to Russian authorities against her will and rejected contentions that she had been kidnapped.

Reject Charge

The Soviet reply, as published Tuesday night, categorically rejected the United States contention that Lomakin and other Soviet officials had exceeded their legal rights in the cases of Mrs. Kasenkina and Michael I. Samarine, another Russian school teacher in the United Sttates.

"The actions and statements of the Soviet Government and its official representatives in the United States in the affair of Kasenkina and Samarine fully correspondent to the lawful interests of the Soviet Union in defence of its citizens from criminal infringements on their freedom and civil rights," the note said.

"The Soviet goverment considers that during the most recent period in the United States circumstances have been created under which normal fulfilment by Soviet consulates in the United States of their functions has become impossible.

Bancroft Fire Destroys Boarding House

One of the oldest landmarks in Bancroft was destroyed by fire Tuesday midnight when fire of unknown origin burned out the interior of the Moxam House on Main street. Fred Switzer who had occupied the boarding house as late as July of this year had recently vacated to other quarters and Easton Brothers who own the building had already torn down the front 30 feet preparatory to building two new stores and overhead apartments.

A large number of volunteer fire fighters were present and owing to the fact that the building was directly in front of the fire station it was quite easy to bring two streams of water on the burning building in a very short time. Three or four boarders were still occupying rooms in the rear of the building but were not home when the fire started. Most of the contents was destroyed.

Mr. Tomasini who runs a shoe repair shop had set up temporary quarters in the dining room of the building. Some of his machinery was broken in its removal from the building. Easton Brotherfs had some of their equipment stored in the front of the building but most of this was removed. Mr. Tomasini and Easton Brothers had partial coverage with insurance but the actual loss will run in the thousands. The whole structure will now have to be torn down and the debris removed where it was the intention before the fire of leaving the rear part of the building intact for a few years until Mr. Easton finished up the frontage. Mr. Donald Easton was in town at the time of the fire but his brother George was in Toronto.

Answers Doorbell Robbed Of $1,400

MONTREAL, Aug. 25. (CP) — When Eugene Lavalee of Mount Royal Avenue East answered his doorbell at 6:30 a.m. today, six men rushed in, held him up and escaped with about $1,400 in cash.

Lavallee said there was first a telephone call but when he answered, no one appeared to be on the line. A few minutes later the doorbell rang. One of the intruders was armed with a revolver.

They locked Lavallee in a room, rifled his clothing and desk drawers and made off with the cash.

Arab Legion Won't Stand Further Truce Violations

CAIRO, Aug. 25 — (AP). — The commander of Arab Legion forces in Jerusalem has notified the United Nations his army will not brook further alleged violations of the truce by the Jews.

The commander, Lt.-Col. Abdullah Tel, sent a memorandum to UN observers Tuesday saying if the Jews continue their present course the Arab Legion will repel them.

At Lake Success, Gen. Aage Lundstroem, Chief of Staff to Count Foke Bernadote, UN Palestine mediator, formally accused the Israeli government Tuesday of violating the truce.

Lundstroem made the charge in a note to Moshe Shertok, Israeli Foreign Minister, concerning the Red Cross zone in Jerusalem. He had conducted an investigation after Israeli and Arab troops entered the zone on the night of August 16-17. Since then a controversy has been carried on between the Arabs and Jews on the question of evacuating the zone.

Lundstroem said he was sending a copy of his charges to Count Bernadotte, who is in Stockholm attending a meeting of the International Red Cross.

Meir Grossman of the Right Wing Revisionist Party has demanded that Jerusalem be both the capital of Israel and centre of the Zionist Movement. He insisted also that members of the Israeli government should not hold key posts in the movement.

Dr. Israeli Goldstein, president of the World Confederation of General Zionists, said the centre of the movement must be in New York or Europe for practical reasons.

In Cairo, informants said the creation of a unified command for all the Arab armies in Palestine now is being discussed by the Egyptians and Iraqi Premiers and Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, Secretary-General of the Arab League.

Will Attend London Talks Then Give Up Post When St. Laurent Ready

Has Retained Office Till Now At Request Of New Liberal Leader; Will Also Head Delegation To Paris

OTTAWA, Aug. 25—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today he will head Canada's delegation to the October Imperial Conference in London and retire from office as soon afterward as suits External Affairs Minister St. Laurent, his successor. Mr. King also said in a statement he also will lead the Canadian delegation at early sessions of the Assembly of the United Nations at Paris in September.

"It is my intention to seek retirement from office as soon after my return from London as may serve to meet my successor's convenience," he said.

The Prime Minister said his retention of office up to now was specifically at the request of Mr. St. Laurent, who was chosen to succeed him as Liberal Party Leader early this month.

"Mr. St. Laurent feels that he should have a little more time to make the necessary preparations before assuming the duties of the head of a new administration," Mr. King declared.

"He also feels that it would be unfortunate were he obliged, almost immediately after assuming office, to be away from Canada for a possible absence overseas of some weeks, and this at a time when so many matters require consideration at home, a great number of which are related to the preparation of the business of the next session of Parliament."

Favor for St. Laurent.

For these reasons, Mr. King said, the External Affairs Minister had expressed the wish that he represent Canada at the two overseas meetings.

"After consultation with my other colleagues, I have agreed to meet Mr. St. Laurent's wishes in

Untrained Troops Sent To Malaya

LONDON, Aug. 25. (Reuters) —The War Office, replying to a suggestion that troops being sent to Malaya are insufficiently trained, gave an assurance today that every one of them will be "entirely familiar with his weapons."

The war office was commenting on a letter published today in the London Evening News.

The writer stated: "The crack troops we are sending to Malaya include boys like my son, who is 18½ and has been in the Grenadier Guards only since May this year.

"He has had little training apart from ordinary parade-ground stuff, has done sentry duty only once and has never fired a rifle (apart from a .22 on the miniature range).

"His first leave of 10 days was interrupted after two days by a telegram recalling him. Frankly I think it is a disgrace to send such young and untrained men to a place like Malaya."

Explosion Hurls Woman Across Office

TORONTO, Aug. 25 — (CP) — A woman was hurled from her chair across the office of the Canadian Electric Box Company at Queen and Vancouver streets in East Toronto today as the main office and basement of the plant was shattered by a mysterious explosion.

Another woman employee, Mildrad Mullin, injured when crushed by a falling wall as the office building and basement of the company were shattered by the noon-hour blast. She managed to get to the street and was taken to hospital with head injuries.

Three men, working in the basement, escaped with any minor injuries and climbed up through debris out of the building.

Glass was showered on a passing street car.

Six office workers were eating lunch in the back part of the building and escaped injury.

The Ontario Fire Marshal's office was called on to investigate the cause of the blast.

G. Worters, one of the street car pasesngers, was taken to hospital. He suffered from a gash on the chin.

Hospital authorities reported that Miss Cranston suffered gashes on her head and arm.

Firemen said the blast may have been caused by sewer gas or an accumulation of illuminating gas.

Cecil Rainville, foreman in the factory, said plumbers had been working in the basement.

Planes Collide Nine Men Killed

NEWTON, NJ, Aug. 25—(AP) —Six United States Air Force men en route to a religious conference, and three crew members of a C-47 transport were killeld Tuesday after the big plane swooped out of a cloud bank and collided with a B-25 bomber.

The disabled C-47 plummeted to the ground near this northwest New Jersey community, crashed and burned. The B-25, a wing-tip sheared and its threeman crew unaware of the disaster, returned safely to its base.

Crew memebrs of the B-25 said they had been cruising at an altitude of about 7,000 feet when the transport zoomed out of a cloud. They reported a "not-too-severe jolt."

The B-25 crew did not see the transport after the planes touched because of cloud. They were unaware it had crashed until they returned to base.

Police said Mr. Baker wandered from the home of Rev. Harry Martin here on Saturday and went for a stroll in the bush. He has not been seen since.

Provincial police said they believe the elderly man is still alive. Nights have been warm and there are lots of berries in the bush for him to eat.

Boy Scouts from Toronto are assisting in the search.

CCL To Lodge Prices Protest With Prime Minister Also Ask Steel Policy Plan

BC Federation Vice-President Barred For 2 Years From Convention, For Making Slanderous Remarks

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (CP). — The Canadian Congress of Labor has decided to seek an interview with Prime Minister Mackenzie King to post another protest against rising prices. The Congress' executive council took the decision at a meeting here Tuesday at which disciplinary action was taken against one of its members—the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers—and several members of the British Columbia Federation of Labor.

The IUMMSW was suspended from the CCL for an article in the union's newspaper attacking A. R. Mosher, president of the CCL and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, and C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America. The article, Mr. Mosher charged, made "false, misleading and obviously malicious" statements.

The meeting also decided to seek a declaration from the government on steel policy, particularly as it affected the construction industry. This step was taken at the instance of Mr. Millard.

Ask Price Controls

Dealing with prices, the council endorsed a stand taken by Mr. Mosher and Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer, in a letter to Mr. King and members of the cabinet last Aug. 10, asking immediate action to re-establish price controls and "halt the inflation now in full swing."

The vice-president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, Harvey Murphy, was barred for two years from attending a C.C.L. convention as a delegate or from acting as a delegate at any chartered body of the C.C.L. He was alleged to have made "slanderous remarks about C.C.L. officials" at a federation banquet in Victoria last April 8.

Regarding the I.U.M.M.S.W. suspension, Mr. Mosher said after the meeting he could not say what his action would be in the event the union applies for re-instatement. It would depend on what action the union took.

Under C.C.L. constitution, the suspended union may re-apply for affiliation "after making amends" or may appeal the council decision at the congress' annual convention in Toronto in October.

R. H. Carlin of Sudbury, I.U.M.M.S.W. board member, said there was no basis for the offending article and the author of it had been discharged from the union staff.

Russian Teacher Interview Off

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(CP).—A press interview with Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina was called off indefinitely Tuesday because newsreel and television preparations tired her out.

The interview would have been the first direct contact of the press with the Russian school teacher since she jumped from a third-storey window of the Russian Consulate here Aug. 12.

The 52-year-old teacher, who suffered several fractures, was taken off the critical list Saturday at Roosevelt Hospital.

A hospital official said Tuesday morning she had recovered sufficiently to be interviewed. Four reporters could see her sometime Tuesday, the official said.

Meanwhile, two photographers were permitted to take pictures of Mrs. Kasenkina in the hospital room.

Later the reporters waiting to interview the Russian school teacher were told:

"The excitement of the preparations has been so great that Mrs. Kasenkina is tired and she d sn't want to see anyone from the press."

The only relief from this sweltering heat will occur in northern Ontario, where the arrival of cooler air today will cause scattered thundershowers that will continue throughout Thursday. In startling contrast to the above normal temperatures in Ontario, temperatures near freezing and occasional snow are reported from northwestern Canada as far south as a latitude fifty-five.

Soviet Shifts

"In the note of the State Department of Aug. 19 it is apparent that the government of the United States not only does not intend to stop these actions of American administrative authorities by whom such circumstances — to the degree that American police invaded the Soviet Consulate in New York on Aug. 12 — are being created, but in fact justifies such clear violations."

"B. In correspondence with the principle of reciprocity, to consider as immediately closed the American Consulate at Vladivostok.

Beef Prices Sliding Down Big Carryover At Toronto

By The Canadian Press

Wholesale beef prices for medium-low grades slipped on Tuesday to levels prevailing before lifting of the export embargo last Aug. 16. Packers say glutted stockyards caused the decrease. A Canadian Press survey showed that most meat packing companies expect they will be forced to lower by a few cents prices set after the lifting of the embargo on cattle shipments to the United States.

A Canada Packers official in Toronto said that a representative grade of beef which sold Aug. 14 at 46 cents a pound wholesale has been reduced to 42 cents.

In most cases this will not affect the retail price since many butchers had an ample supply of beef, and did not raise the price until they had to buy new higher-priced stock. In any case they were reluctant to raise prices until markets were more stable.

Not Top-Grade

It is not expected that this lowered wholesale price will apply to top-grade beef. Farmers, anxious to get rid of cattle to avoid feeding them during the winter, put most of their available stock on the market this week. They expected a high price from American buyers, but instead only choice grades were sold, leaving more than 7,000 cattle at the Union Stockyards in Toronto on Monday.

Retailers refused to buy meat at increased cost since consumers preferred low-priced vegetables during hot weather. All across the Dominion buyers' resistance was reported strong against jumps following the embargo lifting.

Ottawa reports indicate all commercial beef prices there are back to levels existing before the embargo was lifted. Commercial grades are plentiful, with round steak selling for 59-69 cents, but scarce top-quality steak is retailing at about $1.15-$1.25.

Farmers To Decide

OTTAWA, Aug. 25—(CP).—L. W. Pearsall, chairman of the Agriculture Department's Meat Board, said Tuesday night he believed the future course of meat prices will be governed mainly on whether farmers decide to hold or sell their stocks of grass-fed cattle

Mr. Pearsall was commenting on a report that wholesale beef prices for medium-low grades are showing downward trends, in spite of the recent lifting of the cattle embargo to the United States.

He said prices will depend "on whether farmers think it's a good thing to hold on to their cattle," rather than to dispose of them immediately. Mr. Pearsall said prices again "will stiffen" if farmers decide to keep their cattle from market.

During his absence, he said, Mr. St. Laurent will be Acting Prime Minister and will have immediate direction of all policy matters and preparation of the sessional program.

The External Affairs Minister may go to London if at any time his presence should be "desirable."

Mr. King said that since the Aug. 5-7 Liberal convention, he had been in conference with Mr. St. Laurent and other Cabinet members on his retirement plans.

Empire Conference

He emphasized that the London conference was one of Empire Ministers — rather than that of Ministers and advisers — and for that reason would require the presence of the head of government.

Mr. King said he will not visit Italy and Greece, as had been expected.

Says Flying Days Over After Crack-up In Bush

EDMONTON, Aug. 25. (CP)—Grimy and wan from 17 days in the bush, 61-year-old Dr. V. B. Murray returned to Edmonton Tuesday night, vowing that his flying days were over.

The veteran Washington, DC, doctor-pilot has satisfied RCAF officials that his crash in the wilds of Northern Alberta was an accident and that no desire to escape from civilization prompted his crack-up at lonely Nose Lake, 75 miles southwest of his announced destination of Grande Prairie, Alberta. But 2½ weeks of wandering through the bush has cured his zest for air travel.

The twin-engined Cessna aircraft that Dr. Murray overturned in the brush when he ran out of fuel, miles off his course, Aug. 7, is now the property of J. McCullough, the trapper who found him at Nose Creek, a few miles from the scene of the crash, and brought him back to safety by pack-horse.

The doctor explained that he planned to ferry the plane to Fairbanks, Alaska, and sell it there. He blamed poor eye-sight for the 10-degree deviation in his course that landed him in the northern Alberta wilderness.

He was at a loss to explain the rumors of the abandoned airfield 100 miles from the nearest road or trail where he was said to be seeking a back-to-nature holiday.

RCAF officials, who disclosed Dr. Murray's alleged plans two weeks ago, claimed the ir formation was contained in a letter he had written to a Washington friend. They had planned to charge him with filing an incorrect flight plan, giving rise to a $35,000 search.

Sqdn. Ldr. J. T. Arnold, Northwest Air Command flying officer, who returned with Dr. Murray after questioning him about the flight, said he was convinced that the pilot strayed from his course accidentally.

PICTURED above is Thomas Headen, former New York newspaperman, and now an official with the U.S. military government in Berlin, who was abducted by Russian troops in Berlin, while his horrified family looked on. Observers say Headen may have been a few feet into the Russian sector of Berlin when he was seized by three soldiers and hustled off. He was released by the Russians 24 hours later.

THE TALE OF A SHIRT

If pedestrians in the downtown area heard a loud shriek of anguish on Tuesday afternoon coming all the way from the Exhibition Grounds—it was Jack Baldwin, King Street. Jack, always a hard worker, had taken off his new shirt while he applied himself to the job of putting up a booth. A few minutes later he nearly suffered a stroke when he observed a workmate smiling contentedly as he wiped paint-covered hands on the prized shirt. But the roughest thing of all was the cuprit's comment "I thought it was just an old rag."—D.W.

6 Rolls Drift Fence Stolen In Otonabee

Somebody with a lot more energy than honesty has made off with more than a ton of loot from the side of No. 7 highway about three miles west of Peterborough. The loss, which is being investigated by provincial police here, consists of six rolls of snowfence, property of the Ontario Department of Highways.

The familiar bundles of red laths were taken sometime Tuesday from near the farm of John Stewart, Otonabee.

It could have been no mean task, police point out. The bundles are not only heavy but bulky as well. They believe a truck was used in the job.

German Agent Of U.S. Army Reported Slain

BERLIN, Aug. 25 — (AP). — Two more shooting affrays at zonal frontiers have punctuated the east-west tug-of-war in Germany, police reported today. Both victims were Germans.

German police headquarters for western Berlin said persons in Russian uniform shot and wounded a German woman Tuesday night at a boundary dividing the western zones of Berlin from the surrounding Soviet occupatic zone. The cause was not known.

Bavarian border authorities said German police from the Russian zone Monday shot and killed a German agent of the United States army.

The Bavarians said a man, whom they described as having many aliases, entered the Russian zone Monday night to pick up "information material."

They said the Russian zone police wounded him with one shot and he staggered across the border into the American zone and went to an inn.

Thuringian police followed him over the border, entered the inn and demanded the wounded man be turned over to them.

The Bavarians seized one Thuringian policeman, who still is being held, and the others fled.

Bavarian authorities sa[illegible] American officials took the wounded agent to a hospital, where he died Tuesday.

The week-long tension abated somewhat as armed patrols of the east and west were withdrawn, at least temporarily, from Potsdamer Platz, scene of recent riots and Russian staged raids.

Western sector police carried out day-long raids Tuesday against black marketeers in the western areas.

Has Big Balance

TORONTO, Aug. 25. (CP) — William James Woolf, 46, also known as David Rogers of Niagara Falls, Ont., was arrested on Tuesday night on a charge of uttering. Police said Woolf ha bank books crediting him with deposits totalling $22,000 at local banks. They accused him of depositing a worthless cheque for $2,300 at a downtown Toronto bank and then withdrawing $15 on the strength of it.

Cobourg Rink Drive Aims For $90,000

COBOURG, Aug. 25—(ENS).—The Cobourg Victory Loan Organization that did so well during the days of the war will be utilized in the campaign to raise funds for the erection of the Memorial Rink and Recreational Centre. The committee has set the objective of the campaign, which opens next Monday, at $90,000. As soon as the money is in, work will start immediately on the building.

The committee, after serious consideration of the entire matter, felt that the canvassers, who are sacrificing their time, and using their cars in rural canvass, should receive some compensation for their labor and expense, and the public is accordingly frankly informed that the canvassers will receive sufficient remuneration to partly recompense them.

Secretary of the campaign is W. G. Birmingham. Canvassers will be Vic Climo, H. Sifton, Bill Baker, Christie Leonard, Everett Winter, Truman Jones and Fred Hempstead. Jim Redmond is chairman of the industrial payroll deductions committee. There will also be a special names committee.

There will be a campaign thermometer in front of the Town Hall.

Town Engages Legal Counsel

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25 — (ENS)—Engagement of A. R. Willmott, KC, to oppose the application of William Hogle, representing the Campbellford Citizens' Committee, that the June liquor referendum be set aside, was made by members of the town council following the serving of the writ in the case on J. F. McGregor, municipal clerk, who acted as returning officer for the referendum.

Defining his status before the court on Tuesday, Mr. Willmott said that he was representing Mr. McGregor and the Town of Campbellford, and his submission would be that the electoral machinery functioned properly at the time of the referendum, in opposition to the allegation of Mr. Hogle that it did not.

Mayor H. M. Donald said Tuesday night that engagement of counsel was undertaken by the town as Mr. McGregor had been made the principal in the case according to the writ, and as municipal clerk it was felt that it was the responsibility of the town tosee that he was provided with legal representation.

On Tuesday morning, however, His Honour Judge M. A. Miller ruled that the town clerk becomes the returning officer at such a referendum by statute, and for the period of his employment in that capacity, ceases to be municipal clerk.

Intervention of the town in the case therefore provides the only opposition to the application for a new referendum, as those supporting the negative or "dry" side of the case were not represented.

Liquor Vote Hearing Adjourned Judge To View Disputed Ballots

COBOURG, Aug. 25 (ENS)—Adjournment sine die was made by Judge M. A. Miller Tuesday in connection with the Campbellford liquor vote dispute. The adjournment was in order that some ballots, rejected at the recount because of the fact that they were marked in ink, could be reexamined in the light of evidence produced.

The case was the result of a motion by William Hogle of Campbellford, campaign manager of the "wets" asking that the vote be set aside because of certain alleged irregularities. The returning officer, John F. McGregor, was the defendant. J. F. R. Douglass of Campbellford and Harry Deyman, Cobourg, appeared, for Hogle. A. R. Willmott, K.C., of Cobourg was solicitor for McGregor.

Wm. Scott, campaign manager for the dry group was not in court nor was he represented by counsel.

The two questions asked of the voters was whether or not they favored a liquor store being established and if they wanted a store for the sale of beer. The wets did not receive the needed majority, being short by a small percentage.

James Ayrhart, former mayor of Campbellford, testified yesterday that he voted in polling subdivision No. 2. He said he was handed two ballots which looked like one paper until he separated them. The light in the polling both was faint and the pencil would not leave a mark. Automatically he reached in his pocket for his pen and used it to mark his ballot. To Mr. Willmott he admitted that he didn't bother to seek another pencil from the DRO. His wife testified that her pencil was too dull and that she exposed the lead by using her fingernail.

Mrs. Bertha Bates was called and she told the court that there was no pencil in No. 4 and that she used the fountain pen and she found in the booth. To Mr. Willmott's query if there were a pencil there, Mrs. Bates replied that she saw none.

15 Ballots Rejected

William Hogle testified that at the recount there were at least 15 ballots rejected because they had been marked in ink. He said that William Hawkins, Peterborough painter employed on Wartime houses in Campbellford, had been turned down by the court of revision but that after protesting the fact that he was not on the list, was sworn in and allowed to vote. There were one or two ballots placed in a separate envelope, after they were found on the [illegible] night after the out without marking his ballot.

"At the recount, both sides said the missing ballot might have been a case of totalling, and it was agreed to let it go at that," interjected Judge Miller.

Mrs. Josie Turner of Campbellford, DRO in No. 1, said that she called Gilbert Larkin the night before the election to tell him that he didn't have a vote. This was to save him the embarrassment of being turned down at the polling booth. She said she knew his name had been on the list but that it had been rejected at the court of revision.

"His name was on the list of additions and I thought that it was a mistake," she testified. Continuing, she said that Larkin came in to vote and she told him that he was not entitled to cast a ballot, as he had not established residency.

"I stepped over to the phone in the polling subdivision and called Mr. Lewis. He was from Toronto and had helped us, the temperance workers. Mr. Lewis told me that I should see that Mr. Larkin was sworn in," Mrs. Turner said.

Would Be Challenged

"She phoned me the night before the election," Larkin related, "and said that I shouldn't come down to vote as I was not entitled to do so. I asked her where she had got her information and she said she had checked it. I told her that according to the election circular I was eligible to vote but she told me to disregard it. She also said that if I came down to vote I would be challenged and embarrassed. I went down anyway and she challenged me so I pointed to my name on the voters' list and she went to the phone. She came back and said I would have to be sworn in," Larkin testified.

Not Beverage Rooms

Alex McDonald told of getting his two ballots from R. M. Morrison and that the latter said one of the ballots was for a beverage room.

"I knew that we were not voting on a beverage room," he commented.

Mrs. May Phillips said that she was in No. 4 with Mr. Morrison as scrutineer for the wets. She said that several times she heard Mr. Morrison say they were voting on a beverage room. She testified that she told him that such an error would prejudice or confuse voters in view of the feeling against beverage rooms. She also declared that two of the "dry" scrutineers were keeping the men who were driving the voters to the polls, informed on who had voted.

Recalled to the stand, Larkin said that Mrs. Turner told him to tell two of his fellow boarders, Reg. Wartman and W. Munro that they were not entitled to vote. Mrs. J. Copperthwaite, scrutineer for the "wets," said that she heard Mr. Morrison say several times that one ballot was on the question of beverage rooms.

Mr. Deyman closed his case at this point, subject to re-opening it when the ballots, which had been sent to Toronto, have been received back. The defence proceeded with two of its witnesses, also to continue its case when the enquiry is resumed at a later date.

Ernest Skitch DRO in No. 3 (b), said that he had checked the pencils three times during the day and sharpened them twice. There were no complaints about pencils and if anybody marked a ballot with ink, it was not because of a lack of pencils, he said.

R. M. Morrison, who was DRO in No. 4 (b) recalled "a slip of the tongue" in telling Mr. McDonald that one of the ballots was a vote on the beverage room.

"I corrected myself and if I said it again, I didn't realize it," testified Mr. Morrison. He went on to assert that he put two pencils, with strings attached, to each of two windows. There was a polling booth fashioned with some drapes at each window. He was first to arrive at the polling booth and placed a table in his booth. He said that as far as he knew the pencil was used in the other polling booth and he heard no complaint about a lack of a pencil and took both pencils with him after the voting was all over. To Mr. Deyman he said he wasn't sure if the other DRO put his table where the pencil was. It was possible that a pen could have been supplied by the other DRO, witness said. Feeling in the town was strong against beverage rooms, Mr. Morrison declared.

Ask Tamblyn's

UNIVERSITY: "I am 19, out of high school two years and want to go to university. Is it possible to work my way through without putting my parents in debt?"

It certainly is if you have the backbone to stick it. Go see Dr. W. J. Dunlop, University Extension, and talk to him. There are funds to help deserving students. There is plenty of night, Saturday and holiday work in stores and shops for smart lads. Your first year isn't so hard that you can't put in working time too. Then if you stand well in first year results you can apply for a bursary to help with fees, books and so on. Plenty of opportunities for a go-getter.

Shy: "My boy friend is so shy I hate to take him anywhere with me. Honest he stands there like a stick without opening his mouth. Is there any way to get a boy so that he acts naturally and isn't tongue-tied? He's 18."

If you really like the guy help him and don't pick on him. When you go out with him see that you give him a build-up. Bring him into the conversation naturally. But don't expect him to wise crack if he's not made that way. There's a way to help him—be smart enough to find it.

BABY EXPENDITURE: "What will it cost me to have my baby? We're dreading the expense."

Doctor's fees will range from $25 up. Hospital fees will range from $40 up depending on how long you stay in the hospital. Your layette will cost $25 to $50. Baby supplies, oil, powder, pins, soap and so on are about $10. You can make a bassinette for eight dollars. All these expenditures are relative. Don't you think we're all apt to spend too much on doo-dads for the first baby? Main thing is to have a good doctor for you.

GIRLS with pale faces and colorless personalities—tired girls who look and act half-alive—often may blame a blood condition.

It may be a blood condition that's robbing them of fun and friends—a Borderline Anemia, a mild anemia due to a nutritional deficiency of iron. Their red blood cells may be too pale and small to transmit full energy to every body tissue. Many women—many men and children, too—go dragging their way through life with this Borderline Anemia.

How Ironized Yeast Tablets Build Up Your Blood and Vigor

If your energy is waning and your color is fading because of this Borderline Anemia, take Ironized Yeast Tablets. They are formulated to help build up faded red blood cells to healthy color and size—to help restore your usual vigor.

Of course, continuing tiredness and pallor may come from other conditions. Always consult your doctor regularly. But in this Borderline Anemia, take Ironized Yeast Tablets to help build up your blood! Then your energy and color can come surging back! You can begin to get some fun out of life again!

Blood that builds energy! This is how energy-building blood looks under a microscope. Here are big, plentiful red blood cells that can release vigor to all your body.

Blood in Borderline Anemia! Many have blood like this; never know it. Cells are puny, faded. Blood like this can't release the energy you need to feel and look your best.

More Production

The cost-of-living is up to 156.9—that is 56.9 points above the average for the years 1935-39. Why? Why are foods now at 201.3, clothing at 175.4? The slick answer is: because price ceilings have been taken off. But likewise, we must remind our readers, so have most subsidies which were a "hidden" charge which every taxpayer in the country had to pay. Likewise, wage ceilings have been taken off. The result has been that wages and salaries have risen. These have boosted prices—or vice versa, whichever came first, the chicken or the egg. The one egged on the other. This has occurred at a time when demand exceeded supply. (It still does in many commodities—houses, for instance.) The demand has exceeded supply partly because of the wastage of supplies in wartime, the concentration of industry on war materials and the six-year gap in domestic production. Another reason is that we are consuming more—not merely because our population has grown but also because our appetites have grown as our pay swelled. In 1947 we consumed 12 per cent. more beef per capita than we did in 1939. We use more gasoline, more refrigerators, more of everything—even houses.

• • •

Production is not keeping up with demand. At the time that there is a Canadian and world need for more and more we are working less and less: five-day weeks, more holidays in summer, more interest in getting a day's pay than in doing a day's work. A week ago a silver-plate manufacturing company in Trenton which employs 130 persons closed down. The chief reason given for closing down was "low productivity of employees".

• • •

We do not decry good working hours, holidays and the like, but if everybody is going to play, who will make the hay? More production will not of itself cure the cost-of-living ills but it will be a step down the high-cost ladder. If we are to have 40-hour weeks and summer holidays and all the various one-day holidays in between we must somehow find a way to get more done in less time.

The Metropolitan Will Not Close

The decision to cancel the 1948-49 season of the Metropolitan Opera of New York because of rising costs of material, labour and salaries has been rescinded. The Met. will open, it will have its season. The tens of thousands of patrons who annually fill the house to capacity at almost every performance and the hundreds of thousands who tune in to the Saturday afternoon broadcasts, will be relieved and pleased.

The decision to cancel the season and [illegible] increases and other benefits have withdrawn their demands not only because, if the Met. closed, they would be out of jobs. They know that if there were no opera season this year, the cause of good music on this continent would suffer. They are interested in their jobs but they are also interested in music. The president of the Opera Association stated that the agreement with the unions was "the result of a co-operative approach to a common problem". This kind of approach is too often lacking in management-labour disputes. Management and labour are partners in industry; both have responsibility for the same enterprise. If they squabble over who is going to hold the baby, the baby will fall—as the Met. nearly did last week.

Our second comment is this: Grand opera has never been a paying proposition. It has always had to have patrons, sponsors, subsidies and underwriters for debts. In earlier days Dukes, Counts and Princes paid the bills. Later until taxes became so high, wealthy commoners and the better-healed bourgeoisie made up the deficits. Now those sources have been drained dry. The Metropolitan Opera had a deficit last year of $220,000. If box-office receipts cannot make ends meet and the ends are spreading farther apart because of rising costs, who will sponsor grand opera? Is it not time for governments to step into the breach? If the public purse is open to road-builders and atomic scientists, should it not be open to musicians, painters and writers? Must the arts of peace perish because of homage to the arts of war? Can the body politic thrive if the soul of man is starved?

Ontario Crops Could Crop The West

Our friends and cousins, the Westerners, out there where the wheat and the Winnipeg Free Press flourish and hold court, complain about freight rates. They think it unseemly that Ontario farmers can buy Western grain to feed Ontario people and Ontario animals at the same price the Westerner pays for it. Our good cousins in the West must not forget that Ontario is now a very good market for their grain. They must not forget that our Ontario farmers can also grow grain.

If the West is willing to sell wheat to the East at a reasonable price—that is, cheaper than the Ontario farmer can grow it—our farmers will not butt into their market. They will grow hay, poultry, hogs and cattle. (We know of one farmer in this district who has not ploughed a furrow for six years. He does not bother to take a crop off his land. He grows hay, and buys his feed from the West, believing it a kindness to the Western farmers to patronize them.) If the price of western wheat soars, this man like thousands of other eastern farmers will again start to grow as much grain as his fields and fertilizer will produce. Then, dear cousin in the West, poof! will go your feed market in the East.

Here in this reputedly filthy-rich Ontario we believe that a fair exchange is no robbery. You give us (rather, sell us at a good price) your grain. We give you our manufactured products, a tidy sum to boot, and our good wishes for your continued health, wealth and prosperity. That is how generous we are here—and of course we know the traditional generosity of the West. True brotherhood and neighbourly love! Thus, though East is East and and West is West, thus do the twain lovingly unite.

The Red Dean Is Excluded

We are sorry to read that permission has been refused to the Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the Dean of Canterbury, to enter the U.S.A. for a speaking tour. We feel that by taking such action the U.S.A. has put itself in the wrong, and the Red Dean and his friends will know all the most subtle ways of making that fact apparent. The American version of the Bill of Rights guarantees free speech, and it is unfortunate that such a guarantee should be abrogated in the case of a man whom many people will regard as a high-minded clergyman of advanced ideas. We do not personally hold that opinion of Dr. Johnson; if it were possible for us to apply the word 'mountebank' to a highly placed priest of the Church of England, that is the word which we should employ in his case. But as such disrespectful language is repugnant to us we shall say merely that Dr. Johnson has a genius for publicity which would have been of great use to him in any walk of life.

Dr. Johnson is a man of paradoxical nature. He professes great sympathy with Marxian doctrines, yet he invariably wears the picturesque eighteenth century garb [illegible] the deference which his position demands, and he wears upon his breast a cross which is symbolic of a faith which Marxism actively opposes. How he reconciles these warring elements in his own mind we do not know, but our guess is that he is able—like so many other people—to reconcile any elements, however antipathetic, which contribute to his sense of personal importance.

Dr. Johnson is a very clever man. He know that the Americans have made themselves look silly by denying him admission to their country. He knows that the Episcopalians of America, though they may not like him personally, will not be pleased by discrimination against the Dean of Canterbury. And we must say that we are amazed that American officialdom should have fallen into such a trap. They have given weight to a comment made by H. L. Mencken, at the time of the Scopes Trial in Tennessee in 1925: "It's getting so that a man has only to mention the Bill of Rights to be marked as a Red". The Dean is, in his curious personal way, a Red, but he has made many people question the validity of the Bill of Rights

Newfoundland's Coat of Arms

(From Atlantic Guardian)

ATLANTIC Guardian has had frequent requests for the meaning and historical significance of the Newfoundland Coat of Arms and herewith presents the story, compiled from official documents. Newfoundland was 430 years old before she adopted a distinctive Coat of Arms and much credit must go to the late Sir Edgar R. Bowring, one of the country's greatest benefactors, who while High Commissioner for the colony in Britain started the search in the maze of records in the College of Arms, London, that ultimately ended in the discovery of the island's own heraldic symbol. Granted by King Charles I in 1637, the coat of arms was not discovered and officially used until 1927.

◇ ◇ ◇

SIR Edgar Bowring's successor in the Newfoundland High Commissionership in London, the late Captain Victor Gordon, C.M.G., persevered in the quest for the discovery of Newfoundland's Coat of Arms and finally the official documents were unearthed ascertaining that Charles I on November 13, 1637, made a grant of the "Whole Continent, Island or region commonly called Newfoundland" to certain of his courtiers and favourites, and this is referred to in some detail in Prowse's famous history. About six weeks afterwards a grant was made "For the greater honour and splendour of that country and the people therein inhabiting" of "proper and peculiar Armes thereunto belonging to be used in all such cases as Armes are wont to be by other nations and countries".

THE grant itself as extracted from the official records of the College of Arms, couched in the quaint language of the period, reads as follows:

"TO ALL AND SINGULAR unto whome these present Letters Patent shall come, Sr. John Borough, Knt. Garter principall King of Armes of Englishmen, sendeth greeting WHEREAS our dread Souveraigne Lord King Charles by Letters Pattents under the great seale of England, dated at Westmr. the 13th day of November, in the 13th yeare of his happy Raigne, did give, grant and confirm to the right Hoble. James Marquess Hamilton, Master of his horse, Philip Earle of Pembroke & Montgomery, Lord Chamberlaine of his household and Henry Earle of Holland, Chief Justice and Justice in Eyre of all his Forests, Chaces and Parkes of the South Side of the River of Trent and to Sr. David Kirk, Knt., one of the Gentlemen of his privy chamber, all of that whole Continent, island or region commonly called NEWFOUNDLAND in the manner and forme as by the said Letters Pattents more at large it doth and may appear. And whereas for the greater honour and splendor of that countrey and the people therein inhabiting, it is and will be necessary that there be pper and peculiar Armes thereunto belonging to be used in all such cases as Armes are wont to be by other nations and Countries. Upon the request unto me made by the above mentioned right noble James Marquess Hamilton, Philip Earle of Pembroke and Montgomery and Henry Earle of Holland and Sr. David Kirk, Knt. that would devise and sett forth certaine Ensigns of Armes to be for ever used as the pper Armes and peculiar Ensignes of that Country. I have accordingly for the purpose before recited, devised,, sett forth and contrived the Armes and Ensignes hereafter described. That is to say Gule sa Crosse Argent in the first Quarter of the Escocheon a Lyon Passant gardant crowned. Or in the an Unicorne passant of the second armed maned and eng led of the third gorged with a crown whereunto is affixed a chain passing between his forelegs and reflexed over his back of the last. In the third as in the second, And for the Creast Upon an Healme Mantled Gules Doobled Argent and a Wreath or Gules and Elks pasant pper The Escocheon supported by two Savages of the Clyme pper armed and pparaled according to their Guise when they goe to Warre and Under all an Escroll the Motto QUAERITE PRIME REGNUM DEI as in the Margent more plainly as depicted. IN WITNESS whereof I said Sr. John Borough, Knt. Garter, principall King of Armes of Englishmen have hereunto these presents affixed the Seale of Myne office and subscribed my name. Dated the first of Jan. in the 13th year of the Ragne of our dread Souveraigne Lord Charles, by the Grace of God of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, King Defenderr of the Faith, &c., And in the year of Grace 1637."

"IN connection with the grant of Arms above it may be necessary to add a few words of explanation. First of all the abbreviation of 'ppr' or 'pper' means 'proper' and was used with regard to a figure in the Arms. It signifies that the animal or whatever it is, is in its own color. With regard to the arms themselves, they consist first of all of a cross based on St. George, though a different colour; the lion is based on the lion in the Arms of England, and the Unicorn was used as the supporters of the Kings of Scotland and taken as one of the supporters of the King of England and Scotland. The term 'gules' of course means 'red' and 'a unicorn passant of the 2nd' means a unicorn of the second colour stated in the blazen, that is to say, 'Argent' (or silver). Similarly, the words 'of the 3rd' mean 'Or' or 'gold'. The translation of the motto is 'SEEK YE FIRST THE KINGDOM OF GOD'."

Letters To The Editor

INSURANCE AND FIRE PROTECTION

Sir: In the columns of your newspaper on Aug. 19 appeared a letter written by a nitwit who signed himself "Logical".

I have never heard of anything so foolish and crazy in all my life as his statements concerning fire insurance and fire departments. Does this brainy individual not realize this type of fire is very difficult to fight and if it had not been for the heroic efforts of the fire department and the volunteers this blaze could have spread, wiping out the entire block and maybe more. It is my opinion that Logical if his house were burned (if he owns a house), and the fire department failed to answer the alarm and the insurance company did not pay up we would hear him do plenty of beefing.

Thanking you for the space in your paper, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
G. I. GORDON.

EXORBITANT ROOM RENT

Sir: I would like to have space in your paper about housing problem. After walking streets for months, Tuesday night I came across two rooms advertised in the paper. After this time thinking there was some hope. After interviewing the people, finding their rent to be $12 weekly and to pay half lights and water, unfurnished and not heated. No working man with children could possibly afford. Is there no such thing as wartime Prices and Trade Board? Why isn't something being done about this. I am writing in hopes these people will be looked after, so our children can have a happy home life too. Thanking you for this space in your paper.

A YOUNG MOTHER.

CITY HALL AND WAYS

Sir: Another matter which should be dealt with now is the question of the city hall, new police station and a police court.

Mr. W. G. Morrow died on the 13th day of March 1939. This is August 1948. He gave a bequest to build a new city hall of about $450,000 on the condition that the city would provide the site. It is reported that the Council has selected the block bounded by Brock, George, Water and Murray streets, but no proceedings have been taken to acquire the site, so next year [illegible] this site will [illegible] market square, which would cost the city nothing. The market could be moved to a better location, or an underground market established beneath the City Hall building. Ratepayers on the street are commenting that there has been a great deal of lack of decision by this year's Council.

However, I think this may be explained by the fact that a large number of the aldermen are new men, and that they are naturally cautious. The older members of the Council like Max Swanston, Hurrell Dodds and others have too much to do, and are overcrowded with work in the Council.

The Council like the Board of Education, the Police Commission and other civic bodies, is making earnest efforts to give us good government and is practising economy.

They are beset with a great deal of uncertainty as to costs. However, industry is going ahead with building programs and tremendous developments, and it seems to me civic administration should keep in step with industry. Housing is going along as well as may be expected, and our civic administration, I know, is far more efficient than in a great many other municipalities where similar conditions exist.

I am taking the liberty as a ratepayer of expressing the views that have been given to me. I do not mind saying that the residents of Monaghan and the neighbourhood of Little Lake and along the river have been extremely patient, but I think their patience will be exhausted about the middle of September, when I am told some property owners propose to "shoot the works" and when they do, somebody's feelings will be hurt.

Yesterday afternoon an indignant businessman on Charlotte street collected several other businessmen and showed me the patch work upon the sidewalk on the north side of the street. He said a truck driver came along with some hot bitumen and a lot of loose gravel which he tossed onto the sidewalk, and a couple of men tried to tramp it down. He went on to say that this is the material used to make highways in the Congo and that in Toronto, Hamilton and London for filling in the uneven areas there is a fluid concrete which is put on the sidewalk with brushes or brooms.

These black patches can be seen on the concrete hundreds of yards away; they are uneven; the stone is loose in many of them; and the condition, the Charlotte Street businessman says, is worse than it was before when they had duck ponds and pools between Aylmer and George Streets.

He says the rock gardens on Charlotte Street sidewalks should attract not only American tourists but everybody else because it is the poorest, cheapest and sloppiest engineering job that has ever been perpetrated in this part of Canada.

He and some of the other businessmen had some observations to make about certain members of the City Council but they were of the character and type that I refrain from repeating them because I am quite sure the editor of the Examiner, as daring as he is, would not risk the publication of these expressions.

The businessmen of this city have finished their stores with beautiful, up-to-date new front and the interiors of the stores have been made up-to-date and modern and naturally they feel that the sidewalks in front of their places of business should be made up-to-date.

We have hundreds of old-fashioned iron gratings along the streets which are hazards to women shoppers and the sidewalks of this city, in the business section at least, need a thorough overhauling.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

CUT THE ELMS

Sir: I have always heard that lovers is blind, [illegible] cut down or not, [illegible] one who cut the trees on the Park St. end of Morrow Park would be doing me a personal service. I with several hundred others walk past these trees an average of twenty times a week, and am continually dodging low branches, in wet weather and you get a shower, and in any weather the raw ends stick out trying to blind you.

No, my friend, it was definitely a mistake to plant those trees, which should be tall, directly under wires, nor is it safe or sensible to allow trees to grow around wires.

These trees might be all right in Japan where they like things to grow old on a miniature scale, but around the Park they are not a thing of beauty but a free grandstand for boys or energetic young men.

SENTIMENT WITH SENSE.

Quota Not Reached

A year ago most of the nations of the world were asked to help in raising some $200,000,000 to feed and clothe twenty million children in war-wrecked countries. Up to the present, only some $50,000,000, but little more than a fifth of this amount has been given so far. In Canada, the original quota of $10,000,000 was reduced to half that amount last February and since then the requested $5,000,000 has been subscribed, which is almost half the amount raised in the States from a population about 12 times larger than that of Canada. — Edmonton Journal.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion, beseeching him, and saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented. And Jesus saith unto him, I will come and heal him.

The centurion answered and said, Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed. For I am a man under authority, having soldiers under me: and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servants, Do this, and he doeth it.

When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel....

And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour. (Matt. 8: 5-10, 13.)

◇ ◇ ◇

For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart. (Heb. 4: 12.)

President Truman's Red Herring

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

U.S. President Truman must be both the joy and despair of those entrusted with the supervision of his campaign for the Presidency. He has at times shown remarkable ability in surmounting political obstacles, and he has made some remarkable recoveries after tactical and verbal fumbles. However, he has shown an equally remarkable propensity for again losing regained ground by inept manoeuvre or remark. His angry attack on the United States Congressional spy investigation is a case in point. He named the investigation a red herring with the strongest kind of smell.

If we understand the phrase correctly, drawing a red herring across a trail means confusing the true trail with an absolutely false scent. That is far from an accurate description of the Congressional spy investigation. The investigation is undoubtedly serving to divert attention from the Congressional record Mr. Truman would like to keep uppermost in the minds of the people of the United States, but that does not mean the investigators are leading the interest of the people along a false trail. There is evidence, incontrovertible evidence in our opinion, that the spy investigation is following a trail of tremendous importance to the United States.

The evidence to which we refer is that provided by the actions and words of Russian diplomats, and the desperate plunge from a third-storey window of Mrs. Oksana Kosenkina, held captive in the Russian Con[illegible] was acting as agent of a woman who had been abducted by someone who delivered her to the Consulate. There cannot be the slightest doubt about the national or political identity of these abductors, and Russian determination to keep this woman from testifying is sufficient, we think, to prove that her testimony would reveal that the spy investigation is indeed a true trail.

We dislike the manner in which the U.S. Congressional investigation is being conducted, a dislike shared by many responsible newspapers in the United States. Chairman Parnell Thomas and his committeemen have used methods far too reminiscent of the old days of witch-hunting, and they have not hesitated to accuse on patently inadequate evidence. All their witch-hunting, however, does not disguise that fact that Russia dislikes the investigation even more intensely than Mr. Truman, and that is enough to prove to most people that there is genuine need of investigation.

JUST CURIOUS

The reporter began to ask his questions.

"And would you like to tell me what made you a multi-millionaire?" he asked.

The terribly rich man looked pensive.

"I think you can say my wife did," he replied at length.

"I see, her loyal help——"

"No, no. I was curious to know if there was any income she couldn't live beyond."

Oshawa Juves Too Good For Kinsmen

By FRED MAYBEE

Oshawa Cabbies defeated Kinsmen Juveniles at Riverside last evening to win the best of three OBA series with the locals in two straight games.

Ab Gilbert pitched a three-hitter, fanned 11, walked none and yielded seven hits. Bill Dorris gave eight hits, struck out three and walked one. Errors afield hurt the locals but the better team won on the play. For Oshawa, Benkowski with a homer and three runs scored, two driven in and two hits led the hitters while Maison, Morrison, Gilbert and McArthur were also good. For the locals, McGillen, Wyatt, Swanston and Corkery were best in defeat.

Orioles Blank Maple Leafs

By The Associated Press

Pitching reached a zenith in the International League Tuesday night as three hurlers pitched one-hitters. The near-perfect games were turned in by Bob Kuzava of Baltimer, Sam Webb of Jersey City and Mal Mallette of Newark.

In addition, there were two three-hitters and a pair of five-hitters.

The best performance was turned in by Kuzava. The Baltimore southpaw pitched hitless ball until Willie (Puddinhead) Jones singled in the seventh as Baltimore shut out Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0 in the second game of a doubleheader. The Leafs won the opener, 4-3, with Jocko Thompson limiting the Orioles to five hits.

Webb, rookie righthander of the Jersey City Giants, permitted only a second-inning single by Coaker Triplett in pitching the Giants to a 4-0 seven-inning shutou tover Buffalo in the first game of a doubleheader. The Giants also won the nightcap 3-2, as Andy Tomasic got a three-hitter.

New Purchase

Mallette, recently purchased from Kansas City, was clipped for a lead-off triple by Sam Jethroe, but went on to pitch Newark to a 3-1 triumph over the league-leading Montreal Royals in the second game of a twin bill. The Royals won the opener 3-2 as Don Newcombe held the Bears to three hits.

Newcombe had a no-hitter until Joe Collins singled with one down in the sixth, then was knocked out of the box with two out in the seventh. Art Schallock came on to save the game.

In the only single contest, Syracuse defeated Rochester 6-4 in the hardest hitting game of the night.

Petes Defeated In Soccer By O'Hallorans

O'Hallorans gained two valuable league points at the Petes' expense, with a 5-3 verdict in the King Edward Park on Tuesday evening. Losers were minus two of their ace players, Whitnall and J. Byers. Hennessey played a brilliant game in goal for Petes.

Early Eldon Downer brought Chamberlain to his knees with a sizzling shot. E. Lane went right back again to centre across the goal where D. Downer slipped the ball past the custodian. At the other end, Hennessey made a spectacular save from Duffus, but he had to admit defeat a little later when Featherstone's bullet-like drive bulged the net for the equalizer. Then Petes drove hard into the O'Halloran area to make it 2-1 when Harold Payne shot the ball into an empty goal. A smashing drive by Duffus again put O'Hallorans ahead from the 10-yard line. Just before the interval. Featherstone evaded three men in a row to make the count 3-2 in favor of O'Halloran's.

On resuming, Petes forced the issue into their opponents' area to cause anxiety. Pyle relieved the presure upfield to Featherstone who dribbled his way into goal to finish with a terrific low-grounder. Again Petes took the initiative, but were missing their objective by inches. A faulty clearance by their defence resulted in a penalty kick being converted from the spot by Pyle. Scrimmages again held sway with Petes battling hard to get the scoring punch that reduced the score to 5-3 in favor of O'Hallorans.

Petes — J. Hennesey, goal; K. Downer and G. Foster, backs; J. Paterson, E. Downer and N. Lane, half-backs; H. Payne, L. Payne, Dalton Downer, Don Downer and E. Lane, forwards.

O'Hallorans — J. Chamberlain, goal; Art Downer and W. Dinesin, backs; D. Gray, H. Pyle and T. Scott, half-backs; C. B. Smart, A. O'Halloran, E. Duffus, A. Featherstone, and J. Seabrook, forwards; subs, P. Conners, W. Cribbis, and J. Croal.

Six U.S. Imports To Bolster Wildcat Team

By TOMMY MOORE.

HAMILTON, Aug. 25 (CP). — Hamilton Wildcats look to reinforcements from both Canadian and United States gridirons to bolster their high-scoring squad for their first campaign in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union.

Six American imports are expected to line up with the team coach Frank Gnup puts into the Big Four race. Other newcomers come from Toronto, Galt and Hamilton junior ranks.

The Wildcats, who played for years in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, open their first Big Four season against the Ottawa Right Riders at Ottawa Saturday September 4. They get their first competitive test at home August 28 in an exhibition game with Windsor Rockets of the ORFU. The Cats moved up into the Big Four earlier this year when the Hamilton Tigers withdrew. Subsequently, the Tigers replaced the Cats in the ORFU.

Gnup, whose emphasis on precision play won his charges the title of "mechanical men" in the last two seasons, has announced that he will run the squad from the bench this year.

Six Americans.

The six Americans will be chosen from seven now trying out. Two were members of the Wildcats in 1947 — Fred Gabriel of Niagara Falls, NY, a capable snapback, and Ed Rudinsky, an outside wing.

Most promising of the newcomers is triple-threat Jim Oldenburg, one of the best American booters seen around this city since the days of Johnny Ferraro. A great ball carrier, and an expert passer, he is a product of Canisius College, Buffalo.

Many of the top players from last year's team are back including fast Don Toms, place-kicking Bill Murmylyk, plunging Benny Dyack, brothers Gordon and Mel Lawson, Paul Peterson, booter Gordon Miller, Jimmy Stewart, Frank Moroz, Rip Martin, Gus Campbell, Ross and Elton Hamingway, outside Norman Maxwell, Bud Donald, Art Cousins, Doug McLennan, Frank O'Hara, Reg Bovaird, and Ken Martin. Halfback Bob Westlake will play in the first three games before going to St. Louis, Mo., to take a physical training course.

Batting—Vern Stephens, Red Sox, blasted his 27th home run with one on in the last half of the ninth inning to give Boston Red Sox a 9-8 victory over Cleveland and shove them into first place half a game over the Indians.

Pitching—Bob Chesnes, Pirates, allowed only four hits as Pittsburgh Pirates humbled Brooklyn Dodgers 9-1, to remain six games behind the first-place Boston Braves.

Dapper Jean Richard of Montreal, Canadian featherweight boxing champion, Tuesday night scored an easy 10-round decision over Teddy Swain of Toronto in a non-title bout at Montreal. Richard weighed 128¾ and Swain 127½.

In a preliminary fight, Oshawa's lanky welterweight Joe Cardinal looked impressive when he knocked out Rocky Brisebois of Montreal in the second round of their schedule five-rounder. Cardinal weighed 149¾; Brisebois 147¾.

Barbara Ann Scott, world skating queen, would "just love to go to school" in London, Ont., she said Tuesday during an unannounced visit to the University of Western Ontario. However, her appearances now that she is a professional, will prevent it, she said.

The 1949 Canadian Ladies' Open golf championship and the interprovincial team championships will be held at the Capilano Golf and Country Club, Vancouver, it was announced Tuesday at Riverside Golf Club, N.B., following a meeting of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union. No dates have been set for the two tourneys.

Marcel Cerdan, France's European middleweight champion, took off from Paris Tuesday for the United States to make a bid for the world's 160-pound crown. He is scheduled to meet middleweight champion Tony Zale in Jersey City, N.J., Sept. 21.

Roy Santsche, Sarnia Canadian Legion sports director, said the Legion baseball team will play its scheduled game Sunday despite protests from the district ministerial association against Sunday sports. Ministerial Association president, Rev. H. Wierega said the game, against a Port Huron, Mich., team, would lead to "wide open Sundays."

Ted Schroeder, Frankie Parker, Gardnar Mulloy and Billy Talbert were picked Tuesday in New York to defend the Davis Cup for the United States against Australia in the challenge round at Forest Hills, Sept. 4-6. The only surprise lay in the ignoring of Bob Falkenburg, all Californian who won this summer's Wimbledon championship. Schroeder and Parker will play in the singles and Mulloy and Talbert will team for the doubles.

Harry Kretschman of Hamilton Tuesday placed fourth in the North American clay target championship in the grand American trapshoot in Vandalia, O. He tied with five others for second place with 199 but in the shoot-off he placed fourth — best a Canadian has ever done in the marathon 16-yard classic.

At Toronto, Bill Trimlett of London, Ont., punched his way to a five-round split decision over Toronto's Billy Graham in a feature bout of the Diamond Boxing Club's show Tuesday night.

B-A Defeats Legionnaires To Sew Up Men's Series

B-A beat Legionnaires twice last night to sew up the City Softball League four-in-seven finals at two wins each. They clash again tonight in a twin bill at the Bowl, starting at seven. A big crowd last evening saw B-A edge out a 6-4 decision in the first fray and rollick to a 14-2 victory in the nightcap.

The opener was a good game with Ron Akers having a little mound margin on Bob Greenlaw, but it required a ninth-inning walk and Crowe's homer to gain the decision. The hitting and fielding were pretty even, with a catch by Burton a defensive feature and a snappy double-play by B-A pulling them out of a hole in the ninth. Blewett led B-A at bat with two for four as Crowe got two in five. Lewis led Legion with three in five and Harrison had two in four tries. The box score:

SECOND GAME

The last tilt was draggy and one-sided the last half. A six-run B-A outburst in the sixth clinched matters as Ken Guilfoyle pitched steady ball and had good backing. Dalton, Reid and Parsons all saw slab action for Legion and none fared well, nor did they get good support. A running catch early by White was the only defensive standout. B-A pounded out 15 hits, including three triples and two doubles. Burton led with three in five, but every batter got at least one safety. Parnell topped Legion with three for three and Dalton had three in five. The box score:

Petes Victors By 8 to 6 Against Bata

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 25.—(CP). — Peterborough defeated the Batawa shoemen in their last scheduled Central Ontario Baseball League game 8-6 Tuesday night in a game that was productive of four homers, three triples and a double.

Gunner Whitehill went the route for the Petes, allowing eight hits, striking out nine. Peacock for the shoemen was touched for ten clouts, three of them round-trippers. He was relieved by Bedard in the ninth after the Petes' bats had exploded in a four-run eighth inning barrage.

Bridgeman poled a three-run homer for the Batawans in a belated ninth inning rally. Edger, Foley and Mackness hit for the circuit for the Petes, with Kennedy getting a triple and double for the losers. About 1,200 saw the game.

Comes word of the Peterborough invitation men's doubles tennis tournament. To commence at one p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 4, at the Kawartha and Quaker courts. Entries limited to 32 teams at two bucks per, with a consolation round. Prizes for winners, runners-up and consolation. Entries will close on Sept. 3 and should be sent before then to R. Charlton, 159 Rubidge St., or phone him at 6884. Okay? Quite a few good racquet-wielders here and hereabouts, so no doubt this big tourney will have a full entry list and some keen tennis will result.

The info on football we received from Cobourg went like this: "Cobourg Galloping Ghosts, one-time Dominion intermediate ORFU champions, have withdrawn from the league. Reason for their decision are the complaints from other clubs that Cobourg is using too many imports. With a comparatively small population to draw from, Cobourg hasn't sufficient rugby material as compared with larger centres, and has to rely partly on imports." The Ghosts were grouped this year in ORFU senior "B" competition with Orillia, Oshawa and Peterborough. Personally, we don't see why Cobourg cannot be permitted as many imports as they desire, as in other years, and the same goes for any other squad in the group.

All-Stars And Petes

Dit Clapper's NHL All-Stars play the Petes an exhibition baseball game at 5.45 tomorrow (Thursday) evening in Riverside Park, proceeds for the local Kiwanis Club. The game is the annual challenge affair for the Moose Ecclestone Memorial Trophy, now held by the All-Stars. Latter players are busy now in Inter-County Loop playoffs but can make it Thursday, and a real crowd should be on deck. The NHL team includes such aces as: Schmidt, Meeker, Gallinger, Apps — at least, Syl has been invited — Henderson, Martin, Dumart, the Bauers, Archmabault, Herchenratter, Giffin, Bricker and others.

One of the brighter spots in the floodlight game at Riverside on Monday night was the mimicry of Umpire Cy Whatley by one of the bearded clowns of the House of David. Cy was a dignified umpire-in-chief and he has his own little mannerisms when calling 'em. This beared chap sneaked up behind him and imitated to perfection every hitch and move Whatley made for several minutes while the crowd chuckled heartily. Unable to see the plate over or around husky Cy, the guy got down on his knees and peeked through the umps' legs to call 'em! The Davids' clowning and powerful hitting helped make up for a long and one-sided exhibition.

Batawa Plays Kingston

According to word received this morning, Batawa and Kingston open their best-of-five COBL semi-final playoffs in Belleville tomorrow. Kingston beat Oshawa last night 5-4, while the Petes were winning 8-6 against the Shoemen in Belleville. Manager Ed Murphy had to play second and Bill Edger go in the field as the Petes were shorthanded, but Gunner Whitehill threw a steady brand of ball and had the punches by his teammates when needed. Murphy, Foley and Edger each had two hits, and Edger, Foley and Mackness belted out homers. And Peacock again hit Foley with a pitched ball—Stewart, too—but apparently there was no fight this time! And that's the COBL dope at the moment.

Another large crowd at the Bowl last night saw B-A turn back Legion twice to sew up the men's softball finals at two wins each. They go again tonight in a double-header. Last Thursday, Legion nosed out a close win in the opener and swept to a soft 14-2 victory in the nightcap. But last night, B-A reversed matters to eke out a close win in the first fray and then waltz to a 14-2 decision in the second. What'll happen tonight—well, it's anybody's guess. The B-A bunch have to go into OASA intermediate "A" playdowns this Thursday at six p.m. in Kingston, return being here Saturday night. So, someone had better take two this eve.

Crowe's Homer Did It

Bob Crowe's two-run homer did it in the 6-4 game in the ninth inning. A dandy duel with Akers and Greenlaw both going well. Lewis and Blewett led the hitters. Second struggle was one-sided and pokey. Guilfoyle was in commend all the way as his buddies hit hard and fielded well. Three Legion twirlers couldn't stop 'em. Burton and Parnell were top hitters, but all the B-A batters were in there collecting safe blows. An odd series the way they go, one team hot tonight but cold the next p.m. as the other team stars sizzling. B-A certainly showed their class last gloaming in both numbers. Tonight may settle it, weather being right.

Locos Humble Oshawa By 5-4

KINGSTON, Aug. 25. (CP)—A wild streak by pitcher Mike Michaels enabled Kingston Locos to score a run in the ninth inning to edge Oshawa 5-4 in a Central Ontario Baseball League game here Tuesday night. Locos' win eliminated Oshawa from the playoffs and left the Locos in the title hunt.

Although outhit 10 to 7, Kingston cashed in on every scoring opportunity. Oshawa tied the game in their half of the ninth when Romaniski doubled and raced home on pinch hitter Cook's single.

In their half of the last frame Locos cashed in on Michael's wildness to sew up the game. With one out Mike Cosgrove walked, Udall flied out and Tony Conner was hit by a pitched ball. Mulholland walked to fill the bases. Then Don MacGregor, who had gone hitless all evening, was hit by another pitch enabling Cosgrove to score the winning run.

Locals Hand Reverse To Huntsville

The Petes took a 17-11 OLA senior "B" triumph over Huntsville on the latter's floor last night to take a stronger grip on top spot in the standing as the schedule nears an end. It dropped Huntsville deeper into the fourth slot. A fair-sized crowd saw a rugged game in the gloomy arena used by the Huntsville lacrossers. The Petes were minus several regulars and tired after their stiff game the night before, but started strong and wound up with a dash to earn the duke. There was a lot of hard checking shown, and Kaye and Horton got the gate in match penalties for fighting in the first quarter.

The early drive by the Creighton crew gave them a start and they pretty well held their own in the middle heats, and finished stronger to earn it, but the visitors were plenty tired at the last whistle. Hill, Magee, Breakspear and Foote were prominent for the Petes, but all went well. Tyson, Jennings and Watte went best for Huntsville, who play here this Friday.

The teams:

Petes—Goal, Hill; defence, Magee and Horton; centre, E. Creighton; wings, R. Breakspear and Foote; rover, Connelly; alternates, Dundas, L. Vitarelli, D. Vitarelli, Gordon and Smith.

Huntsville—Goal, Tunney; defence, R. Gordon and Kaye; centre, Tyson; wings, Bond and Scriver; rover, V. Higgs; alternates, Jennings, C. Higgs, Watte, Krapok, Arbour and Middleton.

Kiwanis Grab First Over Oshawa

The local Kiwanis yanked out a 2-1 verdict over Oshawa Hunters in Oshawa last night to take the first game of their Lakeshore Junior Baseball League finals, likey a best-of-three affair. The return game will be played here Friday evening in Riverside Park, with proceeds going to Wimp Borland, who suffered a broken leg recently.

Jake Jaquith hurled four-hit ball and fanned eight in a neat mound performance, getting perfect support in the field. Brown of Oshawa also was stingy with hits, giving up but six as he whiffed three. The Hunters had two miscues. Estlick hit a homer in the third, while LaPlante doubled in the seventh and later scored on an infield out with the winning run. Menzies and Estlick led the hitters with two apiece.

Stephens Sparks Red Sox To Thrilling 9-8 Victory

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Vern (Little Slug) Stephens, pounding his way through his greatest year in big time baseball, is making a serious bid for the coveted most-valuable-player award as he strives to spark Boston Red Sox to an American-league pennant.

The timely-hitting shortstop sent the Sox back into first place Tuesday night when he poled a ninth-inning home run with one mate aboard to give Boston a thrilling 9-8 victory over Cleveland Indians. The triumph pushed hte Sox half a game in front of the Indians.

After dropping down to fourth, the Red Sox have roared back with 11 victories in their last 13 games, including their last five in a row.

This easily is Stephens' best of seven years in the majors. Yesterday's home run was his 27th, only one behind Joe DiMaggio's league leading total of 28. His two runs batted in gave him 114 for the season to put him ahead of the Yankee Clipper for the league lead.

The game at Boston was a see-saw affairs. Boston assumed a 1-0 lead in the second inning, but Cleveland went ahead 3-1 in the top of the third. The Red Sox tied the score in their half, knocking out Satchel Paige with a two-run rally. Cleveland recaptured the lead in the foutrh and held a 6-4 advantage until the eighth when the Red Sox again tied it up with a pair of runs.

Increase Lead

Billy Southworth's Boston Braves, meanwhile, increased their first-place hold in the National League to 3½ games over St. Louis, defeating the Cardinals 9-3 at St. Louis. The victory, Boston's fourth in a row, also put the Braves four games ahead of the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers, who were whipped 9-1 by the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

Johnny Sain had an easy time winning his 16th game as the Braves pounded Harry Brecheen and three relievers for 18 hits. Tommy Holmes led the assault with four safeties.

Ralph Kiner walloped his 33rd home run to help the Pirates subdue the Dodgers. Bob Chesnes, rookie right-hander, permitted only four hits in registering his 10th victory against three defeats. Jackie Robinson, Dodger second baseman, was banished from the game for the first time in his major league career for heckling umpire Butch Henline. Catcher Bruce Edwards and Coach Clyde Sukeforth also were ejected.

4th Place Tie

New York Giants remained in a virtual fourth-place tie with Pittsburgh, six games off the pace, by defeating the last-place Cubs 7-4 in Chicago.

The third-place New York Yankees failed to better their two-game deficit in the American League when they were nosed out 6-5 by the cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox at the Yankee Stadium.

Detroit Tigers drove Lou Brissie from the mound with a six-run attack in the third inning and went on to defeat the skidding Athletics 7-4 in Philadelphia. It was the fourth straight setback for the A's.

St. Louis Browns handed Washington its ninth straight defeat, beating the Senators 6-5 in Washington.

Legality Of Bylaw Questioned As Gas Station Case Opens

"First round" of the court battle over the city's bylaw regulating hours of operation for Peterborough's garages was fought on Tuesday. For more than three hours, sparks flew around the police court as Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, heard evidence for the prosecution. The hearing was adjourned to Aug. 31.

The case being heard is a charge against John Russelle, garage operator of Water St. North, alleging that he kept his station open and contained sale of gasoline to the public between 8 and 9.30 p.m. on July 24—contrary to the bylaw. Another charge against Russelle and similar charges against three other garage operators were adjourned to the same date.

Alex Elliott, KC, special prosecutor, first called Peterborough City Clerk E. A. Outram. The clerk was subjected to more than an hour of cross-examination by W. J. Arthur Fair, counsel for the charged garagemen. Heated exchanges, raised voices and at times a combined babble, as both counsel and witness tried to talk at once, marked the evidence.

Mr. Outram gave an outline of the factors which had led up to the passage of the contentious bylaw by the City Council. In May of this year, he said, petitions were received from garage operators of the city asking that the bylaw (set forth by provincial statute) should be enacted to apply to Peterborough. The petitions, as required, were signed by more than three-quarters of the total number of retail gasoline operators in the city.

Following receipt of the petitions, continued the clerk, he had posted a notice in The Examiner advising the public that the petitions and a list of all applicable operators were available for inspection at the city offices. Objections to any names there could be filed. He said that only one minor objection had been received.

Lost On Second Reading

On June 21, with a full Council meeting, the bylaw was first introduced before the city fathers. At that meeting, he explained, the Council had given first reading to the bylaw. Council then went into committee - of - the - whole for second reading. The bylaw was declared lost on the second reading vote.

In giving evidence about this meeting, much of the dispute between Mr. Fair and the witness developed. The wording of exactly what had happened to the bylaw worked down to a disagreement on terms. Mr. Outram said: "The bylaw was read the first time by the Council, and was lost on the second reading in committee . . ."

"That means it was defeated, rejected?" asked Mr. Fair.

The city clerk repeated his wording.

This process went the rounds of questions and counter-questions several times. Mr. Elliott objected strenuously to the framing of Mr. Fair's questions in cross-examination.

Magistrate Philp urged Mr. Fair "not to try to mislead the witness," when, at one point, the witness refused to answer a question which Mr. Fair would not re-word and would not permit the witness to re-word before answering.

The clerk also gave evidence on several committee meetings of the Council dealing with the gas bylaw before it came to the first vote. He recalled that Mr. Fair had spoken against the bylaw at one meeting, objecting as a citizen that it was an invasion of private rights.

At another meeting, the accused Russelle had also spoken against the bylaw, said the witness. He recalled Mr. Russelle as saying at that time that the movement to introduce the closing regulations was an organized effort to interfere with his business. He had also said that if the bylaw were passed, he would not permit it to rule what hours his establishment would be opened or closed, said the clerk.

Throughout the hearing both counsel made numerous objections. At one point Mr. Elliott complained to the magistrate, "My learned friend has a habit of mumbling and grumbling away to himself there . . . he should conduct himself more properly."

Both counsel took exception to interuptions of their questioning by the other.

Told Passing Mandatory

Following the defeat of the bylaw on second reading at the June 21 meeting, said Mr. Outram, the Council was advised by the Ontario Retail Garage Operators' Association that, under provincial law, it was mandatory for the Council to pass the bylaw if the required percentage of operators in the city petitioned in its favor. The letter, which was introduced as an exhibit, said that the association would take court action against the city unless the bylaw was enacted.

During Mr. Fair's questioning, the city clerk also reviewed the objections to the bylaw which had been raised before its passing in the editorials of The Examiner.

Call Special Meeting

Because of the letter pointing out that Council must pass the bylaw, a special meeting was called for July 12 to deal with the question. The city clerk told Mr. Fair that no public notice or notice to the garage operators had been sent about this meeting. It was not required by law, in this case, he said.

At that meeting, the city solicitor, W. F. Huycke, advised Council that legally they would have to pass the bylaw, as three-quarters of the effected garage operators had signed petitions for it. Thus with nine members of 11 present, the second and third readings were given the bylaw.

PC John Morrow of the city police department testified briefly as to the actual offence alleged in the charge before the court. He said that he had seen several sales of gasoline at the Russelle station on the evening of July 24, at times at which the station should have been closed, according to the bylaw. The station had been open for business.

The police officer admitted that Russelle, who operates an all-night emergency service, had been of "great assistance' to the city police force on various occasions.

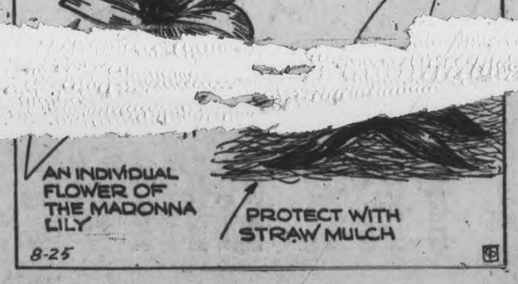
Plant Madonna Lilies Now



By DEAN HALLIDAY

The Madonna lily, Lillium candidum, is the most beloved of the white lilies. It is frequently planted among delphinium and serves as a perfect foil for their beauty.

A showy display of delicately fragrant flowers is produced in June and July. The flower spikes are three to four feet high. Each spike carries a cluster of pure white waxy bells, one of which is illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

The Madonna lily differs in its likes and dislikes from most other lilies. While it is easy to grown, its habits should be understood. It succeeds in almost any soil or location. It grows best when direct rays of the sun can reach the soil which covers it.

Madonna lilies should be planted as early as the bulbs can be obtained, now if they are available. This will give the bulbs time to make good root growth before winter sets in.

The top of the bulbs should be covered with only two inches of soil. Each should be laid in a slanting position to prevent water from lodging under the scales and causing rot. Plant each one on a handful of sharp sand.

Shortly after the bulbs are planted new growth will show. The basal tufted leaves remain on the ground over winter in an evergreen state, as illustrated. Care should be taken not to injure.

The Madonna lily is hary but it should be protected over winter to prevent alternate freezing and thawing. After the ground has frozen, place a straw mulch over the plants, as illustrated. Remove the mulching material gradually in the Spring.

Engine Trouble Downs Plane

PICKERING, Aug. 25—(CP)—Maj.-Gen. G. H. (Ham) Roberts, 57, commander of the Second Division Canadian Forces in the Dieppe raid, was a passenger in a light plane that made a forced landing near here Tuesday.

Gen. Roberts was flying with Hugh F. Macfarlane, 23, of St. Catharines, in a float-equipped Tiger Moth. The emergency landing was made because of engine trouble during a 175-mile flight from the Toronto island airport to Kingston, where Gen. Roberts was once stationed.

The two men made the 25-mile trip back to Toronto by automobile after the pilot, formerly with the Atlantic Ferry Command, telephoned his father, Brigadier R. A. Macfarlane in Toronto.

The plane broke a pontoon support in the landing on Lake Ontario and was towed to shore by Stanley Mann, who owns a section of the beach, in his motorboat.

Officers in Kingston said they were unaware of Gen. Roberts' visit and did not know if it was of an official nature. The General could not be reached in Toronto Tuesday night.

London Shows Some Of Old Pre-War Glitter

By STUART UNDERHILL.

LONDON, Aug. 25 — (CP). — London has recaptured some of its old Imperial glitter this summer as visitors from scores of countries walk its streets, often in colorful native costumes.

There are Indian students, the girls in flowing, pastel-shaded saris — sometimes raised high enough to show substantial Western footwear. There are Burmese in colored silk jackets and pillbox hats, and other Orientals in billowing pantaloons and carefully coiled turbans.

Dark-skinned Africans, usually in European garb, attract less notice from blase Londoners than Americans, whose wide-brimmed hats, hand-painted neckties, and bright jackets call for stares and comment.

Bix American Influx

There are probably more Americans in London this summer than at any time since before the war.

The Scandinavians are the most serious of the visitors. Big, fair-haired lads, often in shorts, may be seen travelling about the town in groups, stopping at points of interest to hear a lecture from their guides.

Get Respectful Sympathy

Londoners were prepared for a measure of condescension from their foreign visitors, and have been quite gratified to find a respectful sympathy instead. There are the usual groans about the British diet and climate, but most of the tourists have gone away saying nice hings.

If they get into print at home with their compliments the London press is quick to echo them. Night after night the gossip columns reproduce paragraphs of this sort—the French journalist who was "inspired" by the way Britain had tackled organization of the Olympic Games, or the American woman "enchanted" by everything in England from its policemen to its country lanes.

Remodel Old Home

MILLBROOK, Aug. 25—(ENS) —The former Vance homestead on King St. is being completely remodelled by the present owner, R. Palmer. This is one of the fine old homes of the community, dating back almost to pioneer days, when large families were the rule.

The late Wm. Vance, original owner, was for 50 years postmaster in the village, and for part of that time carried on a grocery business as well.

Only three members of his family are now living: Mrs. Annie Elliott, Fort Erie, Mrs. Laura Colling, Peterborough, and Miss Lottie Vance, Toronto.

Miss Nellie Hetherington, who this month reached her 93rd birthday, was for over 20 years employed in the post office during Mr. Vance's time.

Claims Drover Was Giving Money Away

TORONTO, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Two Peterborough women arrested Tuesday in Toronto on a charge of theft of $850 from a Campbellford drover told police the felt "they might as well take the money as someone else."

They said the man was giving the money away Monday and offered a roll of bills to them. The drover today told Peterborough police he was robbed. Officers there notified Toronto police, who arrested the pair.

The amount of money involved is in dispute, police said. The drover reported $940 was taken while the women said they had only $850.

Britain Is Getting Ready For Big Recruiting Drive

By STUART UNDERHILL.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Britain is getting read for an all-out recruiting campaign for its Territorial Army—its citizen soldeirs who turn out for weekly drills and two weeks' annual camp.

Field-Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, says that without these men there could be no national army and no national security.

Full-dress recruiting begins in mid-October. The object is to raise the Territorial Army's present strength of 5,000 to 150,000.

Urgent Need

The need of building up the Territorials has become more urgent due to the slum in recruiting for the Regular Army. Despite conscription for [illegible], the intake is said to be running about [illegible] necessary for a trained force of 200,000 by next spring.

The War Office plans call for the Territorials as a well-trained force to be ready to step into any defensive breach alongside the Regular Army. The Territorials attend 30 drills yearly and are trained to handle modern weapons and think along the lines of modern warfare.

"Every man and woman in Britain should understand that if the Territorial Army fails, their homes, their freedom, and they way of life would be in the gravest danger if we were attacked," Lord Montgomery said in an address at Blackpool.

"Exercise Britannia"

He is anxious to get the Territorials built up in time for the Regular Army's annual war manoeuvres, "Exercise Britannia" [illegible] over the whole question of civil defence in Britain in the atomic age. Representatives from the Dominions and from British cities which were badly bombed in the war will be invited to attend.

Civil Defence Doctrine

Lord Montgomery told service chiefs, at a recent conference, that their job is "to try to evolve a civil defence doctrine and technique which will link the civil organization with the military one in this great matter of defence. We can not have two things in watertight compartments."

The Territorials will draw pay while on duty and also other concessions.

Older People Holding Down Jobs In Britain

By JAMES McCOOK.

LONDON, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Industry once counted men of more than 65 and women of more than 60 as in the sere and yellow leaf, but to-day they are appreciated like the flowers of spring.

Labor Ministry records, admittedly incomplete, indicate the increased contribution made by the elderly. In mid 1939, men of 65 and over in employment for which their employers had to make unemployment insurance contributions, numbered 320,000.

In 1945, when the all-out war effort was under way, this total had risen to 600,000, and to-day it is 456,000. In the same period women of more than 60 in employment rose from 63,000 to 118,000 and now stands at 104,000.

By continuing at work they help to offset the effects of a higher proportion of aged in Britain's population. In 1939, there were 1,774,000 men of more than 65, and in 1947 2,132,000. Women of more than 60 increased from 3,539,000 to 4,244,000. Together, these men and women of pensionable age totalled 6,376,000 — a substantial part of the total United Kingdom population of 50,274,000.

The elderly have not drifted to easy jobs. The Labor Ministry said about 1,000 men of pensionable age still are at sea on merchant ships. At least 54,000 men are engaged in agriculture as employees, and they make up 3.3 per cent of total male employees in manufacturing industries.

Discussing the percentage of elderly workers in some industries such as textiles, the Labor Ministry indicated their importance in maintaining the production schedule.

"It will be appreciated that a high percentage does not necessarily indicate an abnormally high rate of retention of elderly workers; it may well be due to a serious shortage of workers in the younger age groups."

Plan 46 Homes In Ashburnham

Following the successful completion of the Arndon subdivision on Arndon Avenue and St. Catherines Street where all houses have been sold and nearly all now occupied, Donald E. Ephgrave and Arnold Steele, contractors, have commenced a new housing project on Caddy and Beverly Streets in East City. Priority for the purchase of these homes is given to veterans of World War II.

This new subdivision, to be known as "Cadverly," is being built under the Integrated Housing Plan which is a Government-planned financial system available under the National Housing Act and administered by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The 46 new homes are to be built on full size concrete basements and are equipped with hot air heating.

Plans show a selection of homes with two styles of four-room bungalows and two styles of five-room bungalows. Brick veneer exteriors will be used on all houses.

Raps Indifference To NS Unemployment

TRURO, N.S., Aug. 25—(CP)—The "apparent" indifference of both provincial and federal governents to the fact that nearly 10,000 workers are unemployed in Nova Scotia is "shocking", President Freeman Jenkins of the United Mine Workers (CCL) District 26, said in his annual report today.

Mr. Jenkins told delegates to the union's annual convention the solution to mass and chronci unemployment in Nova Scotia in the steel, coal and shipbuilding industries—in those industries owned by Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

"These are the industries that directly and indirectly support half the province's population. It is in these large scale industries that jobs must be created. And the required expansion in steel must be based on export trade. This last point is vital.

British Pacifist Minister Dead

READING, Berks, England, Aug. 25 — (AP) — Rev. Leyton Richard, 60, retired congregational minister who once accused the war office of "outlawing the Sermon on the Mount," died Sunday at his home near here.

Long an exponent of "Christian pacifism" on the platform and in his writings, he visited North America many times as a lecturer on international affairs. Born in Sheffield, England, he spent his boyhood in Grand Rapids, Mich., and received his early education there.

His pacifist activities came to the notice of the authorities during the first world war. "Who's Who," in its biography of him notes, presumably in his own phraseology, that he was "fined £100 under the Defence of the Realm Act for refusing to mix christianity and war."

In 1929 Richards, addressing an assembly of the Congregational Union, asserted: "The publication of the Sermon on the Mount printed separately during the late war was an offence under the Dedence of the Real Act. The war office knew that war and the Sermon on the Mount could not exist together. Therefore, it outlawed the Sermon on the Mount."

A TIMELY JOB is a face-lifting of the city's market hall clock tower; it was painted the last time in 1939. Painters Jack Devlin and "Hap" Houlihan seem, from the street level, to be as nonchalant about their work as the ordinary citizen would be about painting his kitchen floor. But there is more to it than that and much higher. That small speck alongside the top dome is a man.

2 Motorcycles Bicycle Crash 5 People Hurt

One bicycle rider and four persons on motorcycles were injured Tuesday night in an accident on George St., north of Romaine. Most seriously hurt was Charles King of 187 Lake St., who is in Civic Hospital with a severe arm fracture ,a fractured ankle and cuts on the forehead. He was knocked from his bicycle by one of the motorcycles.

The motorcyclists were Kenneth Heard, 84½ Hunter St. West, and Roy Harrison, 220 Brock St. Riding on the machines as passengers were the wives of the two men. All four received less serious injuries.

The accident happened at about eight o'clock Tuesday evening, when the two machines were coming north on George St. They told police that a car, driving near the centre of the street, forced them to veer out of its path. The Heard machine struck King, who was cycling south on George.

Harrison swerved his machine sharply to avoid piling up with the Heard vehicle. It skidded, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Harrison.

King was attended by Dr. Charles Howes, who had him taken by ambulance to hospital.

Mrs. Harrison had scratches on her leg, arm, hip and hands, received when the motorcycle skidded. Harrison was scratched on the elbow and shoulder.

Heard had a badly scraped ankle and Mrs. Heard had a scratched hip.

The lights on Heard's machine were damaged. More extensive was the damage to Harrison's cycle, which damaged the fender, lights, crashguard, footboard and tank.

Wanted–A Wife

HASTINGS, Aug. 25—(ENS)—Wanted: one wife.

Not just anybody for a wife, though. An advertiser in last week's issue of Hastings weekly newspaper specifically sets out what he wants in the way of a wife.

These are the requirements (a) sunny disposition; (b) not too fat; (c) definitely NOT "the new look" addict; (d) an ability to make "good soup".

And, those on the inside add, the advertiser is "one of Hastings most eligible bachelors."

Weight Of Ice Bulges Big Warehouse

Poor insulation in the Sanitary Ice Co. ice house, located on George St. N., has caused the walls of the building to bulge. The wall where the new part of the structure joins with the old has been sprung outward for about four inches.

The large storage room containing originally 650 tons of ice is being rapidly emptied and stout cedar posts are helping to support the north and east walls of the building.

Hugh Davis, owner, said that loss of ice due to this accidental exposure has been "slight." He stated that the company had lots of ice on hand — more than had been anticipated at this time of year.

"We haven't had very much hot weather this summer, consequently sales have been fewer than usual."

According to Mr. Davis the poor insulation allowed the heat to enter and start the ice melting at the bottom. This caused the ice to topple against the east wall of the building and bulge it out at the weakest point which was at the joint.

Mercury Climbs 90 At Noon Hottest Of Year

The temperature stood at 90 today by 12 noon, and being one hour ahead of sun time, it is expected that the mercury will hit 94 by press time and certainly set a record for the year.

If Peterborough people want to know why current weather is so humid they will have to look into the forecaster's long range view of thing weatherwise in the northern part of the province. It's hot all over, even at the mouth of the Wenusk River where it empties into Hudson Bay. Just west of that, he says, a moving storm is being followed by a flow of cold Arctic air which will lower temperatures in its path across the northern section into Quebec but will not affect southern portions and hot humid weather is expected to continue.

The last rain in the Peterborough district was last Thursday which did not cool but left rising temperatures instead, 80 degrees on the 20th, 85 on the 21st, 84 on the 22nd and the last two days, 87 each. We should not complain too much for during the last two days a year ago, the thermometer stood at 88 and 90. The only cool place in the province is Moosonee at 75, on Tuesday.

The hot weather has made a sharp upswing in sales of bottled beverages and ice cream and it is estimated that more than 50 people are busy on 16-hour shifts to slake the thirst of Peterborough citizens. If some beverage plants have to curtail production it is only due to the shortage of cases and bottles; there is a good supply of syrups.

One dairy reports ice cream sales lower this year due to the late arrival of summer heat but the last five days have kept employees busy 16 hours a day. Not all this production is for district consumption, by any means, for the company is busy with large orders for the Canadian National Exhibiton.

When you walk down the street and the sweat rolls down your neck, soaking into your shirt, think about the man in the turbine room of the CGE boiler house. While you wal kin 85-degree heat, he dissolved in heat up to 124 degrees, the temperature in the turbine room today. Then there's the man on the steam press in the drycleaners, who works in 112 degrees. Third on the list and not much cooler is any one of the workers in the CGE heat treat, where the mercury rose today to 110.

Beef Prices Lower; Pork Goes Up

Beef and hog prices are seesawing right now, and hogs are on the high end. A drop in beef prices has taken effect in several Peterborough stores, but others report they expect no decrease until Thursday or Friday.

For the past two weeks, housewives worried as they saw both the price of pork and beef going up. Beef prices jumped because of the lifting of the embargo on cattle shipments to the US. However, hopeful Canadian sellers did not find a ready market south of the border.

One butcher said today he believed packers, buying at high prices, could not cut them until their stock of high-priced beef were back to pre-embargo-lifting levels.

Hog prices went up again yesterday for the second time in a week. Yesterday they were increased by 50 cents a hundredweight, following a similar increase of a week ago. Hogs are now selling for $33.40 a hundredweight, compared to $32.40 little more than a week ago.

A packing house official said today that last fall farmers decided to discontinue breeding hogs until prices advanced, and that the resulting shortage of hogs this summer was a major reason for the price rise. Moreover, he added there has been an increase in demand.

Exhibition Gets Underway At Two o'Clock Thursday Dep. Min. Agriculture Here

Dr. G. S. H. Barton, CMG, Federal Deputy Minister of Agriculture, will officially open Peterborough's Exhibition on Thursday at 2 p.m., but for the public the gates will be swung back in the morning when the ticket-selling and taking staff goes to work. Probabilities promise a continuation of today's weather, hottest of a comparatively cool summer, and Thursday night should bring out one of the top crowds of this show.

Hugh Stewart and his associate directors are hoping that their plans for reviving the Exhibition after eight years' eclipse by the war will be immediately successful. Remnants of the military camp, construction of which was begun eight years ago this week, are only a few surviving buildings on the fringe, and the big drill hall in the centre of the grounds.

Dr. Barton will roll back the years when he addresses the grandstand crowd Thursday afternoon. At the same time judging will be in progress all over the grounds. The only classes of livestock that will be left for Friday are Jersey and Ayrshire cattle, all the swine, and the Percheron and Belgian horses in the heavy draft and commercial and delivery classes.

The Junior Farmers will be in action early, the boys at the Exhibition Park and the girls at the market hall. They are converging from eight counties for the day in Peterborough which ends with the presentation of prizes at the dinner in the Empress Hotel as guests of Canada Packers. The program for the boys comprises: livestock judging, identification contest, and information contest. The judging embraces beef and dairy cattle, sheep, swine and heavy horses.

Six Vaudeville Acts

Gordon Hancock has lined up a grandstand program of six vaudeville features, and there is one horse race, trot and pace, for the first afternoon. The Thursday night crowd will find themselves judge and jury on night racing in Peterborough. Two events are carded for each night. The track has been floodlighted, the new portable, starting gate will be in use and the big event of the session will be the $500 free for all Saturday night. Each race consists of three heats. There is a 2.15 class trot Thursday afternoon that should bring out a good field.

"Our display building, the former drill hall, is a show in itself," G. A. Gillespie, manager, said this morning. "It is really a fine sight. The flowers and women's work are being shown in the old manufacturers building. Livestock was arriving this morning, bu the main stream of entries will be seen tonight.

We have not increased the admission charges. They are just where they were when the war broke out and our grounds were offered to the government of Canada for a military park. I am sure we have all the makings of a good show. It is now up to the public."

Price Ceiling On Scrap Causes Shortage

Steelmen in Hamilton are saying that they expect curtailment of steel production in the very near future if the supply of scrap metal does not improve. You may not think this has anything to do with Peterborough but there are a few sizeable scrap firms in the city whose executives know the reason for all this.

Irving Moldaver, manager of Peterborough Metal and Waste, put the whole thing in a nut shell when he stated that although the price of steel has risen, ceiling prices still remain on scrap and soaring wages make it impossible for local firms to collect it and break even. Dealer H. Albert had the same explanation and oddly enough summer holidays have a lot to do with short supply of tin plate. His firm press and bale tin cans from the city incinerator but with so many people away elsewhere on vacations, there has been a shortage of one to two tons per day of empties.

Mayor Discusses City Finances

Mayor Ovens discussed in a radio talk over CHEX Tuesday evening the council's recent financial survey of prospective expenditures contemplated as possible undertakings during the next three years.

His Worship explained that the additional amount of $2,000,000 required for the completion of Civic Hospital was based on the original plans for 265 beds, boiler house and laundry, nurses residence and furnishings of the institution. Financing will include grants from both the federal and provincial governments which have not yet been determined, and it is expected that the county council will consider in September an increase in their contribution on the basis of the higher cost of construction.

Mayor Ovens stressed the necessity of proceedings with the completion of the sewage disposal plant, estimated cost of which is $750,000. It has been placed second to the hospital in the list of capital expenditures, but is not likely to be undertaken before next year.

The new city hall will account for something like $300,000 for site and furnishings, an outlay that could be liquidated by revenues from the municipality owned properties in the Simcoe-Charlotte Streets block. Money would be available either from sale or long term rentals.

The laying of new sewers and pavements is spread over three years in the survey, and the filling of the Park St., south, drain is one of the council's projects which has been claiming attention as a result of the broad housing occupation of that section of the city.

Mayor Ovens' discussion was a general outline of the council's estimating of the civic works that are demanding decision. If all of the expenditure was authorized the cost to the ratepayers would be approximately 7¾c a day on a $3,000 assessment.

A meeting of representatives of the federation with officials of the university is expected to be held Wednesday, Sept 8, to arrange for staff and final details of preparing the first units of the course.

Suspend Work On Market Roof

Trent Valley Roofing Co. suspended work today on their job of putting a new top covering on the market building, but it wasn't the 90 in the shade that grounded the Plewman staff. They moved off for the day to another chore that was probably just about as torrid as the market spot.

The Examiner's thermometer at noon was up to 93 degrees on the south side of Hunter St. where the sun doesn't get direct play on its registering column.

Wanted—Two Lights

Residents of Maniece Ave., while not numerous would appreciate it very much if the city would erect two street lights on this road. Maniece Ave. has always been in the city and several people living in that section east of the canal walk home at night. They claim that two lights would make a big difference in their trips, as there is no sidewalk or footpath.

Big Shoe Profit Outlined To Prices Board

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (CP) — On of Canada's biggest shoe manufacturers testified before the prices commission Tuesday that his firm's net profit on a pair of shoes had risen 13.1 cents since 1939, although the percentage of profit dropped.

H. H. Gibaut, president of the John Ritchie Co., of Quebec, said under questioning by commission counsel H. A. Dyde that the 1939 net profit was 16.2 cents a pair. It was 29.3 cents in 1948. The percentage of profit, however, was 5.7 in the earlier year and five this year.

The firm produced 662,745 pairs of shoes in its last fiscal year and Mr. Gibaut said the companys' sales are increasing, although total shoe production in Canada has declined in the last two years.

An earlier witness, O'Neil O'Higgins, a supply office for the Prices Board, testified the the average price of men's shoes rose from $6.78 to $11.91 this year.

Questioned about prices and profits, Mr. Gibaut said his company had held prices during the period of de-control. Later on, when leather prices rose, the company had not added the full replacement cost to its selling price. Instead, it had averaged out the value of its inventories, balancing lower-priced against higher-priced leather, and had based its price increases on this calculation.

Mr. Gibaut said the firm found good quality, plain calf shoes harder to sell than fancier lines which were becoming more popular. He said the fancy shoes, for which demand was growing, were expensive but that it was difficult to get people to pay more for plain calf shoes.

Crop Prospects Seem Good Across Canada

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Canada's prospects for a bountiful 1948 crop are good, the Bureau of Statistics said Tuesday.

Best news comes from the Prairies, where recent fine weather has increased crop possibilities in most sections, and from southern Ontario, with indications of a near-record crop.

Quebec's commercial crops—especially potatoes, flax and tobacco—are in good condition. The province's over-all picture indicates better-than-average production.

Frequent showers during the last two weeks have cut harvesting progress in Manitoba. South of the main Canadian Pacific Railway line, more than half the cereal crops are cut or swathed, with 10 to 20 per cent threshed in some districts. Cereal crops are of high quality; sunflower, corn and sugar bets also show promise of an excellent crop.

Good Quality

About 25 per cent of Saskatchewan wheat has been cut. Favorable weather for filling during recent weeks has resulted in good to excellent quality of all Saskatchewan grains. Harvesting of fall rye is nearing completion, with outturns better than anticipated Sawfly and grasshopper damage is general over southern, western and central districts.

Alberta crops, although late, are maturing satisfactorily under favorable weather conditions Harvesting of spring grains should be general next week. The rye harvest is well advanced, with satisfactory out-turns reported. Grasshoppers continue to damage cerea crops and flax; sawfly infestation in early-sown wheat is considerable.

Barnes, Tuesday night upheld in a BBC debate his rejection of miracles and the physical ressurrection of Jesus as outlined in his book, "The Rise of Christianity." Coal Miners Study Clauses

TRURO, N.S., Aug. 25—(CP).—Representatives of 13,000 Maritime soft coal miners today got down to the laborious task of clause by clause study of 152 resolutions placed before the annual convention of the United Mine Workers (CCL) District 26.

It took all Tuesday to pass three resolutions and it will be at least a week before 74 delegates have woven through all of them.

Most important of the resolutions will deal with wages, a co-operative medical scheme for miners, a pension plan and the future of the Glace Bay Gazette, Canada's only labor daily newspaper.

The three resolutions passed dealt with unemployment and means of combating it.

The union said it was the responsibility of federal and provincial governments to provide fully adequate unemployment benefits to enable the jobless to keep themselves "in health and decency."

It suggested that the 56-weeks limit on time when when a person may draw unemployment benefits be abolished and that he continue to draw funds until he found a job or the government found one for him.

Raps Beauty Contests

VANCOUVER, Aug. 25.—(CP).—Archbishop William Duke of Vancouver's Roman Catholic Archdiocese Tuesday attacked the "rapidly-growing practice of semi-nude beauty contests for every imaginable objective." In an address to the sixth national convention of the Canadian Federation of Convent Alumnae, he said beauty contests were barred to Roman Catholic women "who realize in conscience" the danger that "they could be occasions of sin to others."

Movie Stars Enjoy Picking Worst Pictures

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25 (AP.—Film stars seem to enjoy naming their worst pictures.

The psychology boys might call it mental relief. Or the idea of "I said it and I'm glad." Whatever it is, most of the picture people have delighted in telling the AP Hollywood Forum what movie they were worst in.

Here's the latest compilation:

Alan Ladd: "'Blue Dahlia' was pretty awful. We made up the story as we went along. I never did figure it out."

Evelyn Keyes: "'Before I Die' was my worst picture. What was wrong with it? Me."

Donna Reed: "Oh, I've had so many. 'Mokey' with Dan Dailey at MGM was probably the worst. I was 20 at the time, playing a mean stepmother. When I saw the finished picture in the projection room I was so embarrassed that I walked out half way through it."

Bill Holden: "My worst was 'Young and Willing.' I suppose I dislike it most because it followed me all over the world during my army tour."

Never Be a Pal

Robert Ryan: "There was one caleld 'Trail Street,' in which I was a pal of the hero's. I fought like hell, made love like hell, and appeared in endless footage, but it didn't mean a thing. Moral: Never be a pal to a hero."

Lizabeth Scott: "My worst was 'Dead Reckoning.' I never did understand the character. Bogie was a baby. He was the only thing that made it possible to get through the picture."

James Stewart: "The one I'd like most to forget is 'The Last Gangster.' I had to wear a moustache and I refused to grow one myself. It was a lot of trouble to put one on every day and it tickled when I talked. The preview audience agreed with me about the moustache. They were laughing at it in my most dramatic scene."

Virginia Mayo: "I like all my pictures. They have all been good. I have been lucky. I want to remember them all."

Red Policies Prevent Lawful Peace Moves

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 25—(AP).—John Foster Dulles declared Tuesday Communist policies make "it impossible to create at once a universal organization of peace through law."

Nevertheless, the Communist problem cannot be solved by trying to crush Communism by force, Dulles, Republican foreign policy adviser in the United States, said in an address prepared for the Assembly of the World Council of Churches. In any analysis of the world situation, he said, "Christian responsibility emerges as an inescapable fact.

"The Soviet regime is not a regime of peace and, indeed, it does not purport to be.

"It is inevitable that orthodox Communism should reject peaceful ways, except as a matter of temporary expediency, because it rejects the moral premises that alone make possible the permanent organization of peace."

MRS. IVA TOGURI D'AQUINO, 32, alleged Tokyo Rose of Pacific war fame, as she left her home in Tokyo shortly after her arrest was ordered by U.S. Attorney-General Tom Clark, who announced from Washington that she will be returned to the U.S. for trial on charges of treason.

LOUISE BEULAH OVERELL, 19-year-old heiress, has announced her engagement to Robert Cannon, 28-year-old Los Angelees policeman and former air force gunner instructor. Cannon says the wedding will take place some time after next May. The Overell girl was acquitted of the murder of her parents aboard their yacht moored in Newport harbor, Cal., last year, after a sensational trial in which she was a co-defendant with her former fiance, George (Bud) Gollum. That romance went a-glimmering when they were arrested for the murder.

World Churchmen Stirred By East-West Controversy

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 25 (AP). The East-West conflict has brought the World Council of Churches to its feet. What are the churches going to do about it?

Delegates have listened for three days to the introductory speeches concluding the first part of this Church Assembly. They have heard agreement of the futility of war and the need for peace. Conflicting East and West views have been voiced.

To-day for practical work of the Assembly, the delegates have been divided into four main groups concerned with the Church's "message to major problems in the contemporary world." The group concerned with "the church and international disorder" has emerged as the most important of these.

"Unquestionably the most intense thought and vigorous discussion will centre upon the so-called East-West confrontation," said Dr. Henry Pitney Van Dusen, president of the Faculty of Union Theological Seminary in New York, speaking for the Assembly.

"Here members will seek both for fuller critical understanding of the issues and for steps which the churches might take toward easing the problem."

Conflicting Points

Two conflicting points of view were expressed Tuesday before this group, with delegates intently listening to John Foster Dulles of the United States for the West, and Prof. Joseph L. Hromadka of Czechoslovakia for the East.

Dulles challenged Communism and declared the Soviet Communist regime was not for peace and "does no purport to be." Hrokadka declared the world is witnessing the end of Western supremacy because of "anxiety about the advancing social transformations under the leadership of the Soviet Union."

At a press conference following his Assembly address. Hrokadka was challenged on his address. A man who said he was from Latvia declared there was no religious freedom left in his country, absorbed by Russia eight years ago, and predicted the same would happen in Czechoslovakia, now Communist-ruled.

Hrokadka said he could speak only for to-day, but that if tomorrow brought a Communist clamp-down on freedom he would fight it. In a later interview he said no restrictions have been placed on his work in the church since the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

War Gives Holland Industrial Peace

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Germany's wartime concentration camps did Holland one favor—they gave her a 'remarkable' degree of post-war industrial peace, Dr. J. H. van Royen, said today.

The Netherlands ambassador, just back from a visit to his homeland, told a press conference representatives of management and labor came to agreements in the camps that have played a vital role in an "encouraging nationl reconstruction."

He also said 8,000 Netherlands men, women and children reached Canada within the last year and that 16,000 would come out in the next year.

The secret wartime labor agreements were being expanded in legislative form to embrace al commodities and industries. Boads were being established to handle questions that arose.

Dr. van Royen said his country had cleared away war rubble, had restored hundreds of thousands of partly-damaged homes, 90 per cent of the 40,000 that were severely damaged and was working on those that were completely destroyed. All dikes were repaired a year after armistice.

Laugh At Rumors

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (CP). — Defence Headquarters all but laughed on Tuesday at published reports that Canadian Army intelligence had "proof" that Russia was massing aircraft in Siberia within striking distance of Canada. The reports said Defence Minister Claxton gave that information to James Forrestal, United States Defence Secretary, during their talks here last week.

U.S. Explorers Hampered By Regulations

EDMONTON, Aug 25 — (CP). — A party of United States explorers has returned from Canada's northland, enthusiastic about the scenic attractions of famed Nahanni Valley, but rueful about Canadian government regulations that hampered their photographic expedition.

The nine-man group, calling themselves Nahanni Exploration Inc. set out for Canada last May, planning a trip by air to the mysterious valley near the Yukon border of the Northwest Territories and hoping to bring back a pictorial record of the little-known area to attract U.S. tourists.

Unsuccessful in their efforts to hire a Canadian pilot to take them to the valley, the explorers bought an airplane in the United States, and equipped it with floats for the trip.

The catch, as explained by James Murphy, spokesman for the group, was that Canadian government regulations prevented them from bringing the plane across the border.

Murphy said the air transport board told him it considered the venture a commercial enterprise and insisted that a licensed Canadian pilot would have to do the flying.

Six Go Home

The delay caused by negotiations with Ottawa forced six members of the party to return home. The others — Mr. Murphy and photographers Norman Thomas, and Leonard Prehm of Albuquerque, N.M. hired a boat at Fort Nelson, BC. and made the trip to the Nahanni by water, piloted by North River veteran Dick Turner, made the trip without incident, bucking 120 miles up the river in 365 hours and racing downstream in twelve.

The photographers shot 3,500 feet of film and expressed delight with the scenery of the valley, once rumored to be the haunt of a tribe of fierce head hunters who preyed on unwary prospectors.

No Butter Imports

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (CP). — An authoritative government spokesman said Tuesday night that Canada's butter supply likely will not be augmented this winter by any great importation from other countries. The official said the government still was keeping careful watch over Canada's butter situation and it appeared unlikely that there will be any great shortage until next March "if housewives don't panic and start hoarding."

'TWEEN-SEASON DARK PRINT—Refreshingly dark and cool frock to get into right now, as a change from late summer's slightly frazzled and boringly pale clothes, is shown you above. It looks fine with a shady hat now, will get on well with early felt hats, and still be pretty and appropriate beneath a little fur jacket in cool October weather. The printed fabric is rayon, a new type as soft and fine as silk, and with a sturdiness which makes for long life through much wear and many cleanings.

Important Tips To Jam Makers

Timely points to remember and always use when making jam or jelly.

1. Jam and jelly glasses or jars (and tin covers if used) must be thoroughly washed, scaled and drained just before starting the cooking.

2. Remember to use only new paraffin to seal your jams and jellies. Old paraffin may be used only if carefully washed in hot water after use and stored in an air-tight container.

3. Paraffin should be melted in a small pot placed in a pan of boiling water. This should be done while the jelly or jam is cooking. Never heat the paraffin in a container over direct heat.

4. A half-inch space at the top of each jar should be left for the paraffin covering.

5. The paraffin covering, to the depth of ⅛ inch, should be placed on each jar of jam and jelly immediately after it has been filled.

6. When air-tight fruit jars for jams are used the paraffin may be omitted and the batch sealed as soon as it is poured. Invert the jars for ten minutes after sealing.

7. All jars of jam and jelly should be stored in a cool, dry place, which is free from mildew or dust.

Time to Plan Jam and Jelly Cupboard Shelf

As glistening and thrilling as gems from the Far East—and just as precious come Winter—is a captivating array of jams and jellies on the cupboard shelf. So—with the fruit season now upon us, the thrifty homemaker must plan her jam and jelly making activities at once. It's wise economy, particularly in these days of soaring food costs, to be prepared to "do down" the fresh fruits when they are at their best—and cheapest.

In days gone by, hard earned experience was necessary for successful jam making. Today, with commercial pectin, even the newest bride and inexperienced cooks need have no fears about the art of making fine jellies, jams, conserves and marmalades. Those who can trust their good judgment to know when the mixture has been boiled long enough to "jell" often prefer to cling to the long-boil method, but with added pectin it is possible to have an exact boiling time and be assured of "just right" consistency in every batch.

Pectin recipes call for a larger amount of sugar per cup of fruit than the old method for jams and jellies, but actually there is no more sugar per pound of finished product because there is 50 per cent greater yield due to the shorter cooking time. Another outstanding advantage of the newer method is the increased variety of fruits that will "jell." Any fruit, even the low-pectin, hard-to-set kinds like strawberries, raspberries and peaches can be used. Too, you can start with fruit at its peak of ripeness, perfect in color and rich flavor, rather than slightly under-ripe as the old-fashioned recipes specify.

It is an accepted rule that results are better if fruit is done in small batches, making up the same recipe a number of times if necessary, rather than doubling or tripling it. A fact that many makers like to know is that jams and jellies do not all set immediately. Some recipes have been worked out so that they do not set firmly during the first day, and the slower setting provides a more tender and delicate product.

Every housewife has her own family favorites among the jams and jellies which she will certainly plan to schedule into the summer time-table. But, consideration of the following list of "what goes with what" might bring the decision that winter menus might be more interesting with a few additional varieties in the cupboard.

Apple jelly, serve with roast goose.

Currant jelly, serve with roast chicken or turkey, broiled lamb chops or breaded veal cutlets; or use with peanut butter for sandwiches.

Mint Jelly, serve with roast lamb.

Grape jelly, serve with roast pork or use in jelly roll.

Orange jelly, serve with roast duck.

Pepper relish, serve with cold tongue or baked ham.

Pineapple jelly, serve with roast pork.

Raspberry jam, perfect with cream cheese for sandwiches.

Her full-length veil fell from a cap style crown with orange blossoms and she carried American Beauty roses. Miss Betty Murphy of Peterborough in a pale blue crepe de chine gown with matching hat and carrying pink and white roses, was her bridesmaid.

Little Carolyn Smith of Ingersoll, niece of the groom, was flower girl, attired in a long pink organdy dress and carried an old fashioned nosegay of sweet peas, roses and baby's breath.

Mr. David Lemon was the groomsman and ushers were Robert Semple, brother of the groom, and Hugh Campbell of Dartford.

DOROTHY DIX

Pleasure-Mad Fiancee Hindrance To Ambition

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to be married to a girl whom I love very much. Am studying hard to be a success in my profession, but my girl resents the time I give to it. All she thinks of is pleasure, pleasure, pleasure. She takes no interest whatsoever in my future. Just wants to enjoy herself now.

Dorothy Dix

When we have such different ideas and aspirations, do you think we will be able to get along together after we are married?

DESPERATE

ANSWER: I do not think that an ambitious man has a chance of happiness if he marries a pleasure-maid woman who has no ambitions, and who merely wants to have a good time, she pulls him down into the pit with her.

She kills his faith in himself by always prophesying failure and minimizing his talent. She throws every obstacle in his way. She nags him about the time he gives to his work, and weeps foolish, jealous tears because he doesn't think more of her than he does of his career.

Gives Up

So at last, disheartened and discouraged, he gives it up and does that thing that will bring the quickest money and that gives him time to take her about to night clubs and dances and the movies.

My advice to you is to pass this girl up for a woman who has the same aims and aspirations that you have if you want to be happy and make a success of marriage and of life. "Like to like" is a good motto in picking out a wife.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am married to a man who has no earning capacity. He works only a few days a week and when he collects his money he throws most of it away on foolishness. The only way we have been able to manage at all is because I have a few dollars that I inherited from an aunt.

He is a good man otherwise and easy to get along with, but we have two children and I want them to have a decent education. Do you think I should leave my husband, or go out and get a job myself?

PERPLEXED.

ANSWER: The woman who finds that she is married to a man who won't work and support his family may as well face the truth that she has to be breadwinner, and the sooner she gets at it the better. Then she can do one or the other of two things. She can kick her no-account husband out of the door, or she can keep him around as a domestic pet.

In your particular case it seems to me that your duty to your children far outweighs your obligation to your husband. He has reneged on his obligation as husband and father, so you have a perfect right to ignore him if you care to. Besides, you can do nothing for him, and you can do everything for your children, by giving them their chance in the world.

Perhaps when your husband sees that you are determined to take drastic steps in order to do for your children what he should do, a spark of manhood will assert itself and he will go to work and do his part toward his family.

Women Police Recruited In War Against Prostitution

By ERIC KENNEDY

BRUSSELS, Aug. 25 (Reuters).—As part of a drive to stamp out prostitution, Belgium will shortly recruit women into a special police force.

A bill aimed at ending prostitution, allowed in Belgium since the beginning of the 17th century, has been approved by the Belgian Chamber of Deputies and is shortly to be debated by the Senate.

An outspoken report on the moral and health aspects of prostitution has been distributed to the senators. Its author is Mme. Marie Spaak, herself a senator and mother of Paul Henri Spaak, Belgian prime minister.

"Until now, in studying the problem of prostitution, we have been wrong in considering the woman alone as the guilty individual," she writes.

"Prostitution is a disgrace, but a disgrace not only touching upon the women but upon those who exploit it, those who profit by it and, above all, upon those who frequent prostitutes.

"It is a misery of the whole human race, it is a social distress and should be treated as such."

Mme. Spaak said the 17th century parliamentarians made a great mistake in legalizing "controlled" prostitution.

"'Their excuse was the belief tthat in passing such legislation they were greatly helping in the battle against the ravages of venereal disease. Events have proved them wrong."

Less Venereal Disease

Since the suppression of controlled prostitution in France, she said, the incidence of venereal disease had shown a "considerable" decline, dropping from five per cent to one per cent of the population. During the period when prostitution was allowed, 140,000 French citizens died each year of sphilis.

Mme Spaak acknowledged that in Belgium during the last 20 years there has been a considerable decrease in the number of registered prostitutes who, under Belgian law, must carry a specially-stamped identity card and be medically-examined every two days.

But, she said, there has been a considerable increase in the number unregistered "semi-prostitutes"—women who work during the day in stores, factories and offices and turn to the boulevards at night to increase their income. In Brussels alone there were 1,800 "registered" prostitutes, but the police had 30,000 "dossiers" relating to women proved guilty of illegal prostitution.

Mme Spaak said medical examination of prostitutes is no guard against the spread of venereal disease. An even greater danger was the rising army of "semi-prostitutes." The number of cases of syphilis registered in Belgium had increased from 330 in 1941 to 3,230 in 1947.

Some fear has been expressed that, with prostitution outlawed, the "legal" prostituters will join the "semi-professional" ranks. The present bill, therefore, contains a clause empowering municipal authorities to keep watch on "areas and persons giving themselves over to debauchery and to take action against them."

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, August 26

The benefic and surprising auguries continue to surcharge current events, already grounded in new grooves of progress and public recognition.

Brilliant ideas, keen and quick grasp of unusual openings go far in promoting new projects.

The shrewd and sagacious manipulation of exceptional opportunities is bound to increase assets, credit, standing, but will, as well, find happy reactions on the domestic, social and affectional life.

For The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find it to be good advice to "strike while the iron is hot" since the opportunity for swift grasp of fresh openings should be enlarged by astute thinking, and versatility. Those concern career, credit, prestige in a business sense but carry social, domestic and romantic gratifications, with happiness and enjoyment crowning "fast work."

A child born on this day is richly endowed with versatility, keen mentality, energy for quick grasp of opportunities. And these with adventure and happiness of purely personal appeal.

LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS

For thousands of years, lighthouses have provided guidance for ships at sea. The most famous, the lighthouse on the island of Pharos off Alexandria, Egypt, built centuries before the birth of Christ, was a wonder of the ancient world. In the minds of mariners, especially, lighthouses came to represent divine assistance. The lighthouse symbol is prominent among seamen's memorials.

Plan To Remove Landing Hazard

TORONTO, Aug. 25 (CP)—Ontario Lands and Forests Department experts are working on a plan to remove the hazards involved in landing aircraft on calm water.

Pilots coming in for a landing on unruffled Northern lakes are unable to judge their height. Under the direction of Prof. K. B. Jackson of the Physics Department of the University of Toronto, experts are ironing kinks out of a device which may solve the problem.

Preliminary tests were staged with an invention which sent back eachoes from the lake's surface and plans now underway to eliminate motor noises.

Other suggestions included one to mount a shot gun on the undercarriage so that a round could be fired into the lake as the aircraft prepared to land. This idea was abandoned when it was felt an accidental discharge might wound occupants of small craft. Forestry officials said it was essential the water be broken ahead of the plane. They ruled out a suggestion that the pilot could trail a weighted line.

Druggist Fined

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Aug. 25—(CP).—Charles A. Brown, West Saint John druggist, was fined a total of $7,827 Monday after he pleaded guilty to eight charges of violating the War Income Tax Act. The biggest single fine, $5,328, resulted from a charge that between Jan. 1, 1945, and June 29, 1946, Brown altered his books and records for 1945 to evade taxes.

Lodges Honor Dead At Cemetery Service

HAVELOCK, Aug. 25—(ENS)—Royal Lodge IOOF No. 286 and Dorcas Rebekah Lodge No. 98 held their annual decoration service at Maple Grove cemetery on Sunday evening with Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Knox Presbyterian Church as guest speaker.

The parade left the lodge rooms led by the Campbellford Brass Band under the leadership of Donald Bennett. At the cemetery a loud speaking system had been installed for the service.

Robert Sayers officiated as chairman and read the names of 68 deceased Oddfellows, 17 of whom are buried in cemeteries at distant points and for whom a plot was decorated at Maple Grove.

Flowers were also placed on the soldiers' plot.

Mrs. William Harris, VNG, read the names of the Rebekah Lodge of 22 deceased members and a plot was decorated for six who are buried in other cemeteries. A poem was read by the Noble Grand, Miss Essie McQuigge.

Visitors were present from Kingston, Peterborough and Campbellford.

Build Big Plants Across Poland

WARSAW, Aug. 25 — (AP) — Russia is blueprinting plans for building huge industrial plants in Poland with accent on steel.

She's taking a big hand in the development of Poland's "little Ruhr" in the lower Silesian area which this country absorbed from eastern Germany.

Henryk Rozanski, director of the treaty division of the ministry of industry and commerce, recently revealed plans for "carrying out by the Soviet Union of projects of all the great industrial plants which are to be built in Poland, as well as supplying investment equipment for such plants."

All of this is to be done under the five-year trade pact which Poland signed with Russia early in 1948. In addition to sending Poland just about everything she needs to get on her industrial feet once again, Russia is loaning the Poles $450,000,000.

One of the projects in which they are showing considerable interest is the construction of huge Russian-equipped steel mills along the Gliwice (Gleiwitz) Canal in lower Silesia, which until the end of the Second World War was a part of eastern Germany.

These mills, expected to start operating within two or three years, are designed to double Poland's best pre-war production of 1,500,000 tons of steel.

Callahan Family Renews Old Ties

DOWNEYVILLE, Aug. 25 — (ENS).—A get-together of "old timers" was held recently at the home of T. J. Morrissey for members of the Callahan family who are visiting friends in this locality. Cards and dancing were enjoyed and a lunch served by Mrs. Morrissey and her assistants.

Albert Callahan, his wife and son Danny, his sister Lila (Mrs. Coty), his cousin Naemi Callahan (Mrs. E. Cook) all motored to Downeyville from Seattle to Vancouver.

Albert Callahan left Downeyville 42 years ago and his lived in Nabraska, Kansas and Colorado. In 1910 he moved to Vancouver, where he worked in the logging and trucking business and for the past few years has operated a bicycle shop. He was born in Downeyville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Callahan, who operated a carriage and blacksmith shop in the village years ago. His father, after leaving Downeyville, worked at Lindsay and helped construct the first auto threshing machine that went out West.

His sister, Mrs. Coty, was also born at Downeyville and 38 years ago the family moved away.

A brother, James, lives in Detroit; another brother, Charles, lives in Vancouver, and William in Lindsay.

THOMAS HEADEN, deputy chief of the U.S. Military Government's Information Control Division in Berlin, was arrested recently in Potsdamer Platz by Soviet military ploice. Headen is shown as a U.S. army captain in 1943. He was released Monday by the Russians and returned to the U.S. zone accompanied by American army police.

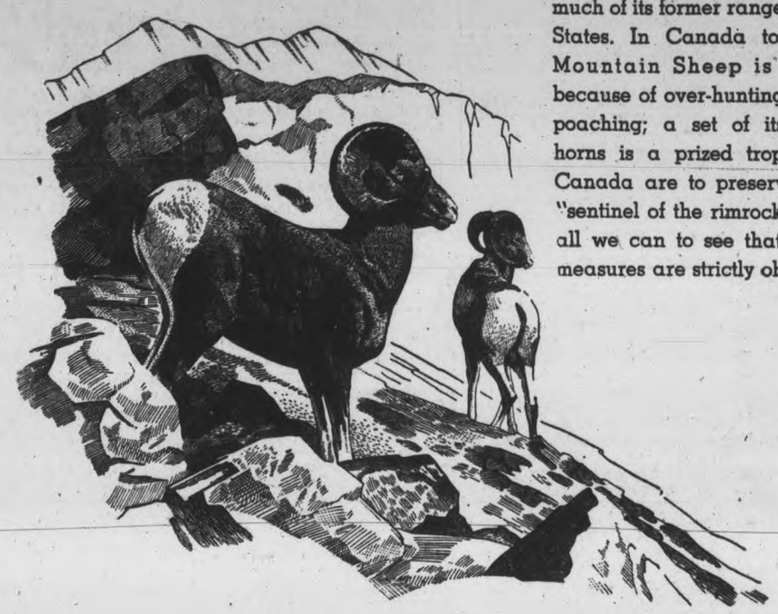
SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

The next to disappear?



The Big-horn has been hunted out of much of its former range in the United States. In Canada too, the Rocky Mountain Sheep is decreasing because of over-hunting and outright poaching; a set of its magnificent horns is a prized trophy. If we in Canada are to preserve this stately "sentinel of the rimrock" we must do all we can to see that conservation measures are strictly observed.

The Carolina Paroquet was slaughtered just for its brightly coloured feathers. It is now extinct, a bitter lesson to us to preserve what we can of our vanishing wildlife.

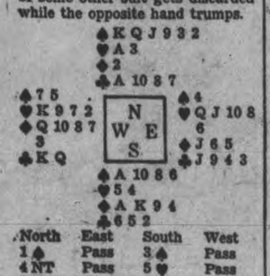
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

NOT WELL UNDERSTOOD

PRACTICALLY everybody who has played the game a while knows the working principle of the throw-in play whereby an opponent is obliged to lead up to a tenace such as an ace-queen or a guarded single honor such as a protected king. The other basic type of lead-throwing end-play is not so well understood except among quite good bridgemen. It requires no tenace-position honors at all. It occurs when an opponent is obliged to lead, against a suit contract, a card of some suit in which both the declarer and dummy are blank, each of those hands containing at least one trump. On the lead, a losing card of some other suit gets discarded while the opposite hand trumps.



North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
6 ♠

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable).

North would have been tempted to try 7-Spades if South had shown more than one king in response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps. But, learning that two kings were out against him, he decided that making small slam would probably be tough enough. He was right.

He won the heart Q with the A, then planned to eliminate all red cards from both of his holdings. His idea was that he then would throw one defender into the lead with a club and hope that the winner of that trick would have nothing left but red cards. The order of tricks, after the heart A, brought the Diamond 2 to the A, diamond K for discard of the heart 3, heart 5 ruffed by a high spade, spade 3 to the A, diamond 4 ruffed high, spade 9 to the 10, diamond 9 ruffed high to take out the last of his red cards, then the club A.

When he then led the club 8, his hope was that the winner of that could not return another club, but would have to lead a red card. He picked the heart K, North ruffed that in his own hand while discarding the dummy's last club, the 6. The spade 8 and 6 then accounted for the last two tricks.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable).

If South bids 1-Spade, West 2-Hearts, North 2-Spades, East 3-Hearts, South doubles and North 3-Spades, what is the soundest defense?

New, Independent State Has Sprung Up In France

PARIS, Aug. 25 — (AP).—The new, independent state of "Unosia" is being born in the capital of France.

The tiny, sovereign state will cover 10 acres of land and will number about 4,000 inhabitants.

This makes it even smaller than Andorra, Monaco or Liechtenstein.

But Unosia will be far more powerful and far more polygot. Its members will come from 58 other sovereign nations.

Unosia has the reputation of being the most pacific of states, but just in case it will be guarded by at least a 50-man police force and a 20-man fire department.

It may perhaps even be guarded by anti-aircraft guns.

A passport will be needed to enter Unosia.

Once within its sacred precincts even criminals can benefit — temporarily—by immunity from French police.

Unosia is to be the fall home of the United Nations, which will sit in general session from Sept. 21 to December.

In French Museum

Unosia will be located in a French museum, in the Trocadero section of Paris, looking out upon the Eiffel Tower.

France is spending $3,300,000 to equip the museum with everything from four-mile-an-hour elevators to banks, hospitals, a radio station and a 3,000-seat restaurant.

Tiny as the state is, it will have a telephone exchange equivalent to that of city of 100,000 persons.

If you want, you could wander 12 miles from its conference hall to the secretariat offices.

Its printing presses can turn out 10,000 booklets daily.

Since May, 3,000 men have been working day and night to create Unosia.

At midnight, on Sept. 21, it will become the world's capital.

Its citizens will be 1,500 delegates, 1,500 functionaries and 1,200 press and radio reporters.

The concern of Unosia will be the destines of the 2,000,000,000 persons in the vast spaces beyond its 10 acres.

$300,000 Fire Destroys Store

VANCOUVER, Aug. 25—(CP)—Two men today were held by police for questioning in connection with the $300,000 fire which late Monday night destroyed a three-storey business building in downtown Vancouver.

No charges have yet been laid.

The three-alarm fire broke out shortly before 11 p.m. PDT and early today firemen still were pouring tons of water into the hollowed brick structure.

One fireman was overcome by smoke and four other suffered minor face and hand burns.

Shoe stocks destroyed by the flames and smoke were valued at $100,000, Manager George Campbell said, and the building was assessed at $150,000. A dress company, which occupied the third floor, suffered an estimated $50,000 loss.

Hard Coal Supplies Scarce In Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 25—(CP).—Hard coal supplies in Greater Toronto are scarce although there is plenty of soft coal, E. R. Lockyer, secretary of the Greater Toronto Fuel Dealers' Association, said today.

Whether district houses using hard coal fuel would be hard hit next winter was still a question, he said.

"It is a bit early to tell," Mr. Lockyer said, "but little anthracite is being received here now."

Fuel oil supplies, however, remain about the same as last winter. A spokesman for several oil companies said former customers will be supplied but dealers were declining to service new accounts.

King Embarrassed

LONDON, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Persistent rumors of a pending engagement between 18-year-old Princess Margaret and the Marquess of Blanford are said to have caused "embarrassment and annoyance" to members of the Royal Family. Friends say the King and Queen regard the rumors as an intrusion upon the private life of the Princess. The general belief in Buckingham Palace circles is that the engagement of the Princess is not to be expected for a long time to come.

May Replace Penny Bank

WINDSOR, Ont. — (CP). — Windsor board of education will apply to the Ontario department of education for permission to try out a new school banking system to replace the provincial penny bank scheme which has been discontinued.

Rob Bank of $7,000

VANCOUVER, Aug. 25—(CP)—Three holdup men eluded a police cordon Monday and slipped away with loot unofficially estimated at $7,000 from the Broadway branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Police, who were expecting a bank robbery somewhere after theft Sunday night of a red automobile, attributed the raid to the same gang that has made four successful hauls since December. Previous robberies netted $20,000.

RED MOB STORMS CITY HALL IN BERLIN

Ontario Must Sweat It Out For Two More Days; Weathermen See No Relief

Heat Wave An Import From Southern US
Toronto Hottest Spot In Canada;
250 Collapse At Ottawa Exhibition

By The Canadian Press

The weather men say residents of central Canada will have to sweat it out for two more days. They see little relief from the stifling weather which Wednesday forced writhing sleepers to move their bedclothes into the nearest park and sent thousands scurrying to beaches. In Toronto where the mercury climbed to 101 degrees Wednesday 94 degrees was recorded at noon today—just one degree cooler than at noon Wednesday. Weather experts forecast Toronto temperatures would probably reach 96 today.

Thirsty, sticky Ontarians Wednesday drank more water and took more baths than ever before. The pumping station at Oshawa pumped 4,533,000 gallons of water compared with the highest amount ever pumped previously — 4,394,000 gallons on Sept. 10, 1947. Water consumption in Toronto reached an all-time high of 144,460,000 gallons.

High yesterday at Peterborough was 96 degrees, and at noon today 89 degrees.

At least one factory on the outskirts of Guelph closed for lack of water pressure. The city fathers have issued regulations restricting the use of water for sprinkling lawns and gardens.

The weathermen say the heat wave is an American import. It is caused by hot dry air blowing up from the South and Central United States.

The economists point out, however, it is not the ill wind that blows nobody good.

Housewives, confronted with hot weather menu problems are buying less perishable food such as eggs and meat, and as a result prices of these commodities dropped to-day on Toronto markets. Eggs dropped three to five cents a dozen. Farmers removed their cattle from the Livestock Market Wednesday as buyers with an eye on slackening retail trade, eased off on purchases and the prices dropped.

Torontonians left their jackets at home after the Malton weather bureau pointedly ignored any mention of respite for southern Ontario. The early morning forecast merely noted that "relief from this sweltering heat came to the northernmost regions of the province Wednesday in the form of cooler air from the Pacific ocean."

So it dawned as another clear, hot and humid day throughout southern Ontario, with thermom-

Israel Accuses Arabs Of 52 Truce Violations

JERUSALEM, Aug. 26.—(AP).—The Israeli military governor of Jerusalem, Bernard Joseph, accused the Arabs today of 52 truce violations.

He made the charges to John I. MacDonald, United States consul-general, now chairman of the Consulaar Truce Commission.

The 52 incidents included "sniping, fire from automatic weapons, shelling and concentrated attacks," he said. They occurred in the northern and southern outskirts of Jerusalem, the Deir Abutor quarter near the railway station, on Mt. Zion, and in other sections, an Israeli army release asserted.

Another Israel army announcement said "enemy shelling and sniping continued in various parts of Jerusalem during the last 24 hours."

The communique said Arab six-pounders shelled the new gate and Mea Shearim area. No casualty was reported.

An Israeli army bulletin said Egyptian troops tried to advance across no-man's-land toward a Jewish suburb. Israeli troops drove them back, the bulletin added.

It also said hand grenades were thrown from Arab positions within the old city walls at Jewish troops holding the Mount Zion area.

Jewish positions in the area of the new gate also were subjected to fire from automatic weapons and artillery, the bulletin said.

Legion Provides Guard Of Honor

PORT HOPE, Aug. 26 — (ENS). — This afternoon at 4.45 the Earl and Countess Mountbatten will arrive at Port Hope on the C.P.R. train where they will be met by the Hon. Vincent and Mrs. Massey of Canton, north of here, and will stay overnight at Batterwood, the beautiful country estate of the Masseys. Friday morning, early they will leave for Toronto.

A special Legion guard of honor from Port Hope will meet the train and Mayor Roland Jex will also greet the Mountbattens. The Earl and Countess will be taken for a short drive around the town before proceeding to the Massey estate. The Hon. Vincent Massey told the Examiner Wednesday night that it was a very informal visit and that after the brief overnight stay his guests would proceed on to Toronto.

Large-Scale Battle Raging Near Rangoon

RANGOON, Aug. 26 — (AP)— Scattered reports said to-day Hmawbi, 30 miles from Rangoon, was the scene of a large-scale battle Wednesday.

Earlier reports said the rebels had laid a road block at Hmawbi in an attempt to ring Rangoon and cut it off from hinterland. Government casualties were not disclosed.

The government said the rebels were in full flight from the Irrawaddy district in Mid-Western Burma, pursued by loyal troops, who had split the rebels into two groups.

Dayton Man Shot On Trip

Police Hold Daughter And Father's Friend

KIMBALL, Neb., Aug. 26 (AP).—Word was awaited from Canadian officials today in the search for John A. McComas, 52, of Dayton, O.

Gustav A. Wiegner, 24, who accompanied McComas and his daughter on a trip to Alaska, told a story here of the accidental shooting of the Dayton man in British Columbia, County Attorney Kenneth C. Fritzler said.

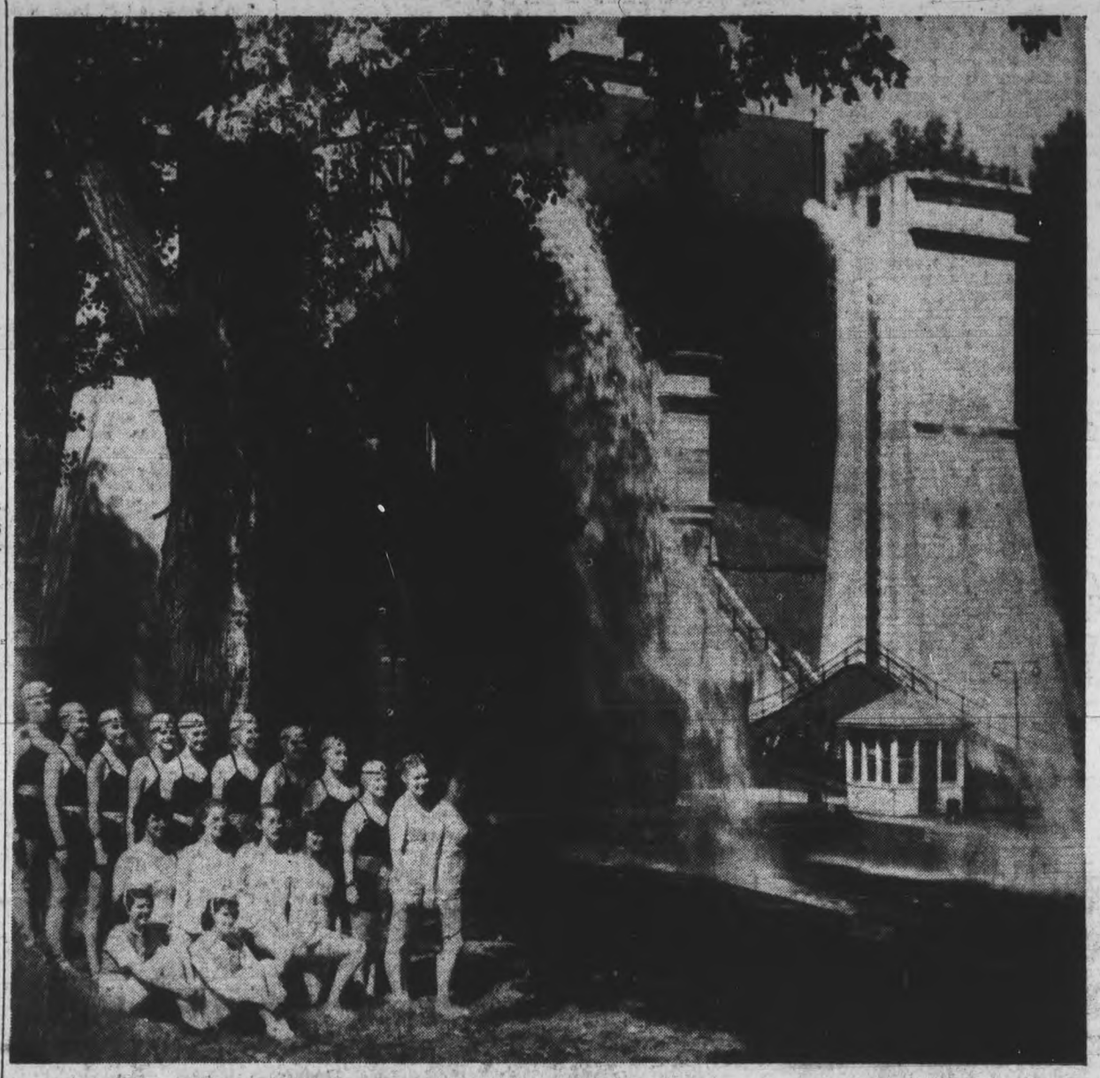
Fritzler said Wiegner was being held without charge pending word from Canada on the outcome of a search for McComas' body.

McComas' daughter, blonde, 13-year-old Louise, was taken into custody along with Wiegner at Bushnell, Neb. Fritzler said she was being held for Ohio juvenile authorities.

Slender, bespectacled Wiegner reiterated his story of the accidental shooting of McComas during an afternoon of questioning yesterday, the county attorney said.

Wiegner described how McComas, who was standing about two feet in front of him and to his left, stepped in the line of fire as he shot at a squirrel, Fritzler said.

"We became scared and pulled out," Wiegner was quoted.



INTERNATIONAL ORNAMENTAL SWIMMERS of the famous Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club left the city Wednesday evening to compete in a continent-wide meet at Des Moines, Iowa. Ask Mounties Find Man Who Kidnapped Son

KIRKLAND LAKE, Aug. 26—(CP)—RCMP were asked today to join in the search for George Murnaghan, 36, of St. James, Man., on a charge of kidnapping his two-year-old son.

Murnaghan, alias Ripley and McDougall, is believed to be somewhere in the Northern Ontario mining and timber area.

Police said he is wanted for removing from Manitoba his son George Lewis Murnaghan, contrary to a court order which permitted him to see the child 24 hours each week but forbade either he or his wife from removing the child from the province. They said Murnaghan flew to Montreal with the boy.

Police are enquiring at convents in Northern Ontario and Quebec in the belief that Murnaghan may have sent the child to one of them.

A veteran of the Canadian Provost Corps, Murnaghan was stationed in Montreal during the recent war. Police said he is a hockey player and may seek a berth on one of the Northern Ontario teams.

Big Lottery Raid Staged In Buffalo

BUFFALO, Aug. 26 — (AP).—Five places were raided Wednesday by police and nine persons arrested in what Inspector Arthur J. Haunt of anti-gambling squad called the "largest lotery raid in Buffalo's history."

A gambling establishment, a printing office, and two telephone service centres were raided simultaneously. Later police entered a butcher shop and seized about 100,000 lottery slips.

The eight men and one woman arrested were charged with contriving or assisting in contriving to a lottery, or bookmaking. Some face more than one charge, Haun said.

More than 100 persons were "chased out" of the gambling place, Haun said. Telephones, betting sheets and bets were seized.

Jumped to Escape—Teacher

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP).—Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina declared Wednesday she jumped from a third-floor window of the Russian Consulate Aug. 12 to escape Soviet persecution which had "destroyed" her life. From her hospital bed, the 52-year-old Russian teacher told reporters she had made up her mind long before she came to the United States she was going to quit her homeland for good.

A few hours after the interview, in which Mrs. Kasenkina spoke directly to reporters for the first time since her jump, Soviet Vice-Consul Zot I. Chepurnykh sailed aboard a freighter for Russia.

"I am going home," said Chepurnykh, "and there is no country in the world like home."

His superior, Consul-General Jacob M. Lomakin, stripped of his credentials Wednesday by President Truman, has booked passage to leave Saturday.

The Consulate itself has been ordered closed by Moscow because of the United States' action against Lomakin.

Mrs Kasenkina said Lomakin and Soviet Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin had "told me what to say" during an earlier interview at the Consulate.

At the time, Lomakin said he had "rescued" her from an anti-Communist White-Russian camp near New York City to which, he said, the teacher had been "kipnapped."

Actually, Mrs. Kasenkina said Wednesday, "they arrested me,"

Yorkshire Boar Only Victim From Heat At Exhibiton

Heat that hung heavily in the livestock barns at the Exhibition Wednesday night caused discomfort to the animals that were bedded down for the rest of the week's stay, and their ring appearance today for judging. The only casualty was a Yorkshire boar owned by W. F. Corzier of Port Perry.

Some of the cattle were treated to hose baths followed by rubdowns by attendants.

All the barn space was occupied with the evening arrivals of exhibits. Even the new building accommodation, used for the first time, had scant spare room left at 10 p.m. The cattle barn that was rushed to completion this week received twelve Guernseys from Fraserdale Farm, Concord, owned by Jack Fraser, Toronto retail merchant, showing here for the first time. Alongside them were seven other Guersneys belonging to Jack Stewart of Shadybrook Farm, No. 7 Highway, east of Peterborough.

Holsteins were most numerous in the cattle section of the show Peterborough breeders brought in many of their best stock, presum-

Blast Panics Subway Riders

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP).—Scores of subway riders were thrown into near panic today when a mysterious package, carried by an unidentified man, exploded and burst into flames on a Brooklyn train.

Police theorized that the paper-wrapped package may have contained a bomb or other explosive. None of about 200 passengers in the subway car was seriously injured.

Witnesses told police:

They heard a muffled explosion and the package, balanced on the man's lap, burst into flames. He hurled the package to the floor. Heavy smoke billowed through the car.

Trenton Workers Take 5 Per Cent Wage Cut So Plant Can Reopen On Trial For Month

TRENTON, Aug. 26 — (CP).—Some 120 employees of the Benedict Proctor plant here returned to work this morning after voting Wednesday night to accept a five percent wage cut for one month, to eliminate piece work rates for the same period and to reduce the number of paid statutory holidays from three to two.

The employees, members of the International Jewelry Workers (AFL), lost their jobs last Friday when owner J. H. Craddock said he was forced to close the plant because employees "were not producing enough for what we pay them." He said the firm lost $25,000 last year.

Harold Blakely, IJW vice president, said a new wage agreement will be negotiated during the trial period. He said he had learned the plant is to be sold.

Russell Harvey, an AFL organizer, said today he will negotiate for purchase of the plant as a prviate individual.

10,000 Howling Rioters Smash Police Lines Break Into Assembly Room

Call Off Assembly Session Till Protection Given To Men On Council;
Postpone Vote On Sending Delegation

BERLIN, Aug. 26—(AP).—Howling, Communist-led demonstrators smashed through police lines and stormed into Berlin's City Hall today. Police reserves were called up to handle the crowd, estimated to total more than 10,000 persons. They forced their way through a police line, led by men who shouted:

"Down with the capitalists!"

"Down with the splitters!"

After bursting into the building, which is located in the Soviet sector of the city, they rushed upstairs to the city assembly chambers.

The demonstrators were members of the Socialist Unity party (SED), which is sponsored by the Russians and dominated by Communists. The crowd gathered outside the city hall carrying Red banners and singing "The Internationale."

Red banners carried the words: "One Administration, One Currency," "We Want Potatoes," "Down With the Enemies of the Workers," "Down With the Agents of Monopoly Capitalism."

Berlin's City Parliament (Council), predominately anti-Communist, had been scheduled to vote today on a resolution to send a delegation to Western Germany's "Constitutional Assembly." A postponement was proposed by Socialist leader Franz Neumann and approved by the Parliament's nine-man senior committee.

No Safety Guarantee

Acting Mayor Ferdinand Friedenburg told members he could not guarantee Parliament's safety. He said he had been tipped off by a member of Moscow-trained Paul Markgraf's Eastern Berlin police that Communist demonstrations were planned.

Police sought to reason with the crowd, telling them there was no point to a demonstration since the assembly meeting was put off. But the demonstrators charged ahead.

"I don't think they planned a real putsch to try to seize the city hall building," Dr. Friedenburg told reporters. "But they aimed at panicking us and scaring us out of the building, then they could say that we deserted and could not be relied upon to run the city."

The two SED members of the senior committee, Karl Litke and Karl Maron, had voted against postponement of the parliament meeting. They accused the anti-Communist members of being "afraid of open criticism." The parliament session also was to

Ocean Steamer Wallows In Hurricane

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 26—(AP).—The steamship Virginia, with approximately 100 passengers on board, wallowed through a hurricane in the Atlantic about 1,200 miles southeast of Miami today.

The big passenger-freight ocean liner is en route from New York to Capetown, South Africa. She reported no danger but "very rough seas" in a message to the weather bureau's storm warning service at Miami.

The hurricane developed in a section of the Atlantic which storm forecasters said "is a blank unless a ship is there." The Virginia gave first word of the tropical blow early today.

An 11 a.m. storm advisory reported winds of about 100 miles an hour velocity whirling around the centre. These winds cover an area 50 to 60 miles from the centre of the storm, while gales extend outward 125 miles.

The storm was classed as "small but violent." It was increasing slowly in speed and intensity. Its forward movement was about 13 miles an hour. At this rate about four days would be required for it to reach the mainland, and it might easily turn away without reaching land.

Warn Israel To Move Troops

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 26 (AP)—Count Folke Bernadotte warned Israel to-day to remove Jewish troops from the International Red Cross zones in Jerusalem.

Otherwise, the United Nations Palestine mediator said, he will report the new state to the United Natjons Security Council as a truce violator. He instructed Gen. Aage Lundstroem, his Chief of Staff, to obtain a final decision from Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok.

United Nations observers have reported Jewish troops in the area of the Agricultural School and Arab College which formerly had been under Ced Cros control.

Woman, 60, Hurt In Traffic Crash

Mrs. Margaret Johnson, 60, of Pefferlaw, Ont., was injured in an accident at Park and Romaine Sts. about noon Wednesday. Extensive damage was caused to the car in which she was a passenger and the truck involved in the collision.

Driver of the car was H. H. Johnson, Pefferlaw. The truck-driver was Norman Bickle, Smith township. Damage to the truck is estimated at $300. Also heavy was damage to the Johnson car, as the impact smashed in both left doors.

PC Douglas Farthing investigated.

Beverage Room Lost At Tweed By 2 Votes

TWEED, Aug. 26.—By a scant two votes, the "wet" element in Tweed lost out in their drive to obtain a men's beverage room for the community, it was learned today. The vote was 494 in favor of the beverage room and 333 against.

Needing 60 per cent of the vote, the pro-beverage room group lost out by two votes, polling 59.62 per cent of the 827 votes polled.

A liquor store and a brewer's warehouse were established in Tweed following a vote last November. The beverage room proposal, however, was defeated at that time.

E. J. Courneyea, hotel proprietor, staed today a recount would be requested.

Moscow Talks Nearing End

Hint Stalin Wants Parley On Currency Tangle

MOSCOW, Aug. 26—(AP)—The three western envoys prepared today for what may be their last meeting here in this phase of four-power talks over Germany and other East-West differences.

There is a good chance the meeting will take place today, although thhere has been no official announcement. There also is nothing definite on the release of a four-power announcement of theh results of the Moscow talks. That may come today, too.

The Western diplomats—United States ambassador Walter B. Smith, French ambassador Yves Chataigneau and Frank Roberts, speical British envoy—met at noon in Smith's office.

A highly-informed source said Tuesday a general area of agreement had been reached and further lengthy negotiations would deal largely with technicalities.

Sources in London said Stalin had proposed a Berlin conference of Big-Four financial experts on the currency tangle in the former German capital.

Many persons agree that progress has been made in the talks.

May Appoint Commission To Investigate Farm Price Spread—Kennedy

Says Ontario Farmers Net Less Than $2,000 Yet Consumers Pay High Price; Controls Off Retail Milk By November 1

TORONTO, Aug. 26—(CP).—Ontario headed today for its richest agricultural year in history but the Government expressed concern over high prices consumers are paying for produce compared with the returns to farmers. Though the estimated 1948 yield for all agricultural products is a record $1,022,948,000, the province's 180,000 farmers will earn an average net of less than $2,000, Agriculture Minister Kennedy said Wednesday. He added it may be necessary to appoint a Royal Commission to probe the price spread.

The Minister made the statement at a press conference during which he made clear provincial control of retail milk prices ends Nov. 1. On that date current contracts between producers and distributors lapse and the retail price will be established by competition on the open market.

Col. Kennedy confirmed that the three members of the Ontario Milk Board, which set the current retail price, have resigned. This paves the way for a new board, headed by a judge, to be set up along lines recommended by the recent Royal Commission on milk. The board will enforce the agreements between producer and distributor.

C. M. Meek, former Bilk Board chairman, has been named director of milk operations for the province and will work under the new board, Col. Kennedy said. The board's personnel will consist of three to five members, appointed by the government.

"The government won't have anything to say about the retail price when the present contracts end," Mr. Kennedy said. "However, any price agreed to between the producer and the distributor will be enforced."

Asked if the consumer would not suffer once the restrictions are lifted on retail prices, the agriculture minister replied: "The higher the price goes the less milk will be sold. Every farmer and distributor would love to see milk at 5 cents a quart if it was possible to produce and distribute it at that price."

Asserting that he felt competition would assure that milk would be sold to the consumer at a reasonable figure, Mr. Kennedy remarked that any one who wants to go into the dairy business can get a permit as long as he can provide the necessary bond.

While the price to the producer shipping to Toronto market was established at $4.05 a hundredweight, this was paid on only 68 per cent of the milk delivered here in June. As a result the average price fell to $3.32 per hundredweight, which is nearly $1 below what the Royal Commission, headed by Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, said it cost to produce a hundredweight of milk.

He was confident, however, the farmer would realize a better average once the producers' associations are in a position to handle their members' surplus production. This surplus, on which the dairies now pay a secondary price — less than $4.05— will be diverted to creameries and cheese factories by the associations.

Blames Taxes

Concerning the price spread on agriculture produce, Col. Kennedy said taxes and inefficient distribution were factors building up the retail price. He believed everything "entering into the production and distribution of food should be tax free."

A committee will be set up to look into marketing costs but it may be necessary to have a Royal Commission that would get "all the facts."

The minister cited two examples of the spread between farmers' returns and retail prices. A farmer grosses about 90 cents for the cost of growing a bag of Ontario No. 1 potatoes selling to consumers at $2.18, he said. On apples, last year's figures showed that the grower received $1.25 for a bushel that retailed at $3.11.

Bumper Wheat Crop

Ontario's most valuable wheat crop on record will yield an estimated $58,595,000 this year, compared with the previous record of $35,759,000 in 1920, he said. Full effect of the bumper production will be felt next year when "farmers will be able to produce more hogs, beef and milk."

The bumper wheat crop was one of the factors helping swell estimated value of 1948 agricultural products to a new high, about $170,000,000 over last year's previous record of $852,000,000.

Estimated gross value of other major products includes: Field crops $386,881,000; livestock and wool $226,679,000; dairy products $166,359,000, poultry and eggs $94,000,000; tobacco $42,000,000; fruit, horticulture $55,442,000; forest products $21,000,000.

Fire Destroys Cobourg Barn

COBOURG, Aug. 26.—Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the barn and poultry houses adjoining on the farm of C. G. Peeples Wednesday night around 10 o'clock. Cobourg fire department responded, but due to lack of water, it was impossible to save the buildings.

The fire started at the west end and within an hour the entire stretch of buildings was afire. A few chickens were burned, but the loss to the barn and modern poultry houses will run into several thousand dollars.

4 Beanery Boys Acquitted; Witnesses Stupid

BARRIE, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Suspected leader of Toronto's "Beanery Boys," 21 - year - old Frank Stother, blubbered like a child Wednesday when he was arraigned on an assault charge here.

Tears streaming down his cheeks, he whimpered, "my folks have deserted me." He added, "I don't want to go back to jail for another long week of it," when Magistrate Gordon Foster remanded him. No one offered to post the required $500 bail.

Stother was one of 13 youths arrested early Sunday morning at the Georgian Bay Wasaga Beach resort after rioting between rival gangs identified as the beanery and junction outfits. A third group known as the Tipp boys may have been involved.

4 Acquitted

Four of the youths were acquitted while the others were fined between $15 and $75 on charges ranging from possessing beer illegally to obstructing police.

Some acquittals on drunkenness charges were won Wednesday by inability of witnesses to identify the boys charged. Crown Attorney Frank Hammon complained that two important witnesses were "absolutely stupid." The Crown consequently withdrew three of the charges.

Victor Kehoe, midway employee at the beach, testified he was roughed up by a gang, bruised on the chest, cut on the back of the head and kicked in the eye. However, he was one of the witnesses whose hesitancy about identification provoked Mr. Hammond to say he was "disgusted."

The northernmost regions of Ontario gained some relief from the current heat wave, as cooler air from the Pacific displaced the sultry air from the Gulf of Mexico that Wednesday sent mercury columns soaring to general mid-90 temperatures. However the cooler air indicates little tendency to push any further south, and residents of the remainder of the province will suffer another hot, humid day Friday.

Forecasts:

Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Lake Ontario, Niagara, Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions — Clear, hot and humid today and Friday.

Summary for Friday: Clear, hot and humid.

eters heading for the 90s and a peak of 95 predicted for Windsor, London and St. Thomas.

Hottest Spot

Toronto was the hottest spot in Canada and all but one in US. Wednesday, the Malton weather bureau reported. The official 101-degree reading was just four degrees lower than the all-time record high, set of July 9 and 10, 1936.

No wonder some pyjama-clad Torontonians took their car rugs and slept the night on the cool grass of the lakefront's Exhibition park.

In Ottawa, where the thermometers hit 96 to equal a 75-year-old mark, heat victims seemed to be flopping all over the Central Canada Exhibition grounds. In all, 250 persons were reported overcome by heat on the grounds. Some musicians in the fair's bandstand were seen to collapse in their chairs after sitting several hours in the sun.

In Hamilton, where an unofficial reading of 102 was reported, dairy farmers faced a serious drought. They said pastures throughout the Niagara district are drying up and cattle have to be fed in the barns. The Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph said rain was urgently needed.

Workers Go Home

In Sarnia, Wallaceburg and Toronto among other Ontario cities workers were sent home because of the heat. Even furnace room employees at one Oshawa plant, well-conditioned to extreme temperatures, gave up when the room's thermometer boiled up to 119 degrees.

Here were some of the high marks in Ontario Wednesday: Wallaceburg 97; Windsor 95; St. Thomas 96; Sarnia 96; London 90; Malvern 94; Killaloe 90.

In Montreal, where citizens sweltered in 90-degree heat, coal dealers announced that prices were going up 25 cents a ton. And the federal trade department in Ottawa didn't miss the opportunity to warn all Canadians to lay in their winter fuel stocks early.

Lobster Saves Lunch

START BAY, Devonshire, England — (CP). — A lobster caught by a local fisherman crawled into the cabin of the boat, where it met a stowaway rat busy eating the fisherman's lunch. There was a squeak, and the rat rushed out and leaped overboard, leaving the lunch — and a small tuft of fur in the lobster's claws.

'Radical Fool' Crown Calls City Driver; Jailed After 85 mph Chase Through Lindsay

LINDSAY, Aug. 26.—(ENS).—"The sooner radical fools like this man are off the highway the better it will be for other people," lashed out Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan following the conviction of Frederick Immings of Peterborough on a charge of dangerous driving Wednesday.

Immings, who led local police in an 85 mph chase through town on Aug. 8, was sentenced to two months in jail and his driver's licence suspended for two years.

Two other charges of failing to stop at the scene of an accident and failing to remain were withdrawn. According to police, they took up the chase of the Immings car when identified as the one involved earlier in the evening in an accident on Kent Street.

When bystanders shouted, "That's him," the chase began and minutes later the wanted car made good its escape after blazing a trail through Lindsay streets.

Immings, who conducted his own defence, was picked up near Fowler's Corners by Peterborough police, he claimed that he thought the police car was an enemy of his and "some guys were out to get me."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Coarse grains futures prices were easier at 10 a.m. today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Oats and barley were meeting moderate shipper demand but hedging pressure dominated the market on the strength of weather reports from Alberta and Saskatchewan. The frost predicted for the northern sectors of the two provinces was not so severe or widespread as had been forecast yesterday.

Rye was also meeting some hedging pressure but buying attributed to American accounts was absorbing most offerings. However, prices were fractionally lower. Flax was not open.

In the beef class Malcolm Bailey of Uxbridge was back once more to Peterborough with 14 of the black Aberdeen-Angus, and it was expected that one other herd would be represented.

Shorthorns were exhibited by Clifford W. Leows of North Monaghan, 15 animals, and M. H. Pimmett & Son, Indian River, 12.

Polled Herefords are quite evidently coming in for more attention in this district according to the number of entries from that breed. The Indian-R Farm of H. J. Hawkey, Indian River, sent 11, F. Everett Birdsall of Asphodel, 2, John R. Walsh & Son of Skibbereen Farm, Otonabee, 7.

At least three barns were occupied by horses, one of the largest divisions of livestock, but part of the stall space of the east section of the park was taken by the surplus of racing stock. Bruce Sargent said he had counted more than 60 entries in the light horse classes.

Sheep and swine brought back to Peterborough the familiar names of J. R. Kelsey of Woodville, G. H. Mark & Son, Little Britain, Harold Skinner, Tyrone, A. Ayre & Sons, Hampton, John Cullis of Oakwood, J. M. Fisher of Cesarea, and others have taken up SED proposals on a winter emergency program.

Wilhelm Pieck, Germany's top Communist, harangued 3,000 members of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Unity party (SED) Wednesday night and called on the Western Allies to get out of Berlin.

The proposal to send Berlin representatives to the western meeting was drafted by the city's three non - Communist parties. SED, which has a minority in the city assembly, has strongly opposed the plan. Its opposition could easily be over-ridden in a parliamentary vote.

Today Mayor Ferdinand Friedensburg told a press conference after the riot:

"We will stay here and do our duty."

He said today's session of the Assembly was called off because he could get no assurance from Soviet-sector German police that they would protect the city government from "physical pressure," such as the June 23 rioting, when several legislators were manhandled by pro - Soviet demonstrators.

To an S.E.D. demand that the city government accept the Soviet offer of food and jobs for western Berliners, Friendensburg replied this was up to individual Berliners to decide as they saw fit.

"It is our opinion the majority of Berliners want to remain independent," he said. "If the S.E.D. does not agree to this principle of majority rule, them them go before the voters in October and have them decide.

The S.E.D. has been agitating to postpone the scheduled October elections.

and "they did not permit me to leave the Consulate.

"I jumped out the window to escape. I didn't want to kill myself. I wanted to escape."

"I wanted to escape," Mrs. Kasenkina said through an interpreter, "because in 1947 they took away my husband and I have no idea where he has gone to. He disappeared."

She said her son, a university student, was placed in a storm-troopers' division without training and was killed in Leningrad in 1942.

Then she raised her voice, and added:

"They have destroyed my entire life since I spent all my life on my son and husband. Neither of the two were political people. My son was a student and my husband was a teacher, as was I."

Livestock Man Says Cattle Sold Too Early

Farmers are making a mistake rushing August cattle to market, said R. H. Graham, Ontario Livestock Commissioner, at the Exhibition this morning.

"Dick" Graham, a former Lakefield boy, and Gordon Taggart of the Agricultural Supplies Board, and one of the chiefs in charge of WTPB controls in Canada, were chatting in the narrow shade of a barn as judging of cattle began.

"I'd suggest to our beef men that they be cautious in this market," Mr. Graham continued. "They should realize that our export quota will take care of all the cattle we've got."

Mr. Taggart said he fully agreed with Mr. Graham.

"They are rushing August cattle to market. You never heard of such a thing before. Most of these animals are too lean," said Mr. Graham. "I'm expecting that the November price will be three cents better than it is now. The stock will come in finer condition and will be more attractive to the U.S. buyers."

It was these two men, Gordon Taggart and Dick Graham, who closed the border to Canadian cattle in 1942.

"Everybody knows that it was reopened to our cattle a few weeks ago," Mr. Taggart said. "The main reason the government decided to keep our cattle at home in 1942 was to concentrate our people's efforts on war work and producing for victory. Our first policy was to buy our own cattle at the US price equivalent. That plan cost us $800,000 in three months, and the Department abandoned it."

Farmers remember the ensuing practice. The British export market was ready to take Canadian supplies, and prices were agreed upon by contract.

Mr. Graham repeated his advice to beef producers—that there is no advantage to them in rushing stock to Toronto in the present unthinking scramble for prices that are not materializing as was popularly expected. Cattle will be in better condition by November and the market will still be there under the export quota to the US.

Mr. Taggart is officially opening the Exhibition this afternoon, taking the place of Dr. G. S. H. Barton, retiring Deputy Minister of Agriculture, who was unable to fulfill the local engagement he had accepted.

Remand Women On Theft Counts

Mary Outwater and Cecile Taylor, both of Peterborough, were remanded to Sept. 8 on $500 bail each for preliminary hearing on charges of theft. The charges have been laid by cattle-buyer Fred McArthur of Campbellford, who told police that the two girls took the cash from him Monday evening.

It was intimated in court today that trial by a higher court would be chosen by the accused pair. G. N. Gordon, KC, who is representing both accused, added a bit more information to the case which has aroused enough interest to fill the court room today.

"I might warn the Crown Attorney now that he might have some difficulty proving his case," Mr. Gordon said.

"I am advised that this man proposed marriage to both these young women. I also understand that he supplied them with meals and promised to give them a thousand dollars each. We might even, your worship, argue that the $940 allegedly stolen was given as a down payment."

"And then, I suppose, sue for the balance," commented Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, KC.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1948

Fair Days!

Today the whole world comes to Peterborough's southern gate—that is, to the Exhibition Ground. Leghorns from Italy (they are the machines which lay the white eggs), Yorkshires from England (though we are told that that breed of porker is a North American development), Guernseys from the Channel Islands (like the Jerseys, pleasant little lactic critters), Clydesdales redolent of Scotland — good staunch work horses, dahlias out of Mexico and Spain, gladioli out of Africa, preserved raspberries from Douro, squash from Otonabee, children from Lakefield and the four corners of the four adjacent counties, adults from golf, cottages and kitchens. Then, too (lesser attractions) there are monkeys trained in tricks from India and the Bronx, fabled human wonders from outlandish places like Brooklyn, hot dogs of Canadian origin and French mustard trimming, peanuts — they must come from Peru—and chewing gum from British Columbian spruce trees. We must not forget pop, and the Pop who shells out a quarter to the youngster and remembers when he won a kewpie-doll for throwing balls at a target in a booth. Wonders more there are to view, from utensils fashioned in Northern Ontario nickel to woollens worked in England and electrical miracles produced in Peterborough.

* * *

The Fair is on again. Come one, come all! oyez, oyez, oyez! Come, come, come to the fair. That is the call, and as we go, we wonder whether we shall prefer the Morrow grounds as an Exhibition Ground or a municipal park. This year's Fair may decide the matter.

Has Midas Touched Lindsay?

Peterborough is casting an anxious fraternal eye at Lindsay which is allowing a large American company to build a million-dollar sausage-casing plant in the town. It will bring jobs and guilders to Lindsay, but we wonder if it will not also bring woes akin to Midas' troubles. Midas wanted riches as Lindsay wants factories. Midas secured riches, as Lindsay has apparently secured this new bonanza. But everything Midas touched turned to gold, even flesh and food. The proposed Lindsay factory will have a fluid discharge which contains sulphuric acid. Sulphuric acid is a killer. The Kingston authorities rejected the same firm because the concentration of sulphuric acid "would have killed fish, frogs and other aquatic life over a wide area, and also the birds which feed on them".

Mr. Dan McQuarrie, the Lindsay Commissioner of Industries, explains his, if not Lindsay's point of view this way:

> We didn't have to wait for anybody from Kingston to tell us the facts about the Visking Corporation. We are just as interested as they are in fish and game protection. This matter of sulphuric acid discharge was explained to us by B. H. Shenck, the assistant manager of the firm, and it was discussed in the course of negotiations. We were told that the acid content of the fluid leaving the plant is 1-10 of 1%, and that it would be thoroughly diluted before reaching the Scugog River.

When Kingston rejected the factory, its officials had at least as much information about the risks as Lindsay has. True, Lindsay's sewers, unlike Kingston's, are made of vitrified clay piping which will not be eaten by the acid. The chief reason for Kingston spurning the factory was, however, that the sewers containing the discharge from the factory would empty into Lake Ontario and kill aquatic life over a wide area. Has it occurred to Mr. McQuarrie that Lake Ontario is a much larger and more active body of water than the Scugog River and Sturgeon Lake into which the river empties, and that therefore the dilution in Lake Ontario would be much more thorough than in the Lindsay waters? Yet Kingston will have nothing to do with the factory, and Lindsay is taking it on its shoulders—or rather into its waters.

We would think that Lindsay has already enough near-stagnant waters not to want to run the risk of dangerous pollution. We would think that Lindsay is vitally concerned in the tourist industry and fish and game preservation. Is is not sufficiently interested in maintaining the amenities and resorts of Sturgeon Lake, one of the finer upper Kawarthas?

Lindsay officials have been assured that the acid content of the fluid leaving the plant will be only 1-10th of one per cent. It will be "thoroughly" diluted before reaching the Scugog River. How thoroughly—how thoroughly can sulphuric acid be diluted? How great will be the killing power in Sturgeon Lake? How great when the water reaches Chemong and Buckhorn lakes and the river Otonabee? Those are questions which should harass Lindsay folk, and which are now uppermost in the minds of resort owners, fish and game enthusiasts and lovers of nature throughout the whole district. They concern all people who do not automatically believe that each new factory is a step toward the Kingdom of God on earth.

Blather From Moscow

Diplomacy is an art. When delicate and weighty matters like those under discussion in Moscow during the last fortnight are involved, the highest diplomatic skill is necessary, not the hot light of flash-bulbs and hourly broadcasting of news and views to the public. There are times when international councils may profitably be held in the glare of the public eye. There are other times, as now at Moscow, when negotiations are impeded by being subjected to the often rough-shod treatment of foreign correspondents and news photographers. It is well that the Moscow meetings are being held in camera, that news-gatherers are being kept at arm's length. The art of diplomacy is best practised in secret. It is the results of the negotiations which are after all important, not the detailed steps toward them. There will be time enough for foreign correspondents' authentic reports when the results of the conferences are known and official statements forthcoming.

The public, particularly on this continent, has, however, been so long conditioned to daily exciting despatches that its appetite for news is voracious. So Moscow correspondents, not wishing to lose their reading public or their jobs, have been sending back daily reports. They know that the public will not be satisfied with "Nothing to report" or "The situation remains unchanged as far as can be observed from the streets below the Kremlin". Some therefore concoct fulsome, exciting accounts. One day their news is ominous, the next it is hopeful. They thereby hope to cancel out the two reports and still hold the audience. Probably they do, but the system is hard on the audience's nerves. Blather always is.

We are exhausted and annoyed by some of the Moscow reports we have been reading. "A usually reliable source", "I learn from an unimpeachable authority", "a high diplomatic official says", "a qualified source hints", "a senior official today revealed".

So the correspondents seek to give validity to their guesses. So they see in the face of Bedell Smith, the American ambassador at Moscow a look of disappointment or of hope. His step is slow not because he had a late night, his eyes shining not because he had a letter from home which refreshes him. No, his step is slow because Stalin was obdurate, his eyes shining because Molotov was changing his tactics for the better.

We would like to believe that we would give up reading the Moscow despatches until an official statement is made, that we would no longer be drugged into reading bosh emanating from a "reliable source". We have, notwithstanding, a hopeless fear that we shall continue to flagellate our soul by picking up every crumb that drops from a Moscow correspondent's table as he sits at a cafe quaffing vodka while the conferences continue behind closed doors two miles from him.

Round The Galleries

By MICHAEL MIDDLETON
(Art Critic of The London Spectator)

GREAT BRITAIN has never enriched her parks with sculpture so fully as have most other countries. Save for the memorial statues in her public places, sculpture has for the most part been imprisoned in the chilly grandeur of museums, where it has had to be studied as an end in itself, rather than as architectural or landscape ornament. It was, therefore, as an imaginative novelty that London first welcomed the open-air exhibition of sculpture in Battersea Park. Second thoughts suggest that perhaps the results may be more lasting than was expected.

It is not only apathy, of course, which has caused us to disregard such a use for sculpture in the past. A report made in 1916 estimated that in an average winter month no less than 15 tons of solid matter are deposited on each square kilometre of London, "including three tons of sulphuric acid, a ton of chlorine and a third of a ton of ammonia". But the Stygian picture this statement conjures up is hardly true of today, and the Battersea exhibition has been so widely acclaimed that it may mark a turning point in British sculpture itself. Certainly in this splendid setting, cushioned and framed by the grass, the flowers and the foliage, washed by the wind and polished by the sun, even the familiar pieces took on an entirely new meaning. The finest work seemed moving as it never had before.

THE exhibition, inevitably conditioned by considerations of size and material, and limited by difficulties of transport, was nevertheless broadly representative of the last fifty years. True there were no Picassos, no Brancusis, but Rodin, Maillol, Matisse, Mestrovic, Modigliani, Laurens, Zadkine, Despiau and Lipchitz were among the foreign artists represented. Of the British artists—perhaps of them all, with the exception of Rodin and Maillol—the two who emerged as the most considerable were Epstein and Moore.

Epstein's tremendous vigour and fever-pitch vitality joined hands with the elements. Both his bronzes pulsed and throbbed with life. Henry Moore's new group of three standing women provided the extraordinarily compelling climax of the exhibition. This group, at first intended for the Museum of Modern Art in New York, but subsequently secured by the Contemporary Art Society (that invaluable body of subscribers who have so enriched the museums of Britain with contemporary work from all nations), has been offered as a gift to the London County Council. It is considerably larger than life, and, because it is carved in hard Darley Dale stone, its forms are simple and monumental. Moore seems to have considered the work in the main from a single quadrant, and it must be admitted that it is not entirely satisfactory from the back—though this may be due to the positioning, which invites attention from the front. Poised halfway up a slight mound, turning to the light against the illimitable sky, these three figures exert upon each other a tension at once noble and tragic, disquieting and inexplicable. They are of our time, yet of eternity. One critic has found them "the greatest single work in sculpture or painting to be accomplished by an English artist in the present century" and I am inclined to agree with him. (A photograph of the group is reproduced on this page.)

❖ ❖ ❖

EVERY age reassesses the legacy from the past, and within recent times the fascinating figure of Fuseli has re-emerged from the shows of that little group of artists vaguely associated with Blake, and has been found to reflect many of the surrealists' researches into Freudiana. Messrs. Roland, Browse and Delbanco have been showing drawings and paintings by renegade Swiss priest turned Royal Academician, an exhibition drawn from British sources and therefore supplementary to that seen in Paris. Fuseli's eccentricities did not survive translation into oil paint, and his leathery canvasses show little but exaggerated melodrama allied to a heavy-handed technique derived from Sir Joshua Reynolds. The charged atmosphere that permeates his sinister watercolour drawings of women—women with fantastical hair styles, engaged upon some slight domestic task—this however is something much more uncanny and much more personal. Once seen, they are not easily forgotten.

OF the exhibitions of contemporary work, the most important has been that by Graham Sutherland which marked the opening of the new Hanover Gallery. Sutherland is our most important contemporary painter, and for the greater part of the last decade has borne the heavy and unenviable burden of a chef d'ecole. For a year or two now, however, it has been clear that his style has been changing. The uncanny pressure of intuitive understanding which marked his earlier experiments with natural forms was nearly always realized with a flowing, linear treatment that was essentially curved, rounded and circular. The minutiae of the Celtic landscape which moved him especially have now given way to motifs from the south of France—jagged, cruel, bitter statements of palm-trees and vine-pergolas — which are constructed on an angular and rectilinear frame-work. The fullness of those earlier landscapes which derived in part from Blake and Samuel Palmer has gone, and in its place we find a series of harsh, convulsive, tightly-knit compositions of acid pinks and lemon yellows. Into the confines of these pictures the human figure strays but rarely. One follows another, the subjects overflow the boundaries of the frames and overlap, so that they suggest a succession of related aspects like shots of a film. They are not pretty, they make no concessions, no compromises. If for that reason alone, they are stronger and more powerful than the work by Sutherland's imitators. Whether this crucifixion —is more than an interim stage, time alone can show. At least it can be said that Sutherland is not prepared to shelter behind past successes and duplicate them ad infinitum. (See the photograph on this page.)

EQUALLY assured in his ends and his means is the Polish artist Jankel Adler, who has been working in this country for some years and who has also, like Sutherland, exerted a considerable influence on some of the younger generation. Adler himself pays homage to Picasso and to Klee (next door to whom he once worked). In his recent show at Gimpel Fils one tended, as always, to lose sight of his formalized subject-matter because of the prodigious skill of his technique. If there was no more in Adler's work than cuisine, it would still remain the finest cuisine in Britain today. In actual fact, though every square inch of his paintings is fascinating, the whole is always held together by strong structural unity and a controlled splendour of colour.

David Jones has long been recognized as our most important minor lyricist. Unfortunately for long periods he has been prevented from working by ill-health, and his output has therefore been irregular. An exhibition of recent water-colours at the Redfern Gallery was consequently something of an event. An event which, I must confess, I found a little disappointing. Jones' most satisfactory work in the past has been suffused with a mystical, visionary quality which has sustained his excursions into mythology with an unassuming grace. And his manner has been perfectly suited to his story-telling—gentle, charming, irridescent. Most of the new works were studies of trees, delightful so far as they went, but with insufficient content to carry them. They seemed thin and somewhat repetitive. Fortunately the exhibition included three or four really fine works which showed that David Jones' talent has only been hibernating, and which recalled some of the descriptions of his work in the past as "like a posy of wild flowers" and "the petals which fall from one's fingers into a pot-pourri jar".

ALSO at the Redfern was to be seen the first large show by Bryan Wynter. This could not be said to show fundamental originality, in so far as the tricks of vision and technique employed had all been previously exploited by others of the younger British romantics. Wynter however shows great skill, taste and assurance. His career and future progress should be well worth watching. Another young painter recently showing in London has been the Irishman, Louis le Brocquy, at the Leicester Galleries. Le Brocquy's subject-matter derives largely from the vagabond tinkers of his native land, but his technique owes much to the dislocations of the cubist movement. He has yet to find himself fully, but the more considered of his oils suggest more than promise.

In the provinces, apart from many Arts Council exhibitions, there has been an interesting collection of paintings on view at the Wakefield City Art Gallery. This sought to trace the thread of the so-called Euston Road group through the past decade, from the founding of the original school by those sober, serious realists, to their students and students' students at the Camberwell School of Art today.

London has also seen a good deal of work from the great century of French painting. There have been exhibitions of Guys, Renoir, early notebooks of Toulouse-Lautrec, book decoration by Picasso, Rouault and Matisse, and the first really comprehensive collection of Vuillards that we have been able to study. It would be untrue to say that all 66 paintings were of equal value, but there was much of interest in the early work from the days of the Nabis, and many fine things from his happiest period between, say, 1895 and 1905. Perhaps the most splendid exhibition, however, was that at the Tate Gallery to commemorate the great services of the late Samuel Courtauld, to whose efforts and generosity Great Britain owes a prodigious concentration of Impressionist and Post-Impressionist paintings. To see all these collected together was an astonishing experience.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!....

He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destructions. (Ps. 107: 15, 20.)

Now when John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?

Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them. And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me. (Matt. 11: 2-6.)

Should The Boss Win?

The search conducted by the External Affairs Department for a golfer who is not too good to win, but not so bad as to be tiresome, to play with Mr. James Forrestal, the United States defence secretary during his visit here, raises a troublesome point in human relations.

Everyone has at one time or another been compelled to decide whether to win or lose to the boss, or to his mother-in-law, or to anyone else whose good will is important. The decision is always difficult. There are questions of pride and honesty involved on the one hand; on the other, the question of some day getting a raise, or of gaining some other advantage.

In their wisdom, officials of the External Affairs department have evidently recognized the inner struggle that can tear a man's soul when he knows he can lick the duffer against whom he is playing golf with one hand tied behind his back, yet for practical reasons he dare not win. They are, therefore, looking for a man who is unlikely to win in any case, but who could nevertheless give their distinguished guest some interesting competition. The rules of diplomacy will thus be served, yet normal human pride will be satisfied.

It is heartening to find such sensitive perception to men's feelings among our higher officials, and such a clever approach to the niceties of protocol.—Ottawa Citizen.

A Proper Bostonian

Searching for a parking space near Boston's North Station, a woman decided to go back to one of the places she had passed up. Leaning out the window, she called to a nearby traffic officer:

"Can I turn around here?"

The policeman shook his head sadly: a teacher who has spent weary hours futilely trying to impress a simple fact upon his pupil. Then, his voice tense with exquisite sarcasm, he replied:

"You may if you can!"

—Reader's Digest.

A Settlement Needed

A general settlement with Russia must one day be sought, and that day must not be postponed too long; the greater and more lethal the armaments, the greater the danger. But neither can that settlement be sought by an improvised and unprepared panic-conference, hastily convoked under the pressure of some local crisis. It must be patiently prepared, and if there is to be any hope of success, the West must approach it united, fully integrated and fully armed. In the meantime, all that remains to us is to hasten our preparations, to stand by our rights, and to avoid provocation.—London Observer.

THIRD TIME LUCKY

A business man who owned a small sailing-boat invited a friend to go with him for a sail. A squall came up suddenly and the owner was pitched overboard. While he was struggling with the waves, his friend peered anxiously over the side of the boat and cried:

"I say, Simon, if you don't come up for the third time, may I have the boat?"

Ex-Football Player Against Use of 'Community' Bottle

By CEC. PERDUE

Athletes should insist upon more hygienic conditions during games to minimize chances of contracting polio and other diseases. This is the opinion of Don Hendren of Lakefield, who was stricken with polio—along with teammate Bill Shadgett — while playing ORFU senior "B" football for the Peterborough Panthers last autumn.

The two huskies were confined to Toronto Riverdale Hospital from Oct. 17, 1947, to May 5, 1948, and are still crippled to the extent that each must wear full leg braces on one leg and use a cane. They were stricken within four days of each other, though living 10 miles apart.

Hendren is inclined to blame the unsanitary habit of passing a "community" water bottle from lip to lip among the players during the heat of a game for the spread of disease. Not only in football, but in other sports, too. And water dippers can carry the contagious throat virus of polio as well as can water bottles. Or other disease germs in any season. Polio research doctors, who have checked with Don on his case, apparently feel the same.

GOOD IDEA—Don Hendren, former Petes' gridder — shown in Panther uniform—has a good suggestion in elsewhere. He criticized use of the 'community' water bottle at games, claiming it tends to spread disease.

Own Bottles

"I suggest," the former player says, "that containers, similar to those used by milk carriers, holding say a dozen half-pint bottles, be used by the water-boy during games. With bottles cleaned after use. Thus each player would have an individual bottle for a drink. Such a container would be no heavier or bulkier than a pail of water, and not much more unwieldy than a big bottle — and certainly far more sanitary."

He added that, if he were playing again, he would never drink from a water bottle used by others, no matter how thirsty he was.

He feels that parents, coaches and players should all insist upon a more hygienic system in athletics.

(Note.—This article may arouse some controversy, but if young players derive any benefit from it, Don Hendren and the writer are satisfied).

STAMPEDERS WIN

Calgary Stampeders Wednesday served notice at Calgary of a possible new order in Western Conference football with a 12-1 drubbing of the Saskatchewan Roughriders before 4,500 jubilant fans. Coming on top of Ruffies' victory Saturday over the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the Stampeders squad looked better than the score indicated. The lone major score came late in the fourth quarter on an intercepted Regina pass by Keith Spaith. He lateralled to Harry Hood, shifty former Winnipeg Blue Bomber, who danced 70 yards in outrunning the entire invading team. The touchdown capped Hood's performance which was outstanding all night.

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Elsewhere in this issue is an article we wrote after a recent talk with Don Hendren. The ex-footballer from Lakefield isn't fussy about publicity but finally agreed that the publicizing of an idea he has—wherein he criticizes the "community" water bottle in sports—might do a lot of good. And we agree entirely. Few of you folks would go into a restaurant and accept a water glass that hadn't been thoroughly cleaned after being used by the previous customer, eh? Yet, athletes daily drink from one water bottle with no thought of disease germs or anything along that line, at all. It is not reasonable. Polio is but one of the diseases which may be spread around in this manner.

* * * * * *

It shouldn't be too difficult to make for a more sanitary method of getting a drink of water during games. And we think that it is up to the coaches and officials of clubs to see that something is done in this regard. And for parents and players to insist upon it. After all, it takes but one accident to ruin an athlete for life. When you see two husky gridiron athletes struck down right here in Peterborough with the dreaded polio, you must realize that it is not only a kids' disease. There are other diseases, too, and they appear in every sport and every season. From the common cold on up. Proper precautions might help a lot. Just think it over, fellows.

Games, Games, Games!

Lot of important games—lacrosse and baseball—coming up here these nights, so we'll bunch a few to save space. Huntsville and the Petes have an OLA senior "B" fixture at nine p.m. tomorrow in Miller Bowl, and it should draw another big crowd. The NHL All-Stars play the Petes an exhibition ball game at 5.45 tonight in Riverside, proceeds for the Kiwanis Club. Ought to be a real interesting affair. Oshawa Hunters and our Kiwanis have a Lakeshore Loop junior ball playoff at six Friday eve in Riverside — likely a swell scrap—with proceeds going to Wimpy Borland. And the Napanee ballsters open their OBA series with the intermediate Petes at three Saturday aft in Riverside. Another promising fray.

* * * * * *

Dot Millar gives us the girls' softball setup. Lakefield and Woollens open their two-in-three junior finals at seven tonight in the Bowl, followed by Lock Co. vs. Ashby's—first of the round-robin intermediate playoffs. Friday has Lock Co. against Lindsay and Lakefield playing Woollens. These are local playoffs, and have nothing to do with PWSU competition, as Ashby's go in the latter as juniors. Toronto Young Motors meet Westclox at two Saturday aft in the Bowl, second game of their PWSU intermediate "A" playdowns, third if necessary being there at six p.m.

* * * * * *

Westclox Came Through

Westclox girls showed their class at Sunnyside in Toronto last redhot evening when they yanked out a 3-1 victory over Young Motors of that city in the first of their two-in-three PWSU intermediate "A" playdowns. It may be the provincial semi-final series, though we're not sure of that yet. Norma Kennedy—nee Strickland—was in fine form to throw five-hit ball and whiff 12, though she had a few wild streaks to make it interesting for the home fans. The Clockers came through with 11 safe blows, Marg Hawthorne driving in a pair of runs, while Jean Vass and Nona Whetung also hit well, the latter leading with three bingles one a double, in five tries. J. Vass and N. Kennedy went best defensively for the victors. They should have a swell scrap back here Saturday aft at two, third if necessary being at six.

* * * * * *

The four-in-seven City Softball League finals ended abruptly at the Bowl last night in six games as B-A beat Legion twice—counts of 8-3 and 19-9—for the city title and the George Dormer Trophy. Worthy champs, they showed a lot of power at the plate in both games, especially that second one, smart fielding in both frays, and fine flinging by Ron Akers. Yeah, Ron—always a "money" pitcher and always in playoffs—went the route in the first and took over in the second inning of the nightcap to earn the win in that joust, too. Mighy nice going. Legion, who fought hard all the way, weren't up to form last eve and had to admit defeat. But they did okay by making finals and winnings a couple of those.

* * * * * *

They'll Be Around Yet

You fans (and this loop had a big following) haven't seen the last of either team yet. B-A are off to Kingston today for OASA intermediate "A" playdowns, return joust here Saturday. And Legion will be meeting Oshawa early next month in senior "B" playdowns. But the City League itself is all finished after a most successful season, plenty close and entertaining all the way. Our congrats to the champs. A few odd incidents over there last p.m. A lady had her glasses broken when a ball caromed off a girl's head but no doubt the league will fix that. Don Pagett got his leg banged up some in a collision at first. And Reg Leether and Bob Greenlaw were ejected from the first game when they had a bit of a grappling match after a minor collision at the plate.

Juvenile Petes Get Win Against Orillia

The Petes' juvenile lacrosse club took a 13-5 victory over Orillia here last night as part of a twin bill at Miller Bowl. It was a clean game with the locals passing and shooting well. Jim Heffernan, Red Robinson and Crowder were good offensively, while Hank Russelle and Bob Lagana were strong defensively. Childerhose shone for Orillia, getting all five goals.

In the first quarter Beavis, Levasseur, Heffernan, Payne, Robson, Crouter, and Lagana scored for Peterborough, with Crowter and Heffernan each having one assist. The latter got one as did Russelle in the second, with Sedgewick earning an assist. Russelle scored the only local goal in the third from Vincent. The same pair added one in the fourth, Heffernan also getting one from Robson and Lagana tallying unassisted. The teams:

Orillia — H. Kehoe, Joseph, Martin, England, Childerhose, Middleton, Lindsay, Hammell, Rurnell, Davis, Buch, Kimberly, B. Kehoe, Hill.

Petes— Hickson, Russelle, Vincent, Heffernan, G. Robson, Crouter, Payne, Beavis, Lagana, Carveth, Levasseur, Sedgewick.

Go Easy On Water

MONTREAL, Aug. 26 (CP). — The City of Montreal Wednesday night appealed to householders and business firms to go easy on the use of water for the next few days because current consumption is close to the capacity of the pumping system. A city spokesman said the current hot spell plus the disastrous fire at Bonaventure Terminal on Monday had lowered reservoir levels.

Westclox Take First One Over Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Peterborough Westclox trimmed Toronto Young Motors 3-1 Wednesday night in the first game of a best-of-three semifinal series for the Provincial Women's softball intermediate "A" championship. The second and third games will be played at Peterborough next Saturday.

Norma Kennedy starred with her pitching for Westclox by limiting Young Motors to bne run in the ninth. Marg Hawthorne drove in two runs for Peterborough in the fifth after Jean Vass sent the first run home in the third.

Westclox were never in danger and led the Toronto team from the third inning to keep ahead easily for the rest of the route.

Lineups:

Peterborough — Anderson, c; Morrow, 2b; Vass, 1b; Hawthorne, cf; Whetung 1b; Dorsett, 2b; Rome, lf; Hardy, rf; Kennedy, p.

Toronto—Fisher, 2b; Naylor, c; Fleming, lf; Ryan, 1b; Childerley, cf; Glyn, rf; Thompson, 3b; McCanne, ss; Saunders, p.

We, along with many other local bowlers were down to Oshawa yesterday playing in their open tournament for the Gold Trophy.

Yes, it was hot—real hot. We met many chaps that we had not seen for some time; met many new ones—all fine fellows; played our three 15-end games and were home by 10.30 o'clock. Had one grand outing. There was an entry of 104 rinks from all parts of the province, including 45 rinks from Toronto. It could easily have been termed Toronto vs. all comers.

Each club has a right to conduct tournaments as they see fit. Each have their own system of counting. Personally, we don't like their system of counting. It would take up too much space in this column to explain their system, but we would like to see the district representatives when they meet here, early in the fall, have a round-table discussion on this counting business, adopt some hard and fast system so that when you go to tournaments you would know just what is what, and would not have to spend half the day figuring out the systems.

We don't know how the other rinks made out but we do know positively that our rink got nowhere.

We were mighty glad to know that they had 24 pairs up on our own greens last night in the first mixed doubles tournament of the season. It just goes to show that if you give the bowlers what they want and advertise it properly, they will support it.

We'll publish the winners in tomorrow's column.

Tonight groups three and four play.

Midget Lacrossers Get Win In Orillia

The local midget all-star lacrossers won 20-5 over Orillia last night, having a good edge in around the net. Fontaine, Robinson and Caravaggie stood out in this fray with Fitzgerald, Caravaggie, Donald, Collins and Fontains counted for the Petes, Foster and McIlmoyle each having an assist. Middleton scored from Sykes for Orillia.

McIlmoyle got a pair and Robinson and Caravaggie one each in the next heat, Mulin aiding on one. Martin counted for the home side. In the third, Fontaine tallied twice and aided once. A goal and an assist were racked up by Caravaggie, while Batley, Robinson and Foster also scored, with Kimball and Fitzgerald each having an assist. In the third, Robinson, McConachie, Batley, Foster and Fontaine each got one, with O'Donnell, Kimball and Mullins having an assist each. Mix, Sykes and McConachie scored for Orillia. The teams

Petes—Goal, Nicholls; defence, Fitzgerald and Bigford; centre, Caravaggie; wings, Fontaine and Mullins; rover, Foster; alternates, Kimball, McIlmoye, Buott, Robinson, O'Donnell, McConachie, Daniels, Collins and Batley.

Orillia: Goal, Scott; defence, Joseph and Lindsay; centre, Brown; wings, Pethick and Fagan; rover, Sykes; alternates, J. Lindsay, Martin, Middleton, Mix, Allshaw and Scarett.

Referee—Jack Foote.

THE CHICAGO CARDS pro football team outclassed the U.S. College All Stars before 100,000 at Soldiers' Field in Chicago, Ill., by a score of 28-0, in the opening game of the 1948 football season. Picture shows Floyd Simmons, all star backfield man from Notre Dame, going down in the first period after picking up nine yards through the Card line.

B-A Gets City Championship With Two Wins Over Legon

B-A beat Legion twice at the Bowl last night to win the City Softball League championship for 1948 and the George Dormer Trophy. Another big crowd saw Johnny Russelle's squad capture the opener of the twin bill by an 8-3 score and the nightcap by a 19-9 count. This winds up the league for the season, but there will be OASA action yet, Kingston playing B-A here Saturday.

The first fixure was keen enough, though B-A broke out with a five-run splurge in the fourth and that really clinched it. They were outhit but bunched blows better in the field. Ron Akers went the route in steady style for the winners, while Parsons replaced Greenlaw in the fourth, when the latter and Leether were ejected for wrestling after a plate collision. Leether led the B-A hitters with two for three, as Dalton topped Legion with four in five. Scriver pulled off a good running catch, and Lewis pegged in neatly for a double play. The box score:

Hard Hitting

The big B-A bats exploded in the second game to smash out 21 hits, including homers by Crowe, Blewett and Leether, as Hawkes hit a triple and double, Leether a triple and Conlin a double. They drove Greenlaw off in the fourth and hit Reid hard till he left for Dalton in the eighth. Strickland started but retired in the second and Ron Akers came back to win his second game of the night with a four-hit chore the rest of the way. His backing was good while Legion were shaky afield. Onewere features. Leether got three hand catches by Pryde and Conlin for three to lead B-A as Hawkes, Crowe, Blewett and Akers also hit well. Harrison and Pagett—who hurt his leg in the fourth—hit best for Legion.

Alouette Team 75 PC New; Lots Of Power

By W. E. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Montreal's 1948 Alouettes wear the familiar red and white plumage but the flock is from 65 to 75 per cent new.

Just now the team will finally line up for the Big Four football campaign, opening at home against Ottawa Aug. 31, is still problematical.

With an allowance of seven American imports, there still may be some changes in the newcomers before the Aug. 31 declaration deadline. It is possible one or two now trying out with the big squad of Brooklyn Dodgers of the All America conference may turn up in Montreal uniforms.

There are new faces all over the team, mixed with tested performers of other years. Two newcomers to the line, which is big and powerful, came from Winnipeg Blue Bombers, and one of the brawniest acquisitions is Bronco Reese, a tough, heavy middle from the United States.

Star Quarterbacks

Hayman has a starry trio of quarterback-passers. They are Steve Nemeth, formerly of Notre Dame University and with professional experience; Bruce Coulter, brother of Toronto's famous Bobby, and Earl (Whizzer) Smith, a holdover from last year.

Bolstering these, in the backfield, is a galaxy of power and speed, old and new.

The veteran Ches McCance seems assured of a flying wing berth. Virgil Wagner, brought from the United States two years ago and rated one of the best backfielders in Canada, is again ready.

Then there are Joey Pal, with Hamilton Tigers last season, who now have Alouettes' 1947 centre man, Jake Gaudaur; and Norm Cox, a halfback from Texas, who can also pass.

Veteran Fred Kijek and two new men will look after the kicking. The newcomers are Bob Cunningham of Toronto and Schnozz Wheeler, an American import.

The outside positions appear well looked after by a quartet of old and new mixture. The best appear to be Ralph Toohy and Glen Douglas of last year's team; Warren Cyrus, a Negro import, who has shown himself a good pass-receiver, and Keith English, a local boy.

The snap job will be handled largely by Mel Wilson, formerly with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, replacement for Baudaur.

Peewee Upsets

Two peewee upsets marked the opening of their lacrosse playoffs. Lions beat Cherney's Petes 12-11 in the first of the best-of-three, and Buffalos defeated Tigers 10-8, thir first win of the season. Gord Hunt and Doug Leach stood out for Lions, but all went well, Sutherland shining in goal. For the Petes, Kearns, McDougall and Anthony were best. In the other tilt, Sam Lagana and Grant Simmons were good for Buffalos, and Jack Peirson, Roberts and Cournyea for Tigers. The teams:

Petes—O'Connell, Kearns, McDougall, Pearl, Saunders, Anthony.

Lions— J. Sutherland, McIvor, Hunt, Morgan, Leach, Kane, and Morris.

Buffalos — Lagana, Macklin, Keeting, Clarke, Martin, Simmons, P. Heard, Loucks, Blodgett and Haig.

Tigers — Burns, Cournyea, Phillips, Giardino, Peirson, Merrett, Roberts.

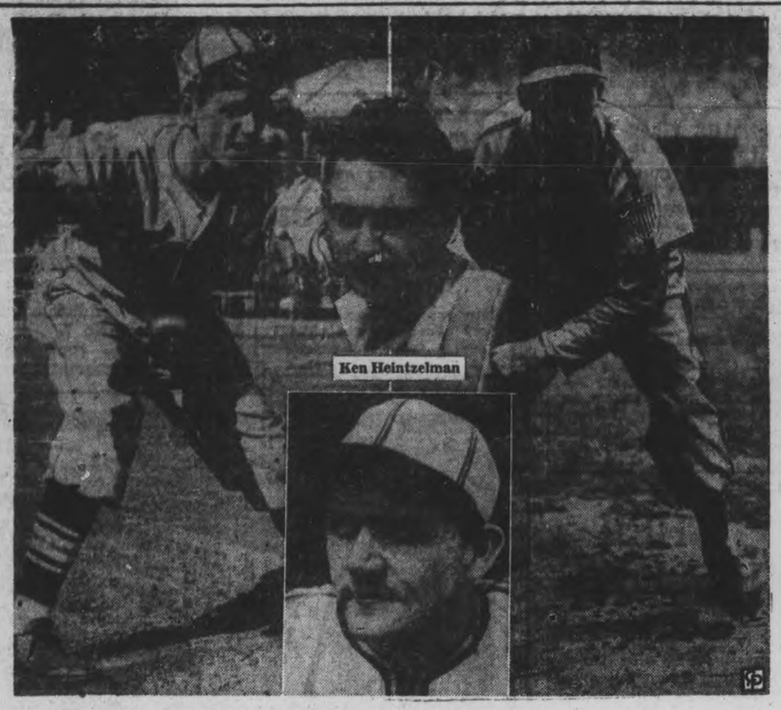
Lacrosse Playoffs

In the first of the tadpole lacrosse players, Rockets and Spitfires tied 2-2. Jerry Crough and Paul Dugan counted goals for Rockets, while Mickey O'Connell got both goals for Spitfires. The teams:

Rockets — Doris, Dugan, Jay, Davis, C. Rowatt, R. Rowatt, Reid, Silvestri, Hawthorne, Olmstead, Kent, Casey, Riel, Victor, Crough, Stevens, Hutchinson.

Spitfires — F. Heffernan, Hill, P. Heffernan, Hickson, Phillips, O'Connell, Mahoney, Olmstead, Heffernan, Danahy, Quinlan, O'-Rourke, McInnis, Dobbin, Jones, Londerville.

On Thursday Kiwanis bantams play Montreals a sudden-death game, winner to meet Clapper's in finals. Cavanagh's midgets meet McGillis in the rubber match to see who meets Americans for the title. Comstock's juveniles play Legion their third game, winner to meet Queen's for the championship.



VETERAN SOUTHPAWS in the National league, Harry Brecheen of the Cards, Fritz Ostermueller of the Pirates, Ken Heintzman of the Phils and Ken Raffensberger of the Reds, have sparkled on the mound this year. All four have been among the toughest flingers in the league. Ostermueller, who is 41, is in his 15th season in the majors and has won six games out of 14. Brecheen, 33, top hurler in the senior loop, has won 14 and lost four. Raffensberger, 31, has twirled four shutouts and tossed two one-hitters against the Cards. Heintzman, 32, recently pitched a one-hitter against the Giants and prior to that had turned in two successive four-hit shutouts.

Quarter-Finals Still Wide Open

RIVERSIDE GOLF CLUB, N.B., Aug. 26.—(CP).—The Canadian ladies' open golf championship continued today with a colorful sectional and international quarter-final field of eight and the prospects that anything can happen before nightfall.

Three Toronto golfers, two from Montreal and one from Vancouver, were still in the running against the depleted American ranks that numbered only two—defending champion Miss Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., and Mrs. Eddie Bush of Wilmington, Del.

One all-Toronto match today brings together Miss Ada Mackenzie and Mrs. J. B. Seawright, both of whom fought off two American threats Wednesday in a pair of terrific struggles.

Miss Lenczyk Wednesday made an unauspicious start after dropping the first hole to Mrs. T. M. Lockwood of Montreal, but immediately returned to her smooth game and won 4 and 3.

She started out today against the sole West Coast representative, Mrs. Hugh O'Callaghan of Vancouver, who was hard pressed yesterday to overcome Mrs. A. L. Smith of Oak Ridge, Ont., 2 and 1 in a match that was fought on even terms most of the way.

OLD SATCHEL PAIGE kept the Indians' scoreless inning streak alive recently, by pitching a 3-hit shutout for the Indians against the Chicago White Sox. Indian pitchers held the opposition scoreless for 47 consecutive innings, setting a new American league record. Paige (seated), is shown with Larry Doby, who singled across the winning run and also backed up against the fence to rob Pat Seerey of the Sox out of a home run. Cleveland's "goosegg string" was broken when the Chicago White Sox pushed across three runs in the ninth inning during a game played at Cleveland, to defeat the Indians 3-

Braves Knock Off Cards As Indians Lace Sox 9-0

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The comeback of Warren Spahn and the ability to win on the road have been primarily responsible for keeping the Boston Braves on top in the five-team pennant race in the National League.

No more striking example of this was given than Wednesday night when Spahn hurled the Braves to a 2-0 shutout triumph over the Cardinals in a night game in St. Louis. The victory put the Braves four games ahead of the second-place Dodgers and 4½ in front of the Redbirds.

Although it was only Spahn's 11th success of the season, it marked the fourth straight time the clever southpaw has turned in a gilt-edged pitching job. Counted upon as a sure-fire 20-game winner early this spring, Spahn got off to a poor start, but has been pitching brilliantly during the last two weeks.

Spahn was touched for seven hits, fanned three and gave up two walks. He was superb in the pinches.

Regain Top Spot

Cleveland's rebounding Indians regained first place in the torrid American-League race, pushing Boston Red Sox down into second place with a thorough 9-0 lacing. The defeat dropped the Red Sox half a game behind the tribe.

Bob Lemon pitched the Indians back into the lead. He permitted only four hits in scoring his 17th triumph and his eighth shutout of the season.

The third place New York Yankees moved within 1½ games of first place, knocking off Chicago White Sox 8-2. Bob Porterfield, 24-year-old rookie right-hander brought up from Newark Aug. 4, pitched seven scoreless innings before being forced out by the excessive heat. Tommy Byrne finished and was clipped for both runs.

Freddy Hutchinson gained his fourth triumph over Philadelphia Athletics, pitching Detroit Tigers to a 10-4 victory. The defeat was Philadelphia's fifth straight and sent the fourth-place Mackmen four games off the pace. Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene was the loser.

Unleashing their biggest attach of the season, Washington Senators hammered out a 14-6 victory over St. Louis Browns to snap a nine-game losing streak. Rae Scarborough gained his 12th triumph as the Nats mauled five Brownie hurlers for 19 hits.

Dodgers Move Up

The Dodgers moved into second place in the National League, half a game in front of the Cardinals, as they outslugged the pirates 11-9 in Pittsburgh. The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Brooks.

Bill Meyer, Pittsburgh manager, protested the Dodger triumph, however. He lodged the objection with Chief Umpire Jocko Conlan on the ground that a Brooklyn relief pitcher in the ninth inning did not complete pitching to one batter.

The Pirates had rallied in the ninth to score three runs off relief pitcher Hugh Casey. They had runners on first and third with two out. Carl Erskine relieved Casey. Erskine reached a count of three and one on Ed Bockman, a pinch hitter. Then manager Burt Shotton yanked Erskine from the mound and replaced him with Hank Behrman. Behrman retired Bockman on one pitch.

If the protest is allowed the game would be replayed from the point where Erskine left.

Scoring eight runs in the top of the ninth, New York Giants came from behind to defeat Chicago Cubs 9-4 and take over undisputed possession of fourth place, six games off the pace and one ahead of the Pirates.

Howie Fox, helped by home runs off the bats of Danny Litwhiler, Ted Kluszewski and Johnny Wryostek, pitched Cincinnatti Reds to a 5-1 triumph over Philadelphia Phils.

SATCH PAYS OFF

Satchel Paige, Cleveland Indians' fabulous pitcher, paid off $500 Monday in Cleveland when a fan furnished proof that the Negro pitcher played professional before 1927. Carl Goerz produced a score dated May 16, 1926, showed Satchel as pitcher for Chattanooga Lookouts. Said Paige, as he paid off: "Oh, oh, I musta slept a year somewhere—a $500 year."

Derby Winner My Love Has Betting Slump

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP). — There is a diminishing affection for My Love among British turf fans these days with the approach of the St. Leger, last of the year's "triple-crown" classics, Sept. 11.

The three-year-old French colt won the Derby, but August rumors have robbed him of the esteem he held after his triumph at Epsom last June.

Ever since the future book opened on the St. Leger race — slightly more than 1¾ miles of rolling turf at Doncaster, Yorks— My Love has been the favorite at odds as short as 2 to 1. A midsummer triumph in Paris helped keep him in good graces.

But the end of August saw a break in the market, reflected in the odds from the weekly call-overs at London's Victoria Club. My Love fell off to 11 to 4 after a week of rumors. You could take your choice of stories (a) that he was ill; (b) that he had been syndicated as a stallion and his shareholders did not want to risk his reputation.

My Love lived these down and held on as favorite. But big-money backers were hesitant just the same.

Simultaneously, the Maharaja of Baroda's My Babu slumped. Babu took the first jewel in the triple crown, the 2,000 guineas at Newmarket over a mile, but ran fourth in the Derby.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press.

Don Mueller, Giants — Hit a pinch-hit home run with two on in the ninth inning to spark an eight-run rally which defeated the Chicago Cubs 9-4.

Warren Spahn, Braves— Spaced seven hits in shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals 2-0 to put the Braves ahead of runner-up Brooklyn by four games.

Ted Williams' batting leadership in the American league this week narrowed although his percentage remained at .377, league officials disclosd at Chicago Monday. Cleveland's playing-manager, Lou Boudreau, gained two points on the Boston star, increasing his percentage from .361 to 363. Third is Dale Mitchell of Cleveland with .336.

THE JANET DEE SURF BOARD BALLET GIRLS of Santa Monica, Calif., take a sun bath before leaving for Chicago, where they will be the star attraction of the Larry Crosby Aquacade opening soon at Soldiers' Field. There are 19 girls in the group; none over 18 years old, and they hold four trophies; Queen of the surf boards and Miss Santa Monica (Jo-Ann); America's Miss Health and Strength (Joan Thomas) and (Esther Lorenz) Pacific Coast Women's Long Distance Paddle Board champion. Swimsuits were designed by Mabs of Hollywood.

Newark Holds Royals To Split; Jerseys Win

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Royals, top-heavy leaders in the International League, have gotten into the habit of winning both ends of double-headers this season. But Wednesday night the runner-up Newark Bears held them to a split.

Montreal took the first ball game 4-2, running true to form, but Newark came back to edge the Royals in the nightcap, 4-3.

Jay Difani's single drove in Jerry Coleman with the winning run for Newark in the ninth inning of the second game. Sam Jethroe's triple, followed by a double by Lou Welaj, drove in the deciding tally for Montreal in the opener.

Toronto Maple Leafs, currently in third place, 19 games behind the Royals, were not scheduled Wednesday night, along with Baltimore Orioles.

Jersey City Giants, playing against time in a belated effort to gain a spot in the post-season playoffs, won their fourth straight game last night, walloping Buffalo Bisons 15-7.

Syracuse Chiefs battered five Rochester pitchers for 18 hits to win an easy 13-8 decision.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Gerry Kesselring, the youthful sniper from Kitchener's Rockaway Club, Wednesday outscored 114 golfers in the annual Burlington Golf Club invitation tournament at Hamilton. He toured the 72-par course in a three-under-par 69 in the morning and 75 in the afternoon for a total of 144. This was two better than Jim Boeckh, scratch man from Lambton, who had 71-65—146.

Climax of the 94th annual Ridgetown District Agricultural Fair was the hard fought Supertest two-year-old race for a $2,428.50 purse—largest purse in Canada for a two-year-old race. C. B. Lee, the entry of Mrs. Alice Todgham of Chatham, driven by Harry List, wrested the victory from Gordon Lawrence's Johnny Lee, a Blenheim entry.

Danny Webb of Montreal made short work of Vic Young, fighting out of Portland, Me., in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round main event of a boxing card at Saint John, NB, Wednesday. The time was 1 minute 25 seconds. The former Canadian feather and lightweight champion put Young away with a hard left, followed by a crushing right to the jaw.

The tournament of champions four headline fighters got together Wednesday at a New York restaurant and signed contracts for their September 21 double-header boxing show at Jersey City, NJ. Marcel Cerdan, the French middleweight champ, will meet world title holder Tony Zale in a 15-rounder. Gus Lesnevich and Joe Walcott, heavyweights, will tangle in a 15-rounder on the same card.

Jackie Robinson's first ejection from a major league game is going to cost Brooklyn's negro second baseman $25.00. Robinson was booted out of Tuesday night's game with Pittsburg by Umpire Walter (Butch) Henline for excessive jockeying from the bench. Wednesday at Pittsburg, National League President Ford Frick fined Robinson $25.00 "for prolonging the argument."

Don Bradman, Australia's master batsman, celebrated his last appearance at the famed Lord's cricket grounds in London, England, Wednesday with a sparkling century. Against the "Gentlemen of England," a team of amateurs, Australia amassed a first-innings total of 478 for three wickets by close of play.

Wee Corporal, owned by the Farr Brothers of Weston, swept to an easy victory in the 2:28 harness racing feature at Essex, Wednesday. The Weston pacer won all three heats on a fast track.

Armand Vincent, 48, Montreal sports promoter for the last 20 years, died at Montreal Wednesday night. Fifteen years ago he staged a series of bouts for the world's bantamweight title, involving such ring stars as Bixto Escobar, Pete Sanstol, Baby Andradez, Panama Al Brown, Newsboy Brown, and the Canadian titleholder, Bobby Leitham.

Local Cricketers Again Disappointed

By C. H. IRESON

It will be remembered that on Saturday, Aug. 14, local cricketers were disappointed when the Oshawa club failed to put in an appearance here to play a game at Nicholls Oval scheduled for that date. The local men made all preparations for the game but no Oshawa team turned up, and, to this day, no explanation or expression of regret has been received from the Oshawa officials.

Now the keenly-anticipated return match against Toronto Parkdale scheduled to be played here on Saturday next, Aug. 28, has had to be postponed—but there are satisfactory explanations from the Parkdale Club—as set forth by the secretary in a letter dated Aug. 24. He writes and we quote: "We were drawn to play in the Woods Cup on Aug. 28. I informed the president, Mr. Paris, that we had previous obligations and asked that the date of the play-offs be moved forward but we met with opposition on every turn."

The Parkdale secretary expressed sincere regret for the incident, but said that if the local club could suggest any further date they would make the visit to Peterborough originally fixed for August 28.

Secretary A. H. Radford wrote that we would welcome them here on Saturday, Sept. 4 or 11.

The first match in the county championship for the R. C. Matthews Trophy will be played on Labor Day, Sept. 6, on the grounds of Upper Canada College in Toronto. Peterborough County will play the winner of the match between Wentworth and Halton Counties.

Terangi, owned by Sylvester Corsi of Hurley, Wis., turned in the fastest mile of the day Monday at Milwaukee, as Grand Circuit harness racers opened a four-day stand at the state fair park. Driven by Al Phillips, Terangi won the first heat of the International Midwest Trot in 2.03 4/5, but dropped to ninth in the second heat and lost the event.

At Ottawa, Stewart W. Christie, 55, prominent Canadian sportsman, died unexpectedly Monday night, of a heart attack. A former president of the Ottawa football club and a star in local basketball and baseball teams in his younger days, Mr. Christie also was a member of the old Cliffside hockey team, onetime holders of the Allan Cup.

Although sluggers are catching up to him in some departments, Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals still leads the National League batting parade with an average of .384, it was announced Monday at New York. He tops runner-up Alvin Dark of Boston by 49 points. Chicago's Andy Pafko remains third with .333. Musial continues to set the pace in runs with 105; hits with 176; doubles with 34, and triples with 13.

Nashua Evens Up Series With Quakers

Nashua defeated Quakers 14-10 at Quaker Park last night to sew up their Industrial Softball League finals at two wins each. The deciding game will be played there tomorrow night. Nashua banged out 18 safe blows, including two homers by Loyst, a double by him, a triple by Sanderson and Rochetta's two-bagger. And they went better in the field.

Reid and Anderson both saw slab action for the winners, each striking out four. Shine whiffed eight on the Quaker mound, and the losers rallied for three runs in the ninth to make it fairly close. Loyst, Pryde and Rochetta were the big hitters for Nashua but every batter got at least one safety. Beggs topped Quakers with two triples and two singles in five, as Lomax hit a homer and two singles in five. The teams:

Legion Beats CGE In 5-2 Soccer Tilt

Canadian Legion now hold an enviable position in the local soccer league through their win over Canadian General, 5-2, on Wednesday evening, at King Edward Park, before a good attendance. W. Curtis, played goal for the Vets to make his 21st year in soccer in the city. Greenhorn, CGE custodian, played a brilliant game.

Give-and-take play ensued, in the early stages, with the goalies holding their charge intact. Eventually Legion settled down to combination that resulted in Henry Foster opening the scoring. From the centre-kick, Attard went right down the wing to centre across to Strong who headed the ball into the rigging. Turner had to retire to receive treatment for a wound on the face. Grant, Legion, broke up a Strong-Cotton break-through to rattle the ball up the centre where Newt Downer pounced on it to make the count 2-1. Encouraged by their success, Legion continued their methodical attack up until the interval.

On resuming, the CGE tried to get going but they never got settled down although the half back division held the Legion forwards outside the shooting zone. But an interception of a play by A. Ross resulted in a nice save. This was followed up by G. Downer making the count read 4-2. With a few minutes to the finish, Henry Foster bulged the net.

CGE—J. Greenhorn, goal; S. McGann and S. Murduff, full backs; H. Steel, A. Welland and J. Wilson, half backs; F. Attard, F. Booth, R. Strong, E. Cotton and J. Turner, forwards; sub, T. McPhate.

Legion — W. Curtis, goal; T. Foster and A. Downer, full backs; B. Woodcock, B. Grant and J. Craig, half backs; H. Foster, N. Downer, A. Ross, G. Downer and Jack Downer, forwards; subs—J. Dunn, C. Murduff.

Referee—Asa Downer; linesmen—A. Pyle and D. Duncan.

Find Danny Kay Campaigning For Vaudeville

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26 (AP).—Danny Kaye is campaigning for the return of vaudeville, and if anybody can revive that long-dead art form, it's Danny.

"I'd like nothing better than to see a whole chain of vaudeville houses open up across the country," dreamed the fast-tongued, wild-haired comic. Would he play them? I asked.

"Would I play them!" he emphasized. I took this to mean yes.

Danny's enthusiasm for vaudeville stems from his recent date at the Palladium in London, where he seems to have created one of the most noted minor revolutions since Guy Fawkes. The comic glows with such tales as being acknowledged in the British press as "Our Danny."

"It was out of this world," he said. "Only in England could I have found audiences like those. They were mature, comprising those who go to legitimate theatres as well as young people. I could play anything for them."

Today's Feature:

Laughton's 10 Best

Want to know a distinguished actor's opinion of the 10 best films of all time? I hope so, because I have put Charles Laughton to the trouble of selecting his 10 favorites.

It's interesting that he picks only one of his own pictures, "Ruggles of Red Gap." His reason: "Because of that unbeatable team—Leo McCarey and Abraham Lincoln." Remember Charlie's delivery of the Gettysburg address? Here are his other choices:

"The Gold Rush" and "The Kid." "Chaplin is our greatest living actor."

"It happened One Night," because "it brought us Colbert and Gable as a team."

"39 Steps." "Hitchcock is the modern master of melodrama."

"Best Years of Our Lives". "It has something important to say about the moment."

"Vaudeville," because "Emil Jannings opened a new field in picture-making; great camera work of Karl Freund."

"Great Expectations." "First time the screen captured the true spirit of a literary classic."

"Smiling Lieutenant," because of "the art of Ernst Lubitsch and Maurice Chevalier."

"Broken Blossoms," because of "the terrifying scene of Lillian Gish locked in the closet."

Trek To Paris Of UN Gets Under Way

By WALTER O'HEARN

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. — The Security Council declared its annual holiday last Friday and there has been a mad trek away from here—to Paris and other centres of culture. At the moment only sweepers-up and minor committees and minor officials are left.

But there is still a great deal of sweeping up to be done which may baffle the humble employee with a broom. The Security Council may have postponed or adjourned or even settled most of the items of its agenda, but there is far from a universal feeling of satisfaction with the result.

In fact, the belief is that a good deal of dirty linen has been thrown into closets and a good deal of dust swept under the chairs in order to permit the Council and the higher secretariat members to take a breather before the General Assembly.

Here are some of the problems of international security which continue to occupy the United Nations:

Palestine—The comfortable notion that the present Palestine truce can be prolonged indefinitely, is constantly being discredited by the news from the Holy Land. On Sunday one of Count Bernadotte's Swedish aides was quoted as saying that the truce was being observed elsewhere in Palestine but not in Jerusalem—and Jerusalem lies at the heart of the whole dispute.

A Dreary Feeling

The second overtures of the state of Israel to arrange peace talks with individual Arab states have thus far failed and there is a dreary, pessimistic feeling here that only pressure by the major powers can make peace talks a fact. Meanwhile the Anglo-American rupture over Palestine, healed once before, threatens to break out again. The state of Israel will apply for UN membership at the Paris meeting next month. The United States will support the application. The United Kingdom will either abstain or vote against it.

There is nothing in the above recital which could have been prevented or cured by the Council sitting overtime by the next few weeks. But the feeling is that a situation so explosive requires constant vigilance by a world authority higher than the mediator.

Kashmir—There is a UN truce commission in India but there is no truce in Kashmir, nor does there appear to be a likelihood of an effective truce in the near future.

Indonesia—Mediation between the Dutch and the Indonesian republicans has at least been partly effective and has certainly saved many lives. But this is a potentially explosive situation, constantly threatening to blow up. Since the Indonesians arranged to export certain stocks to private buyers in the United States and the Dutch blockade prevented the consummation of this deal, negotiations have been in a very unhappy state.

Trieste—The Yugoslav charges against Britain and the United States were "killed by ostention" in the Council last week, but these accusations are likely to crop up in another form, possibly in the form of accusations against the Yugoslavs themselves. If the Yugoslav case, which concerned rival occupations of a city and its environs could be taken as a dress rehearsal of the Berlin case, it does not augur well for that case. It is felt here that if the Moscow talks break down utterly the Berlin item will have to come before the United Nations in some form, if only for form's sake.

Arms and the Men

Various subsidiary organs of the Security Council have agreed in the past few months that no progress is possible at the moment in: (a) Control of the atomic weapon, (b) Limitation and control of conventional armaments, (c) Establishment of an international police force. In each case the West has laid the blame upon the East and the East on the West.

All these matters are considered in the annual report of the Security Council which the delegates drew up in great secrecy during their final days here. As suggested by the above, it will not be a wholly encouraging report.

Yet it may be pointed out that however numerous and grave the breakdowns have been in the fields of security and international control, there has been some progress. The efforts in Palestine and Indonesia have not been fruitless. In Kashmir they might not be so if the stiff-necked oriental insistence on "face" could ever be overcome.

In other fields, the United Nations has had a good year. Health centres and information centres have been set up. Children have been fed who would not otherwise have been fed. There has been real progress in the treatment of peoples who live under trusteeship. While one would not like to bet on its adoption in some countries in the foreseeable future, a world Bill of Rights has at least been drawn up.

Journalists, immigrants, women as citizens and as victims of society have all been under discussion with a view to improving their lot There has been really practical work done on world soil conservation and on the control of habit-forming narcotics.

It is not all a gloomy picture. Where political and security factors do not enter, the United Nations have made plentiful progress. Unfortunately, it is those very political and security questions which cause men to lose sleep o' nights.

1929 Jalopy New Clue In Spy Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP) —Congressional spy-probers today gave chase to a 1929 jalopy in a renewed attempt to prove whether Alger Hiss or Whittaker Chambers lied about a pre-war Communist underground in the United States.

In a drama-packed encounter before the House of Representatives un-American Activities Committee Wednesday Hiss and Chambers told widely-different stories about a Model "A" Ford and about nearly everything else.

Chambers insisted that Hiss was a member of a Red underground in Washington a dozen years ago. He said he knew because he used to be a communist himself and served in the underground.

Hiss insisted it wasn't so, that he doesn't even have any friends who are known to him to be Communists.

In a formal statement, Hiss called Chambers a "self-confessed liar, spy and traitor" and asked:

"Indeed, is he a man of sanity?"

To a direct question from Representative Richard Nixon (Rep. Calif.), Chambers replied:

"I have never been treated for mental illness."

And as Hiss shook his head slightly from side to side, Chambers said:

"Mr. Hiss is lying."

He said Hiss told a story that was at least 80 per cent false.

Yet his voice broke and tears flooded his eyes when he called Hiss one of his best friends.

Good Friends

"I don't hate Mr. Hiss," he said. "We were close friends. We were caught in the tragedy of history. Mr. Hiss represents a concealed enemy against which I am fighting and we are all fighting."

At various times, Hiss has told the committee that he sold, gave or loaned the car to Chambers back in 1935. Finally he steeled on a statement that he had let Chambers have the use of the car.

He said he thought he disposed of the machine in that way and could not remember getting it back and selling it to a Washington automobile firm.

But Chambers said Hiss "absolutely" never sold him the car and he knew how Hiss got rid of it.

He said he and J. Peters, who he described as head of the Communist party's underground division, opposed Hiss' plan to give the car to a party organizer but eventually, he said, Peters told Hiss to take the Ford to the used car lot operated or owned by a Communist and leave it.

Musicians Seek Ban On "Canned" Music

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 26—Australian musicians are seeking a ban on the unrestriced importation of "canned" music.

Musicians' Union secretary F. Kitson told reporters that a cut in this type of music would give "live" musicians in Australia a chance to earn a living.

"Too much recorded music is going over the air," said Kitson. "The government should protect live musical talent in the same way as it protects Australian industry with bounties and tariffs."

Kitson said that the union was not against the importation of recordings of orchestras such as the Boston and Philadelphia Symphony Orchestras, because they were educational and afforded a basis of comparison with local orchestras.

Local swing fans were quick to defend their swing idols against any proposed ban. Director of the Bing and Swing Club, Brien Howard, declared that a ban on Bing Crosby would deprive the mass of people of the finest entertainment.

Charges Insults

LONDON, England— The Yugoslav government Wednesday accused neighboring Romania of grossly insulting the Tito regime and trying to bring about a revolt to overthrow Tito. Yugoslavia accused Mrs. Ana Pauker, Romanian Foreign Minister, and a leading spirit in the Cominform, of leading in a campaign of villification against Premier Tito and his aides.

46-Inch Muskie Taken In Crowe River

BONARLAW, Aug. 25.—(ENS). —Messrs. Clarence Wellman of Bonarlaw and Garfield Evans of Toronto had a thrilling adventure on Sunday morning while trolling on the Crowe River near Bull Rock. Mr. Evans thought he was caught on a log, but in a few minutes they discovered it was a large muskie. On bringing it near the boat it put up such a fight that Mr. Wellman hit it over the head with the paddle. It broke free, then sank. In a second it rose to the top, lying on its back, and Mr. Wellman caught it by the tail, landing it into the boat. It measured 46 inches in length and weighed 19½ lbs.

Belleville Union Asks CSU Claims Observed

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 26.—Belleville Local 533 United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America Wednesday sent the following telegram to the Minister of Labor in Ottawa.

"Local 533 United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America calls on you to take immediate action to rectify the injustice done to the Canadian Seamen's Union as pointed out in the report of the commission set up by your department.

"Responsibility for strike and resulting acts of violence is clearly that of your repartment through lack of enforcement of labor laws of this country.

"Your efforts should be directed towards enforcing these laws and condemning the steamship companies who by refusing to bargain with the certified Canadian Seamen's Union, have broken these laws."

Be Glad To Review Expulsion Of Union

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—(CP).—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said Wednesday night the Congress would be glad to review the position of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO) suspended from the CCL Tuesday.

No word has yet been received from the suspended union, said Mr. Mosher, commenting on a Toronto report that the union's officials announced the union is taking immediate steps to seek reinstatement in the Congress.

However, whatever grounds the suspended union presents for reinstatement will be given careful consideration, Mr. Mosher added.

City Man Jailed After 85 MPH Chase

LINDSAY, Aug. 26—(CP)—Frederick Imming, Peterborough garage mechanic, Wednesday was sentenced to two months for dangerous driving. He was captured after an 85-mile-an-hour chase during which several police shots were fired.

Imming said he thought he was being pursued by bandits.

Boy 12 Chained To Dog House; Couple Jailed

SUDBURY, Aug. 26—(CP)—Peter and Gertrude Peloquin of McConnell Township, north of Lake Wahnapitae in this northern Ontario district, were each sentenced to six months in jail Wednesday for cruelty to a child.

They were covicted of inflicting grievous bodily harm on a 12-year-old boy placed in their care by the Children's Aid Society last November.

The Aid Society physician told Magistrate Willard Cooper: "The boy's injuries are so extensive that if I described them you wouldn't believe it." The boy stripped in the witness box and showed scars and bruises from the top of his head to his ankles.

"The marks on his head were apparently caused by burns," the doctor said.

Mrs. Grace Wigg, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society here, said the Peloquin home was inspected and references obtained before the boy was sent there.

Peloquin, who testified the marks on the boy's head were fly bites, said the boy had bad habits and was disobedient. He admitted, however, chaining the lad to the dog house because he persisted in running away.

Hear Reports Of Monopoly In Shoe Inquiry

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 — (CP) — The Prices Commission was due to finish its boot and shoe investigation today.

In the course of its investigation the commission was told by a government witness, O'Neil O'Higgins of the Prices Board, that the United Shoe Machinery Company possessed a "virtual monopoly" in Canada.

Wednesday's witnesses were shoe manufacturers, H. H. Knoll, president of the Humberstone Shoe Co. and Amos Thompson, of the Newetson Shoe Co. They said they were both users of United Shoe equipment.

Both testified their use of the firm's equipment placed them under no obligation to use materials the company sells.

When Mr. Knoll was asked whether he was obliged to use the firm's materials, through the use of its machinery, he replied firmly:

"No sir."

Optional Buying

M. Thompson also said as a user of the United Shoe machinery, he was perfectly free to buy any raw materials he liked.

Both of the manufacturers testified demand for shoes, judged by retailers purchasers and future orders, was down from the peak years of 1946-47 and they attributed it ot uncertainty over future prices.

"The retailer doesn't know what's ahead of him," Mr. Thompson said. "He's just like us—he has the jitters. He doesn't know whether prices are going to be up or down."

Jeep Drifting On Ocean; Tanker To Aid

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—The tanker New Jersey reported Wednesday night to the Coast Guard that it has picked up Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Carlin—drifting 270 miles from New York in the Atlantic in an amphibious jeep—and was taking them to Halifax.

The Coast Guard said the tanker reported that the Carlins had been drifting 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlin set out early this month in a surplus army amphibious jeep on what they said was a round-the-world tour.

Their first destination was the Azores.

They last were seen Aug. 11, 150 miles at sea, when a United States Navy destroyer sighted their craft.

Carlin spent $9,000 converting the amphibian into a sea-going craft.

He put a transparent hood over the top of the truck, installed a large propeller and rigged up a 500-gallon gasoline tank and attached it underneath.

When they started, the Carlins figured they could go around the world in about six months.

The jeep travels 4½ miles an hour in the water and from 20 to 30 miles an hour on land.

BurmaSendsGunboats Against Communists

RANGOON, Aug. 26 (Reuters). —Burmese Government troops and gunboats raced today to Twante, 20 miles southwest of here, where Communist insurgents had fired on several launches of the former British-owned Irrawaddy Flotilla Company.

The situation in Twante—important because of its canal which carries the bulg of Rangoon's food supplies—was said to be obscure.

The city was captured by insurgents earlier this month but later reports indicated Government forces had recaptured it.

Pick Up 300 Slavs

MONTREAL, Aug. 26 — (CP). — The Yugoslav ship Radnik, which caused a doctors' strike in New York two months ago when stevedores saw pictures of Stalin and Tito in her cabins, called here Wednesday night to pick up 300 home-bound Yugoslav Canadians. Like the contingent of 500 which left aboard the Radnik in June the latest group is going back to help in the rebuilding of their war-torn country.

Russian Regrets Absence From Parley

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Francisco Pardo de Zela, Peruvian commercial attache, said Wednesday the Russian Charge d'Affaires wrote Aug. 21 "regretting his inability to be present" at a diplomatic reception for Hon. Ray Atherton, retiring United States Ambassador to Canada.

The gathering was held Tuesday night at the home of Hon. Alfred Benavides, Peruvian Ambassador. It was attended by the heads of 33 foreign missions. The Russian charge, Nikolai D. Belokhvostikov, was not present.

". . . The Peruvian Embassy," Mr. de Zela said in a statement, "had received three days before the date of the reception a letter from the Charge d'Affaires of the U.S.S.R. Embassy, acknowledging the invitation but regretting his inability to be present due to a previous engagement for that day."

The Canadian Press Wednesday night erroneously quoted Mr. de Zela as saying the Russian Embassy had rather "rudely" even neglected to acknowledge the invitation.

Held For Vagrancy

TORONTO, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Police Wednesday arrested Lionel LaCroix of East Toronto and held him on a vagrancy charge for questioning in connection with a holdup at the Toronto Fuels Company Aug. 17. They said he is a brother-in-law of John Checkett, 27, of Toronto who with Albert J. Walters, 24, of Hamilton was arrested minutes after they escaped in a stolen coupe with $2,237 of the firm's money.

Russian Worker Inefficient Analyst Finds

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP). —An authoritative diplomatic report says that low productivity of Russian labour is one of the most serious drags on Soviet industrial recovery.

"Soviet labour takes more man hours to do a given job than labor in any other developed country," says the document.

However, the report concludes that despite low quality of labor and other handicaps, Russia as a whole now is producing nearly the same total of goods as in 1940.

The report does not estimate how close Russia has come, even at this production rate, to disposing of all the shortages built up during the war. It continues:

1. Russia has surpassed its prewar level in production of coal, aluminum, copper ,nickel, electric power and all types of machinery.

2. Most other branches of basic industry are producing much less than before the war. The most serious shortages are in steel, cement and timber.

3. Steel scarcity is the bottleneck in the entire economy of Russia. Largely because of it, the whole construction industry has been in the doldrums for the last two years. Yet enormous constructio projects, entailing heavy outlays of steel, cement and timber, are needed to increase steelmaking capacity.

The present plan for raising the output of iron and steel is behind schedule, says the analyst who wrote the report, and prospects are that increases next year will not be large.

Railroad Bottleneck

Next to steel, railroads transportation probably is the most serious bottleneck. The Russians are feverishly building new rail lines, new freight cars and locomotives. Yet the railroads are still operating at only 75 per cent of 1940 levels.

And railroads are enormously important to Russian industry. Practically speaking, highways do not exist. Truck deliveries are made only in and around cities, from rail heads to users.

Partly to blame for the shortcomings of Soviet workers, he says, is the low standard of living, causing malnutrition, bad health and inefficiency. Housing and consumer goods are so scarce, he says, that workers have little incentive to exert themselves to earn more money, and they often seem to feel they are being exploited by their government.

The mass of workers and supervisory personnel, he continues, are technically incompetent, most of them former farmers. The large majority have to be laboriously taught even to drive an automobile.

The report cites two other reasons, for low productivity: lack of up-to-date machinery and equipment, and poor organization and exeessive bureaucracy.

The writer of the report, however, cautious that the government's rigid control of industry enables it to channel the total effort toward lines most useful to the state. The cream of Russia's labor force is well trained and efficient. The best workers are skimmed off and put into industries which the government is stressing. These industries are given ample supplies of scarce materials.

Don't let this state of affairs go on and on until you are really sick. Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today from your druggist—see how good it feels when you pep up with more iron in your blood.

BABY'S UPSET STOMACH QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote restful comfort."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and her stomach became quite upset. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—and quieted down."

Equally effective for teething troubles, constipation, simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easily crushed to a powder, if desired—prompt in action. No "sleepy" stuff—no dulling effect. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents.

One-Crop Problem Causing Concern For Saskatchewan

REGINA, Aug. 26 (CP). — This agricultural province is watching the future with concern.

Its economy is based precariously on the vagaries of wheat crops and wheat markets.

Riding high on the crest of eight war-market years, farmers have retrenched substantially, both materially and in morale, from the grey 30's when the '29 crash and its repercussions were followed almost at once by a drought that prevented farmers from growing the grain they could not have sold in any case.

Many now feel their reserves will be tested again soon and they want assurances of market stability.

In general, the United Kingdom wheat agreement was greeted as a step in the right direction. But farmers criticized the four-year plan—to end in 1950—for what they said were floor prices too far below world market levels. And now, that the agreement's end is in sight, they consider the agreement should be extended.

Hopes of added security through a multi-lateral agreement faded with failure of the United States and Britain to deal with the International wheat agreement. Agriculture Minister James G. Gardiner has said "Canada can do no more at this time" in that direction.

The bolstering of European markets with Marshal plan dollars and the Dominion Government's successes in placing Canadian wheat in a dollar-hungry world appear the most Canada's biggest wheat producer can hope for.

Knowing Saskatchewan never can hope to compete on a large scale other than as a wheat producer and that a world slump won't be offset by any number of provincial precautions, Saskatchewan still has at her disposal certain insurance measures.

Government Policies

The CCF Government policies are aimed at diversifying the provincial economy to spread risk over a larger field of occupations. The northern development programs—where fish, timber and fur have been set under government supervision—are said to be steps in expanding that phase of Saskatchewan's resources. The Government claims increased exploitation of mineral resources is evident, while its crown corporations in leather, wool, chemicals and several other lines are introducing industrialization to the agricultural province.

Political opponents claim free enterprise and capital needed to bring Saskatchewan's resources to their maximum are being kept out.

They admit freely Saskatchewan needs as much additional industry as possible, differing from the CCF only in the means to that end.

Within the agricultural field, a slowing down in wheat production as world competition increases could relieve congestion on wheat markets. Saskatchewan farmers for the last eight years were spurred into all-out wheat production tot feed a war-time world.

The big wheat farmer depended solely on his crop, spurning the less lucrative and more work-demanding production of beef, hogs or poultry. Feed grains and coarse grains—excepting perhaps flax—couldn't compete with wheat.

Saskatchewan Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollett is concerned today with a fodder shortage that may deplete present livestock and deter expansion in this field. He describes hog production as "rotten" following the bacon contracts with Britain, when farmers were urged to supply good hogs for the British contract and at the same time preserve markets which after the war might revert to Denmark.

But Saskatchewan's open spaces aren't lent to the intensive type of cultivation, Manitoba, for example, can offer. Truck gardens, poultry and dairying go by the board in favor of field crops.

"It is essential that the Dominion Government offer a stable fed-grain policy before a stable livestock, hog or feed production program can be laid down," Mr. Nollett has said.

"Saskatchewan is an agricultural province and her prosperity depends on that agriculture."

Aussie Natives Search For Gold In Black Desert

By LESLIE BRODIE
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 26—(CP) — Two mission - trained aborigines, Jimmy and Jacky, have taken a camel team into Central Australia in search of Lasseter's lost reef—a fabulous El Dorado somewhere in the Spinifex wastes of the interior.

The two aborigines are experienced prospectors with four previous expeditions in search of the reef to their credit. They will be "protected" by another native called Tommy who has only one leg.

The first of many journeys into the interior to locate the gold began soon after a prospector, Harry Lasseter, wandered into a surveyor's camp on the Adelaide-Darwin Overland Telegraph route in 1902 with a tale of having found a reef studded with gold "as thick as plums in a pudding."

Lasseter said he got lost returning from the reef. His horses had died one by one and he had wandered about for days in a semi-exhausted condition until he stumbled into the surveyor's camp.

Three years later he and the surveyor went back to find the reef but they failed.

Although many prospectors doubt Lasseter's story, old timers of the gold rush days of the West believe the reef exists—probably on sacred grounds of the aborigines, who have done everything possible to prevent the white men's search parties probing the area.

Died During Hunt

Lasseter spent the rest of his life going over his tracks and finally perished late in 1930. His naked body was discovered early in 1931. For months he had wandered about with the natives, living on their foods and trying to get a clue that might lead him back to the reef.

A native spirti-man eventually "hexed" him and left him to die.

At least 11 other men have died looking for the reef.

Jimmy and Jacky have had narrow escapes on their previous expeditions. They have been hampered by heavy sands, lack of water, and a deadly fear of being speared by wild Spinifex tribesmen.

Under the law they as aborigines, are not allowed to carry firearms and they will have to rely on their protector, Tommy, to talk them out of any trouble they might run into. Tommy is a member of the Spinifex tribe.

They have taken plenty of water with them in four-gallon drums strapped to their camels.

Before leaving for the desert they told miners they had information from "friends among the natives" that led them to hope they would be successful.

Mining interests in Kalgoorlie, a West Australian gold town, are understood to be abcking them.

Italian Army Undergoes Field Training

ROME, Aug. 26 (AP).—Italy's Republican Army is undergoing field training in its first manoeuvres this month, nearly five years from the day when a few companies lined up with the Allied armies in southern Italy to drive the Germans from their homeland.

The battered Italian army was then at its lowest ebb. There was no equipment, no arms, not even barracks left.

When the new Italian army paraded in Rome for the first time, a few weeks before the April general election, it surprised everybody. Big classes coming up with conscription allowed medical officers to choose carefully the few men they needed.

The soldiers are better equipped, better fed and better housed than in pre-war and Fascist times. With only one armed force to look after — instead of the Army and Fascist Militia — Italy's efforts are centred on building up the morale of these new soldiers, called to be ready only for defence.

For Italian boys of 20 now reporting for service, their 18-month period in the armed forces will be a sort of high-grade physical education. At the Tor Di Quinto training centre, near Rome, where the boys are taught to handle American tanks and jeeps, everybody from the sentries to commanding officers has the "New Army Look." They appear young, satisfied and interested.

Defence Minister Randolfo Pacciardi of the Republican Party recently completed a tour of Northern Italy's garrisons in advance of the summer manoeuvres in the Po Valley. For the first time since the war, Italian motorized units are carrying out tactical exercises in the field in the northern Italian plain between Verona, the Adige and Po rivers.

Youthful Foursome Spend Hours Becolined On Moon-Lit Bay Of Quinte–More Fun

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 26. —Literally they were "up the creek without a paddle."

Adrift on the flat-calmed Bay of Quinte off Rossmore, the youthful foursome had visions of drifting in their paddle-less sailboat to the open sea with stop-offs at Point Anne, Montreal and Quebec.

And it was not until 2:30 a.m. wandering on the moon-drenched after several hours of aimless placid waters of the bay that a motor-boat owner spotted their plight and brought them to harbor.

Jerry Whalen and Dennis O'Connor, the two young heroes of the piece and two young lady companions, had been dancing at the Tobe Gardens, when they decided to go for a sail. It was a lovely evening. A light breeze rippled the waters of the bay — just enough for an hour's delightful cruising. There was no auxiliary engine in the craft. There was not a paddle or anything that resembled one.

But youth must have its fling. So, the quartet, blissfully unawar of what lay in store for them, embarked in the trim sailboat and set out.

Moonlight danced on the water. Not a cloud flecked the sky. Across the bay, light flick:red in cabin and cottage, in anch:red craft at shoreline docks.

The craft circled with a graceful sweeping motion. Then it gradually began to lose way and finally stopped as the water became glassy and the breeze went to where breezes go at such times. The sail hung from the mast like a limp rag. Not a breath of air disturbed the stillness of the night.

An hour passed. Two. Three. The boys tried to signal their plight to a handsome craft anchored near the shore a few hundred yards away. Their signals were seen — but apparently the yacht's personnel was in the midst of a midnight party, and the becalmed sailboat resembled one of a hundred.

And in the excitment, one of the yacht's party, in an effort to point out the sailboat's position, reached too far and plunged into the water. More excitement aboard the yacht and the stranded quartet was forgotten.

Meanwhile they were drifting down the bay. Things began to look desperate for them. It was nearly 3 a.m. when Bob Boyce noted their plight and went to their rescue in his motor boat.

London Takes Lead Eliminating Wires

London, Ontario, is far ahead of any other Canadian city when it comes to taking overhead wires and unsightly poles off the streets and placing the wires underground. According to E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the London Uublic Utilities Commission, Ontario's Thames River city is tops judged "either on an area or per capita basis."

The program for removing overhead wires began in London 26 years ago and since then more than $850,000 worth of electric power cable has been installed underground. It is the policy of his commission "to assume leadership in this movement," Mr. Buchanan says.

The worst sleet storm in London's history, back in 1922, was what started the underground program. The storm disrupted power distribution for days and Public Utilities Commission officials decided then and there that overhead feeder circuits were too vulnerable and that high tension wires must go underground.

Editor's Mother Dies

PARIS, Ont., Aug. 26 — (CP). — Helena Clark Webber, 75, mother of Robert Webber, financial editor of the Toronto Evening Telegram who writes the column, "from Thomas Richard Henry," died Tuesday after suffering a stroke Monday. Another son, Martin, lives in Paris.

PRIMITIVE METHODS of hauling water from a well are still occasion: ly seen in some sections of western Canada, especially in districts settled by people of Ukranian descent. A heavy stone used as a weight on the end of the pole makes pulling up a pail of water a comparatively easy chore. The rope must be equal in length to the depth of the water below the top of the well. The photo was taken on a farm near Yorkton, Sask.

Toronto's Anti-Noise Edict Most Difficult To Enforce

TORONTO, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Most Torontonians have not suffered as the Great Dane owner did who recently paid a $50 fine because his dog barked too loud.

The 1939 Toronto anti-noise by-law covers a lot of sounds.

The ordinance has not been strictly enforced—"the chief constable does not have enough men"—but it is on the books.

It includes items like these:

Annoying canaries, noisy street cars, rattling bicycles, home repairs—such as hammering shingles between 6 p.m. and 7 a.m.—loud radios, phonographs and musical instruments, unmuffled motors (including motorcycles), disturbing horn-blowing and bell-ringing.

When Toronto citizens protecting the peace and quiet are calling a cop to put an end to such disturbances, they had better be careful. Crying, shouting or loud speaking in a public place is also against the law.

The churches are not exempt. The ringing of Christmas carols of an evening is taboo.

The matter has an academic tinge. The city's legal department admits: "There are so many violations you really can't enforce the law."

This is one of three bombed-out sites being excavated in a search for the remains of the ancient "Jews Garden," first cemetery of a Jewish community in England. Radio Station Looks Like Summer Hotel

ALBRO LAKE, N.S., Aug. 26—(CP)—Except for the masts and aerials, it looks just like a summer hotel.

It's the Navy's powerful Albro Lake radio station which handles 12,000 messages a month and is in constant touch with Ottawa and London.

To and from this station, five miles from Halifax, goes all wireless traffic with RCN ships in the Western Atlantic and with many merchant vessels in that area.

It is a radio-teletype communication with Whitehall and by line teletype with naval headquarters at Ottawa. Messages punched on the Albro Lake teletype are read at headquarters and in London a fraction of a second later.

Officer-in-charge is Warrant Communications Officer Charles W. Fleming of Saint John, N.B., and Halifax.

Shipping companies pay for services rendered by the station; six civilians, representatives of the Federal Transport Department, keep a record of all merchant traffic to assess charges.

In the north wing of the station are the big radio receiving room, the teletype room and the Transport Department Office. The centre part of the building houses the administrative offices and Mr. Fleming's quarters.

HORNEPAYNE, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Herme Tremlay, 30, of Montreal and Peterbell, Ont., victim of shotgun wounds in the abdomen during an isolated cabin fight, was flown from here to Port Arthur in an Ontario Lands and Forests Department aircraft, it was announced today.

Tremblay was wounded last Sunday three inches below the heart following a scuffle in a cabin near Peterbell siding, 80 miles southeast of here. Oscar Handula, 43, of Peterbell, in whose cabin the fight took place, is in jail at Sudbury on a nominal charge of vagrancy. He will appear in court Aug. 30.

Dr. A. H. Malcolm of Foleyet said Tremblay had recovered from shock, but was still suffering from severe kidney and abdominal injuries. The man was in too serious a condition to be treated at hospital here.

CNR's Fire Loss Set At $3,000,000

MONTREAL, Aug. 26—(CP)—Railway accountants feared last night that as much as $3,000,000 worth of general freight, rolling stock and buildings were destroyed in the spectacular explosions and fire back of old Bonaventure Station.

The official estimate of loss stood at "more than $1,000,000."

The blaze, touched off by the explosion of tank cars full of naptha standing in the Canadian National Railway freight yards in the centre of Montreal, petered out Tuesday under the watchful eyes of yard employees and firemen. But the yards were a mass of charred box cars, skeleton buildings and heat-twisted metal. The loss of 130 box cars alone might account for $1,612,500.

R. C. Vaughan, president of the CNR, said the company's downtown freight yard had resumed partial operations.

"No. 1 and 2 freight houses were completely destroyed," Mr. Vaughan's statement said, "and 130 freight cars were heavily damaged. The local freight office . . . was seriously damaged and has been evacuated. . . . No. 3 freight house is still intact and useable . . . This provides a nucleus of freight handling facilities."

Mr. Vaughan added that with available facilities "the handling of less-than-carload traffic will not be seriously affected."

VOL. XCVII, No. 45 THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1948 PRICE FIVE CENTS

Summer's High 96 Degrees Set Wednesday

That old gag about it being so hot a person could fry an egg on the city hall steps could have been applied to the sweltering climate of Peterborough on Wednesday. That is, if there were any city hall steps and if the price of eggs wasn't so prohibitive.

In any case it wasn't necessary to resort to stunts to convince the local citizens that it was the hottest day of the year to date.

Officially, the thermometer skyrocketed to a sizzling 96 with unofficial readings from slightly over the 100-mark to little short of boiling. Wednesday's low was 65. Those who are earnestly scanning the skies for relief seem doomed to disappointment. By 9 a.m. today it was 81 and by noon the perspiring weather man announced it was 89. A year ago it was 89 degrees.

Trying to run down the heat record in Peterborough Wednesday elicited extravagant reports which, to say the least even for such torridity, seemed to leave dougts about the veracity of other people.

There was the thermometer at Frank Gosselin's grocery store at Romaine and Park streets. At 5 p.m. its red column stood at 110 degrees, in the sun, right at the top of the glass and evidently trying to spill out. That looked like a sure thing to mention to the neighbors whose visual experience had been restricted to mere 90's.

But, by 5.30 some one says: "What 110, that's nothing; down at Outboard Marine today their thermometer was up to 120; one of the foremen told me that."

Nothing less than an affadavit would be required for the acceptance of that sizzling Sahara heat figure. For the sake of the reputation of Outboard Marine that thermometer calls for investigation, or it ought to be sent back to the factory.

So, with two fabulous heat peaks to relate for the hottest day of the year, you interject them into an evening conversation with an air of apology for such tales, suggesting effect of the blazing weather.

Doubts 120

The 110 was authentic, but the 120 was incredible. But even it doesn't get by the first round. A young merchant who is something of a joker says: "That's nothing. Trent Valley roofers said it was 128 degrees where they were working this afternoon." And somebody tossed in the remark that at 128 the crew quit. So, that's where the unofficial figure of the half holiday heat stands. You wouldn't dare carry on with the double or nothing progression that began from objective evidence at 110 in the doubt of tempting the next person to raise the ante into obvious prevarication.

Interest in the Berlin situation

—Examiner Staff Photos

waned and the chief topic of conversation switched from the cold war to cold drinks.

Air conditioned premises were at a premium. Theatres boasting efficient air conditioning systems proved particularly popular. But when these people left the building and once more hit the furnace-like heat of the open street they were worse off than before.

Grassy parks with a multitude of shade trees were also sought after. Men and women, young and old, sprawled on the grass in Victoria Park in large numbers from noon on. And there were still many sitting there after midnight.

Beaches Filled

Children and mothers thronged Inverlea Park in the afternoon to shake off that torpid feeling by a cooling plunge in the Otonabee. Soon after the five o'clock whistle the crowd increased as the head of the family raced to the swimming area clutching towel and trunks. After supper the number of bathers reached a record point for the day.

Soft drink merchants and ice cream vendors had a bonanza as everyone from little junior to grandma rushed into their stores for pop or a cone.

At the fair grounds where last-minute preparations were being made for the grand opening today, hundreds of workers toiled in the heat. And refreshment stands did an unexpectedly large business there as well.

There are no reports of heat prostration for Wednesday, but first-aid officials at the larger factories in the city were eagerly waiting for an end to the present heat spell. Attention was focussed on some of the older employees who they point out can weather a short period of excessive heat but find it exhausting for several days.

Long after midnight two old-timers sat talking on a beach in Confederation Park.

Said the first, in a confidential tones: "When its hot like this you should take more salt with your meals. When you sweat you lose salt, you know."

"Yus, said number two, "I know. In 'ot weather I always salt me beer."

No cases of heat prostration were reported.

In Bancroft, the population sweated away as the temperature simmered at 93 in the shade. Those unfortunate enough to be out in the open found little comfort in the heat—which registered 120 degrees in some places.

At Hastings, temperature ranging from 99 in the shade to 110 outside of cover also made anything energetic unlikely. According to reports: "Nobody did anything energetic unlikely: According to reports: "Nobody did anything; everybody just laid around." Only flurry of activity was a rush on ice cream dealers.

Slight damage to two cars was caused in a collision Wednesday afternoon at McDonnel and George Streets. Drivers were Jule Loitz, 440½ George Street, and Robert McClennan, 282 McFarlane Street. 140 Boys, Girls Compete In Junior Section

Don Milburn, chairman of the junior department of the Exhibition, reported the entries today of 140 boys from the district counties registering for their judging competitions throughout the day. The girls' section was held in the market hall.

"I think this is the largest number of entries we ever had," Mr. Milburn said.

Judging of beef and dairy cattle began promptly at 9.30 o'clock. Four animals of each class are paraded before the boys who are required to judge and place them and give reasons for their ratings. Judging of sheep, swine and heavy horses followed at 10.30. The afternoon program included a test of identification of many weeds, leaves and so on. The specimens were prepared by Murray McCrea, assistant agricultural representative. The agricultral "quiz", an idea conceived by Frank C. Paterson was the last test of the day, and promised to be unusually interesting.

The winners will be announced and prizes presented at CPC dinner for the boys and girls at the Empress Hotel this evening.

The boys received the benefit of the comments of R. H. Graham, Ontario Livestock Commissioner, on the class of Ayrshire cattle that was submitted to the 140 competing boys. He gave his own rating to the cattle with his reasons. The advantage of that explanation was that the boys could compare their individual ratings with Mr. Graham's. Even by 9.30 this morning the sun was turning on that heat again, and white shirts were beginning to wilt.

"That looks like a splendid class," Mr. Graham said of the boys. "I've been here often before, and I don't think you ever had that many show up."

Judging Underway

In a nearby ring the judging of the dairy cattle classes of the Exhibition itself got under way with James Henderson of Portsmouth making the awards in the Holstein section, and Brodie Ness in charge of Ayrshire and Jerseys.

Exactly 100 Holstein cattle were counted by Roy Ormiston, breed fieldman. Eleven breeders were represented, the ten previously announced with James Bishop of Keene an added entrant. The other Holstein breeders were: Hugh Ormiston of Brooklin, Stanley Wood of Otonabee; Stewart Nelson, Otonabee; Coughlin Bros, Douro, Richard and Allan Davis, Otonabee; N. W. McConkey, Peterborough; J. H. Jose & Son, Oshawa; E. J. Brown, Orono; James T. Brown & Sons, Newcastle; Thomas Flett & Son, Oshawa.

Charles E. Moore is chairman of the dairy cattle committee, Clarence Mann, vice-chairman, and the assisting directors are Clarence Coons, Wallace Brealey, Gordon Staples, Lorne Reynolds, Norman McConkey, J. T. Tully and Stanley Wood.

Household Items On Display Delight Women

Sweat-soaked shirts and handkerchiefs tied around heads marked the workers hastening on Wednesday to finish the exhibits in the manufacturer's building at the Peterborough Exhibition. Several exhibits were complete, but for the most part, the former drill hall was still in the throes of preparation.

Pieces of cardboard and wood were strewn in the aisles while a perspiring few stepped over the debris to get a previw of the exhibition, regardless of "Wet Paint" signs as they rested their hands on the barriers at the front of the booths.

The soft drink booth at the east end of the building passed pop over the counter endlessly as workers took short breaks for refreshment. Many complained that the heat didn't bother them as long as they kept working, but, as soon as they stood still, sweat popped out all over.

One of the most striking of the exhibits is a replica of a modern kitchen done in white with red trim, and complete with all appliances. In another booth, a washing machine with a glass tub whirled water around while workers looked thoughtfully at it, wishing aloud that they could climb in.

Other exhibits include building supplies, motorcycles, meat and meat packing equipment, furniture, wallpaper, cereals and flour, farm equipment and many other interesting items.

The displays in this building make it a paradise for housewives, because they can see all the latest appliances and furniture for the kitchen, laundry and other rooms in the home, and it is the first chance for may to get a complete picture of the developments.

None of the windows in the old drill hall can be opened and as a result, the heat inside it was nearly suffocating. But, as one man remarked, it's the kind of weather they like for fairs.

Across the road from the drill hall in the former secretary's building, exhibits of home cooking, woodcarving, grain and corn were being made ready for today's opening. One huge stand of corn was propped in a corner and people gazed at the 12-foot stalks in admiration.

Outside, other workers sweltered preparing the farm machinery exhibits, and dust clouds rolled over them as trotters circled the track on practice runs. On the midway, boys looking for free passes carried water and did other odd jobs.

New Washrooms Give Modern Touch

Completion of the new washrooms at the south side of the former drill hall has lent an air of modernity to the exhibition, which formerly possessed only buildings of "The Specialist's" line.

The former rifle range has been made over to accommodate two washrooms, which are equipped with shiny white porcelain and chrome fittings. Windows were cut in the sides of the low concrete buildings, and an inner sub-wall built to facilitate the installation of pipes.

The washrooms have at least 30 wash basins, and is complete with concrete floor, paper towels, waste baskets and mirrors. Many favorable comments have been heard on this badly-needed addition to the grounds.

THOUGHTFUL

The Humane Society is today singing the praises of two little boys who have not forgotten dumb animals during this current hot spell. When the baker stopped his horse and cart in front of one lady's place today she asked him if his horse would like a drink. He was able to assured her that this was not necessary as the two little boys who live on his route bring out a pail of fresh cool water every morning so the horse can quench his thirst.

Floral Display By Mrs. Bacon Is Outstanding

Described by W. A. Hick, Lindsay, as the outstanding display of the flower show at the Exhibition this morning, are the floral miniatures and mat designed by Mrs Clarence Bacon, 697 Ross St. She won all the first prizes in those sections of the horticultural show in the old manufacturers building.

Mrs. Bacon's floral mat set out the legend "Peterborough Exhibition, 1948" in blue corn flower blossoms against a background of white sweet alyssum. Each blossom of alyssum had to be placed in the mat with tweezers, exceedingly fine work, indicating a special diligence and ability in this type of floral arrangement.

The miniature displays presented a floral garden, home and garden made to scale, a garden of cacti, and a woodland scene. Most of Mrs. Bacon's work may endure through the heat to the last day of the show.

The Horticultural Society contributed a large pool of aquatic plants.

In the section for major displays of gladioli, first prize was awarded to Herb Cardwell of Wallace Point; 2nd to George Clarke, also of Wallace Point and 3rd to Harold Ball, 85 Princess St.

Wm. C. Wilks is chairman of the horticulture committee, with Mrs. G. K. Fraser, H. B. Ball, C. H. Bacon, J. I. Buckley, J. M. Burns and F. Storey Incidentally, the keen interest of Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Omemee, in flowers was manifested in the useful work he did Wednesday afternoon and evening and again this morning in assisting he committee.

Other displays in the same building are vegetables of which John Kitney is the supervising director; agriculture products, grains and roots, Vern Campbell chairman with Alex Huston, Cliff Johnston, W. W. Dawson and J. Kitney; home products and fine arts.

Mr. H. T. Rehill is chairman of the home department with Miss M. Elliott, Miss M. Higgins, Mrs S. A. Lowe, and honorary members, Mrs. Gordon Hancock and Mrs. Clarence Mann.

SCOUT HEAD TO SPEAK

Major General D. C. Spry, CBE, DSO, chief executive commissioner for Boy Scouts of Canada, will address a special Scout gathering at the Empress Hotel, 6.30 p.m., Friday. It will be the first time that Major General Spry has visited Peterborough in his executive capacity. Attending the dinner-meeting will be scoutmasters, cubmasters, chairmen of group committees, members of the local executive and other invited guests.

5-Man Group Suggested To Cover Work

A recommendation that an industrial commission consisting of five men be set up for the city was framed a a special meeting of the Industrial Development committee of the City Council today. The recommendation will go to the Council for consideration at next Monday's meeting.

Alderman Pat Anglesey, chairman of the committee expressed his dissatisfaction with the existing set-up to Mayor William Ovens several weeks ago, pointing out that the system was not sufficiently close-knit for efficient operation, and adding that the city should have a competent man who would have time to go out and sell prospective heads of industries on the merits of Peterborough as an industrial site.

The proposition was discussed earlier this week and all members of the committee Aldermen Raine, Armstrong, Swanston and Anglesey with Mayor Ovens were agreed the Commission was the solution.

Mayor Ovens suggested the group would consist of himself, the city clerk, the chairman of the industrial committee, Wilson Gemmell, and James Fraser, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

"I've thought for some time that our present method of handling enquiries was not the best," said Mayor Ovens. "The council changes every year, and we have had four successive chairmen on the committee, all of them good men, I feel it would be better if we had one key man and a strong commission working with him.

Continuing Mayor Ovens said that City Clerk E. A. Outram had done good work handling enquiries regarding industries but that he had far too many other city duties to handle this work.

"If we are going to do a selling job we must go out and sell the prospects. I feel we should have an industrial commission operating independent of the Council, with representation from the Council, and all final measures would be cleared through the Council."

"What about the financing of this body?" Alderman Raine asked.

"They would have a separate budget," said the Mayor. "What I am suggesting is common to most larger municipalities today. We must realize that competition for new industries is very keen today.

"Will there be a salary paid to the secretary?" queried Alderman Anglesey.

"The commission itself would decide that," replied the mayor. "They would be appointed by bylaw and there would be continuity of office. The plan will require considerable thought.

"The lines of authority must be clarified before appointments are made and the final word will be with the council," said Alderman Raine.

Alderman Anglesey explained that the Council must keep in mind that many enquiries will be coming from English businessmen and from Americans and it was highly advisable that an organization be set up to deal with them promptly and efficiently.

Suggest Czechs Work Six Days

PRAGUE, Aug. 26 — (AP) — Official suggestions have been made that Czechoslovak factory workers should change from a five-day to a six-day week.

The suggestions have been made by officials of the Communist government. There are indications the proposal may be put into effect. Trade union groups, controlled by the Communists, have passed similar resolutions.

Industry Minister Alois Kliment told a district conference of the Communist party Sunday at Hradec Kralove that "we could produce much more if we would voluntarily decide that no free Saturday should exist in the five-year plan.

"Don't you think it is a crime against our building endeavors when we do not work 52 Saturdays as well as 20 annual holidays and 12 days public holidays? With a proper distribution of labor, more machines working and with the introduction of two shifts, our production would increase greatly."

Car Skids On Road Rolls Twice Into Ditch

CORNWALL, Aug. 26 — (CP) —Four Montreal residents were injured Tuesday when their car skidded on wet pavement near Lancaster and rolled over twice into the ditch.

In "fairly good" condition in hospital here are Mrs. Elizabeth Truesdell, with a slight abrasion to the scalp and slight chest injuries, and Mrs. Josephine Labelle, 73, with extensive lacerations to the right hand.

William Henry Brierley, driver of the car, was released from hospital after being treated for an injured finger. His wife suffered bruises above the left eye.

A NOON-DAY EXPLOSION in the basement of the Canadian Electric Box Co. plant, 1402 Queen St. E., Toronto, blew a woman office worker through a plate glass window. Workmen, who were employed earlier building an addition to the plant, are seen cleaning up the debris and shoring up the sagging building.

Quebec Waging Battle Of Cradle Says Protestant Churchman

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 26. (CP)—A leading Canadian Protestant churchman asserted today that French-Canadians are "somewhat obsessed by the idea that they can win Canada by means of the battle of the cradle." They were "encouraged" to have large families while most English-speaking parents had only one to four children.

Telling the history of Canada —a story of two races separated by cultural and religious traditions yet "striving together to build a nation" — to the General Assembly of the World Council of Churches, Rev. Gordon A. Sisco address:

"To the extent that the province of Quebec becomes industrialized and urbanized, which now is rapidly taking place, it will probably be discovered that the cradle's revenge cannot be relied on."

Much of the 2,500-word address of Mr. Sisco, Secretary of the United Church of Canada, was devoted to the position and strength of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada. He outlined the growth of the ecumenical movement and declared that Canadian Protestants "maintain and develop the heritage which we have received from our forbears."

Church and State Allied

There was in Canada "little that resembles the United States' tradition of 'religious liberty'; 'freedom to worship God according to one's conscience' and "complete separation of church and state'." This was due to "the fact that in French Canada there is and always has been a very close alliance between the church and the secular political heads."

The United Church Secretary described Quebec's French-Canadians as "a people who combine into a single strategy of purpose an intense nationalism and a devout loyalty to the Church of Rome." This "may be explained by the fact that a people who are surrounded by a foreign culture and religion will naturally find compensation for their isolation by intensifying their loyalty to an imperial form of Christianity."

Noting that Canada began as a Roman Catholic "colony," Mr. Sisco said the Dominion now is approximately 58 per cent Protestant and 42 per cent Roman Catholic. He went on:

"There is not among the Roman Catholics in Canada that same cohesiveness that one now finds among the Roman Catholics of the United States. This is due to the fact that the French-Canadians keep pretty much to themselves and are somewhat obsessed by the idea that they can win Canada by means of the battle of the cradle. While English-speaking families on the whole range from one to four children, the French-Canadians are encouraged to have large families and many of them do.

Must Face New Issues

"But this policy can only be maintained in a primitive agricultural economy . . . Moreover, with the rapid industrialization of Quebec, it is quite probable that many of th familiar and compelling features of medieval life will tend to pass away, which will bring French-Canadian Roman Catholisism face to face with new and difficult issues."

The Protestant clergyman described to his European audience the "rapid development in the field of organic church union" in Canada. From 1820 to 1884 eight Methodist unions took place; by 1875 the Presbyterians had "composed their denominational differences and brought into existence the Presbyterian Church in Canada; by 1904 negotiations opened with a view to uniting the Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists.

"A minority within the Presbyterian Church held back. But the West would not wait. The people out on the prairies went ahead and organized union congregations . . . In the face of that situation alone, it was felt that there could be no turning back. On June 10, 1925, the union of the three denominations was consumated . . .

"It was not a perfect accomplishment, but it was a great North American achievement . . . "

'Quiz' College Has To Answer Some Questions

LONDON, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Whitehall's "quiz college," scene of weekly question-and-answer programs for civil service candidates, may have some questions ot answer on its own behalf.

Instead of putting others on the spot, sponsors of the new system for selecting future ambassadors and senior civil servant may be called on the parliamentary carpet themselves. After weeks of study, the select committee on estimates issued a white paper terming present methods too costly and burdened by an excessive staff.

"Quiz College" is a spacious manor house near Cobham, Surrey, fronted by a quarter-mile lawn and pattern box hedges. Each week 24 examinations, three examining panels, each comprising a chairman psychologist and an observer, put the candidates through personality, judgment and intelligence tests. The weekend concludes with a general quiz.

Some Disadvantages

A majority report of the parliamentary committee favored retention of the experiment, but added the reservation that the system appears to favor "those who are quick at intelligence tests but who may lack some qualities especially valuable to the government service."

Five of every six candidates tested "get the going," the committee reported. In addition to 3,000 men and women interviewed, 40 per cent of those applying for administrative service and 50 per cent for foreign service scored personality and intelligence marks which represented "complete failure."

Evidence taken by the parliamentary committee includes the opinion of Viscount Hinchingbroke that even Winston Churchill might not have passed the tests.

Also published in the white paper is a reply by R. E. Barclay, head of the foreign office personnel department, when asked whether Foreign Secretary Bevin would have qualified as vice-consul under the quiz system. Barclay replied:

"I'm sure his personality would have made a great impression."

Summer Ice Flows

KINDERSLEY, Sask. — (CP). — The Weekly Clarion here recently printed a picture of the spring ice break-up in the district. It explained: "The ice went out months ago; the cut came in weeks ago, but this week we have room — so he's the picture."

Improvements Suggested Among Justices of Peace

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Aug. 26 (CP). — Bumbling Justices of the Peace, enfeebled by years or hampered by ignorance of the law, are sometimes mentioned in Parliament, but a Royal Commission has decided most of these laymen judges serve the community well.

A Royal Commission on Justices of the Peace reported the present system of administering justice in magistrate's courts mainly by lay judges requires improvement, but not radical chance.

The Commission suggested there should be a retiring age for justices and recommended 75 years. It also suggested that these men and women, chosen for important service by their fellows, should be entitled to travelling expenses and lodging allowances for absence from home overnight.

20,000 Justices

The justices — there are about 20,000 in England and Wales — trace their history back to 1327, when a statute was passed providing that in every county "good men and lawful" should be appointed to keep the peace.

At first, they acted as constables and were given power to deal with minor offences and oftimes clapped minor criminals in the stocks. Beyond that, they saw that persons accused of serious crime were held in custody until called before the grand jury.

The justices, normally engaged in other occupations, tend to allow their emotions to influence them more than a high court judge who is familiar with the law and knows the limitations in his power. But court clerks usually are consulted by the justices' bench and foolish sentences avoided.

In past years, the richer, more influential members of the community usually served as justices. But now the laymen judges are appointed from all classes.

The Royal Commission suggested that there might be a limited scope for evening courts.

Lord Merthyr, member of the commission, disliked in particular the arrangement under which persons sit as justices by virtue of holding some other office. He cited the case of a mayor who at the time of his election had been convicted 79 times.

2 Forest Fires Out

FREDERICTON, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Two small forest fires reported in New Brunswick during the last few days were said today to have been extinguished. Both were believed started by lightning. One fire was in the Tobique River section and the other near Smoker Brook in Northumberland County.

CRADOCK, Cape Province, South Africa — (CP)— A farmer here shot a springbok on his farm, cut it open and found a calf. Using a hunting knife, he removed the baby springbok. It is being reared by a nanny goat.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO CHANGE PLACES WITH THESE MEN? The temperature is an even 28 degrees, winter sports are in vogue and you won't be bothered with hay fever. No, this photo was not radioed from Baffin Land. A photographer, who slipped and almost dropped his camera on an icy floor, got this hot weather suggestion in an ice manufacturing plant in Montreal. The ice will keep Canadian Railways trains supplied for months to come. Note wind-breakers and caps worn by men. Dressed warmly, they seldom catch colds, but say it's hard to take the outside climate when they go home.

Gardiner Sure Butter Supply Good Till Feb.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 — (CP). — There is lots of statistical support for Canadians who believe a serious butter shortage is just around the corner.

But in Regina Wednesday Agriculture Minister Gardiner said there cannot possibly be a butter shortage in Canada until at least February.

The Bureau of Statistics said Wednesday the Dominion's stocks at August 1 totalled 78,250,000 pounds, a drop of 14,500,000 pounds from the total at August 1, 1947.

July production of creamery butter— the main single type— was 42,250,000 pounds, compared was 42,500,000 pounds, compared last year.

Total output — of creamery, dairy and whey butter—was 202,-500,000 pounds in the first seven months of this year, compared with 205,000,000 pounds in the same period of 1947.

Consumption per capita last month was 2.59 pounds, more than the 2.47 pounds of June and the 2.44 pounds of July last year. Total consumption during the first seven months of the year was 201,000,000 pounds—15.66 pounds per capita—compared with 192,-500,000 pounds last year and a per capital figure of 15.30.

Milk Down

The bureau also reported figures on decreased milk production. At June 30, this year's output was 7,957,846,000 pounds, 286,-000,000 less than last year's six-month total.

Only 2,857,078,000 pounds of milk went into creamery-butter production during that period, compared with 2,951,712,000 pounds from January to June last year. Other milk-utilization figbrackets:

Tokyo Rose Arrested For Treason

TOKYO, Aug. 26 — (AP). — Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino, accused of being one of six dulcet-voiced Japanese radio disk jockeys known to American service men in the Pacific as Tokyo Rose was arrested to-day. The specific charge against the American-born Japanese wife of a Portuguese was treasonable activities during the Second World War. She will be tried in San Francisco after she lands there about September 28.

During the war, six English-speaking Japanese women regaled American service men from Alaska to Australia and Hawaii to Kunming with a spicy radio program of records plus propaganda and sometimes sexy patter. The nickname Tokyo Rose was allied to all six.

One of the highlights of the program was a campaign to persuade soldiers not to take atabrine in the jungles. Tokyo Rose told them in a confidential tone that the anti-malaria drug would make them sterile. Service doctors found a lot of men believing her, too.

The 32-year-old Los Angeles-born Japanese woman was arrested on orders from Tom Clark, United States Attorney-General. She was lodged in Sugamo Prison from which she was released last October after authorities had investigated her.

When she sails for the United States and her San Francisco trial next month none of her relatives will be allowed to accompany her. Repeatedly since the end of the war she has told Americans that she wanted to clear up her status.

Mrs. D'Aquino came to Japan shortly before the war started. She was married here.

Quite A Shock

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 26. — (AP).—Cpl. Marion Williams arrived home from Germany today and wordlessly embraced the wife he had been told was dead. Then he went to bed to recover from shock and fatigue. Confusion in names with another Cpl. Williams resulted in the military policeman being sent home on an emergency leave to attend his wife's funeral.

Cancer Suspects Should See Doctor

"If you suspect you have cancer, there are dos and don'ts to heed," says Miss Isabel Oliver, executive secretary of the Canadian Cancer Society, Ontario Division.

"Don't waste precious time worrying. Don't try to treat yourself with useless home remedies. And above all, don't visit quacks who claim sure sures. Their preparations treatments may make fou f[illegible] better temporarily, but they won't cure your cancer.

"Instead, go immediately to your doctor. He knows that there are only three recognized methods of treating cancer: Surgery, radium and X-ray."

A recent report from the American College of Surgeons, says Miss Oliver, has on record more than 40,000 verified cures of cancer—and there were pronounced cures only after a five-year observation period.

"More and more are being added every day," she says.

Miners Union Heads Seek Reinstatement

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(CP)—Top executives of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers announced Wednesday night the suspended union is taking immediate steps to seek reinstatement in the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The announcement was made in a statement by R. H. Carlin of Sudbury, the union's Eastern Canada director, and M. E. Travis, international secretary-treasurer, who flew here from Chicago Wednesday to confer with Mr. Carlin.

Mr. Carlin came from Ottawa where he attended the CCL's executive council meeting Tuesday that suspended the union. The suspension resulted from an article in the union's paper which CCL officials said attacked their president, A. R. Mosher.

The statement said the CCL council would be asked to reconsider the suspension. Failing this, an appeal likely would be made to the general membership at the CCL annual convention in Toronto Oct. 11.

The statement termed the suspension "drastic action" for a charge that "seems inadequate and flimsy." It said the article in question was based on newspaper reports that Mr. Mosher, head of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, had stated he was prepared to settle for a rate lower than other railroad unions demanded during the recent wage-increase negotiations.

When the matter was brought to the attention of union executives, "even before it was raised inside the CCL, the union's officers made sincere apologies for the printing of the story, and even went to the extent of discharging the employee responsible for sending the story to us."

The statement asked support of all CCL-affiliated unions in the appeal for reinstatement.

New Appointment For Brig. Glubb

AMAN, Trans-Jordan, Aug. 26 (Reuters). — Brig. John Glubb (Glubb Pasha), British-born commander of the Arab Legion, will be on the operational staff of the combined Trans-Jordan and Adiqi armies, it was reliably learned here to-day. Glubb Pasha is at present in England with his wife and family. Date of his return to Trans-Jordan has not been made known. It was officially annonuced Monday in Baghdad that Iraq and Trans-Jordan would merge their armies under Iraqi general command "to co-ordinate military operations in liberating Palestine."

Fear 50 Plants May Be Closed

MONTREAL, Aug. 26—(CP)—Spokesman for some 50 manufacturing firms said Wednesday they may have to close their plans, either partially of completely, if the Federal Department of Transport carries out its plan to drain Lachine Canal during the winter months.

The canal, which enables lake vessels to by-pass Lachine Rapids, is the only source of water for these firms, which use from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 gallons daily.

They can't get water from city mains because that system is already overtaxed. Besides, there is a by-law which says that city water cannot be connected to pipes which normally use contaminated canal water.

Normally, the canal is drained for 30 days prior to the opening of navgiation to allow for inspection. But some water is always left in the bottom.

NORWOOD, Aug. 26 — (ENS) —The permanent employees of the Norwood Hydro Electric Power Company of Canada, held a stag party at the home of Gerald Le Brash on Friday evening to honor Robert Garden whose marriage to Miss Audrey McMaster will take place on Sept. 4.

The first part of the evening was spent in playing euchre and cribbage, the high honors going to Jack Cronin and Hartley Morrison and consolation prizes to Bob Garden and Jerry Martin. Later in the evening a merry sing son was enjoyed, Jack Cronin and Gerald La Brash displayed their talent by playing the violin, Jerry Martin and Art La Brash turnabout at the piano and Bert Payne and Jerry Martin sang some western songs.

During the lunch hour, E. M. Hess proposed a toast to the groom to which Bob made suitable reply. Jerry Martin expressed the congratulations of the "gang" and presented Bob with an automatic electric toaster.

Kitchener Man Has Clock 300 Years Old

KITCHENER, Aug. 26 — Surrounded by a wealth of history and legend is an antique clock owned by Maj. George A. Heather, 117 Queen St. North, Kitchener.

The ornate time-piece is reputed to have graced the palace at Versailles, France, at the time of Louis XIV, which would make it more than 300 years old.

It was one owned by Marshal MacMahon, Duke of Magenta, famed French military leader and statesman, who passed to his son, the Count MacMahon.

Came From Ireland

The clock was given to the family of the Sullivan O'Mores, of Ireland, and through them to Maj. Heather.

He explains the MacMahon family, although noted French leaders, were descended from Irishmen who fled to France with James II. The Sullivan O'Mores were remotely related to the MacMahons.

At the time of the French Revolution, the clock was taken from Versailles by emigrees fleeing the reign of terror which accompanied the revolution.

Maj. Heather brought the clock to Kitchener about 15 years ago. Prior to that time, it was in the family home at Knockadoo, County Sligo, Ireland.

Including the carved bracket which support it, the hardwood and metal piece is about 43 inches high. Ornate scroolwork and ornamentation are a feature of the piece.

The sides and base have intricately carved patterns. Surmounting the clock is the crowned figure of a goddess sitting upon the world, arms outstretched. It has been suggested the figure represents herroic France.

At the base of the clock itself, a carved head appears at each corner. The carved figure of a woman with an infant is shown below the glass front under the clock face.

Works Visible

The 11-inch dial has Roman numerals set in white squares on the ornamented face. At the outer rim, the minutes are numbered.

The works of the clock are visible through the glass sides. The clock is in "very good order," Maj. Heather said. He has not kept it running recently.

The chimes were lost in Dublin many years ago. The clock was being examined and cleaned when the jeweller went bankrupt. The clock was retrieved but the chimes were not found.

Similar clocks are located in Canada House, London, at Dublin Castle and in the Park Plaza Hotel, New York. In each case, they are considered valuable and Maj. Heather has no doubts his venerable time-piece is also worth much.

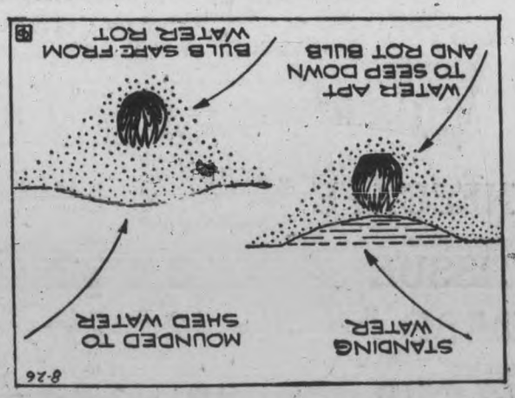
Lilies Don't Like Wet Feet



By DEAN HALLIDAY

Proper drainage is perhaps the most essential factor for success in growing lilies. They like moisture but will not tolerate wet feet.

When planting lilies, if the drainage is not perfect, dig down about two feet and put in a base of several inches of coal ashes. If they are not available use gravel or coarse sand. Coal ashes are preferred as they hold moisture.

Experienced gardeners make the surface where lilies are planted higher than the surrounding ground, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden - Graph. When the surface is somewhat mounded, as illustrated, it will shed water. If a depression is left in the soil above the bulb, as illustrated, the water may seep down and rot it.

In gardens where the soil is inclined to be wet, lily enthusiasts plant lily bulbs on inverted flower pots. First dig a deep hole (about 16 inches), partly fill it with coarse sand and push the flower pot into the sand. Next place a thin layer of sand over the bottom of the pot and place the bulb upon it. Fill the hole with a mixture of sand loam and well-rotted leafmold.

The soil should be covered where lilies are growing. Low cover plants, low shrubs or spreading perennials which will shade the bases of the lilies or a constantly maintained mulch are important to success.

Most lilies except the very hardy varieties are benefited by a winter mulch. Well-rotted leafmold is good and can be left on the ground the year around. Straw, clean wheat, rye or March hay is also goom. Do not put on thicker than four inches and not until after the ground is well frozen.

Allied Labor Council Plans Mammoth Show Labor Day

Local residents with talent for entertaining have been promised an opportunity when the Allied Labor Council stages its show "Fun For You" on the evenings of September 4th and 6th at Riverside Park. Those who prefer to be spectators will have a chance to chuckle as their friends and neighbors take part in the three-hour show impersonating continentally-known radio characters.

It is estimated that at least 150 local people will participate in the evenings' fun—60 small children, between 30 and 40 dancing girls, and the rest main characters, barn dancers and bit players.

Miss Elsa Kubic, Minneapolis, Minnesota, will direct the show. She is already hard at work completing plans to make the entertainment a laugh parade from first to last.

It is not a continuous play but is divided into 10 different scenes, representing some of the best known American radio programs. There will be a children's scene with the "Tell Me A Story" lady who recites a verse-story accompanied by music. Eight children from Public School Grades 5 and 6, specially chosen for their intelligence, will be introduced as the "Quiz Kids," answering the knotty problems thrown at them by the Quiz Master.

Those whose favorite is "Double or Nothing" will be able to participate in a similar contest. There will be a specially-chosen master of ceremonies to take the place of the network's famous Harry Von Zell.

And men — don't go away yet — 16 local lovelies are to be picked to do an imitation of the Roxy Rockettes, the heel-toe-and-kickstep artists of Radio City.

Other girls will be chosen for a Peterborough version of the Earl Carroll girls. They will do a pageant dance routine.

Lovers of "old time" dancing will see eight couples in a barn dance scene accompanied by a pianist, guitarist, fiddlers and a caller. Characters will include Uncle Ezra, Minnie Pearl, and the Duke of Peducah; the comic with the big feet.

Orchids to Oldest Lady

There will be one of the popular "give-away" shows modelled on that of Tom Brenneman known as "grandma's Van Johnston. Orchids will go to the oldest lady in the audience, nylons to the lady with the sillest hat, and other features.

One of the novelties will be a "good neighbor presentation." People will write in beforehand and choose the most popular lady in the city and she will receive a platform presentation.

Dr. I.Q. will also entertain. People in the audience will be singled out to answer questions. If they answer them correctly they receive a silver dollar! if not, a chocolate bar.

That bane of modern radio — singing commercials — will also be used to contribute to the fun.

The finale is a patriotic pageant with historical characters and people from all walks of life depicted, showing their allegiance to Britannia. A color party of Legionnaires will also participate in the final scene.

On Labor Day the King and Queen of Peterborough will be crowned. A boy and a girl will be chosen as most popular by a city-wide vote.

The show will be interspersed with specialty numbers and acts. It is also hoped to have the services of a professional pianist and soloists.

Miss Kubik says that similar shows composed of local talent, given brief training, have been successful from coast to ocast in the United States and have also been popular elsewhere in Ontario as well as Quebec.

A special stage is being constructed to accommodate the entertainers. Those who would like to take part in the show are invited to try out. Emphasis is on the fact that Peterborough people will be providing the evening's fun.

NEW SHORE FABRIC AND DESIGN—Both shoes and handbag above are made of a new fabric, discreetly aglitter with gilt threads and made of mohair, cotton and rayon. The stuff is treated to be water repellent and stain resistant, and the fabric aside from its metallic content, can be dyed any color one desires to macth a costume. Shown here, the basic color is navy blue, apt partner for the navy blues we have in wardrobe the year around. Notice the heel slit above the sole; this construction gives slingback comfort, plus closed back look, and is new.

London Weddings Lack Color of Days Before War

BY JOAN CAPREOL

LONDON, Aug. 26 (Reuters)—British socialites trying to put on fashionable "headline" weddings on a pre-war scale this summer are running against austerity snags.

Prominent families still choose London church settings for their marriages. Top hats and morning dress have made their reappearance and crowds of housewives are once again traveling from all over London to act as enthusiastic audiences.

But the wedding hosts and hostesses are finding that they can accommodate as many guests or provide the lavish feasts of old.

Gone are the days of a wedding such as that of the Duke of Norfolk and the Earl of Rosegbery's daughter, at Berkeley Square in 1937. The 1,400 guests were served champagne and a buffer-menu costing more than £1,000 ($4,000) by a catering staff of 70.

Now most wedding receptions are held at luxury hotels—"an unheard of things before the war," said one society matron.

Les Catering Now

We used to cater for 200 big weddings a year in private homes in the counties and in London," said London's top catering firm. Now we do about 60."

"A normal society wedding used to have 400 to 600 guests. Today most have between 150 and 300. We used to send staffs of 70. Now we send 40.

"Buffet menus still looks the same as before the war," he said. "They are quite as artistically decorated, but they don't taste the same."

The church for fashionable weddings in London is the small, greystone, soot-smeared parish church of St. Margaret, in the shadow of Westminster Abbey. But while it is the coziest of society-wedding places, St. Margaret's is that its position and setfor members of parliament, is also one of the most costly.

One of the principal reasons for the popularity of St. Margaret's is that its psition and setting provide a background in which a bridal retinue is shown off to greatest advantage.

Wedding Rings Are Very Plain

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 —(CP)—Some girls still want fancy wedding rings, but there's a definite trend back to the plain and simple ring of grandmother's day, says the American National Retail Jeweller's Association which held its annual covention her recently.

One jeweller said most American girls insist on double-ring ceremonies and they like the rings matched. Most men refuse to wears fancy rings so the girls must wear them plain and simple, too.

Another jeweller said men's wedding rings became popular during the war, when servicemen wanted some token of the girls they left behind.

While there is sign of a congestion, postponement or other impediment, seeming to prove tenacious and disheartening, a condition that might be attributable to the withdrawal of support from prominent places, the situation is not hopeless. There is a very encouraging aspect in which an adroit and gracious use of the factors of youth, charm, wit, perhaps social prestige may break down obstacles. Adjustments may be made, aided and abetted by patience and application.

Those whose birthday it is, may be able to batter down opposition, stagnation or lack of co-operation, by a tactful and judicious manipulation of the purely personal element. If social, cultural, youthful or mental strategies it might be possible to melt static situations and recapture promised assistance, Social gestures, entertainment, or just pleasant approach could "move mountains" in a dilemma.

A child born on this day may gain much headway against lagging or thwarted interests by a tactful and judicious manipulation of personality, charm, or cultural graces.

Cornmeal In Pancakes Suggested Autumn Dish

By MARY MOORE.

You may have noticed that we have been away, by the relaxed style of this column in the past few weeks.

For instance, we used a packaged cornmeal pancake mix for conveniences' sake and found we had been missing something pretty special up to now.

And, of course, it is nothing new to roast corn in the husk in a bonfire, and it never loses its charm for me— especially since Marianne and Peter are now official cooks, whenever we have a campfire meal, at at long last the adults can sprawl on the ground sheet and give instructions which nobody heeds. However, the corn was not burned.

Cornmeal Pancakes

One cup cornmeal, ¼ cup milk, 1½ cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 well-beaten egg, 2 tablespoons melted bacon dripping or butter. Add cornmeal to 1½ cups boiling water and boil 5 minutes. Turn into bowl. Add milk. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt and sugar and add to first mixture. Mix well. Add egg and fat. Drop by tablespoonfuls on well-greased, hot griddle and brown both sides. I think these are best served with marmalade—but that may be because we brought out a cherished jar of tangerine marmalade we had been hoarding.

Southern Corn Cakes

Cut and scrape corn from cob until you have 2½ cups. Add 1 beaten egg, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons flour. Mould in small cakes and roll in yellow cornmeal. Saute in hot butter until brown on both sides. Serve hot with cheese sauce as the main attraction on a vegetable plate.

Incidentally you may have noticed that my purpose in printing corn recipes is that they are seasonable and that they are so satisfying that they reduce our craving and need for meat which has reached such stratospheric prices.

Fresh Corn Pudding

Two cups corn cut fresh from the cob, 2 cups milk, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon minced onuion, 2 tablespoons of sugar, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, 1 chopped pimiento, a teaspoon salt. Beat eggs slightly, add milk, sugar and salt. Mix corn with other ingredients and add to the milk mixture. Mix well. Turn into buttered baking dish and bake in moderate oven of 325 degrees Fahr., for 1 hour. Good served as is ,or with cheese or tomato sauce or mixed cheese and tomato sauce.

Corn Relish

(This is the recipe for Corn Relish that I use and consider a standby for serving with lamb, or as an all-purpose barbecue sauce.)

Two tablespoons salt, 6 cups finely chopped cabbage, 2 finely chopped sweet red peppers, 2 finely chopped sweet green peppers, about 6 large ears of corn, 1½ cups vinegar, 1½ cups water, ¾ cup dry mustard, 1½ cups of sugar, 1½ tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons each celery seeds and mustard seeds. Add the salt to the chopped cabbage, and both peppers and then let it stand one hour and drain well. Cook the corn 5 minutes then cut from the cobs—you should have about 6 cups cut corn. Heat the vinegar and 1 cup of the water to boiling point; add to it the mustard, sugar and flour which have been mixed to a paste with the remaining ½ cup water, and stir until thick. Pour over the combined corn, cabbage and peppers, and add the celery and mustard seeds. Mix well, heat to boiling point, and pour into sterilized jars and seal at once. This amount makes about 4 pints.

Call Own Ticket In Style Most Flattering

TORONTO, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Practical clothes for Canadian women, styled by all-Canadian designers, will be featured at the Canadian National Exhibition fashion showings this year.

At a preview Wednesday the press got the chance to approve the flattering and effective styles created by Canadian designers.

Feminine Victorian glamor combined with 20th century practicality gave the gowns public appeal lacking in last year's exaggerated styles.

Judging by these showings, women will be given the opportunity to call their own ticket—a thing they've wanted for years. Styles most flattering to individual women can be selected whether its tiers or bustles, pointed collars or round, dressy or tailored, full or flared.

While the business or street dress showed a straighter line, the trend was toward back fullness. In evening gowns this trend resulted in bustles or heavy drapes, while plaid skirts also fit snugly at the front and are pleated in back.

Outstanding for evening wear was a white number, fitted around the strapless neckline with a roll of mink. A large pink rose, the only adornment on a black gown, flattered the bustline.

A practical gray coachman coat featured a long pointed collar and double pockets with a soft flare falling from a small back belt. Black suits in serge and worsted were other popular items for the career girl.

Green dominated the teen-age fashions, wearable dresses and suits. The youthful tiered wool green afternoon frock was worn with a pale yellow open crown straw.

The high plumed hat was a special touch to a blue quilted dress. Other heavy fabrics included a stiff taffeta, bengaline and faille.

Institute Gives Bridal Shower

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 26. — (ENS).—At Bowers' Lodge Monday evening the Women's Institute gave the first community shower for Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown (nee Enid McCulloch) of Campbellford.

Each newlywed couple of the community will be given a miscellaneous shower by this organization through a motion passed at the last branch meeting.

Cards and dancing were enjoyed during the evening by seventy-five guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown received many nice gifts and a substantial sum of money. The ladies served a lap lunch.

Three In A Pair Dream Desire Of Career Girl

NEW YORK, — Women, especially housewives, are notoriously bad at figures.

However, that isn't the reason some women think three components should make a pair.

When it comes to stockings or earrings, three should be the number, say many New York career girls.

'I would love that man—the first manufacturer to declare that three make a pair," one young woman said. "I'm always losing one earring and my jewelry box is full of lone, mismated earrings."

While a pole indicates general aproval of pair-and-a-half earrings and hosiery enthusiasm in some quarters is tempered by cost.

"If they're $1 or $2 earrings, I'd buy three at a time," one girl commented. "But if it's a $10 investment, why, no thanks, I'll stick to two and take jolly good care I don't lose one of them."

As for stockings, many women have been buying two matching pairs for a long time.

When asked if he didn't think it would be a good idea to start putting up boxes of three, one local manufacturer snorted: "Just like a woman! Always changing their minds! One company started the three-to-a-box idea about 15 years ago and would have gone broke if they'd stuck to it."

Attended Schools In Millbrook Wed at Hamilton

HAMILTON, Aug. 26.—In Delta United Church, Hamilton, at 5 o'clock, Saturday evening, August 21, the wedding took place of Marion Cora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Seymour, and Mr. Gordon W. G. Penrose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Penrose, all of Hamilton. The Rev. Waldermar Williams was officiating minister, assisted by Rev. J. T. Stapelton of York. Mrs. Florence Bissex played the wedding music and Mrs. J. Straith Graham was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in ivory satin, the full skirt extending into a train, with a wreath of orange blossoms holding her long veil in place. She carried pink roses and white lillies. Misss Jean Seymour, sister of the bride, gowned in ice blue satin, was bridesmaid, and carried roses and asters. Little Florence Leet, attired in a gown matching the bride's, made a charming flower girl. Her nosegay was asters and roses.

Mr. Norman Penrose attended his brother and little Kenneth Penrose, younger brother of the groom, was ring-bearer. Robert Seymour, brother of the bride, and Stanley John Boswell were ushers.

Receiving about 35 guests at the Ryecroft Inn, the bride's mother wore powder blue with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses, while the groom's mother received in dusty rose with accents in black and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Leaving on their honeymoon trip to points east, the bride wore a teal blue suit with corsage of red roses.

The bride, who is a former student of Millbrook school and formerly resided near Springville, is a graduate of Hamilton Normal School. The groom, who has served overseas in the 2nd World War, is also a Normal School graduate. Mr. and Mrs. Penrose will reside in Hamilton where both are on the teaching staff.

PLASTIC OF CALF GRAIN—A handbag is an essential part of any girl's costume, and a shabby one is as ugly as run-over heel lifts. On hte other hand, a handbag costs considerably as a rule, and the best of them get shabby with daily wear and tear. What to do? . . . especially in the matter of accessorizing one's bags to one's clothes? The handsome leather-looking handbag shown above, on the tweeded young lady, is plastic made to look like calfskin, and it may be had in scarlet, brown, green, black or navy. Also it can be had with a shuolder strap instead of the wrist strap. Clean it with a cloth wrung out in soapy water, although little grime or grease will stick to its hide.

groom and ushers were David King and James C. Potter.

The reception following was held in the Masonic Temple. The bride's mother received her guests in a dress of gay crepe with which she wore a hat of black mohair and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother who also received was wearing orchid in a two-piece style with black hat and a corsage of yellow roses. The guests were served by Misses Doris Johnston, Lenore Johnston, Gwen Rutherford, Wylena Rutherford, Jean Ferguson and Mrs. Perry Brisbin and Mrs. Norman Andrews.

For travelling on their honeymoon trip through Western Ontario, the bride chose a tailored suit of blue gabardine and navy accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. King will live in Roseneath.

Novel Shower Given Bride-elect

MILLBROOK, Aug. 26—(ENS). —Mrs. T. A. Campbell was hostess for a social gathering Tuesday evening, when about 40 friends honored Miss Elizabeth (Betty) Thornton, bride-elect.

A special seat was arranged for her under a large white wedding bell, from which fluted streamers of pink and white were brought to the arms of the chair beneath. An address, in original verse, was read by Miss Jean Fisher, and a miscellaneous shower was presented in a novel manner, the gifts being brought in on a dainty stretcher in compliment to Miss Thornton's profession as a nurse. Carriers for the stretcher were Mrs. Gerald Armstrong and Mrs. Herbert Bremner, and Miss Augusta Thornton, aunt of the bride-to-be, helped open parcels.

Three trips with the stretcher were necessary before all the gifts were presented, and a number of parcels of a larger size were carried in.

A contest was conducted by Miss Jean Burnham, and lunch was served. Miss Melba Ball, Mrs. Johnston Rowland, Mrs. Armstrong, and Mrs. Bremner assisted in serving.

Fashion Flashes

Gala gowns of [illegible] St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Warkworth on Saturday afternoon the Rev. Robert Duncanson of Norwood officiated at the marriage of Helen J., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Potter, Warkworth, to Mr. Louis King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce King, Dartford.

Large bouquets of gladioli decorated the altar and Miss Mary Cooper sang "Still As the Night" during the signing of the register, accompanied by Miss Myrtle Hardy of Morganston who played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white sheer over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice and peplum over the full skirt. Her floor-length embroidered veil was caught to a tiara of pearls and she was carrying red roses.

As matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Norma McCleary was frocked in blue taffeta. The bridesmaids were her sister, Miss Jacqueline Potter, and her niece Mss Wylanne Hermiston, wearing mauve and pink taffeta, and the flower girl her niece Mary Lou Hermiston in a pretty yellow Swiss eyelet dress. All wore Dutch bonnets to match their frocks and carried gladioli.

Mr. John Bull attended the delicate gilt filagree backing, is used for a hand-shirred pure silk satin pouch bag, its soft top self handle knotted at each side.

✧ ✧ ✧

Something new and very practical in the slipper line is a scuff of chenille, the fabric so treated that the slipper can go into the washing machine, then dried and fluffed up to its original softness.

✧ ✧ ✧

Always acceptable is the neat little hat with an original trimming accent Desert-sand beige felt makes a neat little roller banded with ribbon to one. It is trimmed in front with a full ostrich feather spine in white, black and chartreuse.

✧ ✧ ✧

Pale tones in silk crepe and silk chiffon add new beauty to lingerie. Heaven blue silk chiffon makes a beautiful nightgown—an off-shoulder model with puffed sleeves.

✧ ✧ ✧

The luxury look of velvet and fur appears for fall in very handsome suits. Simple styling with small collars or pocket flaps with snowy ermine combined with black or midnight blue velvet makes for a handsome afternoon into evening suit. Skirts are of moderate length and quite slim.

It isn't easy to select just the right hat for travel wear and for general wear as well. For travel and all but stated occasions a good choice might well be a small hat with a triple off-the-face mitered brim that comes rather low down at the sides. Of chamois yellow felt it has scarf veiling in cocoa brown.

SAD NEWS that her "husband" is a woman is given to Mrs. Roberta Stewart Nelson, 17, by Inspector Clarence Covill at Oakland, Cal. The revellation came when police questioned Robert Nelson (right), who married the girl two years ago, about $900 missing from the funds of a wholesale grocery concern, where he was employed as a bookkeeper. Mrs. Nelson said she never suspected.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Renege On Companionship Sure Way To Disaster

One of the curious things about marriage is that so few husbands and wives make the slightest efforts to be entertaining companions to each other. This is one of the phenomenons of the holy estate that is hard to understand, for surely intelligent men do not deliberately pick out Dumb Doras for wives, nor do gay and clever women knowingly select grim grouches with whom to spend the balance of their lives.

Dorothy Dix

Moreover it is a matter of common knowledge that during the days of courtship an enamoured couple never run out of conversation. They can spend hours upon top of hours asking each other: "Do you love me? Will I always be the only one in the world to you? Would you die of grief if I should be run over by an automobile, or fall out of an airplane?"

Yet after marriage only too often they pass into the silence and have nothing to say to each other, unless they can find a good topic to fight over. Few things are more pathetic than an evening at home, with nobody saying a word, and the husband and wife sitting up in a gloom so thick you could cut it with a knife. We are all familiar with this sight, and also with the almost hysterical joy with which they greet any visitor who may drop in and break up the boredom and set the tongue wagging.

Starved For Good Talk

Now, strangely enough, the very husbands and wives who starve their mates for companionship would be shocked at the mere idea of cutting down on their rations. Father works his fingers to the bone to feed his family on filet mignon, and Mother makes a burnt offering of herself cooking things to Father's taste, and apparently neither one realizes what is making them lose their taste for each other is because they have ceased making their conversation a savory dish that will pique the other's appetite, and keep him or her asking for more.

So we have the dreary homes to which a tired man dreads to come at night, for well he knows that his wife is just waiting to begin her monolgue about everything unpleasant that has happened during the day, from the price of butchers' meat and the baby breaking his pet pipe, and Mrs. So-and-So not inviting her to her cocktail party, to Mama's letter saying she is coming for a nice, long visit, until the poor, badgered man gets butterflies in his stomach.

Or, perhaps, it is the other way around and the husband is one of the men who only grunts when he is spoken to; who would die the death before he would tell an interesting bit of news, or what he had done, or where he had been, and who is about as thrilling to live with as a store dummy. Can anyone wonder that the thousands of women who spend their dreary days in baby-tending and cooking and washing and scrubbing, and who are unfortunate enough to be married to men who never even say a kind word to them, grow bitter and peevish and nagging?

Many recipes are given about how to make a marriage a success. The infallible rule is for both husband and wives to make themselves charming and interesting companions.

QUESTION: .....I would be pleased if you could send me a receipt for cucumbers—the kind that they sell in jars in stores,—sweet cucumbers and cauliflower. I had some at a tea the other day and they had such a nice flavour. My garden stuff is ready now and I would like to make use of it. I would also like to have a good mustard pickle that require tumeric powder [illegible]

Mrs. Chas. D.

ANSWER:

With the number of requests that I am receiving I am convinced we must go into this pickle-making business seriously.

The pickles that we all hope we can imitate and that are made by commercial pickle manufacturers, all have been subjected to brining (see below). This is a long process requiring from 5 to 6 weeks, sometimes longer, and ambitious pickle makers must resign themselves to going through with the brining process if they hope to have a crisp green, tasty finished product.

Brining Pickles

(Essential first step preliminary to making sweet or sour pickles.)

Have ready 50 medium-sized or 100 very small gherkin-size cucumbers which have been freshly gathered (this amounts to 1 gallon or 6 lbs.); Wash them in cold water until they are clean, discarding any that are bruised or spotted Place them in 2-gallon crock. Combine 3 quarts cold water with 1¼ cups salt, stir until thoroughly dissolved. Pour over the cucumbers, and add 6 bay leaves. Place a board or plate over cucumbers, that fits inside crock, to keep cucumbers submerged in brine. At the end of 24 hours pour 1 cup of salt onto the board or plate over cucumbers—the salt must not touch the cucumbers. Keep in a cool, dry place and at the end of the first week and each of the 5 succeeding weeks, add ¼ cup salt in same way, first removing any scum which may have formed.

Sweet Pickled Cucumbers and Cauliflower

Use cucumbers which have been brined as above. Use cauliflower which has been washed, broken into flowerets and which has stood in salt overnight—to every 3 medium-sized cauliflowers use 1 cup of salt for sprinkling between layers.

Wash cucumbers which have been taken from brine 5 or 6 times in cold water. Let stand in cold water 24 hours and drain. Rinse salt from cauliflower which has been salted overnight. Place both vegetables in stone crock, cover with cold vinegar and let stand 1 week. Remove pickles from vinegar and pack into hot sterile jars. Make a syrup allowing 4 cups sugar, 1 large stick cinnamon to each 4 cups vinegar, bring to boil. Pour over pickles to almost overfowing and seal. (Each quart jar of pickles requires nearly 2 cups syrup.) Ready to serve in 2 weeks.

Mustard Pickles

One large cauliflower, 3 green peppers, 1 red pepper, 3 cups small white onions, 2 lbs. green tomatoes, 3 cups very small cucumbers, 4 cups unpared cucumbers slices ½-inch thick, 1 cup salt, 6 cups cold water, 3 pints spirit vinegar, 2 cups sugar, 2 teaspoons celery seeds, ¾ cup sifted flour, ¼ lb. dry mustard; Wash the vegetables well. Pour boiling water over the onions and let stand 5 minutes. Break cauliflower up; seed and cut peppers into ¼-inch slices. Cut tomatoes in eighths. Peel onions. Mix cauliflower, peppers, onions, cut tomatoes, whole small cucumbers, and sices and cover with brine made of the salt and 4 cups cold water. Let stand 16 hours; bring just to boil in same water. Drain. Meanwhile heat the vinegar, sugar, celery seeds to boiling. Mix the flour and mustard to a paste with the remaining 2 cups water; stir this paste into the hot vinegar mix, until thick. Add to the drained vegetables and cook uncovered for 20 minutes, stirring constantly, over low heat. Pour immediately into hot sterile jars and seal at once. These amounts make about 9 pints.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: As an ardent reader of your column I wonder if you would kindly help me. I have a very good recipe for cake icing that bakeries use, however I am at a loss for the right proportions for a good size layer cake. It calls for shortening, icing sugar, and powdered milk, flavoured with honey. Can you help me please?

Also please I wish you would send me the recipe for bread. You once printed this special bread recipe in December. It was simple but excellent. It called for one egg. I have lost my copy. I will certainly appreciate a reply if possible soon. Madelyn J.

ANSWER: Try using 2 cups sifted icing sugar with 2 tablespoons powdered milk. Cream 2 or 3 tablespoons butter very well, add 2 tabespoons honey then sift in the sugar and milk powder and beat very well with spoon or electric beater. If not soft enough to spread readily add a little more honey or thick cream.

Egg Bread

Two cakes yeast or 2 envelopes granular yeast, 1-3 cup lukewarm water, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup shortening, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 or 2 beaten eggs, 5 cups enriched bread flour. Soften either cake or granular yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add flour to make a thick batter. Add eggs and yeast and beat well. Add enough four to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny and squeaky. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until double in bulk,—about 2 hours. When light, punch down, shape into 2 loaves (or into buns, or rolls or braids, etc.) and place in pans and let rise until double in bulk, about ¾ hour. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 30 to 40 minutes for loaves; shorter time for rolls, etc.

John J. McGillen Dies In Saginaw

John J. McGillen, civil servant of Saginaw, Michigan, died Thursday last in his 67th year. He was born in Percy township, fourth son of the late Peter McGillen and Honorah Doyle, and left the district 33 years ago to live in the States. His parents were Irish pioneers and were among the first settlers in that part of Northumberland county.

The late Mr. McGillen was a bachelor. Surviving are two sisters and five brothers: Mrs. Arnoid Forestall (Clara), Stirling; Mrs. Nora Flynn, Trent River; Thomas and Charles, Detroit; Frank, Revelstoke, BC; Patrick and James, also of Saginaw. Three sisters and two brothers predeceased him.

There are at least 23 nieces and nephews of the deceased living in this part of Ontario, and these include Rev. P. P. Butler, parish priest at the Cathedral; Phillip Doherty of the CGE, City Constable Clair McGillen and Pete McGillen, city editor of The Examiner.

An uncle of the same name, John McGillen, was mayor of Chicago in 1884.

Sanitary Inspector Checks All Booths

Eating places at the Exhibition should be as clean and well kept as any city restaurants, provided they follow the directions of Sanitary Inspector Ron MacPherson. Each must comply with city regulations concerning garbage disposal, washing, rinsing, and sterilization of dishes, and proper food refrigeration.

The city has arranged that garbage from the various booths will be collected once daily, Mr. MacPherson said. Garbage cans would have to be properly covered as a major preventative of fly breeding. Spraying and other fly control precaution must be

Food Shortage Predicted To End In '49

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(AP)—The war and post-war period of shortages and high prices of farm and food products is drawing to a close.

A new era of surpluses is at the threshold.

Surpluses will develop first with the major food materials, such as the grains. They will come later in the case of finished products, such as meat, dairy and poultry products, sugar and food fats.

Already the United States is beset with apparently excessive supplies of potatoes and dried fruits. A wheat shortage which plagued the country only a few months ago has disappeared. Farmers are harvesting the second largest wheat crop in history. There will be plenty to meet all our needs and send perhaps a record quantity abroad.

The largest corn crop on record is nearing maturity. Livestock feed bins, which had run dangerously low as a result of last year's corn crop failure, will be overflowing.

It is quite possible that the end of next year's harvest will see the end of food shortages and the end of rising food prices.

But this would bring back many of the problems of depressed farm prices and income which plagued farmers—and the country—during the late '20s and '30s.

Farm Officials Worried

Already farm officials and farmers are beginning to worry. Wheat prices have dropped more than 30 per cent in six months. They now are down to the level at which the agriculture department is required by law to support them. The regular market is unable to take all wheat being offered.

As a consequence, much of the new crop is being stored by growers under government price-supporting loans. The same thing is expected to happen with corn this fall.

Should next year's crops be large ones, the result could be troublesome farm surpluses. These surpluses would move into the hands of the United States government. Price support laws require the government to take them over.

The government would be faced with the problem of what to do with the surpluses. There are a number of possibilities.

Undoubtedly there will be pressure to have the government to sell the surplus supplies to domestic users at cut-rate prices. Or the government might protect farmers' income by buying the entire farm production—not just surpluses — at prices promised farmers and reselling at the cut-rate prices.

It is quite likely that cut-rate "dumping" of surpluses abroad, particularly in western Europe, may be one means used in the years immediately ahead to dispose of surpluses.

There always is the possibility that the government will return to a "hands-off" farm policy such as existed before the New Deal. Under this policy if farmers produced too much they suffered in terms of low prices.

GANANOQUE, Aug. 26—(CP)—Ontario Steel Products Company, Limited, reported Wednesday net income of $225,745 for the year ended June 30, 1948, compared with $140,555 in the previous year. Plan Statement On Nazi Generals

LONDON, Aug. 26. (Reuters)—The war office will make a statement within the next 48 hours on the allegations by four Nazi generals that they have been subjected to third-degree methods while being held by the British authorities at Muenster, Germany it was learned Wednesday night.

The generals — Von Runstedt, Brauchitsch, Manstein and Strauss — were taken from Britain to Muenster a few months ago.

There are indications that British authorities here believe allegations about their treatment to be without foundation.

The war office statement may deal with the possibilty of a trial of the four generals on "war crimes" charges and question of their present treatment.

George Edinger wrote in the Conservative Daily Telegraph now being held "under a rather last Saturday the generals were theatrical restraint in Germany" and the "unexplained detention of these officers, still ignorant of the future, lends unfortunate color" to reports htey would be tried as war criminals.

"He was on an experimental enrolment . . . one blind boy among normal ones. And he couldn't be happier or better treated," she said.

PC Association Asks Free Gold Market

ENGLEHART, Aug. 26 — (CP).—The Progressive Conservative Association of Timiskaming federal riding Wednesday night adopted a resolution calling for a free gold market in Canada. At present all gold is sold to the Dominion government at a fixed rate.

The resolution, to be forwarded to the national resolutions committee, was presented at a meeting to name delegates to the partys' national convention in Ottawa, opening next Sept. 30.

Donald Frisby of Kirkland Lake, president of the South Cochrane Progressive Conservative Association, in presenting the resolution said that "if a free market for gold can not be granted due to difficulties with the international moneary fund, then we must demand that the federal government stimulate the gold mining industry by relaxing taxation."

Guest Preacher Warns Church Forcing Men Away From Ministry

MILLBROOK, Aug. 26 — (ENS). — Rev. Louis J. Fowler, minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Port Hope, and clerk of the Presbytery, who has been supplying for Rev. Walter Patterson during August, preached his closing sermon in Grace Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening. Mrs. William Edworthy, Peterborough, sang The Lord's Prayer as a solo, with her husband at the organ.

"The Four Fools" have been Rev. Mr. Fowler's theme for his series of sermons during the month, all taken from the Bible, and including: The atheistic fool, who says "There is no God"; and who is a fool in thought; the one who was a fool about his goods, and to whom God said: "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee"; the slanderous fool, who said of his brother, "Thou Fool"; and, on Sunday evening the topic was Paul's words: "We are fools for Christ's sake."

"All Christians are fools from the world's standpoint, but in this day, when so much is going overboard, the church is the only thing worth standing behind."

"Yet if we had 100 more ministers, we could place them next week. As clerk of the Presbytery I weekly receive letters begging for a minister, with the stipulation not over 45 years of age."

"It takes seven years to train one of our men, and we are not going to lower the standard. But if a man must give up the ministry at 45, men of my years will turn to learning some other form of earning a livelihood. When the church made an appeal for a fund for the much-needed extension of its work, following the war, many Presbyterians turned it down because a section of it was marked for the ministers' pension fund. Forty per cent of that fund is paid by the ministers themselves, and any who did not wish their contribution to go toward it could so state."

"The world calls a man a fool if, as some have done, they turn down a job offering big money, to continue in Christ's service with a big job with little money. Yet these men, on the mission field and elsewhere, are saving the world, making it safe for democracy, and they are largely supported by the small givers within the church; those who put pennies in their mite-boxes, or who can give but 10 cents a week.

"Ridley and Latimer were looked upon as fools by the world of their day for going to the stake for their convictions, but because of that spirit coming down through the years, England, when France fell, stood alone and saved the world from Nazism. And because of this group, and many others like us, who have gathered to-night to reach out, through worship, and place our hands in God's hands, links of righteousness that will last through eternity, are being forged."

Did It Twice

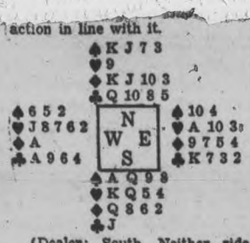
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

FACTS—PLANS—ACTION

FACTS first, then plans, then action. That is the sound working scheme of a great executive, a great writer ror a great bridge player. At the contract table, it shows in clear-cut order. First action in line with it.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable).

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠	3 ♥
Dbl.	Pass	3 ♠

This duplicate deal, on which the West player was Ward Greene, editor and general manager of King Features Syndicate, exemplified the mental processes which enabled him to turn out such a wonderful book in his "Star Reporters—and 34 of Their Greatest Stories," published by Random House. Throughout its dramatic 400 pages packed with thrills for every American, in fact for any reader of the English language, you find evidence of his thoroughness in gathering his facts, his acumen in selecting and planning their presentation and his genius in action to carry the plan through brilliantly.

He did likewise on this bridge hand. Beginning as other Wests did by scoring the diamond A, he led to his partner's likely heart A and ruffed the returned diamond with the spade 2. Now came his crucial huddle, thus: "South would not have doubled hearts with only three, so doubtless had four. East would not have raised with four hearts, hence had only four. Thus, with four of each other suit, South has exactly one club.

"East required something more than the heart A for his raise. It could only be the club K." That was the final deduced fact. The plan was to lead to the club K and have another diamond returned for the decisive ruff which would set the contract. Action fitting the plan was Mr. Greene's lead of the club 4, which doomed the declarer. Mr. Greene's thoroughness, courage and brilliancy made his pair the only one to take five tricks against a spade contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable).

If East had overcalled with hearts, leads the spade 2 and West plays low on the J, how should North seek maximum results in his 3-No Trumps?

Canadian Part Of Alaska Road Needs Repairs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—The Alaska Highway is in good shape except for the southern approach in Canada, William Warne, assistant Secretary of the Interior, said today.

If properly developed, the United States official told a reporter, the famous war-built highway may channel a tourist trade of almost $100,000,000 yearly into Alaska.

"But there are two or three sections along the 550-mile strip in Northern Alberta, between Edmonton and Dawson Creek, that are pretty bad," Warne said.

"Ernest C. Manning, Alberta Premier, told me the province plans to put the road in shape—relocating some sections and gravelling them—as rapidly as possible."

Warne recently drove over the road from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Edmonton. From Fairbanks to Dawson Creek it is a well-engineered, high-class, gravel-surface road equally well maintained in Alaska, Yukon Territory and British Columbia, Warne said.

The highway needs are:

1. Additional roadside facilities, especially in Alaska. Canada is far ahead of Alaska in providing overnight facilities, cafes and gasoline stations.

2. Dust abatement. Alaska has started to black-top the first 90 miles of the road out of Fairbanks and plans a similar surface to the Canadian border.

538,015 Days Lost On Strikes

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Time lost because of strikes during the first seven months of 1948 amounted to 538,015 man-working days, a big drop from the 1,529,561 for the same period last year.

Labor Minister Mitchell said to-day in a monthly summary that, at July 31, there had been 87 strikes and lockouts involving 27,540 workers. During the first seven months of 1947 there were 135 strikes involving 61,061 workers.

Two strikes which started last month jumped mid-summer totals to 25 strikes and lockouts, 8,513 workers and 79,867 days lost. At Jnue 30, the totals were 27 strikes, 3,765 workers, 35,055 days lost. In July, 1947, there were 29 strikes, 3,105 workers, 23,769 days lost.

At St. Catharines, 20,000 days were lost by 2,589 workers at a strike-bound automotive parts factory.

Fourteen strikes still were in effect at August 1.

Unemployed Veteran, Wife, Two Children Forced To Sleep In Park For Two Months

NEW YORG, Aug. 26—(AP)—An unemployed veteran, his wife and two children slept in beds Tuesday night for the first time in two months, the father said.

Since early summer, he said, they had been sleeping in Central Park.

Their plight was disclosed by Representative Vito Marcantonio after the four—George E. Anziana, 43, his wife, Julia, 31, and their sons, George Jr., 9, and William, 6—were taken to his headquarters by a policeman.

Anziana has been in ill health and under treatment by welfare and veteran administration doctors. Late last May they were dispossessed from their home.

Until then, they had been receiving a monthly welfare cheque, but that apparently was stopped. They went to Newburgh, NY, lived with friends for a month, then returned here.

At night, they slept under bushes in Central Park. During the day, the father looked for odd jobs, leaving the family in hotel lobbies.

He would meet them each day at a restaurant, and buy food if he had any money.

500 Scientists Are Meeting To Discuss World Peace

WROCLAW, Poland, Aug. 26—(AP) — Some 500 scientists and professional men from 14 countries met in this lower Silesian city today to map plans for world peace. The assembly is known as the world congress of intellectuals.

Intellectual leaders of France and Poland jointly arranged the three-day session to draft a program for "safeguarding the peace" and to answer "war-mongers, imperialists and all those who seek to break the peace."

Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, who is in Europe to arrange for the U.N. general assembly in Paris, was expected to attend the closing session Friday.

The conference has attracted some of the world's most prominent men. Great Britain alone is sending a delegation of 40 of her leading scientists and professional men, including Sir John Boyd Orr, noted economist and food authority, and Julian Huxley, secretary-general of the United Nations educational Scientific and cultural organization.

THEATRICAL FIRST

The first theatrical production to obtain a run of over 50 nights on the English-speaking stage was the comic opera "The Begger's Opera."

It's Too Hot To Work, 3,000 Quit

See Little Relief Over Week-End; Still Hot, Humid

WINDSOR, Aug. 27 (CP). — An estimated 3,000 industrial workers quit their jobs today in the face of 94-degree temperature and a steadily rising humidity. Most workers consulted with the management and union officials before leaving work.

Plants affected were General Motors Corporation of Canada, Limited, 550; Walker Metal Products, Limited, 550; Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, about 1,000; Auto Specialties Manufacturing Company (Canada). Limited, 285. There were smaller numbers in other plants.

Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, employees stayed at work.

In some cases there have been layoffs since the heat wave started three days ago. Auto Specialties and Walker Metal have been quitting early. Metal finishers at Chrysler also went home early Thursday.

Canadians in the central provinces are beginning to realize how deadly three little words can be from the lips of the weather forecaster. "Hot and humid" was the prediction again for Friday and residents of Southern Ontario and Quebec took what comfort they could from the fact the maximums are likely to be a little lower than Thursday's sizzlers.

With tops in the high 90's on Thursday for the second straight day, forecasts indicate continuing temperatures in the low and middle 90's.

Meanwhile, the western provinces and the Maritimes had normal readings and the northern areas of Canada were preparing for temperatures near the freezing point.

In southern Ontario, where highs Friday are expected to

Tribute Paid Directors Of Exhibition

Grandstand Shows Harness Racing Popular Attractions

Official opening of the Exhibition was made before the grandstand Thursday afternoon by Gordon Taggart, head of the Agricultural Supplies Board of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. He paid high tribute to the directors of the Exhibition, stressing the difficulties of successfully organizing a show of these proportions.

Calling such an Exhibition a community effort," he said that the Fair officials deserved the full support of the public. He extended best wishes for a most successful show.

Gordon Hancock, chairman of the reception committee, introduced Mayor William Ovens, who added his own congratulations to the exectives of the Exhibition.

"This is Peterborough's first since 1940, and I know that it will establish again the reputation which has made this Exhibition one of the finest in Ontario."

Hugh Stewart, president of the Exhibition Board, asked for the full co-operation of all citizens in seeing that the annual affair continued. He introduced Mr. Taggart for the official opening address.

Big Crowd

There were 10,000 persons who filed through the turnstiles during the day. About 5,000 braved the fierce heat in the afternoon to see the official opening of Peterborough's first agricultural fair in eight years.

While the sun was at its hottest the exhibits in the cooler buildings proved particularly popular, and shaded seats in the grandstand were sought after by those watching the afternoon performance.

For the night performance the grandstand was filled to overflowing. More than 5,000 people are believed to have paid admission in the evening; and of these 3,500 watched the floodlight racing and evening performance before the grandstand.

Thriving Business

The midway did a thriving business as people seemed eager for entertainment. The hoarse montone of barkers mingled with the happy shouts of children; and these together with the assorted sights, sounds and smells peculiar to a midway helped those who had just arrived, to quickly catch the spirit of the fair.

As usual the very young children headed straight for the merry-go-round, some still clutching hotdogs or candy floss. Their more adventurous brothers and sisters tried the many rides, and the couples who wished to be

Allow Company To Prosecute Plant Union

TORONTO, Aug. 27 —(CP)— The Ontario Labor Relations Board granted permission today for McKinnon Industries Ltd. at St. Catharines to prosecute Local 199, United Auto Workers, (CIO) collective bargaining agents for McKinnon employees.

A second petition, asking permission to prosecute 10 members of the local was dismissed. The company will prosecute the union on grounds that a strike called by the union last July 14 is illegal.

The union contended that a trade union is not a legal entity and may not be prosecuted. The board ruled that labor regulations make unions subject to prosecution for infractions of the labor code.

The board ruled that the wage agreement at McKinnon Industries was an addendum to the collective bargaining agreement and not a separate agreement in itself and had no separate force or effect as far as regulations were concerned.

Labor regulations provide a penalty of a fine of not more than $200 for each day or part of a day that an illegal strike continues.

The company charges that the strike, called July 14 to enforce demands for a 26-cents hourly wage increase was contrary to a collective bargaining agreement. The union contends that wage provisions were not part of the agreement.

Sixteen cents of the increase asked by the union was to offset a claimed cost-of-living increase and 10 cents partially to offset wage differential between McKinnon workers and workers of [illegible]

Yelling Communist Mob Breaks Up Meeting For Second Time In Berlin

Putsch Attempt Failed Anti-Reds Declare Will Smash New Attempts; Russians Say 50,000 In First Demonstration

BERLIN, Aug. 27—(AP).—Yelling Communist-led demonstrators today broke up a meeting of Berlin's anti-Communist city government. The same thing happened Thursday. Council members already had assembled for their meeting this morning, when 200 youthful demonstrators surged through the outer gate at City Hall and began hammering on hastily-slammed doors.

Otto Suhr, Socialist chairman of the council, immediately announced cancellation of the session, he blamed the postponement on "lack of adequate police protection." Outside, Soviet-controlled police made no effort to control the demonstrators. City Hall is in the Soviet zone of Berlin.

A few moments later, about 100 demonstrators surged through the back door and into the building itself. One anti-Communist council member charged the back door was opened by a member of the Communist-dominated Socialist Unity Party (S.E.D.), which is in the minority in the Council.

Most of the demonstrators appeared to be about 18 or 19 years old. Their number contrasted sharply with the size of the mob Thursday, but the effect was the same. The best guess seemed to be that Thursday's crowd numbered about 10,000 and that was the figure the Soviet-licensed news agency started with Thursday.

Today, however, it was a different story. Figures in the Russian-licensed press ranged all the way from the 20,000 mentioned in the Berliner Zeitung to the 50,000 reported in the official Soviet organ, Taegliche Rundschau. One paper said it was more than that.

The Communist demonstration, which had some of the flavor of the old beer-hall-putsch days of Adolf Hitler's ascendency, apparently only served to solidify the anti-Communists.

The anti-Communists, who gathered 5,000 strong after yesterday's demonstration, heard leaders slug verbally at the Communist demonstration.

"It was a putsch attempt which failed and we will smash any new attempts." cried Hubert Schwennicke, Liberal Democratic leader.

7-Point Program Outlined By Diefenbaker

WINNIPEG, Aug. 27 — (CP)— John G. Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Lake Centre, Sask., and mentioned as a strong candidate for the Party Leadership, has outlined a seven-point program for consideration at the party's national convention next month.

His seven points were:

1—Reduction of all controllable expenditures by the government and curbing the power of bureaucrats to direct Parliament in what it should do with the national income.

2—Reduction of taxes....Increased income tax exemption and lower income tax rates.

4—Removal of the sales tax in whole insofar as it affects necessities and reduction in other cases.

5—End of austerity program, allowing people to import what goods they want.

5—Removal of the artificial parity of the Canadian dollar.

7—Restoration of freedom of marketing by giving the farmer an alternative right to a non-compulsory market, and restoring the Wheat Board to its original functions.

Charging lack of action on behalf of the government in dealing with Communists, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "As far as I am concerned Communists in our country who preach and practise subversive activities should be given an opportunity to get behind their beloved Iron Curtain by choice or put behind iron bars under the law."

98 Maybe?

AT 12 noon the official temperature was 91, one degree higher than at the same time Wednesday, and at two o'clock, the score was 93.2 degrees, according to Jim Harrison, official weather recorder. Thursday's high was 96, and the odds are that today the mercury will soar to 98 degrees. Greater

Hurricane Moves Nearer Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 27—(AP)—A United States Navy hurricane hunter banged its way into the 100-mile-an-hour hurricane about 900 miles east of Miami today and lost radio contact with land.

Storm warning headquarters said the hurricane apparently was continuing its northward course at about 15 miles an hour. While this took it in the general direction of the Florida-Georgia coast, it was emphasized that the storm was still far away and could easily change its course.

"Hurricanes rarely move in a stright line," said Grady Norton, chief of the storm warning service here.

Steamships were fleeing the storm's path.

The Russian feighter Petmakis Nomikos, which apparently shouldered some of the fury of the storm, discovered the disturb-

The Federal Storm Warning Service predicted the twister would continue on its general northwest course for at least -2 hours, probably broadening.

Hastings County Girls Win 3 Exhibition Awards

Sixty girls, representing home-making clubs from seven nearby counties, participated on Thursday in an intercounty achievement day held at Peterborough market hall in conjunction with the junior department of the Peterborough Exhibition.

Prizewinners were widespread, and each club won prizes for either individual or group competition. Awards were presented at a brief banquet Thursday night. During the morning, the girls judged dresses, flower arrangements, vegetable displays, and menus planned by other clubs.

Later in the day, they turned to menu planning and the staging of several exhibits on such subjects as hospitality, and party planning. Much of the competition was on intercounty lines.

These sixty girls represented 350 club members registered with the Women's Institute of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and were selected on a basis of their work in their clubs. Bullets Spray Curb Cruisers

WINDSOR, Aug. 27—(CP).—A blast of five bullets was fired at three curb-cruising Detroiters early today following their "Where you all going honey?" remark to a white girl, Mary Ladd, walking with a Negro companion. No one was injured.

Otto Dugan, 24, told police he and two friends, James Lemieux, 24, and Arthur Berger, 23, were doing a last bit of "curb-cruising" before returning to Detroit when they saw the pair walking along a mid-town street.

Dugan said they passed the couple girl volver and fired five shots into the car, the bullets spattering the back of the vehicle and one ricocheting through a window of a nearby showroom.

Two Noted Soviet Biologists In Disgrace With Stalin

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 — (AP). — The Academy of Sciences today liquidated a bilogical laboratory and "freed from their duties" two noted Soviet biologists by special decree.

The Academy's presidium promised Stalin it would "correct its mistakes" in biology and "clear the path for the development of advanced Soviet science in the name of the great purposes of our people and in the name of the victory of Communism."

Removed from their jobs were Academician L. A. Orbeli, noted biologist who was secretary of the section of biological sciences, and I. I. Shmalgausen, who was director of the Institute of Evolutionary Morphology.

Liquidated was the laboratory of cytongenetics of the Institute of Cytology. Its chief, N. P. Dubinin, is accused of having taken "anti-scientific positions." (Cytogenetics deals with the study of the functions of the cells.)

The Communist central committee has placed its stamp of approval on the theory that acquired characteristics can be inherited. This was revealed by one of the exponents of the theory, T. D. Lysenko, at a recent session of the Academy of Biological Sciences. Lysenko attacked those Soviet scientists who insisted upon the Mendelian theory.

(This is the widely accepted theory of inheritance. Mendel, working with plants, traced the contrasting characteristics of hybrids through a series of generations and found that the characteristics appear in a definite mathematical ratio which can be predicted accurately.)

Hotel Clerk Says McLaren Struck Him

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — (CP). — Harry Springall, 66-year-old Toronto hotel night clerk, was remanded today until Sept. 2 on a charge of shooting and killing Alexander D. McLaren who was described as a socially-prominent man-about-town.

McLaren was shot in the lobby of the fashionable Palace Hotel where his 78-year-old mother has occupied an expensive suite for almost 40 years.

Police said Springall told them McLaren accosted him at his ground floor desk the night of Aug. 19 and tried to hit him. Springall said he reached for a .38 calibre revolver which he kept in his desk and in the struggle that followed McLaren fell to the lobby floor, mortally wounded.

Barber Meets Heat Problem With Realism "Nuts To Work! I'm Going Swimming!"

MARMORA, Aug. 27 — (ENS). — Enough's enough. Veterans of past heat-waves are beginning to wilt behind their mask of feigned indifference to the sticky weather as the sun continues its relentless attack over the whole of Ontario.

Take the case of A. M. Jones, genial barber of Marmora. For more than 17 years, he has "stuck it out", through fair weather and foul, coldest to hottest. But Thursday saw humidity force the unconditional surrender of the plucky tonsorial artist.

The door of his shop was closed and a sign proclaimed Mr. Jones' decision and philosophy:

"Life is too short to work in this heat. I'll be back in the morning. Gone Swimming. —A. M. J."

A recount of the second vote on the beverage room plebiscite here will be requested, E. J. Courneyea said today. A two-vote margin is all that stands between adoption of a beverage room and its rejection.

The vote is: For—494; against—333. A 60 per cent victory is required to change the status.

The second vote was ordered in this village, 15 miles northeast of Belleville, by Judge J. C. Anderson. He declared the first vote void because of irregularities in the conduct of polls.

Kremlin Appt.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27. (AP)—The three western envoys went to the Kremlin today for an appointment with Foreign Minister Molotov.

The three westerners had an appointment for 10 a.m. EDT, the United States embassy announced. The embassy added that the three would meet at the British embassy following the Kremlin session.

The informants say this session might be the crucial one in negotiations on the German crisis. They have changed forecasts on chances of an agreement on procedure from "fair" to "good."

Bandits Scared Off

MONTREAL Aug. 27 — (CP). — Police said today robbers attempting to rob an east end branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale about 5 a.m. became frightened when the explosive they used on the vault was too powerful. They fled without loot.

The explosion was so great it roused the entire neighborhood and drew a squad of police cars. The bandits scurried for shelter.

Franco and 'Pretender' Put Their Heads Together

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 27—(AP) — Monarchist informants said today Don Juan, pretender to the Spanish throne, conferred for three hours Wednesday with Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state. It would be the first meeting between the two since the pretender put forward his claim to the throne.

The informants said the conference took place aboard Franco's yacht in the Bay of Biscay, off the French coast.

The Monarchists said Don Juan travelled to the rendezvous aboard a yacht owned by Pedro Galindez, wealthy Bilbao industrialist. They said he was accompanied by his brother Don Jaime, the Duke of Sotomayor and Julio Danvila, wealthy Madrid monarchist.

There was no official report of the meeting and no information as to what they discussed.

Last year the Spanish Cortes (parliament) approved a "law of succession" making Spain "traditionally a kingdom" and naming Franco chief of state for life. The law also gave Franco the right to choose his successor if he decides to retire before his death.

The Spanish throne has been vacant since 1931 when Don Juan's father, King Alfonso XIII, relinquished it. Alfonso died in 1941.

The new law of succession prescribes certain qualifications for Franco's successor, all of which are met by Don Juan. The pretender claims, however, that his right to the throne is absolute and announced at the time he was opposed to the law.

Under the law of succession Franco can at any time propose the name of his successor, but it must be approved by the Spanish cortes or national legislature, as well as the council of the kingdom.

However, since the great majority in the cortes and all the council were appointed by Franco, such approval would be automatic.

Vancouverites Light Furnaces, Rain And Snow

VANCOUVER, Aug. 27—(CP)—West Coast residents have severed diplomatic relations with the Weatherman.

After a brief summer, when the bears ventured out of hibernation for a light snack and went right back in again, Vancouver and coastal points are experiencing one of the coldest, clammiest Augusts on record.

Beaches, which are normally crowded at this time of year, are virtually deserted. The usual sound of merry-makers is replaced by the patter of raindrops.

In the "Sunshine City" of Victoria, August rainfall reached 1.92 inches yesterday, the highest recorded since 1912. Some Vancouverites have lit their furnaces.

At Kelowna the Kiwanis Club took out rain insurance for its annual "Fun or You" show.

Unseasonal rains have wiped out a million-dollar peat crop in the Fraser Valley. The same fate threatens grain and potatoes. In the Kootenay and Okanagan districts, bacterial blight on pear crops is the worst ever noted. Apple scab is taking a heavy toll.

At Fort St. John, in the Peace River area, a heavy snowfall flattened bumper grain and alfalfa crops.

average 92, Brampton reported its first heat victim. Ann Hackett, 15 months, died on the way to hospital of convulsions her doctor said were caused by the heat.

Blow to Fruit Men

A report from Hamilton said the four-day heat wave added to continuing drought will be a serious blow to fruit farmers. In the Hamilton and Niagara district peaches and other fruits have already been damaged. Instead of a normal rainfall of three inches in July and August, practically no rain has been received.

Parks and benches in major cities in the "boiler" area have been crowded the last couple of nights by apartment dwellers seeking escape from sleep-robbing heat.

Cloudy weather during the day in southern Quebec and Ontario may be followed by thundershowers in the evening, affording temporary relief.

Halifax was one of the comfortable cities in Canada Thursday with a top of 68 degrees but it was warmer elsewhere in the Maritimes, Saint John reporting 87 and Moncton, N.B., 82. It was a pleasant 72 in Charlottetown and Sydney, N.S.

As the searing heat continued, thousands of employees were working only in the morning in scores of factories. Ten thousand Federal civil servants were let off an hour early in Ottawa offices Thursday. Of a different nature was the situation in the McCord Corporation plant at Windsor. There, 145 employees decided the 90-degree heat was not for them, as they walked out.

Water Levels Down

Water levels were declining in many towns and cities and citizens were being asked to stop watering lawns and to conserve generally.

The situation was much different in the far west with Vancouver and the coastal district wondering if the summer is over after one of the coldest, clammiest Augusts on record.

Canadians could wonder, "what's in a name?" At Satan's Kingdom, Conn., Thursday, the mercury hit 112 degrees.

No Relief in U.S.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 — (AP). — A week-end of hot, muggy weather, good for the growing crops but horrible for humans, appears in prospect for most of the United [illegible] degrees in some areas. But rising humidity has brought even more discomfort to the sweltering millions.

Thursday's hottest weather extended along the Ohio River Valley, through Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and northeastward. Generally, weather bureau forecasters said, the mercury was around the 100-degree mark.

Queue Of Queues

Reminiscent of the long and tiring wartime English queues, would be grandstand hopefuls at the Peterborough Exhibition were disappointed when they faced a long line of several hundred ticket purchasers. Not to be outdone and miss the fine racing program, they assumed the role of "rail birds" and lined the south rail. They didn't see the exciting and close racing at the finish line, but were satisfied with the fast action in the turns.

Bridge Collapse Mystery

DES JOACHIMS, Que., Aug. 27—(CP).—Reason for the collapse of a Bailey bridge which killed six riggers last month still was unknown today. A five-man coroner's jury Thursday heard four hours of evidence and the testimony of two Toronto engineering experts. After 20 minutes of deliberation, it announced its verdict:

"We are unable to determine the cause of the collapse of the bridge section."

The six men, Ontario Hydro-Electric workers, were rigging the 170-foot span astride the Ottawa River 40 miles northwest of Pembroke, when "a noise like a rifle shot" was heard. Witnesses said the bridge appeared to buckle in the middle. The accident occurred July 21. Bodies were recovered.

Since circumstances surrounding the deaths of all six were identical, Coroner Dr. J. C. Bradley of Pembroke conducted evidence only in the case of one of the victims, Edward Picotte.

Dr. A. J. Skelley of Pembroke, who performed an autopsy on Picotte, said the man did not drown but died from a "gross" haemorrhage of the stomach and fractures of the thigh bone, hip bone and pelvis in his plunge to the rock-filled rapids 110 feet below the bridge.

In the view of Eric P. Muntz, Toronto consulting engineer, a defective weld in the Bailey bridge span bought from the United States War Assets Corporation might have contributed to the collapse. However, he was not certain.

A second consulting engineer, F. S. Lazier of Toronto, also declined to say definitely whether the defective weld caused the accident.

W. J. Munro, an inspector for the Ontario labor department, gave evidence as to possibly another reason for the span's collapse. He expressed belief that the length of the span—170 feet—was the cause. It was the longest span of several in the bridge.

"My own personal opinion is that the shearing of the weld had nothing to do with it, Mr. Munro said.

The biggest attraction was the harness racing and the overflow from the grandstand stood and watched the track from a distance. Perhaps the biggest testimony to the success of the evening's performance was that few left either their seats or standing positions until the last heat had been run.

Most of the crowd then started for home but a sizeable number remained to try their skill at the games of chance in the midway.

As the fair closed for the first day of its three-day stand exhibition board officials said they were more than pleased with the showings and the public response. And they promised two more days of even greater entertainment.

Broken Homes Blamed By Gang

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — (CP). — Members of young Toronto gangs, blamed for several summer resort disturbances this summer, today laid their banding together into groups to the war and broken homes. In this they drew support from social agency officials and psychiatrists.

Members of the gangs and Toronto social service experts told newspaper men in a series of interviews Thursday that lack of propr recreation facilities and a feeling of insecurity caused by the world political situation contributed to their misconduct.

Spokesmen for both the Junction and Beanery street-corner gangs—accused of staging a free-for-all riot at Wasaga Beach on Georgian Bay last week-end—say their groups have disbanded.

"All we want is to get back our club," said a Beanery gang member. "It was a church club and we used to play all kinds of sports. It broke up eventually because we were unable to provide enough teams to compete in city tournaments."

He said there was no longer a beanery gang, although sometimes three or four of the original 12 meet on a street corner or in the restaurant from which they derive their name.

3 CSU Members Free At Cornwall

CORNWALL, Aug. 27—(CP)—Three Canadian Seamen's Union members were freed at preliminary hearings Thursday on charges arising from the boarding of the freighter Acadian here June 12. Decision was reserved in the case of Milton Nuttall, CSU official.

Nuttall, remanded until Sept. 1, is accused of 'unlawfully seizing, confining or imprisoning" George Aird, 24, crew member of the freighter. Similar charges were dismissed against Joseph Grabek, William Fagan and Eugene Bellefontaine.

The Acadian is owned by the Canada Steamship Lines, one of four companies involved in the strike called by the CSU June 5 in an effort to obtain a new bargaining agreement. Edward Sutton, Acadian wheelsman, testified about 20 men boarded the freighter and herded the crew off it.

Aird told the court he was driven into the country and left by the roadside after being beaten unconscious.

Heat Wave Burns Pastures Badly

DIXIE, Ont., Aug. 27 — (CP).—Agriculture Minister Kennedy of Ontario said today the current heat wave in southern Ontario was "burning up" hundreds of acres of pastureland. He said loss of pasture would sharply increase milk production costs.

In a statement to the Canadian Press, the agriculture minister said considerable grain would have to be used for feed and dairying costs "would undoubtedly rise."

"I do not think there is any hope of the price of milk being decreased in the near future," he said.

WHAT, NO BOTTLES?

At the All-Stars-Marines game last night, several budding merchants wandered through the stands crying their wares. One, with a basket of pop, stopped before a man who was feeling the heat. The boy poured the pop into a waxed paper cup and handed it to the man, who asked:

"You mean we don't get the bottle to throw at the umpire?"

"No," said the kid. "We ought to supply rotten tomatoes.—J. E.

Personal goods valued at an estimated $1,600 were stolen from the home of Dr. H. H. Long, Aylmer St., it was discovered by the owners Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Long and Mrs. Long had been at their cottage at Chemong and retured to find their home had been thoroughly ramsacked during their absence. City police are investigating.

The missing articles include: women's and men's clothing of all types; two rifles; fishing equipment; pearls, earrings, bracelets, diamonds, other jewelry; luggage; linen, bedding and sheets.

The hard-working thieves made their entrance, it is believed, by opening a milk-chute. Reaching through, they unlocked the door.

Thieves Break Into Tool House

The tool house of the Peterborough Normal School situated just east of the school building was broken into sometime during the night and the tools and other equipment left in a pile on the floor.

To get into the house the thieves had to break through two very heavy doors and no doubt considerable effort was required in gaining admittance. The robbery was discovered this morning when John Donley the chief caretaker arrived and it will take some time before a complete check of the tools is made to find just what is missing. With agriculture being part of the Normal course and the pupils operating their own small gardens the house was well stocked with tools. There was also a heavy stock of carpenters' tools.

Police were called and are investigating. The robbery is the second one in the northend within three nights.

No Fish Caught But Breezes Nice

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 27 — (ENS)—With the rest of the province, Campbellford sweltered in the heat on Thursday.

Estimated temperatures were dependent upon the type and age of the thermometer being quoted, with 98 in the shade on Front St. coming as near as any.

Fishing is practically at a standstill as the large crop of flies and bugs obviate the necessity of the fish biting at anything else. On Thursday evening there were swarms of young pickerel just below the surface of the water at forebay of the town power house, snapping at flies and ignoring the proferred (synthetic) delicacies of the disgusted anglers.

There was only one pickerel caught during the evening, a 20-incher, and no one caught anything else, but all the fishermen were agreed that the trip was not wasted as the breeze obtained by driving to the powerhouse was worth the effort.

Mounbatten Spots VC Winner Chats With Major John Foote

PORT HOPE, Aug. 27. (ENS)—The Mountbattens arrived in Port Hope yesterday for an overnight stay as guests of the Hon. Vincent Massey, before proceeding on this morning to Toronto to open the Canadian National Exhibition. Over a thousand people, including a Port Hope Legion guard of honor, commanded by Edward Harwood, waited at the CNR station for the train bearing the Mountbattens. Girls bearing cameras and autograph albums converged on the couple as they got off the train. The Hon. Vincent Massey and Mayor Roland Jex greeted the Earl and Countess Mountbatten on arrival. The Legion Guard of honor snapped to attention and the couple inspected them. The Earl spotted the VC ribbon on the chest of Major John Foote, VC, of Port Hope and chatted for several minutes with him. A number of old soldiers shook hands with the Mountbattens and later the couple left on a brief drive around Port Hope in Vincent Massey's limousine before proceeding to Batterwood, the Massey estate at Canton.

Boy Breaks Arm Pitching Ball

LINDSAY, Aug. 27—(ENS).—A benefit game is to be held for 15-year-old Malvin Hickson, who fractured his right arm while pitching in an OBA Midget A play-off game with Peterborough East City Aces. The young right hander had limited the Aces to two runs when his upper arm snapped in the fourth inning. He was rushed to Ross Memorial Hospital. The Peterborough team went on to win 8-7. Veteran ball players are of the opinion that throwing too many curves caused the bone to break.

Hickson had broken the arm some time ago in a fall out of an apple tree.

Small Fire Doused On Bridge Sidewalk

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 27 — (ENS) — Campbellford firemen were called to the town bridge at 6 p.m. On Wednesday to attend a small fire on the wooden sidewalks of the structure.

The blaze was seen by Ernest Skitch, who extinguished it with a pail of water from a nearby store. The brigade arrived while this was being done.

The fire is thought to have been caused by a cigarette butt, and is the second such blaze on the bridge in the past two years

Lindsay Council Protests Work On Town's Land

LINDSAY, Aug. 27—(ENS).—"As long as I am chairman of town property, and one of the trustees elected by the people, no corporation, or any individual, will be allowed to go ahead with building of town property, or take down town property, without permission," said Ald. J. C. Kingsborough, at Thursday morning's special meeting of council.

The comment came after B. A. Myers of the Babee-Tenda Corporation, Wellington St., was called in to explain why, as the chairman said, "A building was erected on town property, a walk and canopy built from the addition to the sidewalk and a portion of fence cut out for a gateway, also on town property?"

Aldermen Kingsborough and Speer, having heard that a welder was cutting out a portion of an iron fence on the Lindsay Street bridge, proceeded to the factory and stopped the work.

Mr. Meyers admitted that his company had made a mistake in building on town property, but he had tried several times to contact the engineer issuing building permits, without success, he said.

"Your company ignored a letter sent from the council by the town clerk," claimed Mayor Charles Lamb.

"Well, the letter was forwarded on to the secretary of the company at Toronto, who happened to be on holidays. We thought that since the building was up and no word having been received from the engineer—$2,000 had been spent on this office—so we thought it would be all right to erect a walk and cut the iron fence."

Mr. Meyers admitted the reasoning of Mayor Lamb, who said,

Vaudeville Acts Delight Exhibition Crowd

Like the effect of a staple food to the body, one's senses never dull to the thrills of a vaudeville performance. There is something ageless and aged in it.

No matter how many times you may see an act "just the same as the last one," the attraction and the kick are still there. There is still that gasp at the daring of the aerial artists; your heart still jumps in synchronized timing to the standard repertoire of the show band; even the most blase audience gazes admiringly at the spangled, shining, colorful costumes on the stage; those who consider themselves sophisticated find they are laughing at supposedly childish humor pulled off with aplomp by imp-inspired clowns.

Peterborough's first post-war Exhibition, running this week, includes a grandstand show which runs the gamut of that universal appeal to the public mind. Thousands of youngsters of Peterborough County (from four years to four-score years) were captured by it Thursday afternoon and evening.

There is no such thing as an Unimpressed Observer at a show like this, be it ever so run-of-the-mill. But, if there were (and if he could take his eyes off Fifi the Clown or of the fearfully high diving tower or off the pretty dancing girls) he would see a show in the stands. And such a show! Ranging from the pure joy of wonderment in the eyes of that six-year-old two seats ahead to the assumed gaze of boredom of the portly man puffing a cigar on his right, the show on the stage is reflected.

And he could safely predict that 50 years from now, that six-year-old might also sit chewing a cigar in feigned indifference while a yet-unborn six-year-old is honest enough to express the sentiment of them both.

For a vaudeville is essentially appealing to the untainted child still left in us all. Economically, it's a wasate of money (so we shell out willingly for tickets and programs and soft drinks and hot dogs); culturally, it's not very highly rated (so those engaged in cultural pursuits break their necks not to miss it); physically, it's exhausting (so we sweat happily in the 90-plus temperature, walk miles on aching feet from show to show, guzzle gallons of suspicious liquids, shovel in amazing quantities of rich, unhealthy foods).

And, because every show is alike in that way, every show is somehow different.

Dives Into Blazing Tank

The performance in front of the grandstand at Exhibition Park this week will leave such a mixed impression on more than 15,000 patrons.

Featured at the head of the list is the act which (in the best of showmanship traditions) brings the show to a close. He is Captain Aurele Thomas, who causes several cases of near-apoplexy every show with one dive. From a platform swaying on a ladder 80 feet in the air, the intrepid Captain ker-plunks himself nonchalantly into a tank of water four feet deep covered with burning gasoline.

One spectator, shakily leaving his seat after the dive Thursday afternoon, quipped: "There must be an easier way to make a living."

A three-person act drawing lots of applause was a daughter-mother-and-grandmother team: Vallee and Doreen and Michele. Michele, who got the crowd warmed to her with professional-looking curtsies, is four years old. Mother and mother's mother have included her in their own clever hand-balancing and dual-tumbling routine. As a finale, the four-year-old little girl stands jauntily on her mother's should-

Plan Dinner For 1,200 At Plow Match

LINDSAY, Aug. 27. (ENS) — "Our contract with the International Plowmen's Association in connection with the Provincial Match to be held here in October is to provide a closing dinner in the Armory for 1,200 people," said Mayor Charles Lamb at a meeting of council at which Reeve H. H. McFadden and Aldermen Lloyd Burrow, Vince Cote, Frank Speer and J. C. Kingsborough, were present.

A committee of Aldermen Ferguson, Burrow and Speer was named to contact ladies' organizations of Queen Street United Church, St. Paul's Anglican Church, St. Mary's RC Church, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church to invite them to take care of a cold plate dinner at $1.25 for four groups of 300 people, more or less.

"Have we any guarantee that there will be 1,200 people present?" asked Ald. Speer.

"No, but we can guarantee the women that the town will be responsible for a certain number," answered His Worship.

"The town will have to bear the cost, but at least the profits from the dinner, if any, will go direct to worthy Lindsay organizations," said Reeve McFadden.

The musical atmosphere is supplied with a local touch and a highland swing as the Peterborough Pipe Band leads the show opening. The skirl of the pipes sets the show off to a merry start and draws heavy applause from audiences which always seemingly become all Scots

Lindsayites Try Frying Egg On Pavement But Car Scrambles The Experiment First

LINDSAY, Aug. 27. (ENS) — "Would an egg fry on the hot asphalt pavement?" That was the question . . . and Thursday afternoon a group of doubtful Lindsay citizens saw the answer.

With a six-cent egg supplied by Don Shaw, genial proprietor of the corner drug and grill, a spot was picked on Cambridge Street, near Kent about four p.m.—the hottest time of the day.

The egg was carefully broken in a drop of grease and bystanders watched carefully as the nearest thermometer hovered around 95. Slowly the albumen began to turn white and the yoke thickened. However, Ol' Sol soon forced the watchers to the shade and then an unexpecting motorist swooped in and scrambled the experiment.

Those interested were quite content to stay in the shade knowing that the sun could fry any who stayed in its rays very long.

Farm Crops And Income

The Ontario Department of Agriculture announces that the Ontario harvest this year is a record one. Mr. Kennedy, the Minister, says that every barn is full and we must now find additional storage space. The wheat crop is the most valuable since 1882, when records were first kept. That is good news when world food is in short supply and good news to the individual farmers who have been getting record high prices for their produce.

* * *

There are no roses without thorns. Mr. Kennedy has put his finger on a barb. He has discovered that the gross value of farm products last year was 852 million dollars but that the farmers netted only 240 millions of it—an average of $1,333 per farmer. He thinks that a Royal Commission may be necessary to determine whether the spread between what the farmer gets for his products and what the consumer pays for them is justified. The spread is indeed great. This year, despite the bumper crops, the average net income is not expected to rise higher than $2,000.

* * *

Some inquiry may be necessary. If it had the happy result of reducing the spread and decreasing the cost of farm products to the consumer, both farmer and consumer would be gratified.

* * *

We are not disposed to question the Department of Agriculture's estimate of the farmers' net income. It does seem low. Perhaps now that all farmers have been sent registered letters from the Income Tax Department, thus assuring that they will fill out income tax forms (in previous years the majority overlooked the legal necessity of doing so), a more accurate accounting of farmers' incomes will be possible.

* * *

Even at the $2,000 level the income is not niggardly. It should be remembered that there are dozens of small farmers to every couple of farmers operating in a large way. There are good farmers and bad or shiftless farmers. All these are lumped together in the average taxes—and interest on the investment must be taken into account.) It does not include the food the farmer's family eat off their own land. The average wage of workers in the eight leading industries in Canada last year was well under $2,000. This was the gross average wage of not only unskilled workers but highly trained technicians. Out of this gross wage they had to pay high rent or board, or city taxes on homes they owned, and they had to buy all their food.

* * *

We are happy to know that the crop is excellent, that the farmers are thriving (even if the middle-men are taking a large gob of the gross income). Farming is basic in this country and prosperity on the farm means a prosperous country. But we do not think that, in relation to other sectors of our society, the farmer is badly off. In the United States the farmers have had a larger increase in real income since 1938 than any other group, including highly paid industrial workers. Will final figures show that Canadian farmers have likewise climbed to a premier place?

What Is Cheap Need Not Be Nasty

It is with satisfaction that we read the program of the newly-formed National Industrial Design Committee, a body organized to improve the appearance of Canadian manufactures of all kinds. Manufacturers, designers, artists and researchworkers are included in the committee, which hopes to exercise an influence on Canadian products, making them more beautiful, more functional, and more attractive to buyers in the outside world.

It is high time that some such body set to work in Canada. We have been too timid in this country in matters of design; we have stuck too closely to designs which "just growed", like Topsy, and which bear little relation to the nature or purpose of the objects upon which they are imposed. If the National Industrial Design Committee can persuade us to consider our native materials anew, and to cast aside the shackles of custom, the effect on Canadian manufacturing and Canadian export trade should be most beneficial.

Cheap design is most often seen, understandably enough, in cheap goods. Too often household articles which are produced in great quantity are ugly, for in many cases they are designed to suit conditions which no longer exist. Consider, for example, the matter of electrical fixtures, many of which are still produced in designs which were intended for gas lamps, and many of which are produced in imitation of candle-holding ornaments which have not been in use for 150 years; what have these things to do with electricity? Examples could be multiplied by the thousands. Consider also, the nature of the ornamentation which is imposed upon many cheap household objects; what justification has it? Certainly not that of beauty. And consider the other side of the picture—the idiotic "stream lining" of objects which, being stationary, never meet wind-resistance.

Canadian manufacturing needs to clean house in the matter of design and we hope that the National Industrial Design Committee will help it to do so. What is cheap need not be nasty, and what is expensive should be, as a minimum requirement, well-designed.

Cold $ Comfort

It is a wonder that somebody has not invented an abbreviation for "Cost of Living"—the term is now so often on people's lips and before their eyes — something like "Hi-$-no sense". Canada's Hi-$ stands at 156.9. It is a matter about which we not only think: we feel. However, there is always somebody in a worse predicament, and we can console ourselves by looking beyond our borders. The Department of Trade and Commerce in its weekly foreign trade bulletin has compiled a list of comparative cost-of-living indexes, taking as samples August, 1939, and December, 1947. In the latter month our Hi-$ stood at a mere 145. Here is the table:

	Aug. 1939	Dec. 1947
Canada	100	145
Czechoslovakia	100	278
Iceland	100	318
Mexico	100	305
Newfoundland	100	172
Norway	100	156
Peru	100	307
Switzerland	100	163
Sweden	100	156
United Kingdom	100	161
United States	100	169

If figures do not lie, Canada is sitting pretty, or at least more comfortably than Iceland and Mexico.

The Kingston Whig-Standard takes a steady look at this table and unblinking- [illegible] for the Canadian good in peace time. Some people may believe that the proposition needs to be demonstrated. Others, knowing that the controls were a kind of economic medicine, may not believe that a nation can flourish any better than a person does on a steady and perpetual diet of medicine. We ourself are a doubting Thomas.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Fashion experts say that the long skirts which characterize the New Look are to be shortened. Resulting in something to be called the Better Look, we presume.

A scientist, returning from Africa, says that the natives there want more money for less work. Obviously the great missionary job of civilization is progressing rapidly.

"U.S. Nudists Claim 2,000,000 Followers" says a headline. This is not surprising. If we saw a nudist of the right sort we would be inclined to follow her, making it 2,000,001.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

QUESTION: Has the Trent Canal ever been completed? Is it possible to sail from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay through the Canal?

ANSWER: In a sense, the Trent Canal has never been completed. As a short-cut for grain and other commercial vessels plying between Lake Huron and Lake Ontario, the original purpose of the Trent System has never been attained. It is possible, however, for small vessels to navigate from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay (or vice versa) through the Canal . There is 8-foot navigation for 89 miles from Lake Ontario to Peterborough, and 6-foot navigation for an additional 135 miles to Swift Rapids. The intervening 8 miles between Swift Rapids and Big Chute are restricted by the capacity of marine railways at these two places to a draught of 4 feet. The small hop from Big Chute to Port Severn, on an inlet of Georgian Bay, is plain sailing. Quite good-sized pleasure craft can be carried on the marine railways, so unless you are addicted to deep-sea yachts, you can make the complete trip with ease—and pleasure.

WHY do they say "As slow as a tortoise" and not "As slow as a turtle"? Aren't they the same thing?

ANSWER: As far as slowness goes, yes, but out of respect for the ancient fable about the hare and the tortoise, 'tortoise' is the proper word. Generally 'tortoise' is used to refer to the terrestrial (land) reptile and 'turtle' is the equivalent name for the marine species. However, on this continent, particularly in the U.S.A., 'turtle' is commonly used for both types. Since they are sluggish animals they do not use up much energy and therefore do not require much food. Like all cold-blooded animals they eat only a few times a year. Their hard shells prevent moisture escaping from their bodies, so they are not great drinkers. Turtles can go a year without food, which should comfort small boys who keep them as pets for a while before indulging in the reprehensible habit of transforming them into ash trays.

The most horribly ornate tortoise I have read about in modern fiction appears in Evelyn Waugh's "Brideshead Revisited". The Canadian tycoon Rex Mottram, wishing to favour his English fiancee on her birthday, presented her with a live tortoise which had been spangled by a jeweller. Its hard shell was studded with diamonds. Peace between Mottram and fiancee was preserved because the valuable tortoise wandered off in a day or two, it and its diamonds lost to view for ever.

POSTSCRIPT to last week's question and answer about "planting by the moon": A correspondent says that "It is a fact that home butchering, done while the moon is waxing is the better, since the meat, when cooked, doesn't shrink nearly as much as it does if it is killed while the moon is waning". So if you intend to kill the goose that lays the golden egg (or a heifer—the same thing these days) do it between next Friday (new moon) and September 19th (full moon).

QUESTION: Why is an exhibition like the Peterborough exhibition called a Fair? Has it anything to do with the quality of the show?

ANSWER: Before Peterborough's annual show (now being resumed after the war years) became really swish, industrialized and expansive, with midways and the like, it was commonly referred to as the Peterborough Fair. The reason was not that the show was only fair and not good. The word "Fair" meaning an exhibition of cattle, horses and various species of flora and fauna at a place where buyers and sellers meet, has been in the language for centuries; in fact, since the Norman conquest. It comes from an old French word "feire" (modern French "foire") which came from the Latin "feria"—a holiday. As often happens when people and things become snobbish, the short word "fair" has been discarded as being too common and earthy. They have taken up the long, more learned Latin term "Exhibition". I am in favour of the word "Fair", anyway for our Peterborough show. "Fair" at least gives us hope of good weather. Peterborough is notorious for bad weather during Exhibi-

WHICH is correct, "threshing" or "thrashing". I mean, when applied to the heads of oats, not the bottoms of boys.

ANSWER: As I have said before in these columns, I prefer to consider language usage not as correct or incorrect, but preferable, good or not good....Either "threshing" or "thrashing" (pronounced as spelt) may be used to refer to flogging backsides or flailing wheat. In England, the "e" sound and spelling is usually reserved for the harvest season. In Canada, people who profess to speak in a high tone carefully refer to the "threshing", but any farmer can tell them that they really mean "thrashing"—and he ought to know. What is good enough for the boy ought to be good enough for the wheat. I myself say "thrashing" without flinching. Incidentally, the word so pronounced and spelt is a good example of the growth or change of language. The word's root is Old English—"therscan". Through the years a change common in other words occurred when the "e" shifted to "threscan", and the "c" softened. Later, since "threshing" is harder to pronounce than "thrashing" the latter form became common among people who work harder with their arms than with their tongues.

Shoeshine—Scarlet

DIANA P. DANIELS In The Christian Science Monitor

I HAD to visit the United States before I noticed Alf and Jim.

This was because the English shoeblack has gone out of fashion. With the street knife grinder and chair mender, he is fading into history. Only if you are "shoeshine conscious," and have watched your feet come out like stars in some parlor across the Atlantic, do you think of him. But he can still be found, if you know where to look.

Admittedly, the mushroom growth of shoeblacks who did such a roaring trade with American troops in wartime London, has vanished now. But at the entrance to at least one great station, near the bright holiday posters, stand two men in scarlet coats. Their twin footstools are close together; so, during slack periods, are their heads. For Alf and Jim are partners of long duration. Add their shoeshining years—Alf's 53 and Jim's 47—and you are back in the days when no man ever dreamed of having his boots polished in the streets of London. Visit these two after a shower. They will pull sackcloth capes from their shoulders and greet you briskly. Out of their wooden chest will come rags stiff with polish and brushes of ancient lineage.

"How's trade?" you inquire. Probably Alf replies: "Getting a bit thin. Can't make it out." He shakes his head, "People's shoes dont' stay no cleaner than wot they did in the old days. Still," he brightens, "we go on pretty fair. This is a good place, see." He looks thoughtfully toward the travel posters. "Some of our mates done marvelous, you know. One's a station master in Canada. Writes to us. Jim and me could retire, but was pass our time very nice here—don't we, Jim?"

Jim nods vigorously, and echoes in a deep voice: "Very nice." This is a fair sample of his conversational powers.

IF you really want to see their faces light up with pleasure, ask them how they got their scarlet coats. Almost certainly, Alf will produce a grimy, red-covered book from his brush-box, and hand it to you with the words, "Keep this a couple of days. It tells you the lot."

The book is a life of "Rob Roy" MacGregor, explorer, philanthropist, and founder of the 'Shoeblack Brigade" for needy boys. Ninety-seven years ago, in scarlet uniform bought to catch the eye, the Brigade ventured onto the London streets under escort. Shines cost one penny, which seems fair; but the experiment caused a flurry of disapproval. Says MacGregor's diary, "A crowd soon followed each of the redcoats, and having planted the first boy, I placed my foot on the shoeblack's box....Then the police came up, and the whole arrangement was swept into space."

But on May Day, 1851, when the Great Exhibition drew the world to London, 30 shoeblacks paraded before the crowds, as dashing as soldiers in their scarlet coats. Offering trial shines, they found that gentlemen who had scorned them on the Strand or Cheapside were more friendly in this festive atmosphere. "Some strong-minded people who did not mind being stared at," writes MacGregor, "ventured to put their feet on the boxes." So the Brigade found public sanction. Hostile police became protectors, and a new trade was born.

The Central Red Shoeblacks lived a club life at their headquarters. Alf and Jim, when boys, set out from base each morning with sixpence apiece for dinner. Earnings were counted at night and divided into pocket money, board, and bank account. Then came supper of bread and cheese and cocoa.

The clubs are disbanded now, and Alf and Jim are free lancers, but they keep their traditional coats, and other traditions, too. Surely, they must have taken this advice, written by MacGregor, and handed down in the small red book:

"And with regard to the Shoeblacks themselves, be it enacted that all of them shall be very good boys. They shall stay at their stations, and not run away to look at the clock, or see Punch, or the wise dogs, or white mice, or the hare that fires a pistol. Nor shall any boy, when at his station, stand on his head for more than ten minutes at a time."

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN you return the book to Alf, he will look at you questioningly. If you wish to delight him, just say: "Quite a craftsman's story behind it all; I never knew."

For this, he will give you a lightning extra polish, and send you on your way with shoes gleaming.

We may reasonably hope that he (Mr. St. Laurent) will assure us in the Cabinet a representation which can do us honour and effectively serve our interests. A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith God the Lord, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk herein....I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images. (Isa. 42: 5, 8.)

I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, Keep not back: bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth; even every one that is called by my name: for I have created him for my glory, I have formed him; yea, I have made him... Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen....

This people have I formed for myself; they shall shew forth my praise. (Isa. 43: 6, 7, 10, 21.)

The Goose Hangs High

So long as savings in the banks are maintained at their present high level, that is at about four billions, there is no need either to despair of our economic position or to have a fit of the blues over inflation or other misfortunes. People are putting by reserves in preparation for bad times, while abundance reigns, while work increases everywhere and while there is activity in all directions. Saving deposits increase in proportion as the national revenue mounts. It was not over two billions before the war when the latter added up to six billions. Today they have both doubled and the situation augurs well for the future.—Le Soleil, Quebec.

Omemee Man Cleans Up In Grain, Seeds Section

Peterborough farmers just were not interested in the grain and seeds section of the Exhibition. Alex Huston put in a few exhibits, but the bulk of the prize-money went to Wesley Wilson of Omemee and Mrs. George Baird of Blackwater.

A lot of good grain was harvested around here this season, but even the registered seed growers passed up the competition offered by the Exhibition. Presumably their interests are chiefly commercial and also as producers.

THIS ONE SULKED and wouldn't jump when it struck the jointed plug W. J. Cochrane, Campbellford, was using Sunday night in Bradley Bay on the Trent River. Having no gaff, Mr. Cochrane had to fight the fish until Art Abernethy of Stirling came along with the big hook. The muskie weighed 22 pounds, 11 ounces, was 44 inches long with a 19 inch girth, and is the biggest 'lunge ever caught by Mr. Cochrane.

City-wide Playground Tourney At Riverside Park, Labor Day

Champions of the city playgrounds will be determined Labor Day in a city-wide playground tournament to be held at Riverside Park, recreation commissioner Jack Dane announced today. Representatives of the various playgrounds will compete in track and field events at 10 a.m. and in softball, volleyball and basketball in the afternoon.

At 1.30 a costume parade will be held in which all children from all playgrounds will take part. They will meet at the CNR freight sheds, and go from there to Riverside. Prizes, donated by the Allied Labour Council, will be given for best costume, the best-dressed bicycle, and doll carriage.

For the track and field, the best three boys and two girls from each of five age groups will be chosen from the playgrounds. These age groups are: primary, under 9; tadpole, under 11; peewee, under 13; bantam, under 15; and midget, under 17. A total of 125 boys and girls will take part in track and field, composed of five separate events: high jump, standing broad jump, running broad jump, hop step and jump, and sprints.

Competitors will be awarded points for first, second and third places. At 2 p.m. the playground softball championships will be held, with boys' bantam, peewee and midget teams competing, while only one class of girls, the bantams, will play off.

Following the softball will come girls' basketball and boys' volleyball at 3 p.m., and boys' basketball and girls' volleyball at 4 p.m. At 7 p.m. will be the awarding of crests to city champions. The playground whose representatives score the highest number of points will be declared the champion playground.

Horseshoe, soccer and touch rugby championships will be played prior to Labor Day, and during the first week of school, Mr. Dane expects that there will be a handcraft display at the Library.

ANYTHING CAN—and does—happen in the sort of weather Montrealers have been bravely abiding these past few days. Those people who talk about it being hot enough "to fry eggs on the sidwealk" don't know what the word ""hot" means. It was so hot in Montreal that the man above set out to boil an egg in the water of the fountain on Place D'Armes. Did he succeed? Well, just before press time a note was received from the man who runs the lunch room across the street. The note said: "Dear Mr. Editor: a few hours ago a reporter belonging to you borrowed an egg. He said he would return it undamaged in 30 minutes. Four hours have gone by. Tell him he can keep the egg if only he will return the waitress he similarly "borrowed" to help him get the picture.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP).—The Metropolitan Opera's general manager, back from a shortened Canadian vacation, said Thursday he would proceed at once with preparations for the 1948-49 season.

The manager, Edward Johnson, formerly of Guelph, returned by plane Wednesday. He expressed gratification that cancellation of the season had been rescinded.

He said, however, that detailed plans for the year—such as the date of the opening, the repertory, cast and other matters — could not be given until October.

Continuance of the opera was made possible when union artists dropped demands for wage increases.

NHL All-Stars Keep Trophy With 2-0 Victory Over Petes

Dit Clapper's NHL All-Stars edged out the Petes 2-0 before a good-sized crowd in Riverside last night in an exhibition baseball game — for the Kiwanis Club — to retain the Walker Trophy, put up in memory of Moose Ecclestone. It was a neat number to view with the All-Stars finally breaking a scoreless deadlock with two in the ninth on a single by Ariss, an out, a deliberate walk to Schmidt, and singles by Musselman and Henderson. The Petes in their half of the ninth had the tying run aboard at the end.

Bill Edger hurled good ball, and had nice backing, but the Petes weren't hitting. Jack Giffin held them to three hits in six frames, and Al Dumouchelle gave them none in the last three. The fielding was good on both sides, running grabs by Herchenratter and Macknes featuring. Milt Schmidt hit a double and single in three for All-Stars and Musselman got two for four. Whatley belted out a triple for the Petes, Garvey a double, and Foley a single.

B-A Wins First By 14 to 1 Over Kingston

KINGSTON, Aug. 26 — The durable Peterborough B-A team waltzed to victory here tonight in the first game of the first round of the OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns. The combines who had played two doubleheaders in Peterborough, competition on the previous two nights walloped Kingston Canadian Legion 14-1.

Graying Ken Guilfoyle toyed with the supposedly strong Legion batting order limiting the Kingstonians to three safeties two of them by Eric Ball. A left fielder for Kingston, who had a perfect night at bat.

Meanwhile the Combines were gathering 16 safeties off the offerings of two hurlers Bill Sharpe, Kingston starter, had an off-night and gave up seven runs on 10 hits and two Kingston errors before being relieved in the third by Vin Taillon. Taillon had fair success in scattering the Peterboro safeties. Phil Pryde who had four hits in five tries homered in the seven and Bob Crowe clouted out a circuit blow in the ninth after Taillon had issued his only two walks of the evening. Crowe also had a triple a single and a sacrifice and batted in three runs.

Peterborough came up with a couple of fielding gems in the eighth, Leether making a great one-hand stab at shortstop and Pryde taking Rawleys line drive at shoe top level.

Legion playing coach John Addy twisted his ankle in the first frame and is through for the season.

Line score:

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It'll be pretty warm lacrossing it tonight at Miller Bowl, but Huntsville and the Petes are due to tangle at nine. In an OLA senior "B" fixture. This is the second last home game for the Petes this season—they have one more next Friday with Oshawa—and it should be a heated affair. Tempers are not apt to remain cool in such weather, eh? The Creighton boys are sitting cozily on the top rung now and can't be shaken loose. Oshawa are next, then Orillia, and Huntsville appears to have the last playoff spot clinched over Scarboro. These same squads had a rough go in Huntsville a few nights back and tonight's tussle is liable to be real rugged.

* * * * * *

Two important baseball playoffs here tonight and tomorrow aft. Oshawa Hunters tangle with our junior Kiwanis at six tonight in Riverside, second of their Lakeshore League finals. Kiwanis won the first 2-1, so they appear well-matched. Proceeds go to Wimp Borland and 'tis hoped there's a big crowd. And at three tomorrow afternoon in Riverside, Napanee meets the intermediate "A" Petes in the first of their two-in-three OBA playdown series. Petes have Plunkett, Bill Sullivan and Armour for pitching, with Ferguson catching. Infield of Dugan, Conway, Red Sullivan and McRae. Garden includes: Fitzgerald, Legrow and White. A good team and it ought to be a fine fray, rating a hefty gallery.

* * * * * *

Thankless Sort Of Job

Add thankless jobs—being a sports' convener during playdown time. Several local chaps are up to their ears in work now lining up city and district playdowns, checking on umps and gates, etc. Jack Turner of the OBA executive has a hefty hunk of territory to look after up this way, including the lakeshore strip. Bert Bailey is buzzing around the district—Fenelon Falls, Hastings, etc.—doing his stuff on the OASA executive. And Bill Bennett has a large area to arrange for in PWSU playdowns as that Union's convener. They get no pay nor thanks for their work—but let 'em make a slip and just listen to the howls!

* * * * * *

Young Motors of Toronto tackle the Westclox girls at two tomorrow aft in the Bowl, second game of their PWSU intermediate "A" playdown series. Third, if necessary, there at six p.m. Westclox won the first 3-1 in Toronto back of fine flinging by Norma Kennedy. But they'll have to hustle as these Sunnyside lasses play hurry-up ball all the way. It rates a big crowd of softball fans as the Clockers hit down the provincial playdown path. Bowl games tonight, starting at seven: Lock Co. vs. Lindsay, and Lakefield vs. Woollens, both local league playoff tussles.

* * * * * *

B-A Boys Come Through

Johnny Russelle's B-A softballers swept to a 14-1 OASA intermediate "A" victory in Kingston last night, riding home comfortably on Ken Guilfoyle's three-hit hurling gem. They broke fast for five runs in the first inning and had no trouble after that. Phil Pryde had four hits in five times, one a homer, while Bob Crowe bashed out a homer, triple and single. Leether and Pryde pulled off fine catches in the field as the whole squad played a hustling brand of ball. Second game of the best-of-three playdown series will be at 8.15 tomorrow night in the Bowl, and no doubt a big crowd will be on deck to see this one.

* * * * * *

In Belleville last night, Kingston Locos came up with a surprise 9-8 win over Batawa to open the best-of-five COBL semi-final series. A ding-dong battle with Locos coming from well back to tally six runs in the final two frames. They used four flingers in squeezing out the verdict, and the Shoemen had a couple of twirlers in action. Hitting and fielding fairly even, with Cosgrove, Udall, Conner and Mulholland each having a pair of blows for Locos, as Grimes got [illegible] Rankin two each for Batawa.

Brace In Ninth Did It

NHL All-Stars—minus Meeker and Apps—nosed out the Petes 2-0 in a dandy exhibition ball game at Riverside last night in front of a goodly gallery. To retain the Moose Ecclestone Trophy. Got a brace of markers in the ninth to break a scoreless deadlock. Edger pitched swell ball and his buddies fielded okay but they were handcuffed by Giffin—who gave only three hits—and Dumouchelle, who allowed none in three heats. Milt Schmidt can drill the ball as well as the puck, rapping out a double and single in three tries. Herchenratter and Mackness had smart running catches. Kiwanis Club entertained Dit & Co. afterward.

Legion Hockey Club Won't Play In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Aug. 27—(ENS)—The annonucement that a Toronto Senior B team would play their home games in Lindsay this winter practically rules out the possibility that the popular Peterborough Legion Hockey Club will be seen in action here. The Lindsay Recreation Committee have tentatively accepted the Toronto club and alloted them Saturday nights.

The city club, which will play under a Lindsay name, is coached by a former local boy, Greg Currie, and have lined up such players as Bill Thoms, Rhys Thompson, Ronny Wilson, Bus and Joe Sadler, Pat Powers, and Ray Barry.

The Legion delegation of Messrs. Carson, Withers and Ned Vitarelli could not see Lindsay supporting two senior clubs and were not satisfied with Monday or Tuesday as playing nights.

"If we play in Lindsay, we definitely have to have Friday night," said Mr. Withers.

They stated that Omemee had already offered them the ice. The Legion team is expected to give final decision with in the next 10 days.

Meets Tough Opposition

RIVERSIDE, NB, Aug. 27 — (CP). — The Newington miss, Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Mass., defending Canadien ladies' open golf champion, to-day meets her toughest opposition in the four-day title battle when she tees off for 18 holes against Toronto's Miss Ada Mackenzie, five-time tournament winner. Miss Lenczyk Thursday disposed of Mrs. Hugh O'Callaghan of Vancouver 8 and 7 in a quarter-final match, while Miss Mackenzie met stronger resistance from Mrs. J. B. Seawright of Toronto, who carried her 20 holes before dropping outone down.

LAWN BOWLING
By HERB MARTIN

Congratulations are due R. Burns, R. Payne, A. Black and B. Collis. They won first honors and the gold trophy over in Oshawa on Wednesday afternoon and evening. It is no small feat to come out on top of an open tournament that had 104 rinks entered. From the information given to us the boys played bang-upp bowling all day and richly deserved the honor. Again we offer congratulations. They each received a cabinet of Rogers 1847 silverware.

On account of so many counter attractions the visit to Port Hope for tonight has been temporarily withdrawn.

Tonight we have men's doubles, draw from the board at 7 o'clock. All the money received as entry fee, returned as prizes.

Tomorrow evening at the usual hour, 7.30 o'clock, we hold the "Family Hour" tournament.

Monday night — the last round of the men's open singles.

Tuesday night—Novice singles competition.

The winning pairs for Wednesday night were: (1) Mrs. Petrie and K. Shadgett; (2) Mrs. Northrop and M. Fletcher; (3) Mrs. Mackey and R. Brown; (4) Mrs. Burns and G. Soulby.

7.30 o'clock this morning — Special—We need only five more entries to complete the quota of 96 pairs for the Black Memorial Trophy tournament to be held next [illegible] ing his golfing career. A former Halifax district champ, Morash got his first ace in 1945, the second in 1947 and the third when he sank a 145-yard drive here recently.

Legion Hockey Club Won't Play In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Aug. 27—(ENS)—The annonucement that a Toronto Senior B team would play their home games in Lindsay this winter practically rules out the possibility that the popular Peterborough Legion Hockey Club will be seen in action here. The Lindsay Recreation Committee have tentatively accepted the Toronto club and alloted them Saturday nights.

The city club, which will play under a Lindsay name, is coached by a former local boy, Greg Currie, and have lined up such players as Bill Thoms, Rhys Thompson, Ronny Wilson, Bus and Joe Sadler, Pat Powers, and Ray Barry.

The Legion delegation of Messrs. Carson, Withers and Ned Vitarelli could not see Lindsay supporting two senior clubs and were not satisfied with Monday or Tuesday as playing nights.

"If we play in Lindsay, we definitely have to have Friday night," said Mr. Withers.

They stated that Omemee had already offered them the ice. The Legion team is expected to give final decision with in the next 10 days.

Meets Tough Opposition

RIVERSIDE, NB, Aug. 27 — (CP). — The Newington miss, Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Mass., defending Canadien ladies' open golf champion, to-day meets her toughest opposition in the four-day title battle when she tees off for 18 holes against Toronto's Miss Ada Mackenzie, five-time tournament winner. Miss Lenczyk Thursday disposed of Mrs. Hugh O'Callaghan of Vancouver 8 and 7 in a quarter-final match, while Miss Mackenzie met stronger resistance from Mrs. J. B. Seawright of Toronto, who carried her 20 holes before dropping outone down.

Jersey Giants Take Twin Bill From Montreal

By The Associated Press

Jersey City Giants, defending pennant winners in the International League, are beginning to play ball like the champs they were once.

Eliminated from any chance of winning the pennant this year, the Giants, although in seventh place, have a good opportunity to land in the first division and a playoff berth.

They ran their victory skein to six games Thursday night by taking a twin bill from the high-flying Montreal Royals, 9-2 and 3-2. It was only the second time this season that the Royals have dropped a doubleheader.

Hub Andrews coasted to his third straight triumph in the first game as the Giants scored all of their runs in the first three innings. Lefty Jack Kraus stopped the Royals on six hits in the nightcap.

The twin triumphs enabled the Giants to pull to within six games of the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings who dropped a 10-6 slugfest to the tail-end Baltimore Orioles.

The third-place Toronto Maple Leafs moved two games ahead of the Wings as a result of their 3-2 triumph over the sixth-place Syracuse Chiefs.

Young Lou Possehl, with help from veteran Nick Strincevich in the ninth, gained credit for his 11th victory. Frank Fanovich was the losing Syracuse pitcher.

Newark's runner-up Bears humbled Buffalo Bisons 10-1, to extend Buffalo's losing streak to eight games.

Locos Splurge Down Batawa 9-8 At Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 27.—(CP). —Kingston Locos came from behind with six runs in the eighth inning and one in the ninth to defeat Batawa Shoemen 9-8 in the first game of their best-of-five Central Ontario League game semi-final series here Thursday night.

The Locos combined four hits and two errors on the part of the shoemen to score their six runs in the eighth.

The shoemen had their turn in the seventh when, leading 3-2, they blasted four safeties to push over five runs.

Fitzpatrick, shoemen starting hurler, was touched for six runs and 10 hits in seven innings. He was relieved by Bowman. Locos trotted out three hurlers, Stone, Connor and Mulholland. The first two pitched 4 and 3 and Mulholland went in with the score tied and got credit for the win.

The second game of the series will be played in Kingston Saturday afternoon.

President Ford C. Frick of the National League Thursday at New York upheld the protest of the Pittsburgh club involving its game Wednesday with Brooklyn at Pittsburgh, and ordered the game replayed from the point of the rule violation and with the same players.

In the last of the ninth inning of Wednesday's game, with Brooklyn leading 11 to 9 and Carl Erskine pitching for the Dodgers with two men out, Erskine ran the count to three balls and one strike on pinch-hitter Eddie Brockman.

At this point Manager Burt Shotton sent in Hank Behrman to pitch, and Brockman grounded into a force play to end the game.

The protest was based on a rule which provides that a pitcher coming into the game shall continue to pitch until the player at bat has either been out or has reached first base, or the side has been retired.

Don Durno, husky lineman with Lew Hayman's Montreal Alouettes for the last three football seasons, said Thursday night at Toronto he is wondering whether his former coach is handing him the double-cross.

Durno, currently sweating out practice sessions with Toronto Argonauts, said Alouettes had promised to release him so he could join the Dominion champions this season. Durno said the promise wass made by Joe Ryan, Alouettes' business manager, three months ago, but now the Alouettes won't give it to him until Argos send down a replacement for him.

Boston Bruins' Bill Cowley was conceded in Vancouver sport circles today to be "just about in" as the new hockey coach of Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast Hockey League. He would succeed Mac Colville of Edmonton, former New York Ranger star. Clint Smith, top contender for the Canucks' coaching spot, announced here he has accepted a contract to coach St. Paul of the United States Hockey League. Last year Smith coached Tulsa in the same loop.

The opening game of the 1948 football season in Toronto may well go down in Toronto gridiron annals ass "operation sweat." Argonauts and Beaches' Indians players learned Thursday from the weather man that they can look for temperatures in the 90's for their exhibition charity game here this Saturday.

Jack Solomons, British fight promoters, announced Thursday at London that Lee Oma, 31-year-old American heavyweight, will fight Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight champ, at Harringay Arena, Sept. 21. This will be Woodcock's first fight since he wass dsefeated by Joe Baksi at Harringay in April of 1947.

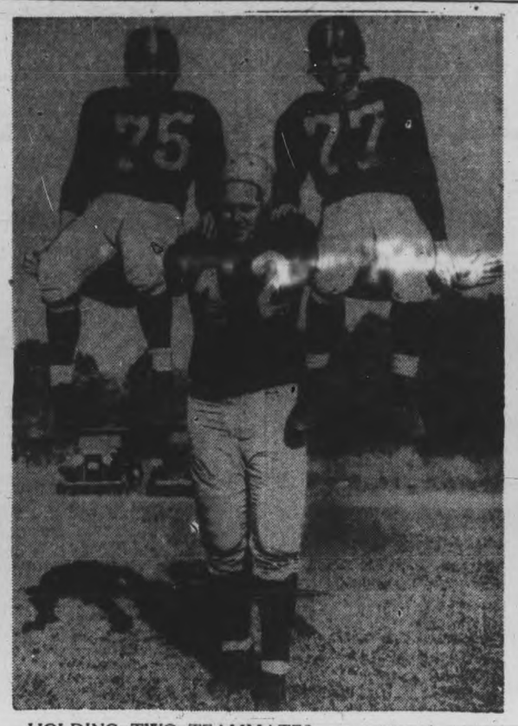
Joe O'Brien, the New Glasgow, N.S., reinsman, scored two wins and a place in Thursday's events at the Grand Circuit harness racing meeting at Milwaukee. He won the three-heat $25,000 big five trot, the class 22 pace and placed second in the $1,500 class 15 race.

The New York Rangers of the National Hockey League will begin training for the 1948-49 season at the Olympic Arena in Lake Placid, N.Y., Sept. 21, Manager Frank Boucher announced Thursday. Boucher said 41 players would be taken to the training camp.

Little Joe captured second division of the two-year-old supertest race at Ridgetown, Ont., Thursday, with a one-two finish to feature the final card of harness racing att he Ridgetown fair.

MASQUERADER

The horned toad really is a lizard.



HOLDING TWO TEAMMATES, one on each arm, is child's play for mighty Marion Shirley (what's in a name?), 282-pound rookie tackle with the New York pro football Giants. Kiner's 35th Homer Helps Bucs Sweep Doubleheader

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ralph Kiner, making his second stab in two seasons at Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs, is ahead of his pace of a year ago when he crashed 51 round-trippers.

The slugging Pittsburgh outfielder Thursday banged his 35th homer in 115 games to help the Bucs sweep a doubleheader from Philadelphia Phillies, 11-4 and 4-1. The twin triumph enabled the Pirates to regain fourth place in the National League from New York Giants by a full game.

Last year Kiner hit 32 home runs in Pittsburgh's first 115 games. A strong finisher, Ralph has an outside chance of catching the Babe, but he'll have to travel at an extraordinary pace. He must hit at the rate of five home runs every eight games.

In the opener Thursday, Wally Westlake belted a grand-slam homer to highlight a six-run sixth inning which enabled the Bucs to overcome a 3-0 deficit. Kiner added a triple to his second-game homer and drove in two runs to help Mel Queen gain his third victory.

Retake First Place

Boston Red Sox recaptured first place in the American League from Cleveland Indians in their tense struggle for the flag, defeating the Tribe 8-4. A five-run eighth inning rally, which included Bobby Doerr's three-run homer, snapped a 3-3 tie and shoved the Red Sox half a game in front of the Indians.

Trailing 2-1 in the last of the eighth and held to two hits, New York Yankees pounced on relief pitcher Glen Moulder for five runs to defeat Chicago White Sox 6-2. A two-run triple by Billy Johnson with two out drove in the winning runs.

In winning, the third-place Yankees moved within half a game of the Indians, and one game out of first place.

The fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics turned back Detroit Tigers 4-3, hanging the 10th defeat upon Hal Newhouser. Trailing 3-2 in the eighth, the A's drove Newhouser from the mound, scoring two runs on a double by Pete Suder to give Joe Coleman, former Toronto pitcher, his 12th victory. The A's are 3½ games out of first place.

Ed Stewart squeezed home Al Kozar with the run that gave Washington Senators an 8-7 victory over St. Louis Browns in the only night game in the American League.

Race Tightens

The National-League race tightened considerably when the cellar-dwelling Chicago Cubs upset the Braves twice, 5-1 and 5-2, to reduce their first place lead to 2½ games over St. Louis Cardinals.

The Redbirds moved into second place, half a game in front of Brooklyn Dodgers, by sweeping a day-night doubleheader from the Giants in St. Louis. The Cards won the afternoon portion of the twin bill 7-2, then came back to win the arclight tussle 7-5.

Joe Hatten pitched Brooklyn to a 6-1 triumph over Cincinnati. It was Brooklyn's ninth victory without a loss at Crosley Field.

Alouettes Drub Hamilton 18-0

MONTREAL, Aug. 27 — (CP) — Montreal's Big Four Alouettes sweated and dripped through 90 degree temperatures Thursday night to capture the Kiwanis Bowl exhibition game 18-0 from Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

More appropriately dubbed the heat bowl or sweat bowl, a crowd of 12,000 limply watched Quebec's Big Four hope steamroller to victory power by bullet passes from ex-Notre Dame player Steve Nemeth.

His performance paved the way for the Lark's first touch and accounted for the third. His accuracy was seriously rivalled, however, by Tiger's Frank Filchock who completed nearly all the 12 out of 23 passes attempted by Tigers.

Montreal's powerhouse was sparked by three American imports — Nemeth, Floyd Weeler and Norm Cox — who, combining with veteran Virg Wagner and lineman Herb Trawyck, did cartwheels behind a solid line.

Tigers without Filchock were too light and too young but when the versatile star was on the field —almost the full game — he led them on march after march to Alouette's line.

Rough Riders Appear Dangerous Team

OTTAWA, Aug. 27 (CP). — Minus a few of last year's stars, but with openings yet in the American import section, Ottawa Rough Riders this year shape up as a reasonably formidable question mark in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union.

Gone from the red-white-and-black lineup are Frank Dunlap, dependable quarter who went to Toronto's Osgoode Hall and is changing colors to Argonaut blue; rangy Ken Charlton who left town for his native Regina, and big Hank Christian, all-star Canadian middle with Riders for two years running, who went back across the border to the U.S.

From last year's squad it has retained the indomitable Tony Golab, who showed to advantage when Riders defeated Hamilton Tigers 13-7 in an exhibition game last week. Others are the American halfback Howie (Touchdown) Turner; Nels Greene, last year's rookie award winner; Pete Finlay, Matt Anthony, Bert Haigh and Wild Tremblay as backs and ends.

Coach Wally Masters, one of the earliest American imports in the 30s who coached Riders in 1933 and 1934, is mentor-like and non-committal about the team's chances.

From the Trojan team he coached last year Masters has brought a stellar halfback, Doug Smylie, who was rated among the best last season, and several others. Another ORFU recruit is Bob Paffrath, formed University of Minnesota man who was quaterback for Toronto Indians last year.

The Riders also have one of the Big Four's best placement kickers in Eric Chipper, elected captain of the team this year, and Don Loney, who gained all-Canadian rating as a snap last season. Several Ottawa Juniors, including Jake Dunlap, brother of Frank; Buck Rogers, a snap; and Len Shaw, backfielder, are also on pre-season practice grounds.

Americans sure to make the team are Ed Michaels, an inside erly played for Philadelphia wing and line coach who form-Eagles; Turner, who helped spark Riders last year, and Paffrath.

Daly Collects Fans' Tribute; Quitting Ball

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — (CP).—Tommy (Tim) Daly, the genial Irishman of the big cigar, the colorful comeback and the strong hands expert at piecing together an injured athlete, bade goodbye to baseball to-day.

The rotund baseball-hockey trainer was launched on his way in a Tim Daly night at Maple Leaf Ball Park Thursday night. The shower of gifts from fans and officials was enough to stop even the thick Daly tongue from giving its customary comeback in a happy mixture of brogue and Brooklynese.

The ceremony severed a 38-year association with Toronto baseball Maple Leafs. But that does not mean Tim is quitting sports. It won't be long now before he picks up his winter duties as chief trainer of Toronto's other Maple Leafs—the hockey variety.

The legends built up through Daly's sport years obscure even his exact age. Tim himself admits he is "getting up in years" and says that is the reason he is quitting the baseball Leafs, for whom he has been public relations officer since 1943.

The legends mostly concern the tart Daley tongue, several times the cause of his being fired in the heat of repartee by hockey Leafs peppery manager, Conny Smythe.

Many Tales

One that lived for 30 years concerns the time he was trainer of a Toronto lacrosse team and let the club's equipment fall in the harbor during a ferry trip. His excuse was that the heat in their last previous game was "the worst I ever seen . . . Them pads are still soaked from perspiration."

Those were the kind of stories the fans recalled when they showered him with gifts Thursday night—two bouquets of roses, a radio, a rocking chair, a box of cigars and other articles. Two major items were a cheque for $1,230 from Leafs players and fans, and another for $1,000 from the ball club.

But the team gave him the best present of all for a man who admits baseball as his "first love." They defeated Syracuse Chiefs—3-2.

Western Farms Bigger Population Shows Decrease

REGINA, Aug. —(CP).—The population of this agricultural province is shifting towards other provinces and internally as well.

The story as laid down in Canadian census figures shows Saskatchewan had a population in 1947 estimated at 842,000 persons compared with 896,000 in 1931.

Still ranked fourth in population in the Dominion, Saskatchewan is, however, showing a steady decline.

That drop of 25,000 persons between 1931 and 1941 has been attributed by some to a drought-propelled exodus of frustrated farmers and other workers who sought jobs in Eastern Canada and on the West Coast.

For the six-year period between 1941-47, when 54,000 persons left the province, some blame war industry elsewhere. That number incidentally is more than the total population of Saskatoon, second largest city, and is only about 10,000 less than the total population of this capital.

Political opponents of the present CCF government claim that the "crusing" of free enterprise—charged to the government—accounts for the drop in population. They say government policies in handling some industries, labor problems and natural resources not only makes the small business man shy away or decamp but also scares off the capital they claim is needed from outside for expansion of natural resources.

Government's Viewpoint

In power since 1944, and returned June 24, the government counters with the argument that free enterprise had its chance but failed; that the population was leaving before the CCF took over and that CCF policies will diversify the provincial economy and create more jobs.

But when it comes to Saskatchewan's main occupation, farming, the government expresses concern.

Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollet estimates that the total number of farms in the province has declined from 145,000 to around 125,000. "There may come a day when 50,000 to 60,000 farms—and farmers—may constitute the provincial total."

Power machinery, he says, "has sent overhead costs and capital investment up so high, farmers must cultivate more and more land to make a profit."

He believes that even sub-marginal land will have to be used unless the farmers take some action.

Either co-operative use of power machinery or co-operative farming is Mr. Nollet's answer to the problem he says exists.

There are currently nine co-operative farms in the province established for veterans who own about three-quarters of a section each and such machinery communally. Their holdings are small compared to some larger farms where 10 sections aren't uncommon.

Doesn't Exploit Soil

"Some people may call it socialization of the land and a step towards what the Communists did to the Kulaks," says the Agriculture Minister. "But I call it common sense. It allows the kind of cultivation that won't exploit the soil as some farmers are forced to do in cultivating more and more acreage to stay on top."

(The Kulaks were the independent Russian farmers who were forced to give up their farm holdings in the collectivization of agriculture that followed the Russian revolution. Many of them were "liquidated" in the process.)

Now flushed with good crops and prices, farmers are settling in towns and villages for the winter. They return in the spring to sow their crops.

In building up the urban population, they have abandoned much of the poultry, livestock and dairy production that formerly was carried on in the non-growing season. It means to some a tendency toward a one-crop agriculture as well as a gradual shift within the provincial population that may indicate a new era in mechanized farming.

Hundreds See Drowning

TORONTO, Aug. 27—(CP)—Walter Flewelling, 25, of Saint John, N.B., was drowned Thursday night in Lake Ontario as hundreds of persons of the west end's crowded Sunnyside Beach watched two companions risk their lives in a rescue attempt. Flewelling apparently was seized by cramps while swimming outside the breakwater.

Park Attendance High

OTTAWA, Aug. 27 — (CP) — Canada's national parks attracted a record number of visitors in the four months ended July 31, the Resources Department announced Thursday. Attendance totalled 694,344, a six-per-cent increase over the previous all-time high of 653,681 in the same period last year.

FEMALE OF THE SPECIES, DEADLIER THAN THE MALE!

Labor To Make Vital Decision

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(CP).—At the seaside resort of Margate next month British labor will make a decision vital to the economy of production - conscious Britain: Whether to continue to support the Government's wage-prices stabilization policy.

The scene will be the annual convention of the powerful Trade Union Congress, mother body of more than 200 British trade unions, embracing 8,000,000 workers. The wages and prices issue looms as the most important and probably the most controversial among the 800 delegates to the five-day conference which will discuss everything from housing to nationalization and international policy.

Informed labor men, mindful that reversal of TUC support of Government policy could bring industrial unrest and upset the industrial targets and the export-dollar drive, confidently predict there will be no change.

But they admit there is likely to be a smaller majority for continued support than the 3,000,000 by which the TUC last March endorsed the Government white paper urging stabilization of wages, other incomes and profits at the existing levels to fight inflation.

His widow, a daughter and a son, Brian M. Kenny of Brantford, survive.

Prices Commission Hears Of Big Shoe Firm Profits

OTTAWA, Aug. 27 — (CP). — One of the country's largest manufacturers of girls' and children's shoes presented evidence before the prices commission Thursday showing his company's profits in the first portion of this year were greater than in all of 1939.

The firm, Savage Shoe Co. Ltd., Preston, was represented by its president, L. M. Savage, who laid before the commission documents it requested showing the firm's financial results from 1937 on.

The 1939 profit of $76,987 was made on the sale of 897,923 pairs of shoes. In the first five months of 1948 the company sold 533,212 pairs of shoes and made a net profit of $88,950.

The documents showed the average price per pair of shoes was $1.70 in 1939 and $3.10 this year. Mr. Savage testified that, contrary to the experience of some witnesses who had preceded him on the witness stand, his company found demand for shoes good.

Later he told reporters demand had increased over 1939 especially in the higher-priced ranges.

The commission decided on the strength of this week's evidence the probe of shoe prices should be continued and retailers will be called next week. It had appeared earlier that the commission would finish its investigation this week.

Buyer Resistance

George Dufresne, vice-president of the Slater Shoe Co. (Canada) Ltd. testified, like some previous witnesses, that demand for shoes had declined this year. He attributed it to a desire on the part of retailers to reduce their stocks and said consumer resistance "might" be a factor.

Under questioning by commission counsel H. A. Dyde, he said it definitely was a factor.

Statistics laid before the commission at the beginning of its investigation showed a marked decrease in shoe production this year and the representatives of the tanning industry called last week testified generally that demand for leather was lower this year.

Another of Thursday's witnesses, Roscoe Linton, manager of the T. Sisman Shoe Co. of Aurora, said, however, his firm's orders were up and that it was planning to increase production next year.

Tropical Glacier Starts Forward

GREYMOUTH, N.Z., Aug. 27—(CP)—New Zealand's "tropical" glacier, the Franz Josef, which at its lower end runs through fern forest at only 600 feet above sea level, is advancing again after many years of retreat up its valley.

Like glaciers in Canada and Alaska most New Zealand glaciers have puzzled scientists by a large shinkage in depth and retreat of their terminal faces during most of the present century.

The Franz Josef, which falls precipitously from the Southern Alps, in the South Island, moves faster than most glaciers because of its steep fall. Only when it reaches the level forest-covered coastal plain does it flatten out. It is here that the terminal face has been retreating until recently.

The Franz Josef has shown evidence of this retreat for at least 50 years but the movement became much more rapid after 1934. Between then and 1945 its terminal face moved back about 1,100 yards. A lake and a grassy flat were left where there had been ice 600 feet thick in 1893 and 200 feet thick as recently as 1934.

The glacier has always been a great tourist attraction. Once visitors stepped onto the ice from high up the side of the valley. In recent years they have had to approach it by boat across the lake on the valley floor.

In the last year the ice has been advancing again and has reoccupied about 300 yards of the valley. The lake is gradually being filled up with debris from the terminal moraine and if the movement continues it will disappear in about three years.

It is not certain, however, that the advance is permanent and that the terminal face of the glacier will return to its former position. Up to a few weeks ago the ice was advancing 3 feet a day, but this has now dropped to between two and 2½ feet.

Cattle Rustlers

WATFORD, Aug. 27. (CP) — Cattle rustlers have returned to Lambton county in Western Ontario, but this time they're motorized. Farmers in this district, 30 miles east of Sarnia, say their cattle are disappearing, one or two from each herd. They say they believe rustlers back trucks up to the fences, lower a tail gate to form a ramp, and load up.

Sheriff Dead

SIMCOE, Aug. 27. (CP)—Lt.-Col. Arthur C. Pratt, 77, Sheriff of Norfolk County, died Thursday in hospital. Czech Communists Move Warily Must Consolidate Their Position

By SYDNEY BROOKES

PRAGUE, Aug. 27—(Reuters) — Czechoslovakia's Communist Government has reached the end of the first phase of its development: it has gained power.

It now is entering the second phase, during which its position must be consolidated and its policies justified.

The regime has already surmounted several hurdles.

It has secured and confirmed its political power, enforced its new constitution, carried through its elections, and solved the question of the presidency.

Ahead, great new problems are looming; and in this present period of stocktaking, Prague is wondering how they will be handled.

It is generally accepted that Czechoslovakia presents a special problem for Communism. For the first time, Communism holds power in an already highly-developed social organism.

Czechoslovakia is highly industrialized—so highly that her production outstrips her supplies of raw materials, making her largely dependent on her export-import trade, most of it still with western countries.

When Communism took over, Czechoslovakia was socially well developed. Her standard of education was above normal for this part of the world. Her peasantry, although by no means fully efficient, were a step or two above their neighbors.

Czechoslovakia, which owes her existence largely to the west, or to treaties negotiated in the west, has always looked to the west for her imports of culture as well as for copper and iron.

Need Economic Success

It is obvious to most observers here that Communism can achieve no lasting ideological success unless it quickly proves an economic success. Most important is that economic success will be impossible unless Communism can secure the co-operation of those elements in the population which provide efficient administrators for the country's trade, transport and production.

In these circumstances, the question has arisen whether Communism can afford to carry its purges and prejudices too far, whether it might not be necessary for Communism to make some sort of pact with the surviving middle-classs — to try to persuade and educate rather than punish and coerce the remaining opposition.

Declarations from Government and party leaders indicate that the Communist party here understands these special difficulties.

Since the end of the war, the country has lost many thousands of skilled technicians, craftsmen, administrators, and agriculturists through the expulsion of the German population from what was known as Sudetenland.

Since February, when the action committees started purging the national life, the country has lost more skill.

Party leaders have themselves acknowledged that the action committees often exceeded requirements. Personal prejudice was brought into denunciations. Capable administrators and useful workmen were deprived of their goods and their livelihoods for the worst of reasons at the time when the national economy needed all the impetus which skill and energy could put behind it.

Abused New-Found Power

In addition to the action committees, works councils and works committees in factories abused the unchecked power which the political changes had placed in their hands.

Stores were rifled, as if the country's reserves, so summarily taken over from their previous owners, were booty to be distributed among the successful revolutionaries.

Theft, graft, corruption, nepotism, developed even among the ranks of the "faithful." The prime minister himself, Antonin Zapotocky, a hard-headed trade unionist, with a knowledge of production requirements, learned the hard way, has been forced to denounce workers' leaders and the workers themselves for misusing funds, for malingering and general laziness, for failing to report inefficiency among trade union leaders, for watching their own selfish interests instead of the interests of the state.

His frank comments show an awareness that any great disruption of the national industrial system could have had serious economic consequences.

Czechoslovakia's import-export trade deficit was steadily mounting. It was becoming increasingly difficult for her to feed raw materials to her industry and to maintain even the previous low nutritional standards of her population.

It may have been ideologically desirable to crush all opposition, to pull out the bourgeoisie root and branch, to throw non-conformists into prison or pursue them over the frontier; but it could be economic suicide.

And in the long run economic hara-kiri must mean political hara-kiri even if force is used to maintain the regime.

Agricultural Problem

Similar problems arose in Czechoslovakia's agricultural organization. Food produced at home meant more currency to spare for imported raw materials and more production available for industrializing Czechoslovakia's neighbors in the Slav system.

The party line was quite clear about the use of land—it must come under state control, it should be collectivized, no land-owning peasants should be left, because a man who owned land was a potential capitalist.

When they gained power in February, the Communists had to decide whether to go straight into the organization of collective farms, with all the probable disruption which that would mean, or whether to continue with their announced policy of splitting the land up among peasant owners.

Like other Slav countries, they chose to split the land in blocks. They set 50 hectares as the limit for any shingle owner. They insisted that all who owned land must themselves work on it, and, within these limits, they created what was in effect a whole new class of capitalists—land-owning peasants.

Ranging over the whole field of the available evidence, observers here think that sheer economic expediency made it necessary for the Communists to keep away from the drastic policies advocated by their more radical wings and to undertake their transition to socialism with as little disruption of the national life as possible.

D. Shostakovich Bows To Orders

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 — (AP).—Izvestia announced to-day that a new film, part one of "The Young Guard," has been issued with music by Dmitri Shostakovich.

This will be the first new music of Shostakovich to appear since the Central Committee of the Communist Party accused him last February of following bourgeois tendencies of the West.

At that time Shostakovich promised to correct his "mistakes" and disclosed he was at work on the music for "The Young Guard" and for an opera of the same name. The story is from a novel by Alexander Fadiejev dealing with the exploits of the underground during the German occupation.

IRRITATING, PAINFUL, BURNING FEET—RAW, CRACKED, PEELING SKIN BETWEEN TOES RELIEVED OVERNIGHT

If your job requires you to stand up while you work . . . perhaps in a shop or factory . . . or on a railroad job, you know that hot, steamy summer weather can mean acute foot discomfort. Foot specialists examining thousands of patients have found that many common foot ailments are due to one cause—Tinea Pedis—a virulent infection known as "Athlete's Foot".

If you have peeling, soggy skin and painful cracks between toes; if you are plagued by persistent itching and excessive, malodorous perspiration start using AERO-PED Powder at once. It contains P.M.N. (Phenylmercuric nitrate)—a powerful germicide and fungicide which kills the germs and fungi that cause "Athlete's Foot."

Walter Wanger Wants To Star Joan Crawford

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27 (AP). —Producer Walter Wanger, who will shift his operations abroad next year, hopes to add Joan Crawford to his star roster, which already boasts Greta Garbo.

Wanger wants Joan for "The Ballad and the Source," which is planned for production in Paris. "I want to shoot 'Ballad' in May at the same time I'm making the Garbo picture over there," he says. "Joan hasn't said Yes or No yet, but I'm hoping."

Sir Ralph Richardson has his own idea of play try-outs. He'll preview "Brand" on BBC before it opens at the Old Vic in London. "I always do that; then I have only my voice to worry about," he says. It's a difficult play since it includes an avalanche. "It's hard to cast an avalanche," reports Sir Ralph.

Today's Feature: Bogie Sounds Off

Humphrey Bogart is holding court on the "Knock On Any Door" these days and you can get an opinion on anything from him. Here are two late ones:

Reviewers — "Most of them don't know good acting, good writing or good direction. They blame and praise the wrong people."

Producers—"What do they do? I'm hanged if I know. In New York you can go up to a producer and ask him how things are going. Here they all sit at special tables in the Commissary to maintain the caste system."

Capsule Review

"Rope" (Warners) is an interesting experiment which largely succeeds. Told in one set with continuous action (no time elapses between cuts), it's a gripping story of two young men who murder a friend for the experience. The film leans to talkiness, but generally intrigues. James Stewart stars as the man who undoes the horrid deed.

Prisoners Make Gun From Book

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 27 — (AP). — Details of a fantastic escape plot involving the use of a primitive African weapon have been revealed by Tom Smith, superintendent of the state prison here.

Smith said that an unnamed resident recently loaned the prison library a book dealing with African life. When the book was returned the owner found that whenever the book was placed on its back unopened it would invariably open to page 197. Smith was informed and, studying the contents of the page, noticed it had a complete account of primitive blow-guns.

He ordered a search of the institution and found missing copper tubing which had been made into a blow-gun powdered by compressed air. He said inmates had tried it out, using 10-penny nails packed in cotton. The weapon was so powerful the nails penetrated a sheet of metal.

Smith said the weapon could have been used to noiselessly pick off guards on the wall. His investigation, he said, is being continued.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—(AP).—The temperature soared to 100.8 degrees at 3 p.m. EDT here on Thursday, second highest reading ever recorded in New York City. At least two persons were dead and a third in hospital from heat prostration in the metropolitan area.

Offer Course To Bolster School Drama

SEABRIGHT, N.S., Aug. 27 (CP).—Nineteen Nova Scotians, ranging in age from 20 to 46, have gone back to school here — studying ways and means of bolstering community and school dramatics in Canada.

In a rambling two-storey dance hall, the students study acting, direction, stage management and stage lighting. The emphasis is on direction.

The 10-day course, first of its kind in the province, is conducted by Donald Wetmore of Indian Harbor, N.S., dramatic adviser of the Provincial Education Department.

The drama students — two-thirds of them are teachers, one is a Roman Catholic priest and some are housewives, pay only their hotel bills for the course and combine it with a vacation.

They study in a room in the dance hall with a tiny stage at one end and stacks of scripts and theatre books on each side. Mr. Wetmore lectures in the morning, gives the students practical work in the afternoon and holds rehearsals in the evening.

Course Worth While

"I have learned enough in one day to make the course worthwhile," says Phyllis Commons. Miss Commons, a Truro Junior High School music teacher, plans to add dramatics to the school curriculum this Fall.

Another student, housewife Stella Bower of Lower Ohio, will launch a new dramatic group in her tiny south shore community.

The only men are Edward Marriot, a Halifax school teacher, and Rev. C. H. Bauer of St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish.

All but one of the students have had stage experience.

5 Japanese To Hang

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 27. (AP)—Five Japanese were sentenced today to be hanged for brutal operations performed on captured United States airmen. Eight others accused of cannibalism in the same case were freed. Four other defendants in the so-called "Kyushu University" case were given life and 13 received prison terms ranging from three to 25 years.

ROY ADAMS (right) 14, is shown with his attorney, Joseph Gannon, as he awaited the opening of his trial in Chicago, for the slaying of 8-year-old Nancy Schuler. It was said that the defence will attempt to get prosecutors to agree to a plea of guilty to manslaughter. They contend that the slaying of Nancy last May 27 was not premeditated and therefore could not have been murder.

Russians Shock Delegates With Bitter Attacks On US

WROCLAW, Poland, Aug. 27—(AP)—Prof. A. J. Taylor of Britain told the World Congress of Intellectuals Thursday that it is "a congress for hate and war."

The Oxford University history professor said "this congress has not served the purpose of bringing people together."

"It has been a congress for preaching hate, a congress for war and not peace."

Taylor reminded the delegates that Russia alone did not win the war.

Most of the British and United States delegates at the conference appeared shocked by the violence of Russian attacks against the United States and Britain.

Thursday, for instance, Ilya Ehranburg, a Russian journalist, told the congress that the United States is preparing for a "barbaric war." During his talk he labelled Americans as representing everything from Bourgeois barbarism to savages.

The Word Congress of Intellectuals, called by French and Polish committees to map a peace program, for the last 48 hours has heard little more than bitter denunciations of the United States and American culture.

Russian delegates have spearheaded the assault, with support from delegates of many countries who are pro-Soviet.

Broken Bearing Won't Keep Pair At Home

HALIFAX, Aug. 27—(CP)—A little thing like a broken bearing isn't keeping Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Carlin of New York from making their round-the-world trip in an amphibious jeep.

The two were picked up Wednesday by the tanker New Jersey after drifting 10 days 270 miles off New York. They left New York aboard the jeep early this month with their first stop scheduled to be the Azores. No one else was aboard.

In a wireless interview with The Canadian Press Thursday night Mr. Carlin said the amphibian had been salvaged and "is snug in the tanker's lifeboat davits."

"Damage to the craft," he said, "is one bearing."

"Damage to the crew—nil."

We're both in perfect health," he said, "and after arriving in Montreal Monday we plan to make a fresh start."

Point of temperature and date of the second attempt had not yet been decided.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlin, before being picked up by the New Jersey City, were last sighted Aug. 11 by a United States destroyer 150 miles at sea.

Mistake Envoy For Holdup Man

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP). — The Dominican Republic's Consul-General and a military attache traded punches with two detectives on a Manhattan street to-day after the policemen mistook the diplomats for holdup men.

Informed of a holdup in the area — which later proved unfounded—the detectives leaped from their car when they spotted the Consul-General and the aide talking to a taxi driver on West 58th Street.

"I'm a cop; what's the trouble?" one of the officers asked, flashing his badge.

Police said the Consul-General, Rafel Comprez Perez, seized the detective's wrist, at the same time reaching into his hip pocket.

The officer pushed Perez to the sidewalk. The attache, Col. Frank A. Feliz Miranda, rushed to his aid. Fists flew briefly but furiously. The men were separated by a garage employee who recognized the diplomats.

"I thought it was a holdup," Perez explained. "I was stunned for the moment."

Apologies and handshakes were exchanged, but the Consul-General said later at the police station:

"I cannot forget the incident. I must write a full report to my ambassador.'

Garage Men Muddled Again

Kitchener garage operators are apparently in a confused state of mind over their own desires in the matter of closing hours. As in Peterborough, a majority of them —44 operators—signed a petition requesting the City Council at Kitchener to pass a bylaw regulating the operating hours of retail gasoline outlets in that city. This bylaw was passed.

However, at a meeting of the Council Monday night, the Council was presented with another petition—signed by 19 operators, including 11 of the signers of the original petition asking for the bylaw. This latest petition asked Council to rescind the bylaw.

The petition is being held over for two weeks. One Kitchener councillor said that he believed "further consolidation of opinion" may take place when the news gets around that a rescind effort is in progress."

High Holdover At Stockyards

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — (CP)—This week's Livestock Market seemed to mark a general levelling off in prices after the first week of shipments to the United States. A feature was the high holdover nearly every day. Left from Monday to Tuesday were 7,300 head and Wednesday found 6,100 already in the yards.

Cattle prices dropped $1-$2 on most grades, while a record run of 11,905 was added to 350 left from the previous week. Included in the offering were 4,000 stockers. Estimated holdover is 3,200. Bulk of the supply was made of plain to medium slaughter cattle. A few good to choice weighty steers sold up to $25-$27. Butcher steers closed $2-$3 lower at $16-$22, with heifers down $3 at $15-$21. Boners sold at $11-$15. Butcher cows were down $1 at $14-$17.50, with canners and cutters from $7-$13.50. Bulls held steady at $15-$21.

Fed yearlings ranged slightly lower from $18-$25, with early tops on choice $28. Stockers were down $1-$2 a hundredweight, closing at $19-$21 for top quality downwards to $14. Ordinary milkers and springers sold $110-$170 each. Shipments to the United States were around 90 head.

Calves were 2,937 head and remained firm at $26-$28 for good to choice vealers. Plain to medium stayed at $14-$25 and a few thin grassers brought $11-$14. Exports to the US were 500 calves.

Hogs were only 1,865 h[illegible] and closed 50 cents higher again with $34 for Grade A and $33.60 for Grade B1. Sows were $1 higher at $24.50 dressed.

Sheep and lambs totalled 3,210. Lambs cleared at the week's opening of $23.50 for good ewes and wethers with one lot of cars at $24. Bucks remained at $1 discount. Sheep were steady, mostly going for $5-$9, with a few tops at $10.

Too frightened to talk, the girls said nothing at the time, but later left by the front entrance. The man left by the side entrance. The alleged molester is reported by another woman to have gone to a beverage room here. A search by local police revealed no man as described by the woman.

Quaker Bonus $151,855 All Employees Get Share

Today is bonus day at The Quaker Oats Company, and cheques totalling $151,855.62 have been sent to all approved employees who share in its profit-sharing plan. These cheques are equivalent to 6.2 per cent. of the earnings of the individual for the past year. While this is a reduction to the bonus paid last year, since the plan was first put into effect in 1936, it has paid employees on the average more than an extra month's pay each year.

While the total amount paid this year is one of the largest since the plan was started thirteen years ago, the percentage is smaller than last year because the profits were down, and also because more people at higher wages shared in the plan.

Mr. Reg. R. Faryon, president, stated that the profits for the past year were down approximately 35 per cent. over the previous year.

Mr. Faryon said this was due to three reasons, the first being that all costs, including wages, raw materials, packaging, and the general cost of doing business, had increased more than the company's prices. Secondly, a number of credits from taxes, refundable subsidies, and other items had accrued in the previous year, and, as none of these were due last year, it had a considerable affect on the earnings. In addition to this, due to the shortage of the grain crop, the company was short of wheat most of the operating year and, consequently, could not fill many export orders.

During the fiscal year hourly wage rates were increased 8 cents for men, and for girls 12 cents and as, since 1939, according to the Government Cost of Living Idex, the cost of living has increased 53 per cent, the average wages of Quaker male employees has increased 106 per cent, and for women 163 per cent in addition to the bonus.

While business conditions for the immediate future appear bright, Mr. Faryon said that the export market was very uncertain due to the policy of foreign governments and the shortage of American and Canadian dollars.

He pointed out that The Quaker Oats Company of Canada was going through a transitionary period because of the loss of the United Kingdom market, which before the war was the main and most profitable customer of the company. In fact, he says that it is almost like starting a new business because up until 1941 the only profits the company made practically all came from exports to Britain, which have now disappeared forever.

During the year, in addition to its profit-sharing pension and guaranteed work plans, The Quaker Oats Company added a sickness and accident plan to its employee benefits. This is all paid for by the company and makes available generous payments to hourly workers who would ordinarily lose their pay when they are sick or injured through personal accidents.

Dick Miller 14 Wins Third Soap Box Race

Richard Miller, 14, 783 Lock St., seems almost unbeatable in this part of the country when it comes to soap-box model-car racing. After whipping all competitors in both Peterborough and Cobourg recently, he moved on to Oshawa on Wednesday night where he set a new record for the 1000-foot course by completing it in 41.6 seconds.

Another Peterborough boy, Herb Jackson, 11, 166 Park Hill Rd. came second in the Special Event, behind his chum, "Dick" Miller. Jackson won the open event defeating entries from Whitby and Oshawa. He had previously come second to Miller in the derby held by the Y's Men's Club here on July 17, and yet again at Cobourg on July 31.

Miller's mark was nearly 10 seconds faster than the Oshawa champion, Alex Zedic, and it is reported that he thrilled the Oshawa crowd with the trim design of his racing car and his amazing speed.

In the Y's Men's Soap-Box Derby, the youthful racer flashed down the quarter-mile course on the Westclox hill and along Hunter St. in 43 seconds. He averaged 21 miles per hour, and at one time it is estimated he hit a top speed of 40 mph.

Now he is back home looking for new courses to conquer.

ORDER IN THE COURT

The dignity of justice fought a losing battle with the heat in court Thursday. Some individuals without proper reverence for the law (such as newspaper reporters) stewed in relative comfort in their shirtsleeves. Counsel and police sweated, steamed and mopped brows warmly attired in coats, as befits the dignity of their callings. The Hon. G. N. Gordon found the solution to combining decorum and coolness by addressing the court in his shirtsleeves — after asking permission of the court to do so.

HARNESS RACING ATTRACTION at the Peterborough Agricultural Exhibition, as elsewhere, was an ever-popular feature in both daylight and floodlight events. Top photo shows the start of the Thursday afternoon 2.30 class from the operating end of C. W. Whitesell's mobile starting gate; at Left, Harry Ingles, Brighton, driving for L. M. Blight of Brooklin, was winner of this heat in the pole position, while H. H. Harrington of Picton, driving his own horse under head-number seven, came third. Moved Baby From Window An Hour Before OMEMEE, Aug. 27 (Special). — A young couple and their 11-months-old baby escaped death by inches here early this morning as a car, failing to make a turn, crashed head-on through the front window of their home and showered window glass and fronting over the bed. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Rehill were awakened shortly after midnight as the car smashed through. They had been sleeping in the front room because of the heat.

The baby, was not touched by the collision, but except by a lucky last-minute decision, the child might have been left in the carriage in front of the living-room window, where she would certainly have been killed. The carriage was moved into a back room less than an hour before the smash.

"We had put the baby in the carriage in front of the window," Mrs. Rehill explained, "and were getting ready to go to bed."

"Looking across the street, I happened to notice that the police chief's motorcycle was parked there. As I thought the noise of it starting up later might wake the baby up, I wheeled the carriage into the dining room."

The driver of the car was Frances McNeil, Hunter St. W., Peterborough. She told police that, making the turn onto the highway running through the village, she had not been able to make the turn, and in her excitement put her foot on the accelerator instead of the brake and the car-house crash resulted.

The smash as the car hit the house set up such vibration that the burglar alarm in the bank branch, across the road from the Rehill home, was set off. Combined with the noise of the crash itself, a sizeable crowd gathered to investigate. It continued to mill about for several hours after.

The house is a converted store on No. 7 Highway, which forms the main street in Omemee. The former store window, a large one, was completely caved in and windows, panes and framework scattered about the room. Part of the front of the house was also carried into the interior by the car. Damag will be at least $300, it is estimated. About $100 damage is estimated for the car, which had severe dents in the door and fender.

Police Chief Russell Naylor of Omemee, whose motorcycle parked nearby was the attributed reason for the baby's survival, said that no charges were being laid against the driver.

"It was one of those unfortunate accidents when no one can be properly blamed . . . everything was in order and there was no sign of drinking or anything like that in this case."

The house is jointly owned by Jack Carnegie, Omemee and his father Arthur Carnegie, Port Perry.

HONOR PHOTOGRAPHER

Fred L. Roy of Peterborough was awarded the degree of master of photography at a meeting of the National Council of the Photographers' Association of America at the 57th annual convention of the Photographers' Association of America at the Stevens Hotel, Chicago, it was announced today.

Brr, It's Ten Below In City Dairy Room At Canada Packers Workers Wear O'Coats

While most people perspire in the present heat wave, workers in Silverwood's hardening room are chilled, though they wear kapok-lined coveralls, heavy mitts, and parka hoods. Down at Canada Packers beef cooler, five men work with overcoats, two or three sweaters, and gloves.

In the hardening room where ice cream is placed to set, seven men work in 20-below cold. J. E. Weir, manager of Silverwoods, said today that due to the demand for ice cream and the humidity, temperature in the room was up 10 degrees. A mere 10 below.

The cold room at the Brewer's Warehouse today is a constant 46 degrees and Lorne Northey enjoys it. At the Packers, temperature is about three or four degrees above freezing. Men working in these spots find it a bit of a shock when they leave and hit the heat outside, but still, they get used to it.

All officers and members of Otonabee Lodge No. 13 are requested to meet Monday, Aug. 30 at 8 p.m. Business of importance demands your attention.

New Zealand Vets' Children Aided By Plan

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Aug. 27 (CP).—New Zealand is extending the work of its voluntary organization for helping children placed at a disability by the war service of their fathers.

Known as Heritage, the movement takes a close personal interest in the children it is aiding and gives a service that war pensions and similar government assistance cannot provide.

Originally the movement aimed at helping children of servicemen who fell in battle in the Second World War, but extra categories eligible for assistance now have been added. They include children of servicemen who died from other causes, including those who have died since the war of injuries or sickness contracted in the forces; children of servicemen who died in the First World War; children of deceased members of British and Australian forces; children of men unable through war disabilities to give proper parental care; and children of men whose war service is thought to have been party responsible for their deserting their families.

A large number of mothers entitled to help for their children have not sought it, but there now are 2,289 cases receiving aid. Help in education is the largest item of expenditure. Others include medical fees, health and recuperative holidays, purchase of clothing, supplements to living costs, and Christmas and birthday presents.

The organization also assists mothers in getting maximum aid from the State in health, education and career training benefits. Its expenditure is greatly reduced because many professional men and tradespeople refuse payment or make substantial reductions when they are aware of the interest of Heritage in the case.

Income comes from a large number of direct annual donations, from proceeds of functions organized by branches and from bequests.

66 Years Old Cycles 780 Miles

VANCOUVER, Aug. 27 (CP).—(CP).—Temperley, Grundy, Sgt. Charters, and others on the team of Canadian marksmen that won the Eaton Cup in 1910 should know their comrade, James Alexander Cameron, 66, is back in the news again.

Erect and soldierly, packing iron rations of two loaves and a bottle of milk Cameron has just completed a 780-mile cycle trip from Inverness to Land's End, and back.

He made the journey in a month, covering 50 miles on the last day of the journey south.

"My old bike behaved magnificently and I hadn't even a puncture all the way," said Cameron.

"I fended for myself in the food line almost all the way, and spent the nights in my sleeping bag in my tent beside the road."

Just the sort of thing to be expected from a veteran of the Cameron Highlanders and the Lord Strathcona Horse, said his friends.

Cameron told The Canadian Press that after service with the Camerons in the United Kingdom —he had volunteered for service in the Boer War—he went to Canada in 1908 and served with the Strathconas from 1909 to 1912, stationed at Fort Osborne Barracks, Winnipeg)

Under Macdonnell

In the First World War he served in the 2nd Canadian Division under his old Squadron commander, Sir Archibald Macdonnell, and went to France in 1915, returning to Canada in 1919.

He joined the military hospital in Kingston, Ont., as a medical orderly in 1925 and there remained until 1937, returning to Scotland the following year. In 1939 he joined the 6th Cameron Highlanders (Home Defence) and served until 1942 when he was demobilized [illegible] age.

The first part of his long distance cycling program was completed 19 years ago when he travelled 500 miles tot John O'Groats at the northern tip of Scotland. War and other duties kept him from making the southern journey until this year.

He has a lively memory of 1910 when the rifle team under Lieut. A. E. Shaw won the Eaton Cup. He remembers his team mates as Cpls. Temperley and Brown, Ptes. Grundy, Burridge, McAlister and Lamcraft, SSMs. Devey, Mitchell and Collins, Tr. Arthur, CSM Farr and Rush and Sgt. Charters.

In 1936, Cameron came to France with the Canadian Vimy pilgrimage and was a member of the guard of honor at the vimy Ridge Memorial inspected by King Edward VIII.

Mean Trick! Mating Call Lures Rats To Slaughter

By NORMAN MICHIE

INVERNESS, Scotland, Aug. 27 Rat extermination is a purely scientific business to Vancouver's pint-sized Pied Piper — and he doesn't use cats.

The genial enemy of the waterfront's No. 1 pest, James G. Anderson, invents and tests modern rat-catching devices, and collects about 1,000 rodent scalps a month.

To lure the vermin, Anderson crouches in a rat-infested building and imitates the call of a rat. When the gregarious victims come out to visit, he destroys them with a specially-designed pistol firing a shell loaded with 100-odd pellets, or captures them alive with 18-inch pincers.

In one rat-ridden wharfside warehouse, he and a recording engineer, Joe Austin, evolved the idea of driving the pests from a building with their own fear cries.

Carefully catching several specimens, they poked and tweaked until the victims gave out with their peculiar high-pitched fear-squeals. The amplified version of the anguished cries, played back from a recording machine, drove other rats from the premises.

Delighted with this success, Anderson, assistant Leonard Hall and their aides made a recording of the mating call of female rats.

A play-back of this bit of rodent histrionics proved more effective than cheese. Male rats rushed to the slaughter.

Wants Another Experiment

"I am quite satisfied the experiment is a success," Anderson announced confidently, "but we need another big warehouse job to try it out again."

The sandy-haired little Scotsman leaned back in his chair, a twinkle of amusement in his eye.

"To the rat," he said, "I'm nothing but a rat."

Anderson inherited his flair for pest-exterminating — he abhors the undignified appellation "rat-catching — from his father, John Anderson, Vancouver's original Pied Piper. Formerly a shoe salesman, young James developed his hobby into a full-time business. His avid study of the game helped develop his unusual techniques.

"It takes patience," he said, divulging the secret of his success. "I often wait for hours in an infested building before the enemy shows up."

Anderson's firm has developed eight compounds to combat pests, ranging from the huge wharf-rat down to the lowly dandelion. The backbone of their business is still rats, however, and he hopes, with his improved techniques, to modernize the exterminating business.

He reiterated a statement made to city council in 1938. "With 20 men," he said, "we could rid the city of the rats menace in a year."

Appeasement Era Sharply Given In British Book By Historian

By STUART UNDERHILL

LONDON, Aug. 27—(CP).—Today Britain's foreign policy is based on collective security. Ten years ago it was different.

How different is recalled by a new book about the pre-war appeasement policy of Neville Chamberlain—"Munich: Prologue to Tragedy" (Macmillan), by John Wheeler-Bennett.

Reading it throws a clear light on some present-day problems: why the western European nations are so anxious to know the weight of military support behind them, and why some nations farther east have been chary about accepting western guarantees.

Wheeler-Bennett, a historian of note and an expert on German affairs, paints Chamberlain as an earnest, rather vain man who felt sincerely he was acting in the best interests of peace He did not realize that Hitler was using him as a tool.

The book opens in 1937, with Czechoslovakia secure, to outward signs. It ends two years later with Europe at war over Poland, a much less logical cause. Czechoslovakia had been bludgeoned into Germany's arms one year erlier by the Munich agreement, which was enthusiastically supported by France and Britain, in whom she had placed her trust.

Wheeler-Bennett describes the Munich agreement — a meeting of Britain, France, Germany and Italy which meekly met demands on Czechoslovakia for which Hitler had been prepared to fight—as "the great humiliation of the Western democracies.

"The best that could have been said for it was that, though irretrievable in itself, it had at least gained—at a terrible price — a breathing space in which Britain and France might prepare, materially and spiritually, for the forthcoming and inevitable conflict.

Vain Sacrifice

"Had this been true, the Czechs would not have been sacrificed in vain. In fact, however, Munich only stands as a milestone between the years which the locust had eaten and the months which they were about to devour."

Chamberlain was not alone responsible for appeasement, says the author. He blames in part disarmament, on which Britain embarked after the First World War in an honest but fatal endeavor to meet the terms of the League of Nations Covenant.

Disarmament was speeded under the Labor Government of the early 1930s, and encouraged by the economic crisis which followed. Then there was the Briton's speaking sympathy toward the underdog which helped him wink at the rebuilding of German military strength.

In the face of resurgent Germany he blames French and British indecision: "When France might have stood firm Britain discouraged her; later when in desperation at the failure of the way of compromise, Britain looked to France for a lead, she was met with defeatism, apathy and infirmity."

The Labor Opposition encouraged Chamberlain's appeasement and fought the meagre steps taken toward rearmament. In addition:

"There had been no more fervent supporters of Mr. Chamberlain's thesis of appeasement than those who directed national affairs in Ottawa, Canberra and Pretoria, and they continued to support him until the events of the following March (when Germany completed the destruction of Czechoslovakia and began threatening Poland) awoke them all too a sense of terrible reality."

Yet collective security had been proved an efficient agent against Hitler. In May, 1938, pro-German agitation in Czechoslovakia reached a feverish pitch and there were rumors of German troop movements on the border.

Britain, France and Russia immediately let Germany know they would stand by their various treaty obligations to protect Czechoslovakia.

Forced Retreat

"In the face of united opposition abroad it was the unanimous opinion of the Fuehrer's advisers that a political retreat was necessay. Though it was gall and wormwood for him to do so, Hitler gave the necessary orders.

Having snatched Czechoslovakia from Hitler, the western powers proceeded to return it to him on a platter. The war crisis swelled again. Hitler made plans to invade Czechoslovakia Sept. 30, but his troops did not have to go into action. On that day the Munich agreement gave him most of his demands.

Wheeler-Bennett says the Munich agreement, which Chamberlain hailed as "peace in our time' caused more division in England than any issue since radical legislation 30 years before.

"'Families were divided and friendships sundered. Social life became actually endangered, since no hostess could guarantee that any dinner-party would not break up in passionate recrimination."

He selects Lord Halifax, Foreign Secretary, as the "man of the moment" who first distinguished "between belief and hope." Although for a long time he supported appeasement, he became aware of its futility in March, 1939, steadily influenced Chamberlain toward a less conciliatory policy.

By the end of the month Chamberlain had pledged his country to support Poland in the event of German aggression. Scarcely more than a year before he had refused a similar pledge to Czchoslovakia.

The guarantee of Polish support was far mohe than a gesture, says Wheeler-Bennett.

"If was a declaration to the world that Britain, after grave travail, was captain of her soul again and that she stood once more four-square against the tempests of aggression."

Pattern Of Defeat In Berlin Replica Of Japanese In 1945

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

BERLIN, Aug. 27 (AP).—The pattern of military defeat has a deadly monotony the world over.

Berlin, 1948, could well be Tokyo, 1945.

For here as in Tokyo, rising from the terrific jolt of war and stunning defeat is a slow and painful process.

A simple walk through the streets is a journey through a graveyard of battle, just as was in Tokyo. At night the moon shines dully through skeletons of once-great buildings which housed the Nazi regime.

Where the swift black Mercedes sedans of the Nazi party chiefs once rolled before cheering throngs, weary Berliners now pedal bicycles or drag tiny carts. Everywhere war still taps the passer-by on the shoulder.

Badge of Defeat

The harsh lines of defeat are clearly etched on the faces of the people. Everywhere they carry the mysterious small bundles which seem to be the badge of a defeated people.

In Japan they usually contained a battered can filled with rice or seaweed. Sometimes they held a ragged shirt or a pair of shoes.

In Germany they are most likely to hold a precious pair of patched pants, a hunk of dark bread or a down-at-the-heel extra pair of shoes.

To both the German and the Japanese, however, they represent ownership. And with possession a man is a man again.

The same formless old women who combed the fields for edible weeds along the road to Tokyo's Atsugi Airfield can be found in Berlin's suburb grubbing painfully in the shrubbery. The same old men haul their little carts laden with a handful of fuel to store against the winter.

Not Curious

They don't look up as cars pass. That, too, is a mark of the defeated. The beaten are not curious. They have had the big answer.

The big, and practically only, topic of conversation in Berlin right now is the Soviet blockade of the city. Just mention the word "blockade" to a German and then sit back and soak up fact, fancy, information and theory.

Try to turn on a light late at night. It doesn't work. "It's the blockade," says the German housekeeper.

Three little German boys playing ball. An American transport planes drones overhead. They stop the game. "More food," they cry.

An older man says:

"I hear the Russians are giving big butter and cheese rations in their sector of Berlin."

Just Propaganda

"Propaganda," says a former Luftwaffe man. "How do you know a thing like that? Have you been there?"

The older man grins.

"I won't go there, don't fear."

It is not reassuring to live in a city where a usual warning to a newcomer is:

"Don't wander into the Russian zone. They probably will throw you in jail for a day or two and you'll have trouble getting out."

That warning, coupled with the ghostly, bombed-out buildings, the apathetic Berliners trudged through the rubble, the drone of military aircraft overhead and the dark streets at night, all make the war seem near again.

Washington Not Worried About Forrestal Warning

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (CP)—"This nation is confronted with the greatest series of tasks that have ever fallen to the lot of any nation in history."

This statement by James Forrestal, Secretary of Defence, made before a group of 300 high officers including chiefs of staff for Army, Navy and Air and more than 100 officers of general or flag rank, scarcely ruffled the surface of heat-smitten Washington.

It meant that the responsibilities of the United Nations now were greater than the day Japanese bombs fell on Pearl Harbor, but sweat-misted eyes of editors paid it little attention.

They were interested more in the warning Forrestal gave his highest ranking officers of the three services that they must work together as a unit if an emergency comes.

Forrestal's reasons for making the appeal at this time were expressed in crisp, electrifying words. They were given to men who have worked in secret, air-cooled compartments of the vast Pentagon Building for weeks and months — worked with Canadians here on secret duty and officers from other friendly countries.

Restoring Economies

Among the unprecedented "series of tasks" facing the nation, he mentioned the job assumed by the United States of helping to restore the economies of countries all over the world, support for the United Nations and the multi-billion dollar economic co-operation plan for Europe and Asia.

"At the same time, being uncertain of future international developments, we are rebuilding our military power less than three years after we set out to tear it down.

"We start on that rebuilding without the slack in our economy which we had in 1940 when 8,000,000 people were unemployed and no one could even visualize shortages in basic raw materials.

"We have scarcities which, in my opinion, may lead to rationing in some of the basic metals."

Just A Handful

But Washington in general worried more about the heat than about Russian bombers coming down over Canada.

The big attraction of the week was the show in the old House Office Building on Capitol Hill where the un-American committee pounded away at suspected Communists who have held high government positions, while movie cameras purred and bright light gleamed and sweaty bodies stood jammed together to cheer or hiss according to whether they were Left or Right.

Find Big Boost In Wages Of Lumberjacks

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—(CP).—If you were to roam the Canadian woods these days, you'd probably hear a new note of cheer in the lumberjack's stentorian roar of "Timber!"

And the reason for it is wrapped up between the blue covers of a little book that has just come out of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

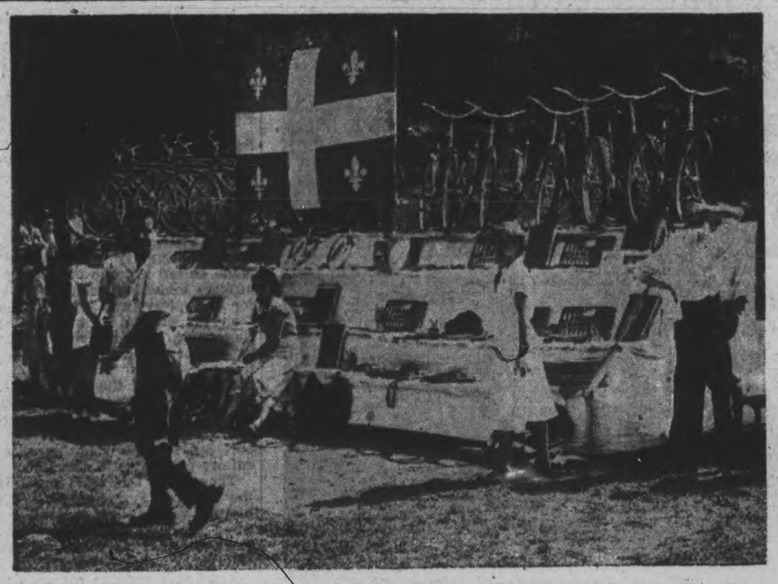
Starting with one of the lowest average weekly pay rates of all Canadian industry, the lumberjacks have managed to hoist this by 110 per cent. in the period between 1941 and March 1 of this year.

The boost is from $19 to $40 a week, bringing loggers from the second lowest to the third highest in the eight major industries covered by the department's survey. Agriculture is not included.

On the average for the eight industries, the wage increases have run to an even 60 per cent. over the period. From an average $25 a week they have risen to $40.

Next in line to the loggers in boosting their wages have been workers in the construction industry. They jumped themselves from an average $21 to $39 a week—or 86 per cent. — in the period covered.

Workers in the "services" — hotels, restaurants, laundries and the like—have not succeeded in hoisting themselves out of the lowest bracket of the group, but have managed to obtain the third highest percentage increase in their earnings. On the average, they are up from the original $16 to $26 a week, a jump of 62 per cent.



QUEBECOIS, NOT CANADIAN—Here's the Fleurdelise which ousted the Union Jack at the Montreal municipal playgrounds picnic. Cleric Raises Baby-Bonus Row

By J. C. GRAHAM,
Canadian Press Correspondent.

AUCKLAND, NZ, Aug. 27 (CP).—An allegation by a Church of England clergyman that Maori children in New Zealand are being "born for profit" has raised a violent controversy in the Dominion.

In a sermon here, Rev. E. Blackwood Moore said he understood that there was inbreeding among Maoris in parts of North Auckland to qualify for the family allowance. He protested against exploitation of the Maoris and what he described as traffic in souls and the prostitution of a noble race for political ends. He said a statement had been made by the Auckland Prison chaplain that 80 per cent of the prisoners were Maoris.

Under the New Zealand social security system a family allowance of $1.60 a week is paid to parents, whatever their financial position, for each child under 16. Living costs are considerably lower in New Zealand than in Canada and as Maori families often have 10 or more children the family allowance amounts to a considerable income.

Moore's statements drew a storm of protest from Maori leaders who claimed they were not supported by any proof. They denied that there was abuse of social security payments and that the existing large Maori families were a sign of the renewed vigor of the race.

Prime Minister Peter Fraser, who is also minister in charge of Maori affairs, wrote to Moore expressing grave concern at the statement in the sermon. He demanded evidence of in-breeding to qualify for the family allowance; asked who were exploiting the Maoris, and who were the traffickers in human souls referred to. He also wanted to know how "a noble race" was being "prostituted for political ends," and whether proof could be presented that 80 per cent of Auckland prisoners were Maoris.

Defends Statement

Moore in reply defended the accuracy of the report of his sermon, but did not answer the questions. In a subsequent statement he said his sermon was not intended to express blame of the Maoris but of the Europeans. Claiming he had received communications from all over the North Island agreeing him that what he had said was true, Moore called for an inquiry by a Royal Commission into the "demoralization" of the Maoris.

In response to a telegram to this effect Fraser replied: "Your telegram adds further insult to the injury you have already done to the Maori people." I have never known previously anywhere of a request for the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into any charges without the request being based on some semblance of fact to justify its consideration. . . . You might consider the propriety of either proving the truth or withdrawing and apologizing for the statement to which you gave credence and wide publicity that 80 per cent of the inmates of the Auckland Prison were Maoris, while at that date the number of Maoris in the prison was 82 out of 323 inmates, or 25 per cent.

Some observers not involved in the controversy claim a degree of moral decline among the Maoris, while others deny this and assert that social security payments in general have been an influence for good especially as far the children are concerned.

Behind the controversy is the fact that the government has a majority of only four in the House of Representatives and is therefore dependent on the votes of the four Maori M.P.s, all of whom are Labor supporters. The government resents any suggestion that this situation influences its treatment of the Maoris as much as it resents criticism of the work it has done for the welfare of the race.

India's Governor-General Social Reform Crusader

By N. M. NERURKAR

NEW DELHI, Aug. 27 (Reuters).—Chakravarti Rajagopalachari, quiet and unostentatious, is almost a perfect complement to dashing, dynamic Earl Mountbatten whom he has succeeded as governor-general of India.

Statesmanship and outstanding ability are, perhaps, their only common attributes.

"C.R.," or "Rajaji"—as the new governor - general is generally known—was an obvious choice for the highest office in the Dominion, foreshadowed last November by his appointment to act in Lord Mountbatten's place while the governor-general was away for two weeks to attend Princess Elizabeth's wedding in London.

Pajagopalachari enjoys the reputation of a statesman noted for his integrity, catholicity and intellectual attainments.

Lean, bald-headed, thin-lipped, this 70-year-old statesman, wearing dark glasses over a prominent nose, is the delight of caricaturists.

Content with the minimum necessaries of life, Rajagopalachari has only two "weaknesses." He is fond of white clothes and boiling hot coffee, the favorite beverage of the South Indian.

Rajagopalachari is a many-sided personality. Primarily a politician, he is an able administrator, a popular author and a crusader in the cause of social reform.

A Criminal Lawyer

As a young man, he set up practice as a lawyer in Madras Province. He often toured the interior of the Salem district, then notorious for roaming bandits, as a criminal lawyer.

During one of his journeys by cart, he was awakened at night by somebody holding a smoky lantern. Rajagopalachari thought he was a robber and fired the pistol he carried for self-defence. The bullet wounded the man —a customs guard—in the leg.

The impetuous young lawyer vowed never to handle a weapon again.

Although a believer in non-violence, during the war against the Japanese, Rajagopalachari carried on vigorous propaganda for armed resistance to the invader should he step on India's shores.

He was imprisoned several times for participating in Gandhi's civil disobedience movements. Although during the early 20's he advocated boycott of the legislatures, he emerged as a strong supporter of parliamentarianism at the general elections of 1937.

The first elected premier of Madras, he resigned two years later following the Congress directive to leave office on war's outbreak.

In 1942, Rajagopalachari differed from the Congress high command on the Pakistan issue. He held that the Moslem League's demand for a separate state should be conceded in the interest of winning the political freedom of the country as a whole.

Rajagopalachari's stand in these matters earned him public disfavor. As the inevitability of some form of Pakistan gradually dawned upon the leaders and people of India, it came to be realized that Rajagopalachari's attitude was not devoid of foresight and practical wisdom.

He made a "comeback" to public esteem, which was sealed in 1946 when Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, then Congress president, nominated him to his working committee.

UN Planning To Study Haiti's Economic Set-up

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 27 — (CP). — The United Nations is about to give little Haiti a de luxe service in economic and social planning.

For the first time in its three-year history, the world agency will send an over-all planning mission to an individual member country.

The 10,000-square-mile republic, which shares the West Indies island of Hispaniola with the Dominican Republic, already has welcomed Ansgar Rosenberg of Sweden as a one-man advance party. And the Haiti delegation here has announced that next October Rosenberg, top expert in the UN economic affairs division, will take to Haiti—about half the size of Nova Scotia—a group of nine experts in agriculture, banking, education, public health and industrial development.

The United Nations has sent economic missions to other countries but these have dealt with specific problems in the national economy rather than with the general overhaul the Haitian group will undertake.

Haiti's request for advice may start a trend among UN members, most of whom have looked at the world agency as a centre of international debate rather than as a source of advice.

Hopes For Loan

The republic has admitted it hopes to persuade the World Bank to make a loan on the basis of the UN commission's recommendations. A representative of the bank will be one of the experts.

In its survey, expected to take about two months, the commission will examine the problems of economic development in Haiti, which has a population of some 3,000,000, mostly Negro. Agriculture, industry, fiscal policy and social and economic programs will come under scrutiny.

The Haiti delegation here mentions such problems as:

1. Need for a new banking system.
2. Cure for yaws (a foot disease) from which 1,000,000 persons suffer.
3. Improvement of agricultural production. Coffee is the main product, but the republic also produces cocoa, cotton, sisal, tobacco, bananas and molasses.
4. Development of natural resources. Gold, silver and copper deposits are not yet exploited. Mahogany forests must be conserved.

The survey is expected to cost about $36,000, Haiti paying about $16,000 of that for transportation, housing and other facilities for the experts. The balance will be for salaries, paid by the United Nations.

No Strikes At Broken Hill Miners Share In Profits

By LESLIE BRODIE

BROKEN HILL, Australia, Aug. 27 — (CP). — This lead-mining town of 30,000 inhabitants in western New South Wales is the one industrial town in Australia where strikes are almost unknown.

In the last 28 years there has been only one strike. It was on June 15 this year when miners struck for one day because the mine management refused to pay an extra 64 cents a week to instructors training rehabilitation trainees.

This unique tranquility in the turmoil of industrial unrest in Australia today is because of a bonus paid to all employees above and below ground according to fluctuations in the price of lead on the world markets.

The bonus at present amounts to $112 a month to each worker, but it is to rise to $120 shortly. The basic wage to a miner amounts to $87 a month. Contract miners work much harder and, at times, receive a pay envelope of over $600 a month.

Not Incentive Wages

The mine management do not pay the bonus as incentive wages but as part of a profit sharing system under which the men receive their share in the present high price of lead.

Eight cents a shift is paid when the price of lead is $51 a ton. From then on the bonus rises by eight cents a shift for every three dollars a ton the price of lead rises. The current price of lead is $292.80 a ton.

The unions and the mine management depart from the usual custom of arbitration and discuss their grievances at a round-table conference. So far the system has been successful.

But with all the benefits to the workers there is no surplus labor in the town.

The miners' union and the management see to that by putting a qualification on employment. An employee must have resided in Broken Hill for at least seven years or been born or educated in the town.

Should a dispute break out that could not be settled without resorting to a strike or "go-slow" tactics the bonus to all workers would stop immediately.

HERE'S WHERE WE STAND ON NEW-CAR SELLING

General Motors Dealers' "Foursquare Selling Policy" assures you a Fair Deal when you buy a new car

Let's bring this subject right out in the open.

Many conditions still exist which encourage the "gray marketing" of automobiles.

You don't like this — and neither do we.

There's no law against "under the counter" deals — demanding a bonus for early delivery.

There's no law against loading cars with accessories the customer doesn't want or need.

There's no law against selling to buyers who make it their business to resell new cars at inflated prices.

But we don't do it because it's not good business.

All dealers buy cars at clearly established factory prices which with the exception of transportation, are the same, model for model, all over the country. All start on a fair and equal basis — and should therefore sell at these fair and reasonable delivered prices.

So we're making public announcement of our code of fair dealing.

Our foursquare selling policy, simply stated, is this:

1 NO PADDING OF PRICES

We guarantee our delivered prices to conform with the manufacturer's recommendation and to contain nothing but standard charges which, of course, include Sales and Excise Taxes. You receive an itemized bill of sale. All prices are an "Open Book" — they are available to you and we sell at these listed figures.

2 NO LOADING OF UNWANTED

All cars are offered with factory-installed accessories only and prices are figured to cover these. We pledge ourselves to add no "extras" except those each customer orders — and to avoid using "extras" to increase the delivered price.

3 TRADE-INS DESIRED— BUT NOT COMPULSORY

We will take your order for future delivery, without requiring a trade-in. However, we have many valued used-car customers who also depend upon us to supply them with automobiles. For this reason we would like to have your trade-in, and we'll give you a fair and reasonable allowance for it.

4 NO COERCION

While we cannot prevent our customers from reselling new cars, we will not knowingly be a party to such transactions. Our only interest is to deliver new cars to bona fide customers.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our loyal customers and friends for their patience in awaiting their turn for delivery of new General Motors cars.

Although the popularity of General Motors cars is unprecedented, and the supply is lagging far behind the demand, we are doing our utmost to be fair and equitable in their distribution.

We present this platform because we believe it's good business to keep our customers informed.

It's a platform that gives you a fair deal when you buy a new car — exactly the same kind of a deal and treatment you got before the war.

If you wish additional information, it will gladly be supplied by any dealer whose name is signed to this announcement.

Durham, Ontario Breeders Sweep Holstein Prizes

Durham and Ontario county breeders corralled the Holstein cattle championships at the Exhibition Thursday. They retain the dominance they showed at the district Black and White finals here last year.

The Holstein section was not so numerous as at the district championships in October, but the 100 head shown here this week brought out a lot of strength with the reassurance that breeders are holding their good stock.

The senior and grand male championships were awarded to Jas. T. Brown & Sons of Newcastle and E. J. Brown of Orono on their young bull "Glenafton R.A. Reliance." The junior title was taken by the Durham Centre Bull Club.

In the female division Hugh Ormiston of Brooklin carried off the senior and grand championships with both reserves also; and junior award went to Thos. Flett & Son of Oshawa. Ormiston also had the reserve junior.

The Holstein Association members contributed both numbers and quality to the revival of the Peterborough show. They turned out 100 head in the hottest weather of the year, a sample of the spirit that keeps the breed before the public with consistent prominence.

Wallace Brealey & Son of Indian River and Clarence Mann of Smith decided most of the Ayrshire championships. Glynnwood Farms of Lakefield was a strong contender in both male and female sections.

W. R. Aylesworth of Kingston and Garnet Kerr of Campbellford had the Jersey field to themselves. An explanation of the absence of Peterborough district breeders was their parish show at Millbrook in June, when they were out in force.

Jack Fraser of Concord, the Toronto men's wear dealer who owns Fraserdale Farms, showed a fine herd of Guernseys in competition with John Stewart of Otonabee and Norm McConkey.

Stewart Meiklejohn, north of the city, is one of the new breeders of Ayrshires, and was represented in that section of the dairy cattle judging Thursday.

The judges were James Henderson of Portsmouth and his neighbor, Brodie Ness.

Spread Money

The Holstein group continue to spread their prize money in equal amounts. Prizes in the senior classes were $10 each to the first seven, and of that amount $8 was paid by the Exhibition Board and $2 by the Holstein-Friesian Association. In the junior classes the prizes were $6 each to the first seven, $5 by the Board and $1 by the Association.

The Holstein awards were as follows:

Bull, 2 yrs. and under 3—James F. and E. J. Brown, Newcastle-Orono, with "Glenafton Rag Apple Reliance", senior male champion and grand champion.

Bull, 1 yr.—1, Coughlin Bros., Douro and N. W. McConkey; 2, Stewart Nelson, Otonabee; 3, Jas. Bishop, Otonabee.

Bull calf (11 entries)—1, Durham Central Bull Club, with "Glenafton Futurity", junior male champion and reserve grand champion; 2, E. J. Brown, Orono, with "Browtop Glenn-Mark", reserve junior male champion; 3, Jas. T. Brown & Sons, Newcastle; 4, Hugh W. Ormiston and W. L. Evans, Brooklin; 5, Stanley Wood, Otonabee; 6, Coughlin Bros.; 7, Stewart Nelson; 8 and 9, J. H. Jose & Son, Newcastle; 10 and 11, Jas. Bishop.

Cow, 4 yrs. and over in milk (8 entries)—1, Hugh W. Ormiston, with Rag Apple Hertog Doris, reserve senior female and reserve grand champion; 2, Stewart Nelson; 3 and 5, Jas. T. Brown & Sons; 4, N. W. McConkey; 6, Coughlin Bros.; 7, J. H. Jose & Sons; 8, Stewart Nelson.

Experts Prepare World Wide War On TB Scourge

GENEVA, July 27 (Reuters).—Between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 persons are killed every year by tuberculosis—more than were killed in any year of the war—it is estimated by the World Health Organization.

Between 40,000,000 and 50,000,000 are believed to be infected with the disease each year.

To fight tuberculosis, which since the war has taken a firmer grip than ever upon most of the nations, the World Health Organization has decided to give priority to a campaign to be conducted by a committee of the world's leading experts and inspired by the grandiose ambition to eliminate tuberculosis.

First step in the campaign is to get 50,000,000 children and adolescents in Europe for tuberculosis reactions. Those who show no infection, expected to be as few as 15,000,000 will be vaccinated with BCG, a serum discovered early in the century in France and recently brought to a high degree of perfection in the Danish state serum institute.

This huge first operation—probably the greatest ever undertaken by an international health authority—is being carried out jointly by the International Children's Emergency Fund and the Danish Red Cross, with the technical assistance of the World Health Organization.

Two hundred teams of experts, trained in latest standard practice by the Danish state serum institute, will make the tuberculin tests and give the BCG vaccinations in the course of the next 18 months.

According to present plans, they will operate in Poland, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Greece.

Long Term Program

Since present resources are insufficient to carry the same intensive campaign throughout the world, the health organization is drawing up a long-term program which will enable individual countries to obtain maximum results from their own resources.

The program provides that concerted action everywhere should attack the various phases of the disease in the following order: 1, prevention; 2, case-finding; 3, isolation and medical care; 4, rehabilitation and after-care; 5, social and economic protection of afflicted families.

This order of priority reverses that followed by many states, where attention is concentrated on trying to care for the millions seriously attacked by the disease.

First need in organizing prevention is for enormously increased number of experts in almost every country. And the first step in filling this need is the World Health Organization's plan to provide eventually about 1,000 fellowships in accepted centres of training for the study of new methods of combating tuberculosis.

Initially, 50 such fellowships will be given in training centres in Scandinavia, France, the United Kingdom and the United States, where the best facilities are considered to exist.

Experts trained in these centres will return to their countries to spread the knowledge they have gained. Simultaneously, the World Health Organization intends to send teams of experts round the world to demonstrate the latest methods. These teams will first be sent to countries where it is planned to establish training centres.

Leahy-Connolly Nuptials Held In Ottawa

Our Lady of Fatima Church, Ottawa, decorated with white gladioli and fern, was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday, August 23, when Rev. Father Bain officiated at the marriage of Mary Patricia Cecelia Connolly, Brittania Heights, Ottawa, to Jerry Leahy of Douro.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Joseph Connolly, the bride wore a gown of white nylon net over taffeta, made on princess lines with a bustle falling in folds from the back waistline to a ruffle hemline, and an off-the-shoulder ruffle with short puff sleeves and high neckline, wearing elbow length finger tip gloves. Her veil was three quarter length with sweetheart headdress of white lily of the valley and she carried American Beauty Roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Ramsey, was frocked in pink lace over taffeta with matching headdress and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemum and lilies. She was also attended by Miss Rhoda Connolly as maid of honor in a gown of blue taffeta, matching headdress and carrying a similar bouquet.

The groom was attended by his brother Leo Leahy. Ushers were Desmond Connolly and Hughie Puelaw.

The reception was at the home of the bride's grandmother at Brittania Heights, where dinner was served to sixty guests. The hostess received in a dress of black crepe with white accessories. wearing a corsage of American Beauty roses. The groom's mother also received in a grey crepe dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of roses.

The couple left in the evening for a trip to Montreal and points east, the bride wearing a suit of rose gabardine wtih black accessories. They will reside in Peterborough.

S. AMERICAN NEIGHBORS

Peru is bounded by five countries—Columbia, Ecuador, Brazil, Bolivia and Chile.

SMARTLY CASUAL HAT—There is more than a casual acceptance of the good casual hat this fall. It appears in the finest showings that has been accorded the careful treatment usually lavished on a fiune feathered number. A real beauty is this beaver felt, a soft golden brown. The softly creased crown is banded by a "fly whip" of natural horsehair in a saddle leather holster, a real sporty affiar, but good.

Fine Quality, Workmanship Praised by Judge in Women's Exhibits at Fair

Quality, not quantity—keynotes exhibits in the women's department at the Peterborough Exhibition. Main reason put forth for the few competitors is that there has not been sufficient time for handwork since definite announcement that an exhibition would be held this year. It's during long winter evenings that women do fancywork, particularly those living in the country, and since the prize list states all entries must be made during the year, they have not had the usual chance to prepare exhibits.

Home-made bread was the big item in the food division and for a very good reason—prize for the best loaf was a chest with silver service for six. There were also added cash special prizes for loaves, rolls, tea biscuits and plain cake.

More dark fruit cakes than light were entered, and several each of white and chocolate layer cakes, nicely iced, contrasted with undecorated sponge cakes and a lone jelly roll. Apple pies were a tempting sight on a hot day, and there were cookies that would be so tasty with a tall cool drink. Whole wheat muffins, and baking powder biscuits completed the display, the latter being winners of special cash prizes when made with Blue Ribbon Powder.

Home canners brought small onion, gherkin and sliced cumber pickles and a few pints of marmalade and berries to the show. Two entries of choice maple syrup might be indication that this industry is being relegated to the side lines. However, the reason for only one entry of eggs is probably thata the market price is greater than the prize money.

Price again enters the picture in preparing cotton piece work quilts for exhibition and many who take pride in their work have decided prints are too expensive now for such use. The wedding ring pattern entry was made up in attractive all-over print on white ground. Quilting done on plain backing of a "Dutch Girl" quilt was cleverly done in a large fern-like leaf design. Crocheted cotton bedspreads in ecru and colors made a very nice exhibit, and an unusual design in vanity sets was shaped as a butterfly for the centrepiece with a wing on either side. Crocheted afghans were evidence of many hours close work, particularly in the first prize entry featuring expert color blending. Hooked rugs too were nicely done with color designs. A footstool bore the only piece of needlepoint entered.

Prize pair of embroidered pillow cases had a very intricate pattern neatly done in color. Others were done in white and cut work, and with crocheted and tatted edgings, which also trimmed towels when done in heavier cotton. Several woollen outfits for baby won prizes but other knitters appear to favor diamond socks. A good many opportunities to take prize money were missed in the miscellaneous section where very few of the handicrafts, so popular in the city now, were displayed. A special class for articles hand-made from Ontario material offered handsome cash prizes with no entry fee necessary. A finely turned lamp base and a small wall nook with carving and doors highlighted the woodcarving entries.

Splendid work in the fine arts class was difficult for the observer to appraise, as space did not permit hangisg of the oil and water color paintings. Clever pen and ink posters on the walls were getting most attention, especially from the young fry.

Mrs. F. Henderson of Napanee who assisted in judging for the Home Department, is a veteran of many fall fairs, and gave her opinion of he exhibits as "finest quality and workmanship seen anywhere." She said it was regrettable that competition had not been keener with some entries in each section and more of them. However, this is the first in a long series of Peterborough Exhibitions, after a lengthy lapse, and next year will probably find mounds of entries in the division.

It was noted that many of the women who were yearly entrants formerly were not represented, and possibly younger women are either too busy to enter or have not perfected their skill in home crafts sufficiently to compete. Everyone does something well and it's exhibits that make an exhibition, whether they are prize-winners or not.

Clara Nisbett, Wm. Telford Reception at Pigeon Lake

Baskets of colored gladioli, banked with ferns, made a charming setting in Lakehurst Presbyterian Church Wednesday afternoon for the wedding of Clare Ann, daughter of Mrs. Annie Nisbett and the late W. J. Nisbett, to William Clare, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Grattan Telford, RR 1, Peterborough. The Rev. L. S. Haverstock of Gilmour, assisted by Mr. Fred Gould, minister of the church.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her uncle, Mr. James Wilson of Keene, and given in marriage by her mother. Before her entry, Miss Lillian McGregor sang the "Lord's Prayer," with Miss Truth Hamilton of Louads Manor playing the accompaniment and the wedding march. During the signing of the register her solo was "I Love You Truly."

White slipper satin and Venetian lace fashioned the wedding gown. The fitted bodice was fastened with coverer buttons at the back and had a deep shawl collar and lily-point sleeves of lace which also formed a deep pointed pepium on the skirt. She wore a circular veil of net, caught to her fell over short puffed sleeves. She carried a cascade of gladioli and asters.

The groom's brother, Morris Telford, was his attendant. Ushers were Ernest Wilson, cousin of the bride, and Elmer Telford, brother of the groom.

Elim Lodge on Pigeon Lake was a lovely setting for the reception. For the occasion Mrs. Nisbett wore old rose crepe with black felt hat and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Telford chose a green figured silk and white straw hat and her corsage was of similar roses. Four entrance pupils from the bride's class and four friends served the refreshments. They were Misses Barbara Clark, Elva Gillespie, Violet Sanderson, Marie Anderson, Margie Hamilton, Gladys Davis, Sheila Wilson and Phyllis Moore.

When going away the bride wore a crepe dress in loganberry shade with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. After their honeymoon in the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Telford will reside on the Chemong Road.

AFTER DARK — When it is advisable to travel light—and that is nearly always these days—clothes must be chosen with great care. An ideal travelling companion, is the essentially simple but very smart dinner dress of the informal type, which, when teamed with its own jacket becomes an effective afternoon costume. A real beauty is this soft gray woolen with lace that sets off the rounded neckline and graciously accents the graceful skirt. The waist length jacket is snugly fastened with self-covered ball buttons.

WINTER BLUE BROADTAIL—This is broadtail, a hardy sheared lamb, and when cut into a world silhouette it gets around with the most precious furs. Here the broadtail has been dyed a midnight blue tone, very good looking to top winter fashions, and made into a coat which will look well over both tailored and soft ilothes. The collar is a particularly smart shape for 1949.

DOROTHY DIX

Broken Family Often Makes For Hardship For Mother

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young girl who is getting a divorce from her husband and I have three children, the oldest 7 years old, the youngest 4. My problem is that I live with my mother 45 years old. She has a pretty big house and she is alone except for the children and me. She asked me to come and live with her when I left my husband, as she thought it would be better for all of us and less expensive. But the children have gotten on her nerves and she does nothing but pick on them and abuse them and quarrel with them. The other day when they spilled some food on the floor we had an awful fight. She called me names and ordered us out of the house.

Dorothy Dix

I have nowhere to go and am at my wits' end. My husband only contributes $15 a month to the children's support. I cry all the time and am so nervous I am almost crazy. What shall I do?

DESPERATE MOTHER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It seems to me that the only thing that you can do is to go to the Domestic Relations Court and try to get it to help you solve your problem. It might be that it could bring enough pressure on your husband to give more money for your children's support, as certainly $15 a month will not go far in these days of high-priced food to say the stomachs of three hungry youngsters. Or it would be better still if the children could be gotten into some foster home where they would be properly cared for.

Choose Job

I gather from your letter that you are not at work and so are not able to contribute to the children's support. My advice to you is to face the fact that your mother is definitely not going to let you and the children be parasites upon her, so it is up to you to decide what kind of work you have the most aptitude for and fit yourself to do it well enough to command good pay.

There is no use in your sitting down crying over your not being able to get along either with your husband or your mother. Both of them are out of the picture so far as you are concerned, and the prospect of getting another husband is dim, for not many men want to take on a ready-made family of three husky children.

Just realize that you are on your own and summon all of your courage to meet the emergency.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 15 and have a boy friend and I want to get married before I am 16, but my mother and father don't want me to do so. I am in the 10th grade and want to quit school.

A.

ANSWER: What's your hurry about getting married? Sixteen isn't the deadline for matrimony. There still will be plenty of boys wait and look them over and see which one you prefer, instead of grabbing up the first kid who comes your way. Also, you might make a better choice if you had a little more education. Don't forget that marrying in haste involves repenting at leisure.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, August 28.

A strange urge, or a curious state of mind, may be the means of inciting surprising occurrences, sudden alienations or some angle of the peculiar or unorthodox. The loss of funds, prestige or cooperation may be due to eccentricity of idea or behavior. At the same time a strange "hunch," an uncanny intuition or other unaccountable gesture, might bring about change of heart from those in influential place. But shun extravagance and conserve the energies.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday is is may be prepared for a period of the confused and complicated in which the intuitions and ideals may be strategic factors for averting loss of funds or credit, as well as prestige or popularity. Curious experiences are probable, in which case it may be advisable to resort to subtlety and finesse rather than matter-of-fact operations. Erratic or strange behavior may contribute to loss of support from desired places.

A child born on this day may find itself in a chaotic or baffled mood when called upon for sound judgment. Its intuitions or inner leads may prove more reliable than mental decisions.

TOO HOT TO HANDLE and complete lack of carefree carnival spirit was the attitude displayed at a midway concession booth by two-year-old Sylvia McBride at the Peterborough Agricultural Exhibition on Wednesday. It was anticipated that she would nurse one of oversized fuzzy bear dolls with glee but Sylvia said "No" and demonstrated that she had a mind of her own.

WHILE MAKING her tour of the carnival at Southend-on-the-Sea, England, the carnival queen, Patricia Waterman, is greeted by Edith Barlow, the "World's smallest woman." The latter is shown in the arms of the queen. Miss Barlow, who is 21 years old, weighs 17 pounds, is 22 inches in height and is one of a family comprising 17 boys and girls.

Corn Relish Easy To Make Very Popular

By KAY REX

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 27 (CP)—The pickle parade has begun. And now it's time to line up recipes for that winter supply of relishes.

Corn relish is easy to make and should prove popular with the family.

Ingredients: 20 ears of corn; two green and one red pepper; one-half cup salt; one-half cup flour; one tablespoon celery seed; two teaspoons tumeric powder; four onions; one large cabbage; two cups sugar; one tablespoon ground mustard; one tablespoon white mustard seed; two quarts vinegar.

Cut corn from cob and chop cabbage, onions, and peppers. Pour 1½ quarts vinegar over this and let come to a boil. Mix flour, mustard, sugar, tumeric, celery and mustard seed with one-half quart vinegar. Pour into kettle and boil 30 minutes, stirring constantly. Yield: six quarts.

Pepper Hash—ingredients: one dozen large green peppers; one dozen large red peppers; 18 large onions(chopped fine); two teaspoons mustard seed; two teaspoons celery seed; two cups white sugar; two tablespoons salt; one-quarter teaspoon red pepper.

Remove seeds from peppers and chop. Cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes. Drain, then add onions and bring to a boil in weak vinegar and water (about one-third vinegar and two-thirds water—enough to cover). Drain. Add fresh vinegar solution and seasoning. Bring to a boil and seal.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mixed Pickles — ingredients: two cups sliced green tomatoes; two cups sliced onions; two cups cucumbers; two cups peppers. Soak over night in salt water and then drain. Two cups carrots, two cups kidney beans, two cups lima beans, two cups celery, one cup green beans. Soak separately until tender and drain.

Mix all vegetables together and add four cups vinegar, four cups sugar, a little mixed spice. Cook together 10 minutes and seal in pint cans.

Pepper Relish—ingredients: 3½ pounds sweet red peppers; three pounds green peppers; three pounds medium onions; four cups vinegar; one cup sugar; one teaspoon mustard seed; one tablespoon dry mustard; one tablespoon celery seed; two tablespoons salt.

Wash peppers and remove seed cores. Peel onions. Put vegetables through food chopper using coarse blade. Place in large preserving kettle, cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes. Drain thoroughly. Add vinegar, sugar, spices and salt; cook until vegetables are tender (about 10 minutes) stirring occasionally. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Cool and seal. Yield: about six pints.

Berliners Dizzy East-West Row Splits City Life

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BERLIN, Aug. 27 (AP)—When the Russians withdrew from four-power administration of Berlin, the dizzy whirl of division began. The Russians split the police force, forcing Communist into central headquarters so that the western occupying sectors had to refuse to take central orders in order to protect their sectors from kidnapping, political coercion and persecution.

Then things got really complicated. The Russians muscled into control of Berlin's postal system. The western powers resisted but it only resulted in a tangle.

Then came currency reform—and a real headache. The Russians claimed that Berlin was economically a part of their surrounding occupation zone and insisted that only Soviet-sponsored currency circulate. The western Allies said their west Germany currency also should be good. The Russians outlawed the western currency, arresting persons they caught in possession of it in their sector of the city.

Finally there came the Russian blockade of western Berlin—cutting off transport food, power and fuel. The Russians, trying to starve western Berlin into political submission, ordered that no western Berliner could eat in a Soviet sector restaurant even if he had food ration coupons. In retaliation United States authorities said that no east Berliners could eat in west-side restaurants.

The same split occurred in the trade unions. When the Russian-backed Communists, according to official American charges, tried to steal the union shop elections from the non-Communists a split occurred in the Berlin Trade Union Federation.

3,500 Pack Grandstand To See First Night Racing

Peterborough citizens turned out in force on Thursday night to see the first floodlight harness horse racing held in Ontario in many years. An estimated 3,500 packed the grandstand at the Exhibition Grounds and nearly another 1,000 stood watching the two events, the stage performance and the horse judging.

Veteran harness racing men scratched their heads, ransacked their memories and finally gave the opinion that this is the first time in Canada that there has been both afternoon and floodlight racing on the same day.

It was the first night try-out for the new track which had special lighting arranged by expert electricians and white sheeting placed along the outer fence line of the track to reflect light and thus show up the contestants to both judges and spectators.

Officials at the Fair were delighted with the success of the lighting. Apart from a couple of places on the back stretch the judges found that the illumination was highly satisfactory.

Winner of the 2.15 class was Black Lock, owned by W. T. Fritz of Brighton. It romped home first in all three heats to cop the greatest share of the $250 purse. For the first mile it was clocked at 2.9½—three quarters of a second slower than the old track record. It did the other two heats in 2.11 and completed the halfway mark of the final mile in 1.3½. Peter K. Lee, Bonny G, Nancy Burlong and Parsons also finished in the money.

Gets Ninth Win

Stan Blewett's Victory High stretched its run of victories to nine in 10 starts by winning the 2.24 class. It was a tossup between Victory High and Jerry C. Grattan until the final heat, each having won one and the other coming second. The latter however was difficult to manage at the Climie-Whitesell starting gate and got off to a bad start and finished fourth.

Jerry C. Gratton won the first heat in the fastest time of the three, 2.16½. Victory High took the second and third in 2.17¼ and 2.17½. Also share in the prize money were Scott Pointer and Dorothy Abbe.

Results of the races were:

2.15 Class

Black Lock (W. T. Fritz)	1	1	1
Peter K. Lee (T. McCool)	2	2	2
Bonny B (Merton Storey, Peterborough)	3	3	3

Tree Lynn (A. J. McKinley)	7	7	5

Afternoon Card

In the 2.30 class Thursday afternoon Guy P. Patch, owned by L. M. Bligh, Brooklin, took first money, leading in the first two heats and placing in the third. Purse was $200.

Second money went to J. L. Van, entry of Waples and Son, Midland. Third money was taken by Penny Lee, Picton horse, owned by R. Herrington. A strong contender in the first two heats, in which she placed second and third respectively, she was drawn from the third heat. Mona Gratton, horse of the Farrington Stable of Brantford, was an easy winner of the third heat.

The result of the 2.30 pace by heat placings were:

Guy P. Patch (Blight, Brooklin)	1	1	2
J. L. Van (Waples and Son, Midland)	3	2	3
Penny Lee (Herrington, Picton)	2	3	-

Miss Lee Todd (Miller Ray)	8	7	-

Times of the heats: first, 2.20½; second, 2.18½; third, 2.18½.

Starter was Jack Climie, Tillsonburg. Judges of the race were S. A. Lowe and A. E. Juby. Chas. Quinlan and A. M. Johnston, all of Peterborough.

Water Pumps Set Record 6,425,000 Gallons Used

"There's probably no man in Canada doing more praying for rain than I am right now." This remark was elicited from James Harrison, chief operator at the pump house, when the Examiner interrupted him at his devotions today to ask about the local water situation.

According to Mr. Harrison the previous record for quantity of water pumped in a single day was established four years ago, but has been smashed twice in the last two days.

The old record was 6,219,000 gallons pumped on August 15, 1944. On Wednesday this was shattered when the amount rose to 6,260,000, and was dwarfed by the Thursday figure of 6,425,000 gallons.

All this is a statistical approach to the obvious: the citizens of Peterborough are using too much water during the present heat spell. Peak time is between 7.30 and 8.30 p.m., when people use their hoses. The rate for that hour on Thursday was 9,700,000 gallons.

The pumping system which was built 27 years ago when Peterborough was a much smaller city, was designed to handle a maximum of 6,000,000 gallons a day. Consequently it isn't hard to see why Mr. Harrison is scanning the heavens for signs of rain.

But like the other people of Southern Ontario who are looking for relief from torrid weather, he seems doomed to disappointment. The heat is moving in from the south[illegible] bed[illegible] day it was 81 with the likelihood of the thermometer finally resting some place between 90-94. While it seems probable that Thursday's figure will not be reached, the slight decrease won't mean any degree of comfort. The weather man has promised high humidity today.

No Prostration

There have still been no reported cases of heat prostration, a check of the hospitals and the Peterborough Clinic reveals. Despite the heat of fair grounds, nobody was affected there on the first day, according to the St. John Ambulance post.

Two local firms decided on Thursday afternoon to give their employees a break and allowed them to leave work early. Both the office staffs and factory workers of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds and Outboard Marine headed for home at 4 p.m. The office workers at the Quaker Oats Co. also were allowed to leave half an hour early.

One effect of the current heat spell is that more men can be seen wearing hats when they venture outside. Apparently the sun is too much for the crew cut kids as well as the bald pates.

Profit Is Cut Too Close On Pie At Dime

The newest casualty in the war of high prices is the 10-cent piece of pie. Even those restauranteus who make their own pastry say that the margin of profit is now insufficient to make the sale of pie at its old price a worthwhile proposition.

Apart from one or two eating places in the city, however, the increase has not yet gone into effect; but it is promised for the very near future.

One large restaurant owner explained it this way: "Right now there isn't enough profit on a cut of pie to make it worthwhile handling. It's a matter of either charging more or reducing the size of a piece of pie."

Reason for the price advance is said to be the adedd cost of ingredients.

"Shortening has gone up 13 cents a pound and flour now costs about two cents a pound more," was one explanation.

"And don't forget that labor costs are going up as well," added another restaurant manager.

A large pastry-making store on George Street said it had raised its price for a standard-sized pie by one cent, but finds that profit has been reduced.

Prospects are that within a couple of weeks such cuts as apple, raisin, cream, currant, rhubarb, cherry, etc., will be 15 cents instead of the present 10 cents. Boston cream pie which has always retailed at 15 cents will go up to 20 cents.

Watch Competitor

Downtown restauranteurs while sure that there will be a boost in price, don't seem eager to beat the gun. Most of them are closely watching what moves their chief competitors make.

And so those people who dine out will soon have the dubiouss pleasure of wondering each time they help themselves to a cut of their favorite pie just how much they are personally contributing to Canada's record high cost of living.

Yugoslavs Fear BaggageBurned

MONTREAL, Aug. 27—(CP).—Canadian Yugoslavs, set to leave here tomorrow for their homeland aboard the Yugoslav steamship, Radnik, haunted the Canadian National Railways freight sheds today to see what portion of their belongings burned in Tuesday's fire.

For a time Thursday, when they fear all their belongings had gone up the smoke, the returning Yugoslavs stormed customs offices. Later they settled down to orderly examination of the goods they are taking to Europe.

Saturday's sailing will be the second trip of the Radnik from Montreal this year. In the spring she took 500 Canadian Yugoslavs back to their homeland.

Car Plunges In Lake 2 Drown, Save One

KIRKLAND LAKE, Aug. 27 — (CP).—Two men were drowned early today and a third taken to hospital suffering from severe shock following the plunge of their automobile into Swan Lake, 25 miles north of here.

Dead are: Roland Trudel, 33, Ramore, and Roger Lahaie, 22, Matchewan.

In hospital is Thomas Gagnon, about 30, Holtyre.

Police said the car skidded on a sharp curve and plunged through the guard rail of Swan Lake bridge.

"Adopt" Graves

TARLETON, Lancashire, England — (CP). — Children here have "adopted" the graves of many villagers whose relatives have gone away. Every week they wash the headstones, attend the flowers they have planted and keep the graves tidy generally.

Women's

LONDON — (CP). — addressing 300 women at a C.A., conference, Education Minister George Tomlinson asked for questions. After a short silence he commented: "This is a real triumph. It's the first time in my life I've seen so many women speechless.

Canadian War Effort Lauded By Mountbatten

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — (CP).—Earl Mountbatten of Burma today officially opened the Canadian National Exhibition and paid high tribute to Canada's efforts as a member of the Commonwealth during war and peace.

The former Viceroy of India, and South-east Asia Commander in war, said in an address prepared for delivery at an opening day ceremony, that Canada could "indeed be proud of her magnificent contribution to victory."

"History will record the achievements of her fighting men —among the finest in the world Wherever they served they made a great name for themselvs and for thir country and have immensely raised the prestige and world position of Canada. Miracles, too, were performed by Canadian industry....

Fine Example

"The enlightened statesmanshi shown by Canada throughou those perilous times was indee an example and an inspiratio to us all, and benefited her increased international status."

Lord Mountbatten recalled remarks of the late Duke of Kent, whom he met in Washington in 1941 after the Duke had opened the CNE.

"I remember he said, 'If you haven't got time to go out and see the whole of Canada for yourself, you have only got to go to Toronto and see the whole of Canada brought before you.'"

Complimenting the Royal Canadian Navy, "third in strength among all the Navies of the United Nations" at the end of the war, he mentioned that his "next job will be at sea once more, in command of the First Cruiser Squadron of the Mediterranean Fleet."

3-Pronged Fight Facing Burma

RANGOON, Aug. 27 — (Reuters) — The Burma government now is fighting a three-pronged opposition comprising the Communist Insurgents, the dissident people's volunteer organization and deserters from the Burma army.

The fight against the Communists in the north, where 15 battalions of between 800 and 1,000 men each are tackling a ghost-like enemy is causing the government the greatest anxiety.

Two elements fighting in the same cause are the people's volunteer organization and the army deserters — both recruited from the defence army which fought the Japanese under the late Premier U Aung San, who was murdered in 1947.

The safety of Rangoon, with its local garrison reinforced, is considered almost ensured, but in the up-country areas the govern nent troops — some of whose loyalty has been questioned are a force which strikes one day and has vanished the next.

YOUR GARDEN . . .

Plants Thrive On Stones

By DEAN HALLIDAY

There is a large group of Alpine plants known as "rock" plants because in their active state such plants are found growing on rocky ledges or in cracks in large rocks where there is scarcely any soil for their roots.

When this type of plant is placed in gardens in this country, they should be given the same perfect drainage they would have in their native habitat, otherwise they will quickly rot and die.

Such plants also do better if mulched with a layer of fine stone chip. Sandstone chips are excellent for these plants, but limestone chips will also prove beneficial.

Although only certain rock plants, particularly those with gray or woody foliage, require a scattering of stone chips around their crowns, it is advisable to go over the entire rock garden giving it a light covering with a mixture of stone chips and leaf soil. Apply the chips especially around erodiums, choice pinks, such as Dianthus alpimus, and a few of the campanulas, including C. barbata and rosaces.

Two stone-loving plants—Saxifrage aizoom and Lewisia Tweedyi—are illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Other saxifrages and lewisia require the same diet of stones to make them thrive. Another good way to grow these plants is in pockets or crevices in a stone wall.

For best effect rock plants should always be used in groups. An uneven number — three, five or seven to a pocket — is more pleasing to the eye than one of a kind or a grouping of even numbers.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

EVERY KNOCK A BOOST

IT REQUIRES a special kind of stick-to-it-iveness to regard everything that happens at the bridge table as a possible favor instead of the contrary. Some of the game's greatest players almost make it appear at times as if their motto is "Every knock a boost." Moves made by the opposition, or odd disclosures in the arrangement of the cards around the table, or even mistakes they make themselves can bring application of that slogan into play. Keen analysis often shows them how to profit from such factors.

John R. Crawford, one of Philadelphia's "thinkingest" bridge masters, noted that East's bid was all that kept his side from getting into 4-Hearts, which would surely be the contract at most tables in the national tournament where the shuffle produced this deal. He also saw that an extra trick would probably be taken by North in all of those heart contracts. In that event, his pair was doomed to a terrible score on the deal unless he too could wrest eleven tricks from the cards, which would in effect turn defeat into victory.

His chance for this was promoted when East led the spade 2 and West ducked the J in the hope he might later get two tricks in the suit. Mr. Crawford seized on that break. He next scored the diamond A and led the heart 3. East held up his Q and the J won, for break number two. Then he ran four more diamonds, the spade A, heart A and K and was ready for the finisher. Knowing East must have the club A-Q for his bid, he led the heart 7 to the Q. East could do nothing after that except pitch away from the two club honors to make the club K winner of the eleventh trick.

That fortuitous but planned-for end-play turned a bottom score into a top.

French Govt. Resigns Over Prices

Grave Political Crisis Grips Country Again; Delay Leader Search

PARIS, Aug. 28 — (AP). — The month-old government of Premier Andre Marie resigned early today over the issue of wages and prices which had plagued the coalition cabinet since its inception.

The toppling of the government, the 10th post-war French cabinet, plunged France into what may be one of its gravest political crisis. Marie had been in office since July 27.

President Vincent Auriol hurriedly called in various political leaders, but then postponed the search for marie's successor until later in the day.

The political instability of one of the four countries participating in the Moscow talks was outlined starkly as France was left technically without a foreign minister. Former Premier Robert Schuman will, however, continue to fulfill the duties of foreign minister until a new cabinet is formed.

Schuman and Finance Minister Paul Reynaud conferred with Auriol early today.

Cabinet Resigns

The cabinet resignation came shortly after 1 a.m., Paris time, after an unsuccessful two-day struggle to draft wage and price reforms. The twin issues almost precipitated the fall of the cabinet earlier this month when Marie went before the National Assembly to ask that the cabinet be given decree powers to effect financial reforms.

Reynaud was given wide powers after making some concessions to the Socialists. The two-day cabinet discussions concerned Reynaud's plan for politically-dangerous increases in the prices of such products as milk, bread, rail fares and tobacco.

The former Veterans Affairs Minister, Andre Maroselli, said the crucial point of the disagreement which brought about the cabinet's resignation concerned the amount of wage increases to be allowed to compensate for price rises.

Believe Man Thrown Out Of Cab

Provincial Policeman Finds John Kidd Dead On Arrival

FOWLER'S CORNERS, Aug. 28 (Staff)—John Kidd, 23-year-old bread-truck driver of 259 Reid St., was killed at 6:30 a.m. today when the truck he was driving went off the road near here and turned on its side crushing him. The fatality happened on the boundary road separating Peterborough and Victoria Counties, about a half-mile north of No. 7 Highway and nine miles from Peterborough.

The accident took place at a sharp curve which winds steeply downward. Failing to make the turn, the bread truck, owned by Trent Valley Bread Company, went off the road onto the grassy embankment, travelled about 100 feet before hitting a clump of bushes and overturned. It is believed the truck was going fairly fast down the bend, met a car and swung sharply.

Kidd was thrown from the cab, which is of the vertical opening door type, and was caught under the vehicle.

Herb Hennessey of Ennismore who was on his way to Peterborough was first to reach the scene of the accident. He failed in his attempt to lift the vehicle off the driver who was pinned underneath. Hennessey then threw aside the loaves of bread in an effort to reach Mr. Kidd whose feet were the only part of his body showing, Edgar Miller also of Ennismore arrived a few minutes later and assisted Hennessey.

The truck was lifted after the arrival of the wrecking truck of Ken Nurse, Fowler's Corners.

Kidd was dead on the arrival of Provincial Constable Emmett Crough. He was officially pronounced dead about 7:30 by Coroner Dr. Herb Young, and returned to the city by ambulance. The man's back had been broken in the crash.

Kidd was a veteran of the RCAF in the second World War for about two years. He was not married and had been employed by the Trent Valley Bread for the past two years, Surviving are his mother, Mrs. F. A. Kidd, his sister, Miss Phyllis Kidd and brother, Kenneth Kidd, Brae Farm, River Rd.

An inquest into the death is not likely to be held, Dr. Young said this morning. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

The dead man was active in church and young people's work. He was president of the United Church Presbytery Young People's Society, and a Sunday school teacher at Knox United Church. He was also cubmaster of the pack of that church.

John Kidd was educated in the primary school at Millbrook and was a graduate of the Peterborough Collegiate.

KILLED THIS MORNING when the bread truck he was driving overturned near Fowler's Corners was John Kidd, 23, of 259 Reid St. Prominent in youth and church work in the city, he served in the RCAF for about two years.

See No Relief In Heat Wave During Weekend; Highest Friday 95 Degrees

Thousands Of Workers Walk Off Jobs As Mercury Continues To Soar; Farmers Much Worried About Crop Damage

By The Canadian Press

Central Canada sweltered in its hot-box for a sixth-straight day today but the weather bureau's warning of "no relief this week-end" wasn't such sad news generally. With the week-end off, thousands flocked to beaches and the country to get away from it all. Their only worry was whether the scattered thundershowers predicted for most parts of Ontario and Quebec Saturday and Sunday would cool things off before Monday starts another work week.

Temperatures in the Maritime and Western Provinces remained in the 70's or low 80's yesterday, with Victoria's high for the day an amazingly low 63 degrees. But central cities continued to set new heat records.

Highest yesterday in Peterborough was 95 degrees.

Toronto and Ottawa shared the high-temperature mark when they recorded peaks for the day of 94 degrees. Ottawa's mark was a record for any Aug. 27 in the capital, the previous record of 89 being set in 1932. Montreal's 89.6 also bettered a mark of 84.4 set in 1900 and Quebec's 88.2 passed the previous Aug. 27 high of 83.2 set in 1886.

Vying for the day's highest temperature readings were North Bay, "The Gateway to the North", with a 92-degree peak and London, Ont., with 93. Sault Ste. Marie also was right in there with a 93-degree high.

No Relief in South

Official weather forecasts promised relief for a few sections. The Toronto Weather Bureau said that occasional rain will help bring northern Ontario "relatively cooler weather." The Montreal Weather Bureau said this cooler air would move into northern and eastern sections of Quebec, but no relief is expected in the southern part of the province.

The heat wave was accompanied by its usual sidelights yesterday. Thousands of workers again were let off work in a number of cities; Water consumption hit record highs in several centres and shortages threatened; farmers worried about crop damage, and the heat was a contributing factor to several deaths, mostly among the elderly, as it sapped their strength.

Boy 3 Drowns After Grabbing Wheel Of Car

TORONTO, Aug. 28 — (CP). — A three-year-old boy who playfully grabbed the steering wheel of his father's car, sending it plunging off a waterfront street into Lake Ontario, was drowned Friday. His parents were rescued after struggling free of the automobile.

Frederick Yewman, 28, told rescuers he was driving along east-end Commissioner street with his wife and their baby son, Frank. The child, standing in the front seat, suddenly grabbed the wheel and the car plunged into 30 feet of water in a harbor slip alongside the road.

Yewman said all three escaped the sinking car. He was trying to hold both his wife and the boy above water when his son slipped from his grasp. The parents were rescued after two construction workers threw them a lifebelt.

Bystanders had to restrain Yewman from diving back into the water after he was pulled out, dazed and exhausted, in an attempt to find his son. He learned that the body had been recovered while sittting in hospital, where his wife was treated.

Among the first to arrive at the scene was Charlie Conacher, Chicago Black Hawks coach who lives nearby. He helped pull the parents from the water.

Normandy Battle Won At Dieppe Earl Believes

TORONTO, Aug. 28—(CP).—Canadians who gave their lives in the Dieppe assault of August, 1942, "gave to the allies the priceless secret of victor in the subsequent assaults," Earl Mountbatten of Burma said today.

"For everyone who died at Dieppe in 1942, at least 10 or more must have been spared in Normandy in 1944," the former chief of combined operations and the man who conceived the Dieppe raid said in an address prepared for delivery to a Canadian National Exhibition luncheon.

Dieppe also was the theme of a brief press conference here Friday when the Earl said he was "astonished" to learn there was any doubt of the value of the raid.

"It wasn't a question of being valuable—it was indispensable," he told reporters at the conference which was off-record until today's speech.

Today's speech covered ground previously touched on in an Ottawa press conference earlier in the week when the Earl called Dieppe "probably the most important raid" and "one of the most vital operations" of the Second World War.

"...I have no doubt that the battle of Normandy was won on the beaches at Dieppe."

100 Battle Farm Blaze After Plane Drops Flares

PICTON, Aug. 28—(CP).—County Constable James Lovelace said Friday night an RCAF aircraft dropped two flares that caused a fire sweeping over 75 acres of heat-baked pasture land at nearby Demorestville village. Group Capt. D. A. R. Bradshaw, commanding officer at the Trenton RCAF station, said he is conducting an investigation to learn if it was an RCAF plane. He said only one plane from his station was in the air Friday and it dropped four practice bombs on a range about seven miles from two farms said to have been damaged.

Herb Allison said he saw the flares land on an adjoining farm, then saw the fire spread to his property.

Sure It's RCAF Plane

According to farmers in the district, the plane flew low over the area about 10 a.m. and dropped two flares. They landed on the farm of James Vincent, and quickly spreading flames reached to the adjoining farm of Herbert Allison, causing considerable damage to fields on both farms and a fence on Allison's.

Mr. Allison, whose account differed from the RCAF explanation said the plane looked "very much" like those he has seen on the practise bombing raids near by.

Allison said the range is only one mile from his farm, which is located on a hill. He has seen the RCAF planes regularly, he explained, and the one to-day seemed the same kind."

"My wife and I were out in the field picking tomatoes. We saw the plane coming over and saw it drop red flares, and there was a sort of muffled explosion when they hit the ground. We must have been a quarter of a mile from where they hit but we could hear the noise."

A fence surrounding the Allison farm was completely burned, he said, and his 40 head of cattle wandered off.

Allison and his wife both made calls for help in fighting the blaze as it quickly spread over the dry ground.

Some 100 soldiers from the Royal Canadian School of Artillery here and district farmers worked with tractors and harrows to control the flames.

Fire trucks from Mountain View Air Station as well as from the Artillery School answered the call for help.

Ex-Chief Justice C. E. Hughes Dies

OSTERVILLE, Mass., Aug. 28 —(AP).—Charles Evans Hughes, retired chief justice of the United States who narrowly missed becoming president in 1916, is dead.

Hughes, secretary of state in the Harding and Coolidge cabinets and twice governor of New York State, succumbed Friday night only a few hours after he was reported in critical condition from a heart ailment.

The 86-year-old former chief justice, only American ever to be appointed twice to the United States Supreme Court, died at the Wianno Club, where he had come Aug. 5 to convalesce.

The former chief justice, whose neatly-trimmed white beard were perhaps the most famous whiskers in American public life since Abraham Lincoln, was friendly and had a keen sense of humor.

Born in Glen Falls, N.Y., April 11, 1862, he entered Colgate University at the age of 14 and graduated from Brown University. After receiving his law degree from Columbia in 1884, he began legal practice in New York.

Elected governor of New York in 1907, he resigned during a second term to become a United States associate justice in 1910. He remained on the Supreme Court bench despite offers from Republicans to make him their presidential candidate in 1908 and 1912.

However, in 1916 he accepted the nomination and left the court to run against Woodrow Wilson. He was defeated in one of the closest races in history—Wilson winning by an electoral vote of 277 to 254 after being given California's vote.

24,000 Attend Exhibition During 2 Days

Peterborough Exhibition registered 14,570 paid admissions Friday afternoon and evening.

The turnstile count for Thursday, most of them in the evening, was slightly more than 9,000, bringing the total for the two days close to 24,000.

Skipping its blank years through the war period, the Exhibition searched a long way back in its memories for a crowd equalling the Friday night attendance.

The grandstand was packed. Several sections of the portable bleachers obtained from the city's parks committee were quickly filled, and several thousands of others were lined two and three deep at a long stretch of the fence of the race track.

Other thousands milled through the lanes of the midway, and extended into the various buildings and barns housing the exhibits. CHEX entertained hundreds of people at their outdoor booth, a free feature that filled a long neglected vacancy in the years prior to the war. Carl Monk and his associates of the radio station put on a fine show, and they will be back in the same place this evening with their finals in the amateur talent and old time fiddlers' program.

President Hugh Stewart and his associate directors found substantial heartening from both the Thursday and Friday night Church Presbytery Young People's Society, and a Sunday school teacher at Knox United Church. He was also cubmaster of the pack of that church.

John Kidd was educated in the primary school at Millbrook and was a graduate of the Peterborough Collegiate.

ASHBURY, N.J., Aug. 28 (CP) —The letters left behind by Henry M. Brooks, financier who was found dead by his own hand in a hotel bathroom here rFiday, constitute a confession of the murder of former business partner, representatives of the county prosecutor's office said today.

While detectives traced Brooks' trail from the time of the shooting of his erstwhile partner,, J. R. Watkins, Wednesday, County Prosecutor Mario Volpe said "There is no question in my mind that Brooks is the guilty man." Watkins' body was found in a car parked outside the Princeton Inn, Princeton, N.J.

Police said the gun which was found still clenched in Brooks hand was the same calibre—.32— as the gun with which Watkins was slain. Ballistics experts said, however, it would take several days to determine whether bullets from the same gun killed both men.

Lomakin Scheduled To Sail But Hints May Miss Boat

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 — (AP). —The two children of Jakob M. Lomakin officially stripped of his credentials as Soviet consul-general here, boarded the liner Stockholm at 10 a.m. EDT, today en route home to Russia.

The Swedish-American liner was scheduled to sail at noon for Goteborg, Sweden.

Whereabouts of the Russian envoy, whose recall was demanded by the United States state department, was not immediately known.

However ship's officers who identified the children to reporters said Lomakin and his wife were expected.

Yesterday Lomakin indicated to reporters that he might miss the boa. Asked if he wold be aboard when the ship sails, he replied: "I'm not sure."

Asked to answer further questions, Lomakin said he might do so later.

"Maybe," he said, "in two weeks."

Officials of the ship line said reservations for Lomakin and his family have not been cancelled.

In Washington, the State Department left the way open for Lomakin to do as he pleases — for the present—about leaving the United States.

It was Lomakin's dealings with Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, Russian school teacher who failed to fill her own reservations on a Russian-bound ship, that touched off the international controversy.

The teacher, who leaped from a third-storey consulate window where she claims Lomakin held her prisoner, Friday was provided with a lawyer to aid her in steps toward becoming an American citizen.

Archie O. Dawson, former state commissioner for special investigations, was named by the Legal Aid Society to represent her.

He said one of his first jobs will be to decide to whom she will sell the story of her life. He said several newspaper syndicates have made offers.

Have A T-Bone Steak 18 Months To Pay

HOLDREDGE, Neb., Aug. 28—(AP). — A Holdredge meat market operator posted this sign yesterday: 'Use your credit. Have a T-bone steak, one-third down, 18 months to pay."

Herb Bierhaus said he put up the sign on his shop in an effort to get back business which had dropped off sharply because of resistance to high meat prices.

Soviet General Passing Buck

BERLIN, Aug. 28 — (AP). — Berlin's Soviet commandant today evaded pleas by city council leaders that he protect their meetings from further invasions by Communist demonstrators. Then he passed the buck to the Russian-sector police

In reply to a letter from the Council speaker, asking such protection, the commandant, Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov said he did not understand what was desired of him.

Kotikov was asked Friday night for assurances that city hall, in the Soviet sector, would be kept clear of rioters, who have invaded it the last two days, forcing cancellation of assembly meetings.

His reply to the letter from Socialist Otto Suhr, speaker of the mainly-non-Communist assembly, consisted of a series of counter-questions and was front paged today by the official Soviet press.

The commandant's reply requested a series of "clarifications" and asked why the city council did not apply to German police in city hall district for protection.

Four Gun-Waving Russians Stage Wild Night Ride

BERLIN, Aug. 28 — (AP). — Four gun-brandishing Russians, including a red-bearded lieutenant-colonel, staged a wild ride through the United States sector of Berlin Friday night.

The United States Provost Marshal's office said today they were pursued and shot at after they ran down an American military policeman who tried to halt them.

American police chased the Russians for seven miles over the busiest streets on the American sector. Although they shot two tires of the Russians' amphibious jeep, they could not halt it. The Russians also crashed through road blocks erected to check them.

During the chase the Americans pursued the Russians for about 800 yards into the Soviet sector of the city at downtown Potsdamer Platz. There the pursuit ended and the Russians escaped.

As a result of this crossing of the boundary line the Russian commandant of Berlin today formally protested to United States authorities against an alleged violation of jurisdiction and claimed that an assault had been made upon Soviet personnel and an officer wounded.

Meantime the U.S. Provost Marshal's office reported that two American soldiers were arrested by the Russians Friday near the borders of Berlin proper and the surrounding Soviet zone. The American report said it understood the soldiers were intoxicated and causing a disturbance.

Expect Communique On 4-Power Talks

MOSCOW, Aug. 28 — (AP). — Informed sources believe it likely a brief communique will be issued to-night covering the progress of the current four-power talks here.

The informants said Friday night's three-hour session between the three Western envoys and Foreign Minister Molotov might have been the crucial one in negotiations over the Berlin situation.

Pending a possible four-power announcement, the talks still were covered by official silence.

River Of Beer Flows Out Toward Ocean

RED BLUFF, Calif., Aug. 28 — (AP). — A river of beer—124,000 gallons—flowed out of here today toward the sea, all because of a court order.

It was a sad occasion. It drew only a comparatively small handful of spectators Friday, most of them equipped with pitchers or other vessels. The turnout was expected to be greater today as the word got around.

The beer was flowing out of the United States Brewing Corporation plant through four 2½-inch hoses, under pressure. The flow started at 9 a.m. and was expected to last until Monday. The beer was flowing down a ravine on the edge of town to its junction with the Sacramento river, half a mile away.

Tries To Keep Girl From Sailing Home

MONTREAL, Aug. 28—(CP).—A young man from Windsor identified only as "Bronko," arrived here Friday night by plane in what was said to be a last-minute attempt to prevent a pretty Windsor girl from leaving for Yugoslavia tomorrow aboard the steamship Radnik.

"I can't say anything until tomorrow," said Bronko, who refused to talk about his mission. Then, changing his mind, he said, "Just say I came to see them off."

The girl is 16-year-old Vera Vujasin, who arrived here early in the week with her 17-year-old sister Naida and their mother, Mrs. Saika Vujasin.

TakeCattleHome Barns Too Hot

On veterinary advice, stockmen at the Exhibition were given permission Friday night to remove their animals if they wished to do so. Directors took this step during the evening after all the judging was finished in a common sense decision that the livestock was better at home than being kept in the Exhibition barns until 4 p.m. today.

"I think the public will agree with us that this was the proper thing to do," G. A. Gillespie, manager, said this morning. "We like to have the public see our exhibits, but everybody has been uncomfortable from the weather and with no relief in sight last night we called in a veterinary surgeon, and his opinion was that it was better to tell the breeders they could go."

Some of the herd owners had already packed up early Friday evening.

President Hugh Stewart confirmed this morning reports that he would be driving his horse 'Stewart Worthy" in the free for all race tonight. It will bring together the best horses at this meeting.

"We were all very happy with the public support of the last two nights," Mr. Stewart said. "We are hoping for another big crowd tonight.

'Stewart Direct" won another race for the president early this week in the United States.

1 Girl Blamed In Mercer Riot

TORONTO, Aug. 28 — An investigation into the disturbances at Mercer Reformatory in July confirmed only what had been common knowledge, that the trouble was started by an incorrigible girl who had been transferred to the institution from St. Mary's Trailnng School because the nuns could't control her.

Reform Institutions Minister George Dunbar made this statement yesterday when explaining why the report on the disturbances would not be made public. It was a report by one of the department's own employees, Inspector T. M. Gourlay, and Mr. Dunbar said he knew of no purpose that could be served by releasing it.

There was no criticism of the superintendent nor of the staff, added Mr. Dunbar. Opening of a training school at Mercer to handle these teen-aged incorrigibles would help to segregate them from the older inmates and prevent them from causing trouble in the future, he said.

A Slight Error

Some 100 warmly clad United States youths perspired their way into Toronto to attend a church conference. A Virginia girl said she had brought nothing but fall apparel on advice of her mother who warned that "it would be very cold in Canada."

But neither the heat nor the humidity could keep Torontonians away from their big show. Canadian National Exhibition officials announced that the attendance set an opening-day record of 105,000—2,000 more than 1947's previous record.

Will Continue

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 — (AP). — No relief was in sight today from the intense heat wave over the eastern half of the continent as summer's longest and warmest hot spell continued.

Thus, another day of temperatures ranging from round 90 to 100 and above was the outlook. Right now forecasters can't see any relief by Monday.

The stifling heat has taken a heavy toll in the United States in deaths, in prostrations and drownings. A survey showed at least 76 deaths in 13 states enveloped in the Lot belt. Hundreds were overcome as thousands flocked to beaches and city parks for relief.

(ENS) — Provincial Police from Bobcaygeon and Lindsay were called out Friday night to investigate a theft of an inboard motor boat from the boathouse of Ken Kimble, guide, Bobcaygeon. The boat, which was missing from the boathouse on the river east of the locks was discovered aroung eight p.m. wrecked on a reef a mile down Pigeon Lake. About 10:30 p.m. Constables William Warner, Bernard Welde and Ray Lawson picked up John Carr, of Bobcaygeon and charged him with the theft of the boat.

Power Cut Sept. 14

TORONTO, Aug. 28—(CP).—R. H. Saunders, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, today announced that restrictions aimed at cutting use of power in the province will become effective Sept. 14.

FERDINAND FRIEDENBURG, acting mayor of Berlin, was in his office in city hall when several hundred Communist-dominated Socialist Unity party (SED) members broke down the door singing the Internationale, carrying Red banners and demanding that Berlin police powers be turned over to the Red "Action Committee." Friedenburg refused. "No one can say Friedenburg is cowardly," he stated.

FarmerDemands Pay For Corn

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 28. (ENS) Fifteen boys and girls learned that they will have to pay for their fun in more ways than one when they staged a corn roast one recent evening at the expense of a Trent River farmer whose corn patch supplied the wherewithall for the feast. The farmer laid complaint to Provincial Constable A. Kellogg of Hastings on grounds of damage to property and theft.

The group were considerably sobered and although they said they were sorry for their hasty actions and would pay outside of court for their folly, the corn patch owner so far is firm and says that the law should take its course.

All-Out Effort By Britain's Land Workers Saved Harvest From Ruin Of 2 Weeks Ago

LONDON, Aug. 28 — (CP). — A tremendous all-out effort by Britain's land workers helped by recent sunshine and drying winds, has saved, the harvest from the ruin which seemed almost certain two weeks ago.

Farmers and farm workers with 25,000 land army girls and 140,000 civilian volunteers have combined to produce a harvest that now is expected to be above average.

The next few days should tell, for the official forecast of more sunshine leads many farmers to hope the harvest will be completed early next week.

In Somerset and in the west of England the best harvest for 10 years is reported — and in some cases the best ever.

Everywhere the response of workers to an urgent situation is being praised by farmers and agriculture ministry officials. Said Jim Fraser, a Northumberland farmer: "The girls are splendid. They are out in the fields at the crack of dawn and stay there till the last hour of daylight. Many are working 90 hours a week."

up the sandy soil with depressing speed.

Streets were lined with cars all the way up to Romaine St. and from Park St. easterly to Little Lake. Some hundreds of others were tucked away within the grounds.

Extensive Lighting

One of the improvements at the park was the extensive flood lighting. It is doubtful whether there are many parks in this country so broadly and brightly illuminated. The exxess candlepower was required for the night racing, a feature that has appealed to the crowds.

People who like the harness horses events, for pacers and trotters, should make a note of the free for all that is carded as the last track event winding up the show in tonight's program. It was expected that Hugh Stewart's smart gelding "Stewart Worthy" would be a starter, and fans have been trying to pick from the entries class enough to beat him. Possibly, Mr. Stewart may take the reins for one of the three heats.

The most grateful aspect of the Exhibition results from the directors' office has been the crowd of approximately 25,000 for the two days of almost blistering heat. The number of paid admissions was quoted above, obtained from Mr. Lennox F. Winter, assistant accountant of the Bank of Commerce, who is helping in the treasury detail. Add the working passes used during the two days, and the total must be close to 25,000 figure. There isn't any guess work or padding in this attendance statement.

Weather No Help

Possibly the crowd might have been even larger than that if the weather had not been so immoderate throughout the week. Undoubtedly it keeps people away during the afternoons. In consideration of the exhibitors' of livestock, directors in charge of sheep and swine, virtually told those men they could take their stock home Friday night, if they wished. At the secretary's office, a report intimated that the Clifford Lowes and M. H. Pimmett and Son herds of Shorthorn cattle were trucked back to their home fields late Friday. If late visitors today find some stalls empty they will probably endorse the consideration that dictated this withdrawal earlier than usual and scheduled.

To offset the heat effect, the Holstein cattle were shower bathed twice a day since their arrival and were standing up to the heat.

The livestock parade listed for this afternoon was switched to Friday evening. Directors realized that it would be unwise to have the cattle brought out into the afternon sun if the weather continued unbroken into Saturday.

Displays Interesting

Far more significance than appeared on the humid surface could be elicited from the attraction of the displays in the manufacturers and merchants building, the former drill hall of the military camp.

The electrical appliance industry, represented at half a dozen booths of gleaming enamel and chrome, obtained confirmation of a trade fact they know from many other channels that the backlog of demand is still surprisingly strong. Employees of that industry turning out refrigerators, electric ranges, washing machines and other domestic machines of modern utility and graceful appearance, should be interested in the hundreds of enquiries and leads that were listed by attendants up to late Friday night. Those prospects mean continuing production until all this accumulation of potential business is caught up with, whenever that may be.

The same story was told The Examiner at four of the electrical goods displays.

Topping the list of leads in booth books was the electrical washing machine.

One of the attendants said: "Our manager has been saying that we were beginning to level off with the demand for washers This week at the Exhibition has been a big surprise to him. He frankly said that he had no idea there were still so many homes without those machines. Some of those homes have not yet taken shape. They represent young married couples eagerly waiting the day when they can get into places of their own. Others have settled down and are in the market. And their foremost interest is an electric washing machine.

Electrification of Homes

Second on the list is either an electric range or refrigerator. Hunreds of young couples have come to our booth and talked about their plans. Then, there are others who have their homes equipped and are thinking about electric dish washers. One plain fact is that today's generation of homemakers are keenly interested in the electrification of their homes, the saving of labor and the economies in everyday convenience and utility."

Sells Two Furnaces

These reports from the electrical goods booth were all of the same tenor. The manufacturers building is a place of business prospects as well as of display and publicity. One attendant said he sold two furnaces last night, but he hasn't one on hand at present.

The interesting fact to him was the furnace orders on such a hot night.

In these experiences the former drill hall has been a big advantage to the Exhibition board and also to its brief tenants. The only flaw in its construction was that the windows were set into the walls without provision for openings to the stray breezes that were perspiringly sought this week.

Children accounted for a large section of the night crowds. You saw them thrilling, especially the younger ones, to their first rides on the merry-go-round, some of them a bit timidly, but with the assuring presence of father or mother standing beside them and their stout ponies.

The coolest person on the grounds was a little boy of some months over his first birthday, wearing only light panties, and tumbling about the grounds at Art McIntyre's machinery exhibits and in his tent.

New Generation Sheep Breeders Showing At Ex

Frank Savigny, chairman of the Sheep Committee of the Exhibition and one of the long service directors, found this week almost an entire new generation of breeders, but continuing the names of the breeders who used to show here in the pre-war years.

There were excptions, of course, Mr. Savigny said. Some of the veterans were back again. Most of the breeders are from Durham and Ontario Counties and others from Victoria.

Harold Skinner, Tyrone, G. H. Mark & Son, Little Britain, J. R. Kelsey, Woodville, A. Ayre & Sons, Hampton, John Cullis, of Oakwood, and so on. The number of entries was large and in several of the classes competition was keen. More than a dozen breeders competed.

Peterborough Industrial Commission

The Industrial Development Committee of the City Council made its best move in a decade when it recommended on Thursday that an Industrial Commission be set up. The Council, who will consider the recommendation at their meeting on Monday, will prove itself to be alert and forward-looking if it accepts the recommendation.

* * *

Peterborough has been woefully slow—in fact, losing ground—in its industrial development of recent years. There has been too much laissez-faire entirely, too much contentment with the industries we have and the great wartime expansion of several existing plants. The diversity of industry which helped us through the depression is now not great enough to ease us through another depression. We need new industries and we have not been getting them. Other Ontario cities have—Chatham, for instance. Other cities have had a productive industrial policy and an Industrial Commission, and they have been going after business. Peterborough has lagged in the post-war industrial boom chiefly because our wage rate is among the very highest in the province and because we have had a scarcity of labour. Nevertheless, Peterborough has qualities which will attract new industries, if they are well and forcibly presented, and new factories will attract new workers.

* * *

Much of the value of an Industrial Commission will depend on the commissioners appointed, and the independence of action which the Commission will be permitted. Though it must ultimately derive its authority from the Council, it need not be the foundling cousin of the Council. The Council will be sufficiently represented if one or at most two of its members sit on the Commission. If Commissioners are appointed from other Peterborough bodies—the President of the Chamber of Commerce, for instance, they should be appointed not by virtue of their position, but because they are the best men for the job. The key men in the Commission will be the Chairman and the Secretary. Neither should be directly connected with the Council. The qualities and qualifications for the chairmanship of the Commission are exacting and rare. The Chairman will not receive a full-time salary, but he must be sufficiently free of other business engagements to seek prospects afield at the drop of a telegram. He must be a man who understands both business and industry and can talk with industrialists and parliamentarians on their own levels.

* * *

If we are to have an Industrial Commission it must have independent status and its members must be the best that can be found.

The Swiss Example Of Confederation

The oldest republic in the world this month celebrated the hundredth anniversary of its modern constitution and the 657th of its founding. We the people of a confederation only nineteen years younger than Switzerland's salute the people of the 22 cantons which are banded together in the Helvetian Confederacy. The country has a long record of resistance to aggression, good patriotism and fine international cooperation.

The Confederation of Canada and the Confederation of Switzerland have many points of difference but some notable similarities. The Canadian colonies were not under the same kind of autocratic domination that the original members of the Swiss confederation were from the Hapsburg empire. When the first three cantons grouped together, it was for mutual protection against greater powers. Other cantons entered the union for essentially the same reason. The Canadian provinces came together for a purpose: to build a nation from sea to sea in the northern half of the New World. Nevertheless there is this interesting common impulse: both united against possible enemies. Canadian Confederation became possible partly because there was a popular feeling that the British North American colonies would be safer united than divided. The threat of war with the United States in the 1860's was a decisive influence in Canadian acceptance of Confederation.

Switzerland can teach us much about confederation. It has four official languages (German, French, Italian, and Romansh—a lingua rustica survival from the old Roman Empire). It has 22 cantons. Yet the nation is united, the people are nationally conscious. It has federal government and numerous provincial governments, yet the country is prosperous, at peace with the world and with itself. It is a small country, but has a notable record for international mediation and a balanced foreign policy. In these matters Switzerland has given Canada a great example.

Switzerland is often pointed out by Canadian Provincial-righters as a confederation in which the central authority is kept in its place. The facts do not support them. The Federal Constitution of 1848, while respecting the sovereignty of the cantons, gave the Confederation wide powers, particularly in the economic sphere. It was modelled on the American system, which has a large degree of centralization. Even these powers proved inadequate. A new Constitution was framed in 1874, which is still in force. It gave even wider powers to the Federal Government. Since then, because the radical (liberal) party has been in power much of the time, and because of new social and economic conditions, more and more power on economic questions has been transferred to the Federal authority. Instances of this are the monopoly of spirits and the power to enact legislation on social insurance (1890). The lesson of Switzerland is this: in order that the nation might develop, the Federal government had to be given more power.

Canadians might profitably examine two aspects of the modern Swiss constitution. One is the ease with which the constitution can be amended. The second is its "direct democracy". Since 1891 constitutional questions can be resolved by a direct vote throughout the country, without reference to the governing bodies of the various cantons.

Concerning All Christendom

When the founder of Christianity was an hungered in the wilderness for forty days and forty nights and the devil tempted him, he replied, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Even non-Christians will be inclined to agree with the proposition, unless like orthodox Communists, they are sworn to dialetic materialism. The present world is so largely bedevilled by cares for bread, wars and dollars that the spirit of man and the world of the spirit are neglected. The neglect is all the more lamentable when one considers what ills have been wrought by concentration on the world of the flesh and how little success devotion to materialism has had in solving the world's problems. It is profoundly true that man does not live by bread alone.

Two great conferences this summer give hope that the emphasis of our age is not entirely secular and materialistic. Bishops and Archbishops of the world-wide Anglican communion met at Lambeth Palace, London, to consider not only their church but the whole state of Christendom. An Encyclical Letter has been issued by the 326 prelates, to be read to all Church of England congregations. It affirms that:

> The Church of God is the champion of man against all that cheapens and degrades him; for the Gospel is the charter of man's dignity. The mission of the Church now, as always, is to proclaim and to live out the Gospel, by which alone men can be saved from selfishness and the world from despair and self-destruction.

The second conference, the Assembly of the World Council of Churches, is now in session at Amsterdam. It represents 150 church denominations in 42 countries. The Russian Orthodox Church and the Roman Catholic Church are not participating, but the latter has observers present. As was the Lambeth Conference, so is this World Conference concerned with the growing threat to Christianity, and in a larger sense to all spiritual forces, of secular creeds and physical, material power. These meetings are focal points of hope for Christians and of importance to others who do believe that men cannot live by bread alone.

Diary Of A Weediculturist

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Dined with friends today, and the principal dish of the meal was an epicure pie. It is fully nine years since I sheathed a cuspid in one of these dainties, and I fell upon it with glad cries. An epicure pie is one of the triumphs of English cookery. There are people, I know, who hold that the English have no cookery worth speaking of, but they are wrong. There are certain dishes in which the English genius triumphs, and epicure pie is one of them. It is composed of thin layers of veal and ham, held in a close embrace by a clear meat jelly; the meat portion of the pie is about six or eight inches in depth. Over this noble composition is reared a thick but tender crust, which is glazed to a golden-brown and ornamented with whirligigs and curlicues according to the fancy of the cook. And in the middle of the pie, like the Koh-i-noor in the Imperial Crown, nestles a whole egg. A great dish! A dish for princes, prelates and philosophers! A dish which, by its existence, rebukes and sets at naught all those who say that England has no interest in good food, and who exalt the nasty concoctions of the French, in which pungent sauces are devised to conceal the taste of bad meat. I assert loudly that there are no cooks to compare with the best English cooks; I admit, however, that good English cooks are few, and that the usual run of English cooks are hardly any better than those to be found in backwoods Canadian summer resorts.

MONDAY: Posted a bulky package this evening in one of the bins which our fatherly government provides for this purpose. But as soon as I had done so I was seized with horrible misgiving. Are those bins ever cleared? They do not look, to my eyes, as though their little doors would open. They look, on the contrary, as though no one but a burglar could open them,—supposing a burglar were tempted by the collection of sticks, shrivelled leaves, and dead worms which I suspect them of containing. I have every faith in letter-boxes; they have a used look. But when I put something in a package-bin I fear that it has gone forever.

TUESDAY: With heavy heart went this evening to see a movie called "Bel Ami", based on de Maupassant's story. I had read several criticisms of it, all of which said it was bad. But I was in that mood which sometimes overtakes the true movie-enthusiast; I had to see a movie, however poor it might be....Delighted to discover that the critics were wrong. It was an excellent picture, and also one of the dirtiest pictures (using the word "dirty" in its Ontario sense, meaning "with sexual implication") that I have seen in many years. I can only believe that its suggestions and innuendoes were too recondite for the nice, simple souls who compose our censorship boards....It concerned a man who was irresistibly attractive to women. I believe that such fellows exist, but I have never met one, though I have met many who thought they belonged in that category. Women who are attractive to most men are common enough; men who are attractive to most women are rarities—in this country, at any rate. I think that it is because a man, to be attractive, must be free to give his whole time to it, and the Canadian male is so hounded by taxes and the rigours of our climate that he is lucky to be alive, without being irresistible as well.

WEDNESDAY: Business takes me to Toronto, the Ontario Babylon, and in the intervals of business I do a bit of shopping. But now that shop-girls no longer wear uniforms, and women go shopping without hats, I cannot tell them apart, and much of my time was wasted in asking other customers to sell me something. Nobody asked me to sell them anything, though I would have done so at once, and pocketed the money....Dined in a Chinese restaurant, and commanded a pair of chopsticks, instead of the usual spoon. This was sheer bravado, but after a few messy failures I found the right way to manage the implements, which is to operate them as tongs, holding the inferior chopsticks rigid while picking and pinching with the superior chopstick. In this way I worked through several pounds of chicken, bean sprouts, almonds, celery, shrimps and unidentified substances. There is no nonsense about Chinese food; it is all edible, and the tiresome work of cutting it up is all done in the kitchen. You simply begin at the beginning and go on until there is nothing left. As I ate the fatigues of the day vanished and when I had consumed a gallon or so of excellent Chinese tea I was ready for the journey home.

THURSDAY: Sometimes I wonder if it would be fun to ride a motor bike. Most of the time I know it would not, but now and then I hanker. To wear one of those leather corsets with sparklers on it, and to dash noisily and smelly about the countryside—what glory! And to have one's giblets jolted and shaken like ice-cubes in a cocktail-shaker—how healthy! But I am a craven, and I know that once I was mounted on the pillion of one of those things I would scream pitifully to be released.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: Discovered this morning that a jolly doggums — bless his great shaggy heart!—had spread my garoage all over the street in front of The Towers, searching for goodies. There are times when I wish that people would feed their dear, dear doggies, instead of allowing them to forage in garoage cans. But perhaps doggies, like children, would rather eat at the neighbours' than at home....A man came to do some gardening for me today, bringing two horses, a wagon and a good deal of miscellaneous equipment. He was charging me by the hour, and when he took time out for lunch, and the horse's lunch, and a sleep, I assumed that he would deduct this period from the bill. I was mistaken. Upon the whole I think I shall get a tractor to do any future work of this kind. Tractors do not need to sleep, and their drivers do not look upon eating as part of a day's work.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: A great day for me! This morning the judges from the Horticultural Society arrived at the Towers, and made a tour of the grounds, murmuring with admiration. I was pleased by their approbation, but judge of my excitement when the following appeared in the Prize List:

Finest Show of Mixed Weeds (for garden tended solely by the owner) First Prize—S. Marchbanks.

Finest Single Weed in native state: A magnificent Amaranthus retroflexus (Common Pigweed)—property of S. Marchbanks.

Largest Foliage on any weed: A stupendous Rumex obtusifolius (Burdock) — reared with great care by S. Marchbanks.

Finest Rare or Specimen Weed: Cicuta Maculata (Cowbane)—cherished under glass by S. Marchbanks.

At last I have found a branch of gardening in which I excel! From now on my course is clear, and the Marchbanks Weed Sanctuary begins tonight.

Brain Wave

During heat waves, and perhaps at the Christmas fiesta
Could not Canadians well adopt the old Spanish custom of siesta?
It really makes the insurance companies very sad
To see people dashing around like mad
In the summer heat,
And at Christmas when wont to overeat.
Of course it may be,
That on this point the medical fraternity would not agree,
For if nobody ever dashed around in a heated state
Or overate,
And consequently stayed extremely well
Where would the doctors dwell?
And if everyone had an iron endurance
How could people possibly sell insurance?
The whole economy might be pushed out of gear
If siesta were instituted here,
So after all I guess it would be a Poor idea.

Teropterin And Babe Ruth

(NEW YORK TIMES)

AT the Fourth International Cancer Research Congress held last September in St. Louis physicians heard the case of a white male, 52 years old, who had been operated upon for cancer which had spread from the air passages back of the nose to the face and neck. The case was too far gone for the complete extirpation of the growth, so that the man was doomed, but his agonizing pain was relieved by the administration of teropterin, the ability to swallow solid food was partially recovered and the voice was no longer hoarse. The physicians in attendance knew that the "white male" in question was Babe Ruth. His case was discussed not because he was the baseball idol of a nation but because of the remarkable prolongation of his life by a new drug.

The story of teropterin is much like that of penicillin; for it is the story of a scientific observer who was struck by an anomaly, which he proceeded to investigate, just as Sir Alexander Fleming investigated to find out why there was clear space in a contaminated mold-culture and so discovered penicillin. The scientific observer was Dr. Brian L. Hutchings of the Lederle Laboratories, who was trying to produce folic acid, one of the "B" vitamins, in quantities larger than the few milligrams possible in 1942. He noticed that one of the filtrates of a tank in which a mold had been cultivated stimulated the growth of a certain microorganism. Filtrates from other vats had no such property. Like Fleming, Dr. Hutchings investigated. The result was the discovery of the extraordinary properties of pteroyltriglutamic acid, a name mercifully transformed to teropterin.

The efficacy of teropterin in cancer was established by Dr. Richard Lewiohn of Mount Sinai Hospital in experiments conducted with mice. Transplanted tumors melted away after teropterin had been given for a time. Memorial Hospital could not verify the results and decided that teropterin was not worth clinical consideration, an opinion which it has not changed. Other hospitals were of a different mind. Their results were discussed at a symposium held last December by the New York Academy of Sciences. None of the physicians who then presented case histories, which read much like Babe Ruth's, asserted that a cure for cancer had at last been discovered. Indeed the record was clouded because in addition to teropterin the usual standard methods of dealing with cancer had been used. Even in Babe Ruth's case X-rays had been used. Nevertheless, it is something to assurage pain that even heavy doses of narcotics cannot allay, to make tumors shrivel for a time, to establish the conditions for the formation of new tissue.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth. (John 1: 14.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary....

And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God. And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS. (Luke 1: 26, 27, 30-33.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn....

And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon him. (Luke 2: 7, 40.)

HARDENED

Feeling in rather a lively mood one evening during the festive season, the men in D Hut gathered round a really raw-looking recruit and started pulling his leg.

But the "rookie" remained quite calm and collected.

"'Cripes man!" burst out 'Nobby' Clarke at last. "Can't you hear what we're saying?"

"Sure, I can," was the reply, "but I'm quite used to it. You see, in Civvy Street I'm an attendant in a lunatic asylum."

"Happy days are here again!"

Waited 50 Years For Visit of Nobleman Reeve's Welcome To Lord Dufferin

MRS. GERALD MARRYAT

Lord and Lady Dufferin and their suite left Cobourg at 8 a.m. on Sept. 4, 1874 on the old Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Rly. for Harwood and Rice Lake on the way to visit the Marmora Iron Mines. The guests on this occasion were believed to be those who held stock in the railway or mining company. Colonel Chambliss, managing-director of the railroad and its superintendent, J. R. Barber, were present officially to provide necessary information and the social life of Cobourg was represented by the wives of the various public men.

This event awakens echoes of the past of a change of events which saw the end of the original Cobourg and Peterborough Railway, and its emergence as the Cobourg and Marmora line, with a spur from the Trent River just above the narrows, now Trent River, to the mines at Marmora. The connecting link was the steamboat, Isaac Butts, named for the president of the road, Isaac Butts of Rochester, N.Y.

That year also saw the withdrawal of the villageof Hastings from its former place in the county of Peterborough and its incorporation as a part of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. It has been said that Peterborough city and county did a full share in promoting the interests of the early railways, but "Early Settlement of Peterborough" by Dr. T. W. Poole has this to say: "Although Peterborough was the proposed terminus of both Cobourg and Port Hope Railways, and was consequently largely interested in the construction of one or both, she persistently refused to contribute the smallest aid to either, and the result was, that while through the enterprise of the people of Cobourg, that road was pushed forward, in spite of all obstacles, and opened for traffic in the autumn of 1854, the oPrt Hope company turned their attention towards Lindsay . . . . "

Hastings was turning to the Front and working for a better outlet for its infant industries. Its days in the backwoods were over, and for better or worse the die was cast. The aWrden was the Reeve James S. Fowlds of Percy who had worked steadily to bring about the change, and there were many men among the vice-regal guests who acknowledged his success by their presence.

The captain of the steamer, Isaac Butts, on this occasion, was a Hastings man, Capt. Sam. Lambert, Lombiere or Lombard. When he died in 1910 aged 86, was one of the last and oldest navigators on the Trent. His kindly disposition and sunny nature made him a great favourite with the public, most of whom he had carried in his boats, as well as their fathers and mothers before them. He had been captain of the old Otonabee, chosen to carry the Prince of Wales across Rice Lake when he paid his first visit to Peterborough on Sept. 7, 1860.

As the steamer swept down the Trent River towards the dock at Hastings, the whistle was pulled by another Hastings citizen, Adolphus Marchand, who lived for many years in the "double brick house" on Water St. and who married a daughter of Michel Lemoire. "Dolph" Marchand was born at Tree Rivers, Que. and came to Hastings in the early "fifties", to spend his life there and on the river, with the exception of his last few years in Stirling, where he died in December, 1914. He was engineer on the Otonabee, Isaac Butts and Forest City as well as later craft.

On the old wharf at Hastings the reeve, Timothy Coughlan, Sr., who had been a resident since Crooks' Rapids days, and who had helped to construct the dam, locks and bridge, as well as acting as first Justice of the Peace and agent for the Hon. James Crooks, stood waiting with the council, John Peters, William Orr, Henry M. Fowlds and Henry Johnston. The school children were lined up and the local volunteer force was ready to fire a salute in honour of the distinguished visitors.

The best description of the event is to be found in the columns of the Hastings Star, of December 22, 1897, when the editor, J. H. Scriver, related . . . that in conversation with an old resident of Percy the talk turned back to the days when Hastings welcomed Lord and Lady Dufferin, which event was graphically chronicled by Barney McGuire in the Norwood Register:

"There wus the Wilsons and the Jones,
Fifes, Farrars, Blacklocks, Downs,
Hurrahin' for bare life, as you may well suppose."

While we look in vain for any of these familiar faces, we involuntarily smile at the incident of the lady, who,

". . . threw, instead of an old shoe,
A bokay of wild tansy which hit
His Lordship on the nose."

With vividness we recall Barney's pen pictures, as for instance, "Shawn Peters, he wus standin'
On the platform 'ninst the landin'
An' William Orr and Harry Fowlds, in clothin' all galor,
An' wid very good demaynor, the Reeve wint aboard the steamer
An' to His Lordship said—Will yees kindly step ashore."
And then, the reading of
". . . the speech o'er which the council had Fur several nights been plutterin' in."

Although it was September 4, the day must have been extremely hot, for as Barney says:

"Hank Johnston he perspired
Till his vest was all besmired."

The reading of the speech did not awake much enthusiasm, as

"The cheers were wake at first
But came at last an' burst
Thin Lady Dufferin's name was mentioned to the crowd;
An' the firing of the Guard
Tho perhaps a little hard
To say . . . wus nothin' to it . . . for the shout wus twice as loud."

Then, as now, there appears to have been the same jealous feeling about Norwood:

"Then Lady Dufferin smiled
An' the Hastings heart beguiled;
An' the Norwood people wilted, because they had no show
For the Norwood big brass band refused to lend a hand
'Cause Hastings would the credit claim of all, ye know."

As Barney dated his poem "Underneath the grandstand, 2 a.m." we fancy he must have been overcome with the heat.

Mr. Scriver regrets his inability to remember all Barney's poem, but we ought to be grateful to him for preserving as much as he did. Perhaps some one cut out the entire poem at the time, and if it is pasted in a family scrap book, it is to be hoped that it may be printed again.

In his book, "Canada under the Administration of the Earl of Dufferin," George Stewart wrote that "As the Isaac Butts entered the lock at Hastings, the company of the 57th Battalion fired a 'feu de joie,' and the steamer remained in the lock during Lord Dufferin's absence on shore where he received and replied to an address." The steamer reached Hastings again in th elate afternoon on the return trip but there was only a brief delay, and at 7.30 p.m. the Vice-Regal party was in Cobourg. Not a bad day's outing considering transport of those days.

The greatest day in Hastings' early history passed with the one burning question unanswered to the general satisfaction of the assembled onlookers. It was this . . . "What did Reeve Coughlan say to Lord Dufferin?"

What of the famous speech over which the council had been splutterin'? Their eyes told them words had passed but one syllable reached their ears. And yet Lord Dufferin had laughed heartily . . .

Miss M. E. Blacklock, now of Meadowvale, Ont., was 14 years old at the time; she writes that "the small fry nearly laughed out loud over the way the Reeve "hummed and hayed" over his address of welcome. The sad truth is that, in the excitement of the moment, Mr. Coughlan had forgotten to bring his "specs" and not one word of the speech could he see, and worse still, not a word could he remember.

The Coughlan say that it was my grandfather, James S. Fowlds, who was standing by, who came to the rescue. But our story is different. It is that Lord Dufferin saw at a glance what had happened, and, moving quietly to the reeve's side, he read and replied to the address, all in one breath, so to speak, for the swing bridge was open and time had drawn to a close for the official visit.

In December, 1894, Mr. Coughlan died and it was not until the Countess of Dufferin published a volume of her reminiscences, of which excerpts were printed in the Cobourg Star, that the true story was told.

"Rice Lake is very pretty," she wrote in her diary. And then she added: "We had one address on the way (to the mines at Marmora) as we passed through the lock at Hastings. The Reeve there was a most amusing old man, and he told us he had been waiting 50 years for a nobleman to come and visit him." So there was the long awaited answer . . . Rice Lake is full of wild rice, but Hastings was remembered through the years, because an old man who had forgotten his spectacles, relied upon his own natural sense of humor and his Irish ability to make the best of a bad moment.

As the steamer warped away from the dock, Mrs. H. M. Fowlds, despairing of being allowed to present to Lady Dufferin the bouquet of garden flowers she had thoughtfully provided, tossed them on to the deck of the boat as it slipped past her. Although her "bokay" did not "hit His Lordship on the nose" as Barney would have you believe; it did cause a momentary panic among Lord Dufferin's suite.

With PETE McGILLEN

RUNNING SORES—For 60 miles the Shenandoah river in Virginia flows toward the Potomac, with no dead fish littering its banks, with no dead aquatic insects, and no dead mollusks on the bottom. This might seem like an idyllic situation on an "industrial" stream, but the simple truth is that there are no more game fish to die, no more living aquatic life, no more mussels or clams. They died long ago. The stream is lifeless. It was killed by a manufacturing plant's waste. One of America's really outstanding small-mouth bass streams, the Shenandoah today is an example of what is happening in the "new" industrial south. It is no longer a lovely recreational stream. It is a conduit for industrial poison. Death to all water life rides the river north to the Potomac where is dumps its load of toxic substances into the larger river, adding to the latter's pollution. . . . This is the way Bill Wolf in Sports Afield tells of the pollution problem in Virginia, but immediately Canadians will say: "That could never happen here".

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

LEGALLY IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE, because under the Dominion Fisheries Act there is a section which makes it illegal to pollute navigable waters. That law has teeth and a minimum penalty of $20 a day for any industry or individual who violates it. Moreover, any citizen can lay the charge, and the Crown must prosecute. Not so long ago, a pulp mill on the Spanish river was dumping chemical waste into the river that killed everything in the water for 20 miles. Resort owners and sportsmen rebelled and carried the fight to the Supreme Court. That problem is now solved, because the industrial heads had to make provision to reclaim that poison, and fish have returned to the river. The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters watched that case. It was a test. It would have been a mean fight if the Federation had had to go into action. Now another problem looms. The problem is at Lindsay where a plant manufacturing meat casings is likely to be built.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

ARE THE MERCHANTS, the resort owners, and the sportsmen going to welcome this industry with open arms? Do they want a repetition of the Spanish river mess right on their doorstep? The company itself has admitted that the effluent which contains sulphuric acid could be treated so that it would be harmless to wildlife and fish, but that they do not wish to go to that expense. That plant did not locate in Kingston because the anglers asked too many questions about the waste that would have been dumped into the Cataraqui river. This effluent according to the city engineer at Kingston will eat through a concrete sewer. What will such waste do the fishing and aquatic life of the Scugog, Sturgeon lake, Pigeon lake and the rest of the entire Kawartha chain? Sulphuric acid waste is a powerful poison, and no glossing or soft-pedalling will make it otherwise. In this matter of protecting the Canadian birthright of fishing, swimming, camping, and the resort business, there are far too many who will fail to take a long-range view and will sacrifice everything for a few quick dollars. It's time the citizens and people in high places realized that the anglers and hunters of Ontario, 100,000 strong, mean business in this anti-pollution drive.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

LET'S QUIT STALLING and talk cold turkey on this pollution question. A manufacturer is charged a heavy fee by the Workmen's Compensation Board because of accidents. So he spends more money and hires experts to cut down the accidents. He spends more to ensure that his workers have good health. But, what happens to the industrial waste? That's simple, just pipe it into the nearest river or stream. It doesn't matter that people have to drink that water, have to bathe in it, have to cut ice in it, that they want to fish, and boat and enjoy holidays on these waters. They don't care if all fish life is destroyed, if property values are wrecked, if men who spent their life savings in building resorts go bankrupt, if the rivers and lakes are ruined for recreational purposes. They don't stop to think that the water system of a community can ruin the health of a community quicker than anything else. In short, they don't think. But that sort of behaviour must stop, and will stop, because it affects the lives and fortunes of too many people.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

WHY CAN'T THAT FIRM dump its industrial waste into an enclosed lagoon, far from any waters such as the Scugog? Why can't this sulphuric acid be reclaimed? Such a chemical is expensive. It won't help the situation any to run such waste into a sewage disposal plant, because the overflow and the liquid from such plants go into the streams anyway. Let the officials concerned in this promotion deal ask a government chemist what one-tenth of one per cent sulphuric acid will do to fish life. Certainly such acid in solution is not as dangerous as when its pure, but it is just as deadly. This is no time for alibis, excuses or double-talk. It is time the citizens generally recognized the threat to their welfare and demanded a straight answer. Either that waste doesn' go ino the river, or else the plant doesn't start operating. Any other arrangement will mean a few extra pay cheques for Lindsay, and a thousand enduring headaches—and enemies.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

WHAT GOOD ARE SKUNKS? one writer asks. The much despised skunk is a valuable customer. During July he is one of the animals that digs out and eats the eggs of the snapping turtle. His fur is valuable too. He eats a great many harmful insects. Yes, sir, this stinker is a good stinker. He rates protection. Besides he will make an awful mess of your car if you run over him, so just curb that desire to kill, and give old whitestripe the right-of-way.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

SO YOU THINK a one dollar rod license in Ontario would be an imposition eh? Listen to this. In Ohio, a native pays $1 for a fishing license, and then there are no fish for him to catch. If he goes camping he pays 50 cents a night for camping at designated spots. If he wants to build a cottage, he must first submit plans to a conservation officer, then spend about $3,000 to build it, then he gets a 17-year lease. He actually doesn't own the cottage at all. If the angler fishes the waters of the Muskinum Watershed, he pays a $2 license for his boat and $3 for his motor if it is over three horse-power. Under that he pays $2. Oh, yes, and if he happens to venture into waters other than on that watershed the motor license is no good. So he pays $3 more. Six horse-power is the maximum motor power allowed in many places. The revenue is used to maintain and restock the waters. On conservation projects it pays salaries, maintenance and other expenses. A Canadian pays no license to fish, no boat license, no motor license, no camping fee, and he buys a chunk of Crown land for a song, and builds his own cottage for less than $1,000. Pity the poor Canadian.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

EVERY NIGHT from June 1 until now, Major Ketcheson has shown conservation pictures at lodges across Ontario. The movies in color and with sound are marvelous. They are prepared and financed by the Carling Conservation Club. Wednesday night I sat on the lawn at South Beach Hotel and along with about 60 others and thoroughly enjoyed them. "Timber of Tomorrow" and "Tackle Smashers" were the best of the four he showed. There was one tracing the life cycle of trout, perch and pike. The powerful microscope used in the film gave some startling and unusual information. Then he showed a bird picture, waterfowl of Ontario, ducks, snipe, cranes and the Canada Goose. The slow motion shows clearly that a duck walks on the water, a ridiculous thing, in taking off. Anyone seeing this for the first time will get a good laugh. What interested me most was the demonstration on how to take a hook out of a bass, without hurting the fish. The secret is to grasp the lower jaw. It is simple and effective. When Gang of Criminals Attempted To Steal Body of Abraham Lincoln

By PETER DAVIS

Just eighty years ago, when the United States were in the throes of a Presidential election, a band of criminals attempted one of the most outrageous crimes in history. It is nearly forgotten today, yet these thugs of an earlier era planned nothing less than to steal the body of Abraham Lincoln. Though the very memory shocks, the body snatchers planned to hide the corpse among a range of lonely sand-dunes on the shores of Lake Michigan, claiming as ransom $250,000 and a convict's freedom.

Big Jim Kenealy was leader of one of the cleverest bands of counterfeiters in the United States. He had waxed rich on home-made dollar bills, coolly defying detection and arrest again and again. When Ben Boyd, the master engraver who manufactured the counterfeit greenbacks for Jim, was caught redhanded by Secret Service men and sentenced to ten years in prison, Big Jim planned to steal the body of Abraham Lincoln ,and trade it on his own terms — for Boyd's freedom.

"We can't even be prosecuted," laughed Big Jim, "for the State of Illinois hasn't a law making it a crime to steal a body."

"What about sacrilege?" nervously asked one of his hencemen, a man named Swegles.

"Just a word!" asserted Big Jim. "Nothing more. Nothing about it in the State law books."

He schemed that the win blowing on the sand-dunes, would soon hide all traces of re-burial. As soon as iLncoln was missed from his tomb the entire nation would be fung into an uproar. Then would be the time to approach the gain. Since no crime was in-Government and drive a hard barvolved in stealing the body, there could be no punishment.

"How will they know you're telling the truth?" asked Swegles. "How will they know you're the actual thief?"

Jim had that worked out, too. Before leaving Chicago on his eerie misison he bought a London newspaper, tore a piece out of it, and stuffed the rest inside a bust of Lincoln that stood in the bar he usually made his headquarters.

"We'll leave the torn piece in the tomb," he explained. "Then we'll produce the rest of the page, and they'll see the piece fit like sections in a jigsaw puzzle."

"True," grumbled Swegles. "But I don't like it. I don't like it at all. It can't be right to disturb Linsoln . . . "

Everything seemed in their favor when they arrived in Springfield. The first election results were beginning to filter through. All the town was agog with excitement as boisterous parties of voters paraded the streets with torches and lanterns, singing and shouting.

Lincoln lay buried deep in the heart of the deserted woods two miles away. Smiling in confidence of his security Big Jim sawed through the padlock on the iron door, and stole into the musty vault

The wooden coffin was pulled half out when Swegles paused in the doorway, and smilingly struck a match to light his cigar The next instant a sudden rush of men swept past him The solitary lantern light went out Men cursed and struggled in the darkness.

Then revolver shots rang out, another and another, until the detectives who had been waiting in the woods in their stockinged feet realized that they were taking pot shots at one another

The conspirators had escaped, but Abraham Lincoln was saved. It took ten days before the gangsters were rounded up in Chicago and jailed — all save Swegles, who had turned informer.

Jim had been right in declaring he could steal Abraham Lincoln without punishment. But he went to jail for conspiring to steal "a coffin worth sixty dollars!"

Bulls Are Old Fashioned On Peterborough Farms

Even bulls are getting old fashioned.

The business about the birds, flowers and bees being what it is, there was a time when every dairy herd owner in Peterborough County had to keep a bull. Not now.

Keeping a herd sire was one thing and getting along on a friendly basis with the animal was another.

Some farmers made it a point of keeping up a friendly conversation whenever they were around the bull.

Others made it a point not to make sudden noises the bull didn't like.

There were still others who looked at the herd sire with a distrustful eye and cursed him roundy.

All methods worked after a feshion.

But every now and again, a bull would kick up a dust and scare his owner out of his wits.

People who got along best with bulls kept them at a distance, treated them with the respect befitting their temperament.

The Maple Cattle Breeders' Association has changed all this.

Operating one of the four artificial breeding stations in Ontario at Maple, the association has made it possible for the average dairyman to discard the bull or trade him in for a membership in the association.

Insofar as the association is concerned bulls have no trade-in value for a membership. But the price of beef being what it is, the average bull who knows anything at all knows his days are numbered when he sees his owner sign one of those application blanks for membership in the breeders' association.

Establishment of the station is the result of an economy move to cut dairy production costs.

Without speaking of the bother of having a bull, farmers find that they also don't have to feed a bull if they don't need one.

Secondly, bulls, good ones, come high these days, the bull market being definitely bullish.

A membership in the association eliminates investing in a bull every three or four years.

All the sires at the station have good breeding, come from families of high producers — in fact, are better than the bulls the average dairyman could afford and would pay for.

At the same time as Peterborough County dairymen are saving money by not keeping a bull they are upgrading their herds through the use of better sires—without having to buy one.

Petes Turn Back Huntsville By 18-7 Count In OLA Fray

The Petes coasted to an 18-7 OLA Senior "B" lacrosse win here last night before a fair-sized crowd, the Huntsville squad being short on reserves. After the close 4-3 first quarter, the locals took command for a 3-1 second-inning margin, making it 14-5 going into the fourth heat. Play was fairly fast for the hot weather and generally clean with few penalties handed out. The win gave the Petes a firmer grip on top spot, while Huntsville remain in fourth place in the standing.

Emmett Creighton, Terry Gordon and Jack Foote paced the Petes' attack with four points each, while Mick Magee, Dootch Vitarelli and Bob Breakspear were in on three each. Red Creighton turned in a good chore in goal. All the team went well, though not extended too much. For the visitors, Middleton was good throughout and Millest and Bond showed smart work in spots. At full strength, the visitors would have made it much closer.

The teams:

Huntsville: Goal, Tunney; defence, R. Gordon and Jennings; centre, Millest; wings, Scriver and Middleton; rover, Watt; alternates, Bond, Booth, Blackburn, Ward.

Petes: Goal, R. Creighton; defence, Magee and Chute; centre, E. Creighton; wings, Dugan and Foote; rover, R. Breakspear; alternates, Horton, L. Vitarelli, D. Vitarelli, Smith, Gordon, Connelly and J. Breakspear.

Referees—D. Wilson and T. Hewitt.

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A puck item dropped into yesterday's humidity from up Lindsay way. Rather interesting, too, as it stated that chances are good that a Torono senior "B" club will operate in Lindsay this winter, and that there is little chance the local Legionnaires will play "home" games there. Cy Withers, Glen Carson and Ned Vitarelli had checked with Lindsay but declined any nights but Fridays for their games, saying that Omemee officials had already offered them that arena for "home" games. Where does that leave the Petes, or does Omemee want both local senior "B" clubs operating there? And what teams will be playing in the local Civic Arena? Hmm....

Comes a letter from Fred Dufton of Cobourg, moving force for years behind the Galloping Ghosts of grid fame. He says: "When I think of all the time and energy put into the building of the Ghosts—the $10,000 spent by the Kiwanis Club in building us a playing field and the $5,000 of equipment bought by the club—I feel very bitter. We tried to add a little color wherever we played. Dressed our team in big league style and when 'they' could not beat us on the field, they did it in the committee room. You always treated us fairly in your paper and here's wishing you the best." Yeah, our sympathy is with Cobourg in this case and we trust the ORFU permits them to use imports again.

Kingston Plays B-A

Weather being right, the Kingston vs. B-A game at 8.15 tonight in the Bowl d'Ashburnham should draw well. It's the second game of their best-of-three OASA intermediate "A" playdowns, B-A winning the opener in the Limestone City on Thursday. Either Ron Akers or Bob Strickland will get the mound call for Johnny Russelle's classy crew and they could wind up the series if they turn it on this time. If a third is necessary, they'll either toss for it or come to a financial agreement and play here or in Kingston. Legion doesn't go into senior "B" playdowns till the end of next week, meeting Oshawa in the first round.

Young Motors of Toronto tangle with our Westclox girls at two this aft in the Bowl, and again at six tonight there, if a third game is necessary. Clockers yanked out a 3-1 verdict in the opener of their two-in-three PWSU intermediate "A" playdowns up Toronto way a few nights back, and hope to sweep it in two straight. But they'll have to be in top form as Young Motors of Sunnyside have oodles of class. Norma Kennedy had to be at her best to win the first fray. It is almost sure to be a swell struggle and rates a big crowd of softball fans.

A Coe Hill Mosquito

This from Belleville: "Unfortunately for the Shoemen, Gordie Muffitt, their ace pitcher, will not be available for the semi-final COBL series. Since he suffered a compound fracture of the jaw while at work, he has been forced to rest and at present is in Coe Hill recuperating. His fractures were getting along favorably until the other day when a pesky mosquito caused him to sneeze and he fractured a blood vessel in the jaw. Which did not help the injury nor Gordie's temper. According to Manager Easton, Muffitt will definitely be out for another two weeks at least. He is chafing under the forced idleness and anxious to get back in baseball harness. Oh, well, he'll be ready, it is hoped, when those pesky Petes line up in the next victim role, say the Batawa fans."

Oshawa Hunters came back to tie up their Lakeshore Junior Baseball League two-in-three finals at a game each, by beating Kiwanis 9-5 at Riverside last p.m. Art Pagett's pack had won 2-1 in the Motor City, and the deciding game will be staged there Monday. A good-sized crowd saw an interesting game, the proceeds going to Wimp Borland, Kiwanis' third-sacker who suffered a broken leg recently in a game. A seven-run outbreak for Oshawa in the second stanza pretty well settled matters, but it was a good contest otherwise. Stewart led the hitters for the locals with three for four, and two home twirlers saw action before it was over.

Scarboro Grads Here

Scarboro lacrossers play the Petes here Monday night at nine in Miller Bowl, it being a "home" game for the Grads. The Petes entertained Huntsville at the Bowl last night, though "entertained" may not be the right word—since they slipped Huntsville the sour side of an 18-7 count. The visitors were minus several subs and the Petes didn't have too much work on a hot evening to yank out the decision comfortably. A fair-sized crowd and not a bad game, clean and pretty fast. Scoring honors well spread around among E. Creighton, Foote, Gordon, Bob Breakspear, Dootch Vitarelli and Magee. And Red was okay in goal. Terry won the hat.

Oshawa Sews Up Series With Kiwanis

By FRED MAYBEE

Oshawa Hunters evened the count with Kiwanis at Riverside last evening to the tune of 9-5, after losing the opener of a best-of-three junior seriees in Oshawa Tueseday, by 2-1.

Ding Gavis went the route for Hunters as his mates cut loose with a seven-run rally in the second to give him a comfortable lead. Jake Jaquith started for Kiwanis, yielded to Wade in the second and was charged with the defeat as Kiwanis made a futile effort to overcome the deficit.

Bunny Maison led the attack with a triple to drive in three while Hanna and Bond each had two for four. For Kiwanis, Stewart made three hits and drove in two runs, while Floyd had two for four. Pagett fielded well at short handling 11 chances with only one error while Wade turned in a nice effort after relieving Jaquith.

Peterborough's Jack Sisson Argonaut Prospect

BY JACK MITCHELL

TORONTO, Aug 28 —(CP)— New strenght down the middle gives coach Tedder Morris one of the best-balanced Argonaut squads, on paper of post-war years and makes the big Toronto team again the club to beat for their fourth straight Dominion Football Championship.

The Argos open their big four schedule in Toronto Sept. 4 with their first team lineup virtually unchanged from the team that copped the Grey Cup again last year. That means Joe Krol and Royal Copeland are back.

Doug Cook, a husky centre, comes from all-star status with University of Western Ontario via Saskatchewan Roughriders for one season. Spelling Doug Turner, he'll give the Argos two of the ruggedest secondary-defence experts in the game.

In Frankie Dunlap, Morris feels he's finally found the rugged quarterback he wants. That's no reflection on such good little men as Fred Dotty and Red Camilleri, both back doing busiess at the same old stand. But Dunlap is a good big man—all 195 pounds of him.

The U.S. import threatening Argos All-Canadian tradition is Ken Whitlock, 175-pound speedy back who played four years with Virginia State and was also on the colored All-American team. He boots 70-yard punts in practice—nearly a match for Krol—but it depends what he does in the heavy pads.

First Line Intact

The first-string Argo line is back intact. Flanking Turner, the six-foot-two centre, are insides Frankie Morris, 230 pounds, and Bill (socker) Zock 225 along with middles Les Ascott, 238, and Steve (assistant coach) Levantis, 215. At outsides are Len Cassidy, Jack Wedley, Pete Titanic and Frank Hickey.

Besides Krol and Whitlock, Morris thinks he has acquired another long-distance hoofer in Sonny Colvin of London, Ont., who shone in four games with Hamilton Tigers two seasons ago.

Other backfield prospects include Billy Myers, the scat-back who played with Toronto Balmy Beach last season after two years with Argo champions; Stocky Billy Haddleton; Jack Sission from Peterborough, and Bee Lively, a 20-year-old school teacher from Sault Ste. Marie.

Lacrosse Schedule

Jack Foote announces the daytime lacrosse schedule for next week at Miller Bowl. Two games will be played Monday morning, opening at 10: Rockets vs Spitfires and Buffalos vs. Cherney's. Juveniles go at one, Clapper's drill at two, Kiwanis workout at three, and four o'clock is open. Peewee all-stars drill Tuesday at 10, followed by Americans. One is for Juveniles, two for a Legion drill, three for Cavanagh's and four for juveniles.

Two games Wednesday, opening at 10: Rockets vs, Spitfires, and Buffalos vs. Cherney's Juveniles go at one, peewee all-stars drill at two, Clapper's at three, and four is open for midgets. On Thursday, peewee all-stars practise at 10, Queen's at 11, juveniles at one, Kiwanis at two, three is open, and four is for juveniles. Rockets play Spitfires at 10 a. m. Friday, if necessary, and Buffalos meet Cherney's at 11, if necessary. Juveniles have it at one, peewee all-stars at two, three is open and bantams have the place at four. Rockets and Spitfires meet at 10 Saturday morning, if necessary, and 11 is open for the midgets.

Grace Lenczyk Heavy Favorite

RIVERSIDE GOLF CLUB, Saint John, N.B., Aug. 28—(CP)—The Canadian ladies' open golf title was bound south of the border today as two Americans, including the defending champion, prepared to tee off in a 36-hole final.

Miss Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., who won the championship at Toronto last year with a 12 and 11 victory over Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen of Toronto, was top-heavy favorite to defeat Mrs. Eddie Bush of Wilmington, Del.

The 21-year-old Connecticut girl stroked her way to an emphatic 7 and 6 victory over Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto in the 18-hole semi-final Friday. Her booming drives and precision putting were just too much for the Toronto player, five times holder of the title, who failed to win a hole.

Dieppe Most Important Raid In Last War, Mountbatten Says

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Aug. 28—(CP).—Earl Mountbatten of Burma, the man who conceived the Dieppe raid by the Canadians in August, 1942, said it was "probably the most important raid" and "one of the most vital operations" of the Second World War. The former chief of combined operations told members of the parliamentary press gallery Tuesday: "If I had the same decision to make again I would do as I did before."

He put the conference off-record until a speech in Toronto today on the subject. It was his first public statement on one of the most controversial actions of the war.

The Earl said the lessons learned in the assault had 'profound effects" on later conduct of the war and listed these:

1. They demonstrated the necessity of an artificial port—Mulberry—and probably ensured the success of the D-Day landings to two years later.

2. They immediately became what Field Marshal Alexander, now Governor - General, called "the bible" of assaults operations in the Mediterranean.

3. They, conversely, fooled the Germans 'utterly and completely" into concentration of their defences on the ports and laid the beaches relatively open for the D-Day attack.

Changes Mind

The Earl said he had had no intention of speaking of the raid in his first post-war visit to Canada. This feeling was based on the desire not to reopen controversy. He had changed it after a talk with the Governor-General—and after being faced with the request to make five speeches in two days in Toronto.

Dieppe was the port chosen for an experimental assault. The Canadian second division was the force selected, not because he picked it but because Gen. McNaughton, then Canadian overseas chief, asked for the job.

"If there had been no Canadian Dieppe," the Earl said, "there would have had to be a raid at some other port by some other force."

The plan called for six hours ashore and then withdrawal. For both political and military reasons, there was no preliminary or coincident heavy bomber or heavy sea assault. The British government did not wish to kill hundreds of French persons and destroy a city when there was no intention of staying. The army did not wish rubble and shell-holes to thwart its tanks.

The results, the Earl said, indicated the Allies couldn't count on a port within four days. Cherbourg later corroborated this. They also indicated the necessity of an artificial port. Some planners scoffed at this, but Winston Churchill—"essentially a schoolboy at heart"—was intrigued. The floating prefabricated harbor of Mulberry was the upshot.

If, without the knowledge of Dieppe, the 1944 landings had gambled on a port, there could well have been disaster.

The Earl said he assumed entire responsibility for the raid. He felt its casualties—3,350 men killed, wounded or missing of 5,000—were in the costly tradition of all such raids and that they were justified by their contributions to victory.

Later study showed that the Germans concluded they should concentrate on defence of their ports in the belief that a beach landing could eventually be destroyed if it lacked a harbor. They would have been eminently correct if there had been no Mulberry.

The Stars Say

By Geneviève Kemble

For Sunday, August 29

Sunday's horoscope hints of peculiar adventures or contacts, of a reactionary or disturbing nature, probably conducive to restlessness, strange urges or eccentricities. These may incite to travel, change or estrangements. Offsetting this the mind is bent toward reflection, serious insight and a sound analysis of the unsettling conditions. With composure and refraining from impulsive moves all may be well.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a rather strange period in which a strong inner urge to make radical changes, with possible estrangements or separations, may be happily adjusted by serious reflection, or a deep analysis of underlying circumstances. There will be an indefinable drive for action, but such should be calmy evaluated as to pros and cons before final decisions are made.

A child born on this day may want frequent change and adventure, because of restlessness and emotional urges. Its impulsive nature could be sucessfully stabilized by pause to reflect on consequences.

For Monday, August 30

Monday's astrological forecast is for a show of resistance to static or congested conditions, in which important ambitions or objectives have been held up. With a determined effort, concentrated energies and a drawing on reserve forces, much progress is in sight. However, it might be easy to complicate matters by resort to some forms of expediency or crafty manipulation of under cover opportunities. Danger may be averted by sound tactics and straight forward conduct.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find opportunity to break up stagnant and congested situations, by a resort to reserve forces and the straight forward management of peculiar or involved circumstances. Connivance, dangerous strategies or duplicity could add to complications and thus forfeit collaboration from high places. Study cautiously, plumb the depths, then move with precision and force to progress and important objectives.

A child born on this day is possessed of exceptional force, determination, and constructive ability, but a tendency to the subtle, craft or underhand could weaken its support from influential places.

Too Friendly, He Says

VICTORIA, B.C. — (CP). — Victoria people are too friendly, says Robert Dickson, blind operator of a news kiosk beside the public library. Victorians give his guide dog too much attention when she is leading him along the streets, he complains. Everyone, it seems, wants to pet her.

VIVIEN KELLEMS, WHO broke into print a few years ago when she refused to make income (withholding) tax deductions from her employees' pay cheques, is shown with Assistant Foreman Morris Tepper as they checked a cable grip in her Saugatuck, Conn., factory. She has factories in the Saugatuck-Westport area. The town of Westport won a major victory this week in its long battle to oust her and her Cable Grip Manufacturing Co., from the zoned business area. She has been enjoined from continuing operations after Dec. 1, 1948, under penalty of a $5,000 fine. Mrs. Kellems recalled her income tax ba battle and linked the two legal fights as an "odd coincidence" regarding the timing. She charges "gestapo tactics."

Ananias, Disciple of Damascus

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 9:1-22.

Saul who had persecuted the Christians and seen Stephen stoned to death, went to the high priest and asked him for letters to Damascus, permitting him to hunt all Christians there and bring them bound to Jerusalem.

Saul started on his journey to Damascus with a retinue, but on the way a blinding light fell on him which caused Saul to fall from his horse, and a voice said, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"

Saul was told to go to the city and he would be told what next he must do. He was blind, so was led into Damascus and a disciple there, named Ananias, was told in a vision from God to seek him out.

When Ananias came into the room where Saul was, he laid his hands on him and said, "Brother Saul, the Lord hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight," and Saul saw.

MEMORY VERSE—Luke 10:27.

Ananias Defined As Man Who Did As He Was Told

BY NEWMAN CAMPBELL

When we see or hear the name Ananias we immediately think of the Bibical character who sold a piece of land, then lied to God and the church about the price he was paid for it—thus giving his name to liars of all succeeding years. He was the husbands of Sapphira, as related in Acts 5: 1-7.

It is unfortunate that we associate this name with the man who was untruthful, because there is another Ananias also in the Book of Acts who was a devout disciple, who obeyed the Lord's voice implicitly, even when he was very much prejudiced against the man God commanded him to help.

Ananias of Damascus is the hero of this lesson so we will only briefly relate the circumstances that brought him to our notice and which concern Saul who afterwards became Paul, the apostle, and one of the really great leaders of the early Christian church.

Saul (as Paul was then called), educated strictly in the formal Jewish religion and a Pharisee, was filled with hatred of this new sect called Christianity. He saw Stephen, the first martyr, cruelly stoned to death, and approved the deed.

Filled with fury at the new religion which threatened the old Jewish traditions, Saul went to the high priest and asked for a letter to the synagogue at Damascus, giving him authority to arrest all Christians he could find there, and bring them bound to Jerusalem.

However, on his way, with his escorts, Paul was suddenly blinded by a great light, while a voice said, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?" Saul, who had fallen from his horse, said, "Who art thou, Lord," and the voice answered, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest."

Trembling with fear and astonishment, Saul asked what the Lord wanted him to do, and the answer was that he was to proceed to Damascus, and there he would be told what next to do.

The great light, however, had blinded Saul, and those with him had to lead him by the hand to the city of Damascus, where he was lodged in the street called Straight, in the house of one named Judas.

For three days Saul saw no one, neither did he eat or sleep. In the meantime, in the home of Ananias, came a vision in the night, calling him by name.

Recognizing that the voice was the Lord's, Ananias said, "Behold, I am here," and was then told that on the morrow he should go to a certain house in the street called Straight, where he would find Saul, who would be expecting him.

Ananias was to lay his hands on this man and restore to him his sight. Ananias had heard all about Saul and his reputation as a persecutor of Churst's followers, and he said so, but the Lord answered that this same man had been chosen by Him "to bear My name before the Gentiles and kings, and the children of Israel."

It never entered Ananias' head to disobey the Lord and His command so he went to the house of Judas in the street called Straight.

He entered the room where Saul was, and said: "Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou comest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with Holy Ghost."

As the good man spoke, the scales fell from Saul's eyes; he saw and was straightway baptized.

Saul was not the man to do things by halves.

Convinced of the error of his ways, he immediately put all the energy of his nature into the cause of Christ, and became as zealous in His cause as he had been heretofore in persecuting His followers.

His obedience to the Holy voice, although Ananias probably did not realize it at the time, was to result in one of the greatest blessings that ever came to the church.

In our homes today the children who are taught to obey are best fitted for life when they reach adulthood. Even their physical safety often depends upon this habit of obedience.

How much woe are they spared as they go through life when their spiritual and moral natures are enable to resist temptation through obedience to that "still, small voice within" which is called conscience, which warns them of evil.

Canadians Lack "Dish"

CALGARY, Aug. 28—(CP)—Canada's home economists are on record, unofficially, as feeling Canadians don't care too much where or what they eat.

Still enveloped in the convention spirit prevailing since the four-day fifth biennial convention of the Canadian Home Economics' Association began Monday, the 200 delegates spread homewards today.

But they had indicated off the record that Canada has no national dish, although with the best raw materials in the world she may soon; Canadians don't demand original food: Canadians sometimes don't care whether the food they eat is sanitary.

"Outside of Quebec's pea soup," said a delegate, "we haven't any national dish."

"And Western Canada appears far less discriminatory in good food than the East," commented a confirmed Westerner sadly.

But she hastened to add Alberta had the best beef in the world—the piece de resistance at the closing banquet—even if it sometimes lacked trimming.

Polynesian Paradise

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Aug. 28—(CP)—Hopes of world-weary persons seeking solace from civilization in Samoa are blasted.

The United States government Thursday informed those seeking escape to the Polynesian paradise that unless one is married to a Samoan the chances of obtaining one-way passage there are practically nil.

The applications for passage started to flow in four weeks ago when the United States delegation to the United Nations described the islands in a regular report before the UN Trusteeship Council.

Several applicants for passage were attracted by the description of living lazily off nature, $5 income taxes and few radios.

The United States Navy Department explained that the ban was to ensure preservation of the simple, primitive beauty of Samoa.

Doctors Making Survey To Trace Polio

As part of the concerted effort to make some headway in the fight against polio, doctors of the provincial department of health recently made a survey of the village of Lakefield. Six cases of the disease have been reported there this year, and another child outside the village was stricken last week. There has been one death from the seven cases.

The survey of the provincial investigators included close examination of the home life and activities of the people who have been taken with infantile paralysis.

The reason for this study, which will be fully explored in provincial laboratories, is to find something in common with the cases. For this reason, the movements of the people before getting sick, their food, water supply, activities in groups, are all carefully checked.

Somewhere and somehow the researchers hope to find a common factor in all the cases which can lead to its eventual control. Although there are many theories about the disease, there is no conclusive evidence as to how it strikes.

As yet, no report has been received by Lakefield authorities from the investigators. It is not known whether their findings will be reported directly to the village or will be integrated into the province's research planning.

Dr. Patricia Armstrong of the Ontario Dept. of Health is still in the district continuing investigations.

One of the methods being used in the checking is the trapping of flies. These will be examined in a laboratory.

The piano was in the old barn at the Sedgwick House which has recently been converted into a dance hall. Provincial Constable A. Former Canadian Suggests Boosting Trent Waterway

Canada is mis-spending at least a part of the money used for tourist advertising, Victor van der Linde of New York claims. Mr. van der Linde was born here, the son of the first general manager of the old Edison Company. On Friday he arrived in a 40-foot cabin cruiser, and tied up at George St. Wharf.

"Too much money is spent unwisely at sportsmen's shows trying to bring tourists to this country. One thing that would help this province, and this city particularly, would be to proclaim the beauties of the Trent Waterway. Divert some of the tourist advertising money to yachting magazines. You could get 25 to 30 yachts through here each day."

Then Mr. van der Linde went on to add conditions to his statement: "But you need: fresh water at all stopovers; 110 volts electrical outlets spaced at intervals on wharves; white gas with no lead in it at each wharf; buoys painted white instead of black painted white instead of black; the stakes of buoys made with conical tops; the markers numbered, and on open stretches of water markers or targets by which you could set your course."

"Perhaps the most crying need is for good charts. The ones handed out at present are no better than road maps. On these charts should be marked each buoy, light and target. And for the lakes that have wide streches of open water such as Lake Simcoe, there should be the large can-tpye buoys with lights for night navigation. Moreover, every buoy should be numbered, and marked as such on the charts."

Mr. van der Linde suggested that a colour movie be taken of the entire Trent system and that it be made available for any yacht clubs wishing copies. This, he said, would be the best way of advertising the beauty of the waterway.

Mr. van der Linde said there was no malice in his suggestions, but that as a former Canadian he wanted to help out. He has travelled the Trent system from Trenton to the Sault and is on his way back again. He said he was so impressed with the beauty of the waterway that he thought if most of his suggestions were carried out, many thousands of American dollars would be brought into the country that would not come otherwise.

WHOSE CRAZY?

Whenever the weather becomes too sticky and hot some youngster invariably makes the news by doing a Godiva, minus the horse, of course. Yesterday a passing motorist noticed a toddler emerge from a laneway on Charlotte St. clad only in a pair of shoes. But his choice of a friend was not particularly wise; he started running after a policeman. The motorist was so curious to learn the last chapter of this little drama that he phoned into the Examiner to find out if anybody else had reported it. D. W.

DUTCH WERE FIRST

The Dutch, seeking a half-way point to India, colonized the Cape of Good Hope and pressed north from there to found an empire.

SUFFERING FROM HEAT is only mental, say some people; perhaps they are right, at least Douglas Nesbitt could be of this school of thought. He was pictured at noon on Friday in the hot cow barns at the Peterborough Agricultural Exhibition, snatching more than forty winks on soft piles of baled hay.

Week-end To Be Sizzler Weatherman Says Overnight Rain Too Light

Continuous lightning for more than three hours Friday night threatened a storm, but little damage was done, and a report from Bancroft indicates that the storm did no damage there, although it seemed to pass well north of Peterborough. A brief downpour at 11 p.m. soaked the Exhibition crowd: the first showing of non-co-operation by the weatherman. Another shower came at 2 a.m. today, but it lasted for only ten or fifteen minutes.

Two factories closed early on Friday, the Westclox shutting down at 3 p.m. and the Outboard Marine at 4 p.m. The city pumphouse, in a record-breaking mood, shattered its record of 6,425,000 gallons pumped on Thursday with a total of 6,505,000 for Friday.

With the mercury well over 90 degrees for the past three days, people expected some sort of release, and even the weathermen predicted at the beginning of the heat wave that it might be finished before the week-end was over. But they changed their minds. Now, they say, we'll be lucky if it's over by Monday.

The operating figures are of some interest to Peterborough in the recent discussions between the council and Frank Mitchell leading to a recommendation soon to come before the council.

Scout Movement Vital Need, Says Gen. Spry

The Scout movement exists mainly to produce such citizens as we have in Canada to-day, said Major-General D. C. Spry, CBE, DSO, Chief Executive Commissioner of the Canadian Boy Scout Association at a banquet Friday night at the Empress Hotel. Present were 40 members of the local Scout Association, F. C. Irwin, Provincial Executive Commissioner, and Arthur Jackson, Executive Field Commissioner for Canada.

"There are subversive forces seeking to make our boys another kind of citizen . . . if our leaders are not trained sufficiently well, they will no have control over the lads in their charge, and those lads may well go astray," said Gen. Spry.

The need for Scouting is greater now than in the past 15 or 20 years, Gen. Spry said, and any donations made now to the Boy Scouts of Canada are insurance that our way of life remains. Gen. Spry warned his listeners that they must stop playing ostrich and face certain problems realistically.

Gen. Spry spoke also of recent reorganization in Dominion headquarters and the development of Canada-wide Scouting. He announced that the first Canadian national jamboree would be held near Ottawa near the end of July, 1949.

During the past two months, Gen. Spry has travelled out to the West Coast and back, visiting the various Scout groups throughout the country, clocking more than 8,000 miles on his trio. In the past 18 months, he estimated that he has travelled 50,000 miles.

An outline of a more widespread Gilwell course for leaders was presened by Gen. Spry, who said that in every district association there are leaders who are inadequate. He mentioned that too many troops spnd all their time in a church basement, seldom getting out for field trips.

Throughout his speech, he emphasized the need for more rugged Scout work, and suggested more outdoor Scouting in winter. He said that Scouting and other boys' work had only scratched the surface of the available Canadian youth, and that there was room in the movement for every boy.

Gen. Spry was introduced by Provincial Commissioner Irwin, and thanked by B. I. Burgess, the president of the Peterborough Association.

Petrillo make his ban on United States recordings stick.

He won the Joe Wright Trophy by his victory. Joe Platt of Toronto Dons was second, a length and a half behind. In third place was R. Williams, of Hamilton Leanders. Sulger pulled up in fourth place.

H. G. Macdonnell, president of the Ontario Football Rugby Football Union's junior section, announced Friday at Kitchener that post-season playoff dates are advanced a month to clear the decks for Dominion junior championships.

He said the East-West junior final, not played officially since before the war, will be staged in Eastern Canada Nov. 20.

Plans to put Guelph back in the forefront in Ontario senior baseball in 1949 are already under way after a season which saw Guelph Maple Leafs finish in sixth spot of the Inter-County League. Johnny Mitchell, manager of Pittsburgh Hornets hockey club, and a former Guelph resident, is reported to be interested in putting his hometown back on the baseball map.

The United States Davis Cup four-man team, with half of it ousting Colin Long and Geoff Brown, the Australian international tandem, reached the final round of the United States men's doubles tennis tournament Friday at Brookline, Mass.

Long and Brown, who are expected to play challenge round doubles at Forest Hills, N.Y., next week, bowed to Ted Schroeder and Frank Parker 15-13, 6-2, 6-3. Gardner Mulloy and Bill Talbert beat Tom Brown and Irvin Dorfman in an all-American match 3-6, 9-7, 6-4, 13-11.

More than 100 yachts are expected to compete in the 10th annual International Regatta to be held over the Buffalo Canoe Club course near Port Albino, Ont., Sept. 7-11. The six-man British team Friday won the International Wakefield Trophy model airplane competition at Akron, O., airport, defeating entries from five other countries. New Zealand was second, the United States third, Canada fourth, Belgium fifth and Australia sixth.

Mallette Hurls Newark To 5-2 Triumph

By The Associated Press

Mal Mallette, 25-year-old left-hander of Newark Bears once again is being hailed as one of the most promising pitchers in the New York farm system.

He made his first start of the season for the Bears last Tuesday and pitched them to a 3-1 one-hit victory over the league-leading Montreal Royals.

Friday night he came up with another brilliant showing, hurling the Bears to a 5-2 two-hit victory over Buffalo Bisons in the first game of a doubleheader.

Mallette had a no-hitter going into the seventh and final inning but Cy Block broke up his bid with a two-run double.

The Bisons came back and trounced the Bears 14-2 in the final to end a nine game losing streak.

Stretch Winnings

Jersey City's Giants stretched their winning streak to seven games as Sam Webb pitched the Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Royals.

Toronto's Maple Leafs strengthened their grip on third place by knocking off the Syracuse Chiefs 5-3, while the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings divided a doubleheader with the last-place Baltimore Orioles.

After George Anderman pitched the Orioles to a 2-1 victory, Bill Reeder hurled the Wings to a 5-0 three-hit triumph in the nightcap.

Puddinhead Jones' three-run homer in the third provided the winning run at Toronto. Starter John Hetki held the Leafs hitless for the first two innings. Then four tallies put the Toronto team ahead for the rest of the game.

Oscar Judd kept the Chiefs from scoring for five innings, then was knocked out in the sixth. Big Jim Konstanty took over.

Giantkiller Schmitz Blanks Braves, As Brooklyn Wins

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Schmitz, brilliant southpaw of the Cubs, is rapidly gaining recognition as a "giant-killer."

Although the Cubs are going nowhere, Schmitz is taking delight in knocking off the top teams contending for the National League pennant.

Friday he added the first-place Braves to his imposing collection, blanking the Southworth crew 1-0 at Chicago on six hits to post his 15th victory of the year as against 10 setbacks.

The setback was the Braves' third in a row at the hands of the Cubs and it sliced their margin to two games over the Dodgers and Cardinals.

Brooklyn turned back the Reds 3-2 in a night game at Cincinnati to take over the second slot from the Red Birds by two percentage points. The Cards' scheduled night game with the Giants in St. Louis was postponed because of rain.

Break Tie

The Dodgers, who collected only three hits off Johnny Vander Meer, Harry Gumbert and Ewell Blackwell, broke a scoreless tie in the seventh inning, counting twice without collecting a hit.

The fourth-place Pirates climbed within 3½ games of the Braves, beating Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in a night game at Pittsburgh on relief pitcher Kirby Higbe's ninth-inning homer.

Meanwhile, Boston Red Sox moved a game ahead of Cleveland Indians in the stirring battle for the American-league pennant.

The Red Sox, sparked by Ted Williams and Dom DiMaggio, crushed the last-place Chicago White Sox 10-5 in Boston while the runner-up Indians divided a doubleheader with the third-place Yankees in New York.

Williams drove in four runs on his 22nd homer and a double and DiMaggio knocked home two and scored three on four singles.

After Bob Feller pitched the Indians to an 8-1 six-hit triumph in the first game the Yanks came back and took the nightcap 7-2, behind Allie Reynolds.

13th Triumph

Ken Keltner and Lou Boudreau homered for Cleveland and Joe DiMaggio for the Yanks. It was Feller's 13th triumph of the year.

Philadelphia's fourth-place Athletics moved back into the pennant picture by taking a twilight-night doubleheader from St. Louis Browns, 6-0 and 9-1 at Philadelphia. The A's are only three games off the pace.

Hank Majeski was the big gun in the Athletic attack. He slammed three doubles and a single in the first game and clouted three more two-baggers in the nightcap.

Detroit Tigers nosed out the Senators 3-2 in a day game at Washington. The Tigers tallied all of their runs in the eighth inning.

Ship Shortage Ups Air Travel In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Aug. 00.—(CP).—Shortage of passenger ships owing to wartime losses, slowness in reconversion and shipping accidents, have caused a remarkable boom in post-war aviation in New Zealand.

Before the war New Zealand had rapid and regular communication with Australia by a fleet of fast modern liners. The holder of the Tasman Sea blue ribbon, the Awatea, was sunk during the war. Other vessels are still being reconverted for civilian use. The only remaining liner, the Wanganella, struck a reef on her first voyage after being put back into service and has been laid up for repairs for over a year.

For varying periods relief vessels have been used, as well as occasional liners crossing the Tasman in the course of longer voyages, but nearly three years after the end of the war there is still no regular sea link for passengers between the two Dominions which are so closely bound together that a considerable proportion of their people regularly interchange visits for both business and pleasure.

The result has been an enormous growth in the demand for air passages which for the time being have become the normal means of travel between the two countries. Daily flying boat service both ways across the Tasman have had to be supplemented by regular flights by land planes.

Dormitories Only

A somewhat similar position exists on the Pacific between New Zealand and the United States and Canada. Of the luxury liners which connected New Zealand with the United States before the war only one has resumed service. An emergency service has been maintained at infrequent intervals by liners with only dormitory accommodation.

As on the Tasman Sea, air travel has received a great impetus through the lack of shipping services. The Pan-American Airways service between New Zealand and the United States and the British Pacific Airways Corporations service to Canada have received a flying start to their post-war operatons.

At the same time New Zealand has created an air network covering a large number of the island groups in the South Pacific. Some of these islands in the past were visited only at long intervals by steamer after a round-about voyage. Air services have brought them within hours of New Zealand and have tightened their ties with the Dominion.

Geographical reasons have greatly aided the growth of internal air services in New Zealand. To travel from Auckland, the largest city, which is in the North Island, to any of the main South Island centres, requires a lengthy and tiring journey by train, boat and again by train. At least two nights must be spent on the journey and a long wait is sometimes necessary for connections. Air travel makes it possible to leave Auckland after breakfast and be in the far south well before dinner the same day.

HOME OF PROPHET

The prophet Mohammed was born in Mecca, Arabia, in 570 A.D.

IMMOBILIZED FOR SEVERAL weeks with a broken ankle, Ed Stanky, second baseman of the Boston Braves, is shown back in uniform as he limbered up. He is expected to be back in the lineup in the very near future as the injured ankle seems to be strong as ever. That's it supporting his whole weight.

Kennedy Quote Given Wrongly

HAMILTON, Aug. 28.—(CP).—T. H. Ward, managing secretary of the Hamilton Milk Distributors' Association, brought attention today to what he claimed was "an erroneous quotation supposedly from the provincial minister of agriculture.".

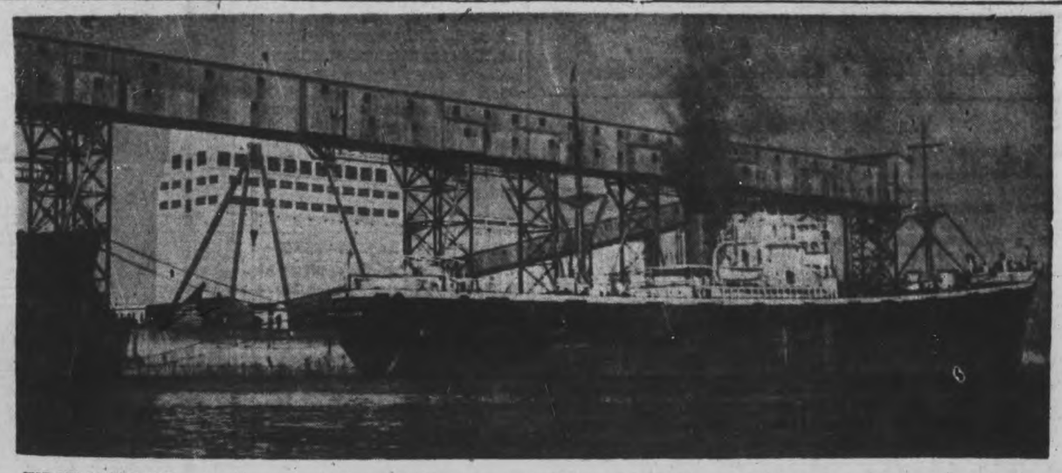
In the report from Toronto, the minister was said to have made clear that "after Nov. 1, the retail price of milk in Ontario will be established by competition on the open market." This was because the controls on the retail price of milk would be removed on that date.

"This is definitely not so according to the facts," Mr. Ward said, "and we want the public to know and understand that there has been no controls on the consumer price of milk for many months. So, how could there be decontrol of milk on Nov. 1 as said by the minister. Controls were removed months ago."

However, Mr. Ward pointed out, though there was no controls on the consumer price of milk, there was definitely a control on the price the dairies had to pay farmers. The current price in Hamilton is $4.05 a hundredweight, awarded to the farmers by a board of arbitration.

Set Building Record

LONDON, (CP) A post-war record of more than 21,000 permanent houses were built in Britain during June, it was announced recently. At the present rate of building about 1,000 families are being rehoused every working day. Between the end of the war and June of this year, 729,000 permanent and 'emporary houses were completed.



FIRST SHIPS TO enter the port of Churchill, Man., were the Great City and the North Anglia, both of British registry, as navigation began on the Hudson Bay route. The North Anglia carried a miscellaneous cargo of automobiles, glass, chinaware, linoleum, and heavy machinery for delivery to various points across the prairie provinces. Here is a general view of the wharf and huge government grain elevator, which stores 2,500,000 bushels.

THE FLIGHT OF TIME

Has often been symbolized by an hourglass, sometimes winged, carved in low or high relief on memorials. Hourglasses are of great antiquity, having been used much in churches during the 16th and 17th centuries. Timepieces such as the hourglass have been used throughout history as the symbols of human mortality.

CANADIAN BULWARKS OF DEMOCRACY

Right of Petition . . .

"Government, itself, is not above the law . . . to no man, to no groups of men can be denied that ultimate safeguard of the citizens' rights . . . the right of petition and appeal."

The right of citizens to petition their government . . . to be accorded a hearing . . . to redress a grievance was recognized in 1215, in the Great Charter. Full acceptance of this right was not granted until the famous "Case of the Bishops" in 1688. These fighters for the rights of man were arrested, tried for sedition, acquitted. The "Crime": They dared protest to King James the II. In the Bill of Rights, 1689, was written that fundamental to which democracy owes so much: "It is the right of subjects to petition the King" . . . in theory, we petition the King through the Governor-General; in actuality, we petition our elected government.

Let us take a good, hard look at the differences between a dictatorship and our democracy: The Canadian state exists by our authority . . . to serve us . . . In the totalitarian state, the citizen exists (if he can) by grace of the state: In Canada, government agents do not open our mail, tap our telephone wires . . . order us to rallys to huzzah a "Leader" . . . no state police demand that our children spy on us . . . tell us what church (if any) we may attend . . . pack us off to the concentration camp for "wrong" thoughts, speech or acts . . . ours is not a government of firing squads or "directives." It is a government by petition, vote, appeal. It conducts itself with a sense of fair play, of justice, of sportsmanship . . . of live and let live. If it errs, on occasion, we forgive it . . . it is but a reflection of our human selves.

The Right of Petition gives us a right to redress wrongs . . . change acts, measures, legislation by lawful, orderly appeal. In assessing the true value of this right, let us ever bear in mind this: History, through the ages, records that wherever and whenever men have failed to limit the power of rulers or government, that power has evolved into tyranny, despotism, dictatorship. Let us keep a jealous, watchful eye . . . guard, at all times, our Right of Petition. Only by so doing, can we remain free in our right to . . . "Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness."

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. D. Newell of Toronto. Peterboro Swimmers Seek U.S. Title at Des Moines.

Eighteen young ladies of Peterborough are in Des Moines, Iowa, today to compete in the outdoor meet for National Senior Championships in Synchronized Swimming. All members of the YWCA Ornamental Swimming Club, they are largest group in attendance from north of the border and are entered against swimmers from all over United States and the larger Canadian cities. The girls are accompanied by their coach and founder of the Club, Mrs. Jas. Forbes, Mr. N. C. Munro, manager, Mrs. V. Heffernan in charge of music and Mrs. F. Gant in charge of costumes. For three days their home is a Pullman car pulled into a siding near the large Des Moines Golf and Country Club pool by arrangement of the club owner and meet manager, Mr. A. Y. (Scottie) Russell.

Adopt U.S. Style

Entering the water as "Cupids" Mrs. Iris Forbes-Rielly and Miss Jean Millard will introduce their brand new routine, created by coach Mrs. Pansy Forbes, and fitting titled, "Kiss Me Again" when they try for a senior championship. These are the girls who "upset the apple cart" in Detroit last February, winning the U.S. junior championship. At that time coaches from all over America agreed with judges that they had the most perfect body control in water yet seen. Again at Des Moines they will follow the American style of swimming on the principle of "bodies in continual movement" the club having adopted this style as preferable to the Canadian in which there is a pause for effect after each difficult number.

Behind the scenes entirely, but making a large contribution to the performance, is Mr. Charles Allen, organist, who improvised a musical medley arangement for the number by watching the girls in their land drills and body movements. Excerpts from "Kiss Me Again", "Meet Me Tonight In Dreamland" and "A Kiss In the Dark" are woven together and played on the Hammond organ with chimes in the recordings made and presented to the Club by Jack Comstock.

Suits of silver metallic cloth were designed and made for the duetists by Mrs. Forbes, at a cost of $15. After she had been quoted $200 apiece, ready-made. Red hearts with silver arrows on a silver head band, and the same for wrists and ankles complete their costume and are the work of Mr. Munro. This pair will swim in duet competition on Saturday, August 28.

Also competing in a team of four Mrs. Forbes-Rielly and Miss Millard will swim with Miss Jillian Groombridge and Miss Marilyn McInroy or Mrs. Shirley Moldaver, spare, in National team swimming competitions Sunday. Wearing white nylon suits with attached plastic wings edged with sparkling cerise foil and with matching circles on the wing spread, they will portray "Butterflies" to Charlie Allen's medley arrangement from "Rustle of Spring", "Moonlight Sonata", "Glow Worm" and "Stephanie Gavotte". The costume design is from a nature study book and the girls will don a realistic antenna headdress and wear small butterflies on wrists and ankles.

Entered in the same class and in competition for the first time are nine other swimmers, Norma Gant, Doreen Graham, Joan Coombes, Beverly Rumary, Isabel Crary, Marguerite Buck, Marilyn McInroy, Betty Dorsett and Joan Patterson with Aileen Humphreys, Betty Mather and Ninita Bogue listed as "spares." To the music of the "Persian Market" the "slaves" swim in black dress with Oriental skirts of black and gold with the traditional "jewel" at the waist and wear gold caps with band and similar "jewel" in the Oriental fashion. Silver slave bracelets with dangling chains on wrists and ankle prove they have broken loose from the market place.

Spectators however will not have an opportunity to comment on the costumes until they are in the water, as the girls wear capes of red blanket cloth with collars and buttons of white fur while on the sidelines. These will be taken as the music begins by Misses Mary Rutherford and Maureen Finn, latest to join the club.

They will be attired as majorettes, also in club colors with white pleated skirts, red jackets and pill box hats.

Peterborough names appear on the program too and state that Iris Forbes-Rielly and Jean Millard will entertain with their number "Hurmoresque" which won a Junior title from U.S. competitors.

Officials are making every effort to ensure comfort for the contingent and providing an escort at Detroit where a trip across the city is necessary in changing trains. Peterborough City Council has given its blessing and a most welcome cheque for $300 toward expenses. Through rummage sales, draw and bingo, close to $1,000 has been raised by the club, and with each member contributing $20 the trip is possible, though there will be additional expense for meals.

Mrs. Jim Young who is in charge of the costume committee has worked tirelessly in preparation for the event, but is unable to make the trip.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Early Months Of Marriage Often Bring Bitter Tears

A young girl, who has been married all of six months, writes a tearful letter to this column in which she says she is terribly disappointin marriage. She says that marriage isn't what she thought it would be, and that her husband doesn't come up to expectations. She thought it would be a lot of fun to have a swanky wedding and lots of bridal presents and a cute little home with brand new furniture, and not to have to worry about dates because she had a husband who would take her stepping every night. But it hasn't turned out that way at all.

Dorothy Dix

She admits that, of course, most of the young wives she knows are not living the life of Mrs. Riley. Their trousseaux are wearing out and they are beginning to look rather shabby, and they are spending their afternoons over the cooking stove instead of the bridge table, and a lot of them are tied down with babies. And, bitterest disappointment of all, their husbands no longer spend their time telling them how beautiful and wonderful and adorable they are, they say things about the cooking that no bride ever expected to hear.

So the young wife, who was so sure that no matter what other women's marriage might be hers was going to be all pie, weeps the bitter tears of disillusion, and nothing but her pride keeps her from packing a trunk and going back to Mother. Many and many a bride never remembers her honeymoon without a shudder.

Normal Faults

Probably there never was a marriage that didn't carry its disappointments with it, because we all expect the impossible of it. There never was a faultless husband or a perfect wife, and if there were, no one could endure to live with such an abnormal creature. We love people for their faults more than their virtues, and no marriage really settles down into being a success until husbands and wives love each other's little peculiarities just because they are John's or Mary's.

Nothing is more nonsensical than the gripe you hear from so many women that their husbands don't treat them after marriage the way they did before marriage. Of course, they don't because marriage changes their relationship. Before marriage a man has no responsibility towards the Girl Friend. He doesn't have to buy her clothes, nor feed her, nor take her around to places of amusement, so he is free to lavish gifts upon her.

But after marriage it is another pair of sleeves. The world's champion liar was the one who said that two can live as cheaply as one. Married people have to eat. Bills have to be paid. Babies are a more expensive luxury than orchids. And the average young married couple have mighty little to spend on romantic gestures.

It is also true that after marriage most husbands and wives drop their lovemaking as if it were a hot potato. They don't feel that they need to proclaim their affection when they prove it by their works every day. Besides, no woman could stand to live with a Sentimental Tommy. Nor could any man endure to be tied to a wife who was always putting on a coquettish act.

Marriage is a blessed institution but you have to get acquainted to it. So I urge all discouraged brides to have a little patience before they throw it into the discard.

Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Workers

GREETINGS

Democracy sometimes is a slow process, but it is the best method ever devised by man to guard against exploitation from the hands of arrogant, would-be dictators.

The Workers in the Brinton Carpet Mill will have another chance on Thursday, September 2nd, to choose their own union to represent them in collective bargaining.

Textile Workers Union of America won the last vote by a substantial margin, but the forces of retrogression seized upon a legal loophole, supported by questional evidence, to have the wishes of the majority declared void and another vote ordered.

On December 13, 1946, the majority of the workers in the Brinton Carpet Mill who voted in the election, voted for Textile Workers Union of America, but according to the rules, the winning union must get a majority of all eligible.

In March, 1947, Textile Workers Union of America asked the Company for a Card Check and suggested March 20th for a conference, but on March 19th, the Company recognised the Company Union and the protests of the workers met the deaf ears of the Company. The workers retaliated by voting down a proposer contract, so that Company Union met in closed meeting and ratified the agreement against the wishes of the workers.

In the summer of 1947 Textile Workers Union of America against petitioned for certification, but the Labour Board ruled that this document was a bar to certification.

So the Company Union, in the name of Democracy, protested the result of a democratically conducted vote just because the result was not in their favour. The result of a democratic vote has never been in their favour, but they have forced their attention on the workers since March of 1947.

The Textile Workers Union of America, C.I.O.—C.C.L., appeals to the workers of the Briton-Peterborough Carpet Mill to make this vote so overwhelming that there will be no question.

BUT

the most important thing you can do is to VOTE

The vote is secret; so vote as you choose.

All propaganda must cease by Sunday Midnight.

The 17,000 Textile Workers Union of America members in Canada join with the organised workers in Peterborough and the rest of the 350,000 members of the Canadian Congress of Labour in asking you to, once and for all, free yourselves of the yoke of Company Unionism to which you have been unwilling victims.

TEXTILE WORKERS UNION OF AMERICA — C.C.L.—C.I.O.

Repairing Floor In Cellar, Placing Proper Covering

S. C. 'Ted' Howard
INSURANCE
Office 4665 Home 8629

In the average house—probably your house—there is a large amount of waste space in the basement. While this part of your house is mostly underground that is no reason why it shouldn't be light and cheerful, dry, and thoroughly enjoyable. In fact, the basement holds a variety of possibilities well worth building up.

Basement floors, usually made of a layer of concrete, often are eyesores and annoyances. They may be cracked, rough and dusty, damp, or uneven over the surface. All these unsightly conditions can be remedied by attention to exactly why they exist, and what to do. If the floor is cracked, rough and dusty, or uneven the damp, the best thing to do is to get it ready for a top coating of waterproof cement. If your basement is thoroughly dry you won't need waterproof cement.

Why Floors Crack

Cracks in a concrete basement floor mean that the soil under the floor, or the fill upon which it was laid, has dropped away a bit, and the concrete has cracked as a result of nonsupport. The concrete probably was of a too lean mixture in the first place. But, anyway, having a cracked floor, test it with a length of pipe to find the hollow sounding spots. Break up the floor at these spots, knock off the edges and fill the spot or spots in with a mixture of 1-2-3 concrete (1 cement, 2 sand, 3 gravel). Always dampen any surface before applying concrete. Smooth the top of the repaired spots with a trowel and let them harden for a week.

After the bad spots have been fixed up, the whole floor needs to be cleaned so the new surface of concrete will adhere thoroughly. First, give the floor a treatment with a solution of 1 part muriatic acid, and 10 parts of water. This solution is brushed around with a fibre brush for about ten minutes. Then the floor is thoroughly washed off with a hose.

Next comes a grout, which is a creamy mixture of cement and water, applied to the floor with a fibre brush. Immediately after this the 2-inch topping of concrete goes on. This topping is best made of 1 part Portland cement, 1 part sharp, clean sand, and 2 parts gravel or crushed stone that will fall through a wire mesh of one-quarter inch openings.

If the floor itself has had a tendency to dampness from moisture underneath it, a layer of waterproof concrete is recommended. The concrete is spread on evenly and about two inches thick. Then it is raked slightly to be sure it is well mixed and in thorough contact with the floor underneath. The next operation is the use of a wood float over the surface which packs it down eveniy and brings the water to the surface. When the water sheen begins to disappear, then a steel trowel is used to make a smooth even surface.

Several days should be allowed for drying or curing of the concrete. Wide boards can be laid over the top and walked on if necessary.

Variety of Coverings

Dry basement floors of concrete can be covered differently for various uses. For instance, your basement recreation room, or whatever you wish to call this extra living space in your house, does call for an elastic floor covering that will take tough wear and at the same time respond to an occasional waving.

The last few years have seen the development of mastics, for the laying of floors over concrete. Providing the floor isn't too damp, you can lay damp-proof linoleum or asphalt tile in a bed of this new mastic just as easy as laying carpet. Such improvements add to the value, comfort and health of your house. They prolong its life and increase its usefulness.

The application of asphalt tiles, as well as linoleum calls for, first of all, a dry concrete floor at the time of laying. If your basement floor is damp at some times of year, but does not get so damp that water actually shows on the surface, water-proof mastic under asphalt tiles, if laid when the floor is dry, is to place a piece of linoleum flat on the floor and leave for 24 hours. If, after that, the underside of the linoleum is damp, the floor isn't thoroughly dry. If the old floor is damp with this test, the thing to do is to give it a covering of water-proof grout and a layer of water-proof concrete, then lay the tiles or linoleum after this new surfacing has thoroughly dried out. Be sure to use the proper mastic as recommended by the flooring maker.

The mastic or cement furnished by the manufacturer of the linoleum or asphalt tile you buy to lay on your floor will vary somewhat in methods of application. But in general, it is merely the spreading on of a sticky substance in an even layer, a little at a time, and putting the floor covering on top of it.

Other floor coverings suitable for dry basement floors are hardwood, cork tile, rubber tile, ceramic tiles, slate and flagstones. The last three floor coverings, however, are best laid in a rich cement rather than mastic.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SUIT-CHOICE AT START

A SUIT-PREFERENCE signal, to indicate your desire for a particular return when your partner gets the lead, may be employed at practically any stage of the defense. It may even be given by the card chosen for the opening lead. There are many situations in which this is possible. One arises when your partner knows you have a long holding in the suit you open. If the spot card is clearly higher than your fourth-best, your preference for a return is the higher-ranking of certain other suits. If it is clearly lower than your fourth-best, it asks for a lead of the lower-ranking of those suits.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable).

North	East	South	West
1♥	1♠	4♥	4♠
Pass	Pass	5♥	Pass
Pass	5♠

Two of Philadelphia's greatest women players put up a perfect defense, featured by perfect teamwork, on this deal. In the North was Mrs. H. L. Peterson, one fine teacher who can practice what she preaches, and in the South the former Peggy Golder who is now the wife of Charles J. Solomon, chairman of the tournament committee of the American Contract Bridge League.

When Mrs. Solomon led the heart 2, Mrs. Peterson realized immediately that it was not a standard fourth-best. Mrs. Solomon's two bids of that suit had been of such a nature that it was absolutely certain she held more than four hearts. This being lower than the fourth-best, it was therefore a suit-preference signal and a request for a lead of the low-ranking side suit of clubs instead of the high-ranking suit of diamonds. If the latter suit had been preferred, Mrs. Solomon would have led the 8 or 10.

Mrs. Peterson of course won the opener with the heart A and returned the club 2 for a ruff. The club K was bound to take a trick later, so the suit-preference lead, combined with obedience to the signal, caused the defeat of the one-trick-too-high contract.

Your Week-End Question

Can you think of situations in which perfect defense depends upon making the declarer misread the location of key cards in his opponents' hands?

News .... In Brief ..

By The Canadian Press

NEW YORK.—Prime Minister John A. Costello of Eire said today it is a "very good assumption" his country would enter a defence agreement with the western powers if partition of Ireland is ended. Costello, advocating an end to partition in an interview with newspaper men as RMS Mauretania docked, had said the "whole Island" of Ireland is important to Britain and the United States in a strategic sense.

NEW YORK.—A dozen British business men arrived aboard RMS Mauretania, en route to Canada to seek markets for their heavy engineering products. Led by E. H. Gilpin, chairman of a firm of baking - machinery manufacturers, they will spend six weeks in the Dominion, crossing the country from Halifax to Victoria.

WASHINGTON.—The railroads of the United States asked for higher freight rates on coal, coke and iron ore. The proposed increases, the railroad said, would yield $140,000,000 a year on the basis of 1947 traffic.

WASHINGTON.—Two more officials of Russian satellite legations—one a Hungarian and one a Romanian—have joined the colony of those who don't want to return home. Ivan G. Nagy notified the Nnited States State Department, officials said, that he resigned his diplomatic commission Aug. 16. He was first secretary of the Hungarian legation. Remus Lula, commercial attache of the Romanian legation, left last month and is reported now to be in Buenos Aires. A legation spokesman said he was "discharged" because he was "more interested in his profession as an engineer than in his job."

OTTAWA.—Canada would welcome an international agreement, reported under consideration at Geneva, which would ban charges on goods in transit through one country to another, a trade department official said.

BARN FIRE

TAMWORTH — A spark from a threshing machine is believed to have started a fire which destroyed Joseph Lacey's farm house, barn, shed and out-building. Lacey's 12-year-old son jumped out of the burning barn to safety.

BRANTFORD — Keith Wood, 14-year- old youngster from nearby Kelvin has only a bruised shoulder to remind him of a close brush with death. He crashed through a barn floor when the floor broke under the weight of a heavy grain separator. He just missed being crushed to death and was buried in hay.

BRANTFORD — There's inflation in Saudi Arabia, too, why, a man has to pay as high as $2,00 for a good wife, says Cyril, A. Baker who just returned after 22 months. But if a fellow isn't fussy he can pick one up for about $50.

TORONTO — Consumers used five per cent, or 98,746 kilowatts (132,367 H. P.), more electricity than they did in July of 1947, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's onthly load summary showed. The Commission's report also stated there was four per cent, or 7,429 kilowatts (9,958 H. P.), less power generated than in July of last year.

Power Fails

NEW YORK — Power and light failed in downtown Manhattan, scrambling subway service and curtailing services in many skyscrapers. Power failures occurred in two of the Consilidated Edison company's stations. The trouble was blamed on the near-record heat.

BARBARA BONNEVILLE, 17, of Montreal, looks fondly at the five winsome puppies her father, Frank, found whimpering and half dazed in a garbage pail. The pups, well-fed for a change, have all found happy homes.

SARNIA — The maximum penalty of two months imprisonment was imposed by magistrate Ivan B. Craig on Walter Richlark, Canadian Seamen's Union picket captain, charged with assaulting a Canada Steamship Lines sailor at Point Edward dock Aug. 24.

TORONTO— Award for best gladioli display was given to the Bronx Florists and Gladioli Gardens of Elmira, Ont., as judging opened in the floriculture division at the Canadian National Exhibition Flower Show.

VOLCANIC REGIONS

You've Got to Spend Money to Make Money

A man saves up some money. He starts a business.

He can't keep the business a secret or he wouldn't get any customers.

He puts up a sign or prepares some handbills or puts a little ad in the newspaper to let people know he is in business.

HE SPENT A LITTLE MONEY TO MAKE A LITTLE MONEY.

He starts doing a little more business.

He goes to the bank; gets a loan to increase his stock, to improve his location — whatever it is the loan was granted to improve his business.

HE SPENT A LITTLE MONEY TO MAKE A LITTLE MONEY.

This cycle continues on to infinity. Success is there — all things being equal — for the business man who understands and practices the elementary principle that you've got to spend money to make money.

You couldn't get even 2% interest if you didn't invest at least one cent, would you?

And spending money for newspaper advertising is about the smartest thing a business man can do.

Most retail businesses were built through the vision of a man who realized a truth important to you and me that YOU'VE GOT TO SPEND MONEY TO MAKE MONEY — SPEND MONEY FOR GOOD NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

And remember, the fact that you've got to spend money to make money applies to all business . . . even ours . . . even yours . . . isn't that right?

Discover Curtis Has Genuine Sense Of Humor

By WILLIAM WILSON.

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 — (CP).— Prof. C. A. Curtis, chairman of the Prices Commission, is a quiet-spoken man with a courteous manner and a sense of humor.

During this week's proceedings of the commission a witness, President H. H. Gibaut of the John Ritchie Co. Ltd., of Quebec, produced as a sample a shoe which he said is becoming increasingly popular —with young men.

The three commissioners examined the shoe carefully. It was a dark reddish-brown, with a strap above the laces and an extremely heavy, deeply ridged rubber sole, patterned like a heavy-duty automobile tire.

"Do you re-tread it, too?" Prof. Curtis asked.

The Reason

The story behind Earl Mountbaten's visit to Canada goes back to the huge parade London staged to celebrate victory in the Second World War. Canada's Governor - General, Field - Marshal Alexander crossed the Atlantic to take part.

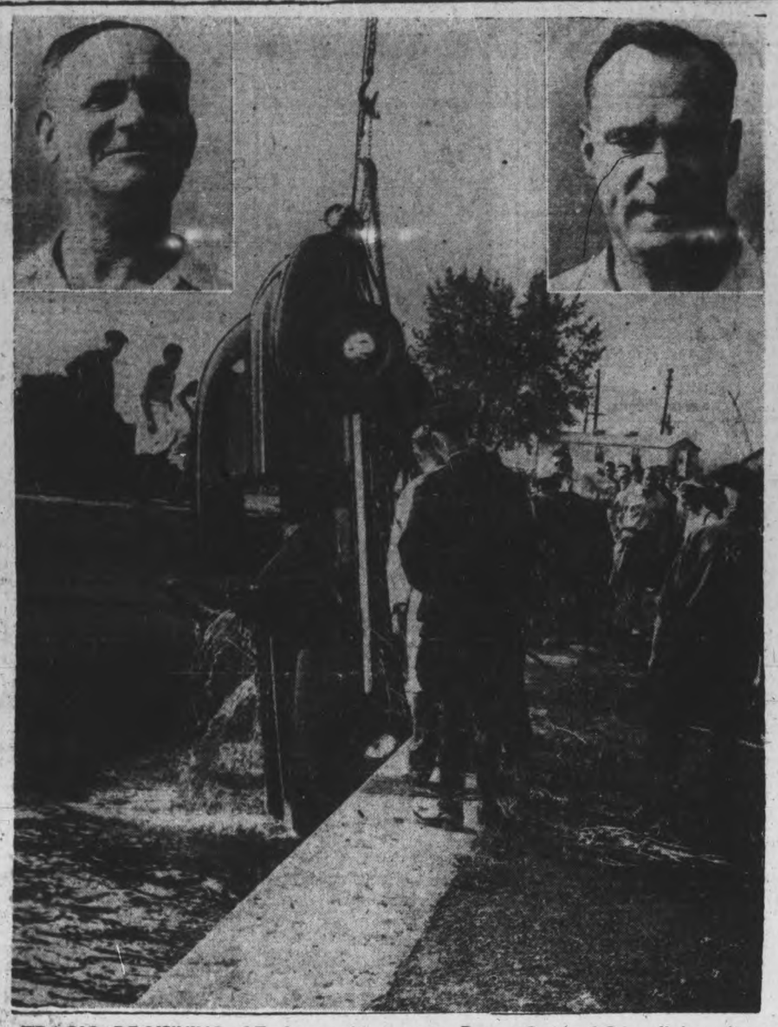
He found himself driving through the shouting crowds with Earl Mountbatten, a friend of 25 years' standing.

"When you get a leave," he said, "you must come over to Canada to visit me."

Military Advice

The Governor - General still finds his military advice regarded as highly useful.

Defence Minister Claxton has had chats with him about the way they do things in the British Forces. But Mr. Claxton scoffs at stories that the Governor-General, as the King's representative, is taking seriously the constitutional fiction that makes His Majesty Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Forces.



TRAGIC DROWNING OF 3-year-old Frank Yewman occurred Friday afternoon in the turning basin south of Commissioners St., Toronto. Car was raised (above) by Toronto Harbor Commissioned dredge, about an hour after it plunged into 30 feet of water. Benson Smith of Coxwell Ave. (inset left) and Charlie Conacher, former Toronto Maple Leaf hockey star (inset right), were among first to arrive on scene and pulled floundering parents out of water. Child is believed to have grabbed driver's wheel turning car into water.

Says Perfume Final Touch To Grooming

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28.—(AP). —To each his own smell. That's the word of Max Factor, Hollywood's beauty expert.

"Perfume is the final touch of good grooming which every woman should have," he declared. "But she should be careful in choosing her perfume. It should be soft, not too obvious, sweet; it should stay close to the body. Above all, it should suit her personality."

For purposes of clarity, I egged Factor into naming the right kinds of odors for 10 screen actresses. Here are his selections:

Lana Turner—Sexy, but not a siren; medium-heavy odor, warm, floral, not too oriental.

Hedy Lamarr—A siren; warm, earthy, amber-type perfume.

June Allyson — Extreme sexiness of smell should be avoided; light, delicate, resembling spring blossoms.

Betty Grable — Vivacious and spicy perfume for a spicy gal.

Rosalind Russell—Not too violent; subtle and warm floral smell; gardenia-type.

Jane Powell—Fresh and light as a lilac bouquet.

Ingrid Bergman — Warm, slightly floral.

Greer Garson — Soft, sweet, cool, lily-like.

Bette Davis — Exotic, woody, but not sweet or floral.

Marjorie Main — Warm, outdoorsy odor.

Factor had a word to say for the males, too. He declared that a large percentage of American men have swung to use of cologne, most varieties of which are based on citrus odors.

"The correct odor for a man," he explained, "is one which makes him smell fresh and clean, as though he had just stepped from a shower." He indicated that anything further than that might prove disastrous.

FORMER PRIME MINISTER of Great Britain Winston Churchill is pictured as he changed trains in the railroad station in Paris. He is en route to Aix-en-Provence for a brief vacation.

For Kids, Pensioners

LONDON, (CP)—The remaining wedding-gift food parcels sent to Princess Elizabeth from the Dominions are to be repacked at her request and sent to widows supporting children and old-age pensioners. Total number of parcels sent out so far is more than 128,000.

Students At RMC Called Cadets

KINGSTON, Aug. 28—(CP)—The Royal Military College isn't going to call them 'gentlemen cadets' anymore. From now on, starting with the first post-war class in a month's time, they're simply 'cadets.'

Removal of the adjective from the title for its students is one step in changeover that will make the 72-year-old college the training ground for future officers of lal three services. It formerly was entirely army although many of its graduates did go into the other two services.

The roughly 100 cadets who report Sept. 9 have been chosen on a basis of qualifying examinations and senoor matriculation results. About four applied for every one who could be accomodated. They will earn their own fees by serving with units in the field or at sea at active force rates of pay in the summer.

Defence Minister Claxton will preside at opening ceremonies Sept. 20 and will deliver the initial lecture of the four-year-course.

Youth Will Have Its Say In World Church Council

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 28 (AP)—Youth will have its say in the pronouncements of the World Council of Churches.

It will have a bigger voice than ever before in the projection of modern religious thinking that will come out of the World Council Assembly now meeting here, Council leaders said Friday.

Representatives of Christian youth forces are carrying on discussions parallel with those of the older generation. And their opinions will be recognized and included in the Council's encyclical to be released next wek.

Suggestions evolved in discussion groups of the younger church generation will go to the accredited delegates, Taft said, adding that they are "looking for any ideas to help them and will give serious consideration to anything youth has to offer."

Flying Squadron

One observer of the World Council sees youth as the "flying squadron of the ecumenical (world-wide church) movement." But this observer does not want those with the ecumencial outlook to become "ecumaniacs" and left to themselves while the church goes its own way.

A Council section Thursday heard Prof. Joseph Hrokadka of Prague plead at a closed door meeting for "more imaginative thinking in the West on the international question." Hrokadka contended the west was deluding itself "when it imagined it possessed freedom and others did not."

At the same secret session another speaker, who was not identified, reported that many persons prfer suicide rather than return to the Soviet orbit.

The Rev. Martin Niemoeller of the German Evangelical Church told the Assembly the world everywhere is out of joint and disorder is increasing with alarming rapidity.

Parliament Plans Backed By U.S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP) —The United States gave its backing today to a move led by France to set up an all western European parliament with advisory powers.

The State Department said in a statement "this government strongly favors the progressively closer integration of the free nations of western Europe."

A spokesman said the Department is "very sympathetic" to the proposal for an assembly made by France to the other countries which have signed the Brussels alliance—Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg.

Helen Tamaris Gives Broadway Sparkling Dance Sensations

By FRED KERNER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (CP). — Theatre fans have proved through the years that they like their terpsichore well done. And the dance sensations of Broadway in recent years have been created by one of New York's own—Helen Tamaris.

Some 30 years ago she was a tow-haired little girl who learned to dance in one of New York's most famous social service centres, the Henry Street Settlement. To-day the former Helen Becker is the creator of the ultra-modern foot work in "Annie Get Your Gun," the stage and screen versions of "Up in Central Park," as well as a number of musicals no longer on the boards.

Her great triumph, however, is a dance item entitled "Tiger Lily" in the new Beatrice Lillie musical "Inside USA." It is one of those theatrical phenomena that stop shows cold.

"Tiger Lily," in which Tamaris dances with Eric Victor, the Parisian choreographer who had the Montrealers applauding for month after month not many years ago, is the drama of a murderess who goes scot free by vamping the judge and jury—and M. Victor, the alienist. Then she murders the gullible alienist.

Looks Like Lecturer

At 42, she still has a muscular body and looks like a lady lecturer off the stage. On stage she appears young, lithe and exceedingly attractive — attractive enough to vamp the audience as from Robert Speaight, British adjudicator of the festival.

Olga has been awarded a $2,000 scholarship by the London Little Theatre to continue her studies at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London. The Academy accepted her as a student after she was recommended by Speaight.

Another First?

London's Little Theatre home, the Grand Theatre, where the Dublin Gate Players made their successful North American debut last spring, may have another North American premiere early next year.

Theatre incorporated, sponsoring a tour of the Old Vic, is thinking of having the famed British company open its itinerary in London rather than New York.

Not Slippery Enough?

TAUNTON, England (CP)—A man extricated a 2½-foot conger eel from the inside of an old 4.9 mortar bomb here recently. The eel apparently had crawled inside while small and grown too large to get out.

40 Per Cent Tomato Crop Destroyed In Heat Wave Ontario Loss $3,000,000

Fruit Scalding Ruins 10 PC Peaches As Grapes, Pears Suffer; Estimate 50 PC Vegetables Not Marketable

TORONTO, Aug. 30—(CP).—Loss to the 1948 tomato crop in Ontario from last week's record-breaking heat wave is estimated at almost $3,000,000, Agriculture Minister Kennedy announced today. "Only 60 per cent. of the tomato crop will be harvested here this year," Col. Kennedy said. The crop was expected to yield growers about $7,000,000.

Only rain can prevent further damage to fruit and vegetable crops. Spokesman for a large local wholesale produce firm estimated that nearly 50 per cent. of the expected fruit and vegetable production would not reach the market. Parched trees and fields are thirsting for much-needed rain.

At noon today downtown Toronto received light rain but the weatherman said rainfall was isolated to small districts of southern Ontario. No general rain was in sight. Cooler temperatures today, however, are expected to restrain damage by the blistering heat.

Col. Kennedy said the heat wave has sent production of late summer fruit and vegetables below last year.

"Unless there is rain within the next few days, the toll will rise much higher," he said. "Besides tomatoes, the percentage of corn and other vegetables destroyed has been unusual. Fruit has been set back generally."

Prices Jump

Prices of fruit and vegetables have risen sharply in relation to their limited supply. Tomatoes jumped from 40 cents a basket to almost 90 cents within the last few days.

George Wilson, director of the fruit and vegetable branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, said poatoes have suffered recently both from rain and heat. Rain has caused late blight and heat has burned tops. Loss of peaches was estimated at 10 per cent because of fruit scalding. Grapes and pears, too, suffered from scalding. He said corn was "sugaring badly."

Although rain is needed badly, the weather forecaster does not

Berlin Council Will Postpone Special Session

BERLIN, Aug. 30—(AP).—The City Council of divided and blockaded Berlin voted today to postpone meetings until an announcement is made on the Kremlin diplomatic talks and until the Russians promise police protection.

Communists broke up scheduled meetings of the anti-Communist council at the City Hall, in the Russian zone, twice last week.

The steering committee of the City Council said if a communique is issued from Moscow and if police protection is assured, the council will meet at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Otherwise the meeting will be postponed until Friday. If the two conditions are not fulfilled by then, the committee said, "other measures" will be considered. This seemed to suggest a meeting in the western sectors under British or American police protection.

The Russians put a crimp in city government financing.

A restriction on tax payments and the use of tax funds in the Soviet sector was the weappn in this case.

In defiance of the Communists, the assembly's senior committee named a five-member delegation to represent Berlin at the constitutional convention for a new western German government opening Wednesday at Bonn. Communist members of the committee walked out when the issue came up. They denounced the Bonn meeting as part of "the splitting of Germany."

Wasaga Riot Well Organized

Commissioner Stringer said this was the reason for prosecutions at Barrie earlier this week. The "breakdown" came from lack of identification.

Mr. Magone said the report showed police planned to guard against a possible further outbreak.

"Red" Hill Arrested On Theft Charge

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 30—(CP).—William (Red) Hill, riverman, who planned to make his second trip through Niagara's whirlpool in a barrel within a few days, was arrested Saturday on a charge of theft of $3,573 by conversion. He will appear in court today.

Hill is charged with failing to remit the proceeds from gun, hunting and fishing licenses he sold for the Ontario Lands Department.

He made his first trip through the whirlpool three years ago this month.

Yugoslav Passenger Skips Plans To Stay In Windsor

WINDSOR, Aug. 30 — (CP). — Vera Vujasin, 16, who was to have sailed for Yugoslavia Saturday with her widowed mother and sister, is back in Windsor today, looking for a job.

She returned Sunday with Bronco, youthful member of the Drouillard-Seminole area "Sugar-Bowl Gang" who was sent to Montreal last Friday to bring her back to the city.

Vera and Bronco told members of the "gang" Sunday she didn't want to make the trip to Yugoslavia and "just wasn't aboard the Radnik" when it sailed with her mother, Mrs. Saika Vujasin, and sister, Naida, 17. She said she told her mother of her plans Saturday morning.

Mrs. Vujasin had nothing to say of her daughter's disappearance when sailing time approached. Naida said no one was forcing her to make the trip and thought it would be an adventure.

Vera left Windsor with her mother and sister last Tuesday, en route to Yugoslavia, and at Cornwall, sent a card to Windsor friends that she would return if they sent someone after her. Her decision to stay in Canada was made clearer by a letter she sent from Montreal.

Bronco was sent by plane to Montreal on funds raised by members of the "Sugar Bowl Gang."

When a group of about a dozen Yugoslavs left Windsor for their home-land it was explained that the two Vujasin girls were not enthusiastic about it that they cried when discussing the trip. Their mother had won them over by tears and threats it was said.

Vera intends to live with a girl friend in Windsor and to support herself by going to work.

Passed Bad Money

TORONTO, Aug. 30—(CP). —Police today said Mary Boyce, 37, had been arrested along with 42-year-old Leo Gauchier of Toronto in connection with the passing of counterfeit United States $10 bills at the Canadian National Exhibition Saturday. The pair were remanded today to Sept. 7, with bail set at $10,000 for Gauchier and $5,000 for the woman. Police reported that Gauchier had only recently been released from prison after serving a 10-year term.

Lightning Hits Plane Wing; 36 Are Killed

WINONA, Minn., Aug. 30 — (AP). — Thirty-six persons including a Canadian couple died in the crash Sunday of a storm-raked Northwest Airlines plane atop a wooded Mississippi River bluff.

The Canadians were C. C. Plummer and his wife, of Flin Flon, Man., listed by the Lines' Chicago office.

The mangled bodies of 26 persons trapped in the wrecked fuselage will be brought out today by a human chain which will wind its way down the steep and rocky side of a 150-foot ravine into which the plane toppled.

E. W. Head, who was returning to Minneapolis from Toronto, missed the plane at Chicago although he was listed as a passenger.

Coroner Herbert F. Stohr of Alma, Wis., said 10 bodies were removed to Alma before recovery efforts were halted.

The plane was one of the airlines newer Martin 2-0-2 ships and was bound for Minneapolis from Chicago with 33 passengers and three crew members.

It left Chicago at 3.50 p.m. and although due in Minneapolis at 5.30 p.m. apparently was behind schedule because of the storm.

Struck By Lightning

A crash witness told the coroner he saw the plane fall into the ravine on Sutters Ridge after lightning shattered a wing. A N.W.A. pilot who was among the first to reach the crash scene said he thought the ship had been struck by lightning.

Bits of wreckage were scattered over a wide area. Some of it was found in a ball park in Winona seven miles away.

Executive editor Gordon Closway and reporter William White of the Winona Republican-Herald, officer Walter Haeussinger of the Winona police and N.W.A. pilot Volkel were among the first to reach the crash scene.

They searched for nearly two hours before locating the wreckage deep in the ravine.

Closway said the plane sheered off trees as it bounced across the top of the ridge and then dropped into the ravine.

The body of Capt. Robert Johnson, 30, St. Paul, the pilot, was still in [illegible] of the

Toronto Man Charged With Death

Youth's Body Dents Automobile Hood; Smashes Windshield

COBOURG, Aug. 30 — (ENS). — Edward Breczuk, age 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Breczuk, of R.R. No. 1, Grafton, died in Cobourg General Hospital, Saturday night, shortly after he had been brought there from an accident on the Shelter Valley Road. Police said he was knocked from his bicycle by a car driven by Edward Drumm of R.R. No. 1, Grafton. Drumm was later charged with motor manslaughter and remanded on $5,000 bail to September 13.

According to police, Breczuk and James Boyle were riding their bicycles north on the Shelter Valley Road, returning from swimming. The accident occurred about 8.50 p.m. when the southbound car struck the bicycle on which Breczuk was riding. The young man's body dented the hood, smashed the windshield and left a dent on the metal top of the car, just above the windshield. Boyle was unhurt.

The accident victim was found about 75 feet south of the point of impact. It is stated that Drumm had been swimming with Boyle and Breczuk and had gone and got his car after the swim and the other two were on their way home when the accident occurred. Provincial Constables Don Nicol and Harry Wilson of Cobourg investigated.

Another death occurred the same night at the hospital when Jennie May, age 84 of Colborne, died about five minutes after admittance. The aged woman suffered a fractured skull in a fall earlier in the evening and was brought to the hospital at 8.40.

Stewart Worthy placed second, third and second, respectively, in the three heats.

35,570 Attend Exhibition Despite Heat

Total paid admissions to the Peterborough Exhibition closing Saturday night were 35,570.

Attendance Saturday was slightly more than 12,000 and the figures for the three days, as reported from the treasury office were:

Thursday 9,000; Friday 14,570; Saturday 12,000.

These were all paid admissions, including children, and take no account of working passes which would probably bring close to 36,000 the number of people on the grounds during the three days.

The heat wave beginning early in the week and extending to Saturday night, when the first breezes of the cooling week-end winds were felt, severely clipped the afternoon attendance. Officials of the Exhibition were highly pleased with the results of the revival, the first show since August 1940, at the beginning of the war, when Morrow Park was converted into a military camp.

Norman W. McConkey, vice-president, representing the president, Hugh Stewart, who was driving his horse "Stewart Worthy" in the free for all race, thanked the people of the city and district in a spot appearance toward the close of the Saturday night program. He said the directors were deeply grateful to all those who had shown their goodwill to the Exhibition and who in their own way had contributed to the success of three days.

The directors regarded the Exhibition as the show window of [illegible] and [illegible] in 1949.

Allied Governors To Meet In Berlin

FRANKFURT, Aug. 30—(Reuters).—United States sources stated here today that the allied military governors will meet in Berlin tomorrow as a result of the Kremlin talks.

But they did not say whether the meeting was to be between all four military governors or only the British, French and American representatives.

Gen. Pierre Koenig, French military governor, who arrived in Berlin with his staff unexpectedly Sunday night, is said to be waiting for this meeting.

German premiers of the Anglo-American zones asked Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, when the United States and British military governors met them today, whether a favorable outcome of the Moscow talks could lead to an allied request to postpone the west German constituent assembly meeting on Wednesday.

200 Trees Block Streets In Smiths Falls' Twister

SMITHS FALLS, Aug. 30—(CP). — Its trees prostrate or stricken, dozens of its homes battered, windows out, repair crews in its streets, Smith Falls is still a bit stunned today by the brief and savage wind that struck it late Saturday afternoon and wreaked possibly $500,000 damage. It came about 4 p.m., EDT, at the height of a late August heat wave. It came out of a low, brown-and-purple cloud bank, with lightning, rain and hail, "came shrieking down the street —to quote Police Chief Reg Wride —and the big trees began to fall, one after another... The day turned black as your boot, windows were crushing in, shreds of awning went flapping down the street."

People could only call it "a twister" and wonder that not one of the 8,500 inhabitants of this railway town was killed or seriously injured. Nobody seemed to know exactly how long is lasted. Some said three minutes, others said 15.

Smiths Falls, 50 miles south of Ottawa, suffered alone in this district, but there was lesser damage in other sections of Eastern Ontario and near Ottawa in Quebec.

20 Cars Crushed

Thick, stately maple and elm trees, some 200 of them, went down in rows, sometimes tearing out whole squares of pavement, crushing at least 20 cars, blocking every street in town but one, tearing down power and phone lines, crashing into homes. Twenty-four hours later hydro, phone and town engineering repair crews were only starting to make headway against the chaos.

Employees Buy North Bay Paper

NORTH BAY, Aug. 30 (CP)—Employees of the North Bay Daily Nugget have purchased the newspaper from the estate of former publisher and president, the late W. E. Mason.

"It is a proud day for us at the Nugget and would have been an even happier one had our late boss, Mr. Mason, been alive to make the announcement. It was Mr. Mason, himself, who some time ago originated the plan whereby the employees would come into control of his North Bay newspaper. It was his way of showing his confidence in the ability of his long-service employees."

The Nugget will be operated by the North Bay Publishing Company, consisting of employees, with a capitalization of $350,000. The deal includes purchase by the employees of the old Queen's Hotel property here, formerly owned by Mr. Mason. Plans call for the erection of a two-storey building to house the newspaper. A separate company will be formed to finance the erection of the building.

Say New Zealand May Send Butter Supply To Canada

By JACK GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, Aug. 30 (CP).—Although no official comment has been made on reports from Canada that the Canadian government may seek New Zealand butter to supplement its winter stocks, producers here believe some supplies may be sent.

New Zealand's new contract with Britain obliges her to send 97 per cent of her exportable butter surplus to Britain. But a clause enables this percentage to be reviewed at any time if necessary for the procurement of essential commodities from other countries.

New Zealand farmers have been urging diversion of sufficient meat and butter to dollar countries to permit purchase of additional urgently - needed farm machinery, particularly tractors which are unobtainable in Britain.

Welcome Market

The government does not favor this plan and it is understood it has arranged with Britain for extra dollars from the sterling area pool for this purpose if necessary.

Dairy produce interests are anxious to establish extra markets, without harming Britain if possible.

They doubt whether butter will regain its pre-war hold on the British market. Leading dairy authorities have expressed the view that increasing margarine supplies will tend to drive butter prices down and also ease present demands for maximum shipments.

In these circumstances, producers would welcome the establishment of a subsidiary market in Canada.

Fly Warning Of Hurricane In Carolinas

Planes In Virginia Moved To Safety At Emergency Order

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 30 —(AP)—Hurricane warnings were ordered hoisted from Wilmington, N.C., to Cape Hatteras, N.C., at 5 a.m. today.

At the same time, northeast storm warnings were ordered displayed north of Cape Hatteras to the Virginia Capes and northwest storm warnings south of Wilmington to Charleston, S.C.

A violent tropical hurricane, with winds up to 120 miles an hour, was expected to reach the North Carolina coastline early tonight.

"This is an emergency, warn all interests," the federal storm warning service said in an advisory.

Residents along the North Carolina coastline were warned winds would begin increasing early today, they would reach gale force by mid-afternoon, and hurricane force early tonight.

There was some indication, forecasters said, that the hurricane may change to a more northerly course during the day but it was expected that the full fury of the storm's centre would reach the North Carolina coastal area in about 20 hours.

Early Sunday it appeared as though it might have stopped, wallowing 500 miles east of Daytona Beach, Fla., but military planes flown into the centre during the night found that it actually had never stopped, merely slowed down, as it continued on its beeline course for the mainland.

Moving Planes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) —The United States Navy and Air Force began moving airplanes out of the possible path of a hurricane swirling off the East-Central seaboard to-day.

At Norfolk, Va., orders were issued for moving about 390 naval aircraft from the area during the day. Fifty were ordered to Niagara Falls, NY, 30 to Buffalo, 250 to Rome, NY, and 60 to Greensboro, NC, Municipal Airport.

torn off in one section.

The one casualty was S. Randall, he heard an "awful crash," saw a tree atop his car and ran out with an axe to hack away at it. "Why," he said later, "I don't know." His daughter came after him with a raincoat, and probably saved his life. Lightning struck the axe and knocked him unconscious. A doctor said he would have been killed if he hadn't had the rubber raincoat.

Hydro officials estimated damage to their lines and installations at $100,000. Bell Telephone authorities, who rushed repair crews here from all over Eastern Ontario, said their loss would be about the same. Chief Wride figured damage to homes, business, properties, cars, roads, sidewalks and trees would run an additional $300,000.

Other towns in this area escaped, but there were lesser wind - hail - lightning assaults against other sections, Spencerville and Chesterville districts, 5 to 35 miles east of here, and Luskville, Que., 10 miles north of Ottawa.

12 Britons Tour Canada; Visit Industry

OTTAWA, Aug. 30—(CP)— A new attempt to hasten Britain's post-war recovery by rebuilding her war-smashed trade has been launched by an engineering mission which will make a seven-week tour of Canadian industries.

E. H. Gilpin, leader of the 12-man mission, said today at a press conference that he and his associates "are not primarily expecting to 'take orders' while we're here."

"This is aa long-term proposition," he said. "We want to create a new relationship between Canadian industrialists and the British engineering industry."

The mission, appointed by the United Kingdom government and sponsored by the British board of trade will investigate market possibilities "mainly for the heavier types of industrial engineering equipment." It will study trade difficulties and report on "the most suitable methods to adopt to secure a greater volume of exports" from Britain.

"We hope to interest Canadian industrialists in British capital equipment and show them they can get it from the U. K. at competitive prices and in reasonably good time," said Mr. Gilpin, director of a company which manufactures bakery and biscuit machinery.

Of special interest to the mission were reports that many Canadian municipalities, especially in the West, are interested in sewage-disposal equipment. Britain's ability to provide this fully during the tour.

The mission's itinerary includes Sudbury on Sept. 13.

Schuman Will Try To Form New Cabinet

PARIS, Aug. 30 (AP)—Robert Schuman, out of office as French premier for 32 days, said today he will try to form a new cabinet.

"But," the balding Alsatian said as he left President Vincent Auriol's palace shortly after midnight, "I have adopted the same attitude as M. Ramadier. I am going to examine the situation first."

Ramadier, Schuman's predecessor as premier, spent all Sunday checking over his chances to form a new cabinet. He admitted at midnight he had been unable to convince either himself or French political leaders he was the man of the hour.

Dairy Men Hit

Dairy farmers have been hard hit, the agriculture department said. Pastures are browned to a crisp and several thousands of acres of pastureland were "burned up" during the heat wave. Loss was heavy and cattle will have to be fed with expensive grain.

Peach prices were expected to fluctuate rapidly. Prices dropped sharply last week-end when peaches ripened quickly and the market became glutted. It is expected the season will be shortened by the loss, however, and Mr. Wilson advised housewives to do their peach-canning before Sept. 15.

Apples are expected to be smaller because of the drought. The quality will not be affected, an experienced grower said. The quantity may be reduced however.

thermometer went to 100 degrees and higher for four straight days.

Fruit growers are worried over continued drought. Sun-blister, it was learned today, is showing in the peaches, particularly the Vedette variety and at least 50 per cent of the pick is grading No. 2 for size.

"There is nothing much the grower can do about it," Prof E. F. Palmer of the Vineland experimental farm, said today. "Irrigation of orchards, where the grower can do it, will help considerably, but a lot of trees are becoming defoliated at least two months earlier than usual," he declared.

"Under favorable conditions these trees may recover for another year but with continued drought, it is possible they may die," he said.

Base Metals Showing Much Firmer Tone

TORONTO, Aug. 30 — (CP). — Industrials and base metals showed a firmer tone as trading continued very light on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds opened on a stronger note but weakened in mid-session.

Papers moved ahead on gains ranging up to a point in industrials. Gains and losses were about equal in rest of the groupings as the few stocks trading moved in narrow range. Brazilian Traction, Bank of Montreal, Canadian Bank of Commerce and Massey-Harris were ahead ⅛.

Selected base metals stocks gained slowly in sluggish action. Base Metals Corporation was a bright spot, rising 1½ and International Nickel and Consolidated Smelters gained ¼. Gulf lead, Normetal, New Calumet and Sherritt were ahead on penny advances.

Kerr Addison, Lake Shore and McIntyre firmed on ⅛-point gains in senior golds while La Luz was down 5 cents. Juniors showed more losses than gains as the list weakened towards noon.

Remand Youth In CSU Boarding

SARNIA, Aug. 30 — (CP). — George Macdonald of Blythe, Ont., was remanded today until Dec. 17 for sentence on a charge of illegally boarding the freighter Lethbridge here last July 14.

Five other seamen, all members of the striking Canadian Canadian Seamen's Union (TLC) were also charged as a result of the same incident.

Magistrate I. B. Craig said today he was unwilling to sentence 16-year-old Macdonald to a jail sentence since he was probably led by older men.

Others charged were Mike Hornak of Welland, sentenced to one year, Albert Schumacher, Alex Black, Eddie Rogozinski, and Albert Jackson, all sentenced to six months.

Police said the men boarded the Lethbridge in an attempt to induce the crew to leave the ship and join the CSU strike against four lake shipping companies to force the companies to sign a working agreement with the union. Five were wounded by a shotgun blast. Chief Engineer M. J. Murphy has been charged with shooting with intent to maim. He will appear to face the charge in December.

Thieves Strike In Six Places

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 30—(CP) — Thieves struck six times at London homes and business establishments during the week-end escaping with more than $300 in four breakins, an attempted entry and a theft in the busiest week-end of crime reported to police in several months

Three places of business were entered, two homes were robbed and a thief was frightened by noise as he attempted to break his way into a Richmond street jewelry store.

Largest haul was made at the Dutch laundry, Dundas street west, where thieves carried off a $150 cash register containing about $15 in cash. Entry was made through an unfastened window and when the register was found locked, it was carried out of the building.

A cool operating thief who is believed to have hidden in the building until it was empty got $38 from the cash register at the Arcade bowling alley, Dundas street. Detectives found no sign of entry on windows or doors and knowledge of the robbery came when the front door was found open.

Expect Reopening Of CSU Inquiry

OTTAWA, Aug. 30 — (CP). — Early re-opening of the lake shipping dispute before the Federal government's new Labor Board was forecast in official quarters today.

Powers of the new body in directing management to undertake collective bargaining extend beyond that of the old Wartime Labor Relations Board, and it appeared these would be invoked on behalf of the Canadian Seamen's Union (TLC) in the first major action before the board.

The body—the Canada Labor Relations Board — comes into power Wednesday with the proclamation of the federal labor code passed at the last session of parliament. It has jurisdiction over such industries as railways, shipping and other inter-provincial activities.

According to officials here, the board has plenty of power to reopen the case of the CSU versus four lake shipping companies who have refused to deal with that union on the claim its leadership is Communist-dominated.

They said the initiative might be taken either by the board, by the labor department or by the union. However, it was indicated the first move likely would be made by the union.

Heat Wave Ends As Cooler Air Here From North

By The Canadian Press

Temperatures nosedived in central Canada today after cool air from the north put an end to the week-long heat wave.

Forecasters said today's maximum in most parts of Southern Ontario, that would put today's top in the 80s.

"Seasonable afternoon temperatures" was what the weather men promised for today, a forecast welcomed by the millions of Canadians who sweltered for seven breathless days while the thermometers nudged the 100-degree mark.

In Toronto the temperature hit 100 Saturday, setting a record for Aug. 28. On Sunday another record went by the boards when the mercury edged to 91 to break the Aug. 29 high of 87 set in 1946.

Northwest winds sprang up Sunday morning in the Toronto area and they improved the humidity. Some sections of Ontario and Quebec had thundershowers.

Clear, cooler weather was forecast for today from the upper Great Lakes to the Atlantic ocean.

Its advent as August waned meant that the heat-sufferers who fled the cities could come home again, most of the fans could be packed away.

1st Parliament Will Be Held At Interlaken

GENEVA, Aug. 30. (AP)—The first parliament of the United States of Europe will be held at Interlaken, Switzerland this week under the presidency of Georges Bohy, Socialist member of the Belgian cabinet.

Count Richard Coudenhove-Kalergi, secretary-general of the European parliamentary union told a recent press conference in Geneva purposes of the Interlaken meeting, Sept. 1-4, are:

1. To urge immediate convocation of a constituent assembly for Europe, elected by the National parliaments to draft a federal constitution of Europe.

2. To reach an agreement upon the main principles of this constitution.

The idea of a constituent assembly was launched at the first European parliamentary congress last September in Gstaad, Switzerland, where Soudenhove-Kalergi maintains headquarters of the organization. Most delegates to this year's session, Coudenhove-Kalergi said, were elected by the National Committee of the European Parliamentary Union.

250 Delegates

Approximately 250 delegates are expected at the Interlaken meeting.

The secretary-general said a recent poll showed that in the parliaments of France, Italy, Greece, Belgium, Switzerland, The Netherlands and Luxembourg there are absolute majorities favorable to European Federation.

The proposed constituent assembly has been discussed in Britain's House of Commons and in the French National Assembly. It also was taken up at the Congress of Europe at The Hague. Georges Bidault, former French Foreign Minister, proposed organization of a European Assembly at the last conference of the foreign ministers of western Europe.

Campbellford Police Have Quiet Welcome

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 30.—(ENS).—Crime hereabouts is at an extremely low ebb, in fact is almost non-existent.

During the week-end the only outstanding incidents on the police blotter were that a drunk had been found sleeping behind a local building, and after a long talk from the investigating officer was escorted unsteadily to his home, where he promised to remain pending the recovery of his equilibrium.

The night constable found one store door open on Saturday night during his check-up shortly after the close of business, and the owner was notified.

Traffic on Saturday night was very heavy, but as both constables were on duty, the flow was kept continuous and there were no accidents.

He had 40,000 heads — four truckloads — of surplus cabbage, moved it into a nearby park and advertised in newspapers he would give it away to anyone who came. Only a few people showed up to take about 500 heads. "It's pretty tough when you can't even give things away," Bobbin said sadly.

Find Fish Don't Only Swim They Stroll, Breathe Air

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) The fishiest-sounding fish story of all?

It's the true one, the story of the 40,000 different kinds that make up this fish-filled world of ours.

There are fish that have nasty tempers, fish that can go out for a stroll, fish that are plain, no-account lazy, fish tha are so small you can hardly see them, fish so large they would feel cramped in a trailer truck.

All this is discussed in a new book called "The Ways of Fishes."

It is by Mrs. Edith M. Stern and Dr. Leonard P. Schultz, curator of fishes for the Smithsonian Institution and an authority on the behavior of fish.

"Some fish walk, some fly, some breathe air, some water," says Dr. Schultz.

"There are fishes that burrow like moles, hibernate like bears, fight like tigers."

And that isn't all. Continues Dr. Schultz:

Some fish are placid, others are nervous and easily irritated. Among them are the timid and fearless, the lazy and energetic, the mild and bloodthirsty.

Dr. Schultz went to Bikini to study fish during the atom bomb tests. He came back with the news that beautiful fish may be like beautiful dames. Some of the prettiest are the deadliest.

Tigerfish, he said, are strikingly beautiful, with bold yellow and black stripes. But they have a series of spines on their backs and fins, and even a prick from these can be painful. A real gash can mean death.

MONDAY, AUGUST 30, 1948

"Wien Nierlansch"

Tomorrow the people of the Netherlands and the Dutch Empire celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of Queen Wilhelmina's reign. The head of the House of Orange has come to occupy a place in the hearts of her people similar to that held by our own Victoria in British hearts. Indeed, this anniversary celebration will not be unlike the Golden and Diamond Jubilees of Victoria, though without the gorgeous pomp of other years. The Dutch affection for and pride in this indomitable though homely (in the English sense of the word) woman will occasion tomorrow and in the subsequent days of celebration, world-wide interest and congratulation, but particularly joy, tears and memory's acclaim among her people.

◆ ◆ ◆

Great occasions of rejoicing seem always to be tinged with sadness. Tomorrow there will be sadness in Holland as well as paeans, for the Queen is abdicating her throne. Her health and years no longer fit her to bear the heat and burden of ruling days. She will give up her throne next Saturday. On this day week her only daughter, Princess Juliana, will be proclaimed Queen of the Netherlands. So tomorrow as the Dutch sing their majestic anthem "Wien Nierlansch" with its haunting final cadence, they will sing it with joy on their lips and pride in their hearts, but with a feeling of spiritual loss, for Queen Wilhelmina has been in a deep sense, the Mother of her people and the heart of Empire.

Farmers' Income Tax

Farmers generally will approve of the Income Tax Department's new procedure in notifying farmers that they are required to fill out tax forms, whether they have taxable income or not. In earlier years very many farmers were astonishingly lax about this matter, or ignorant of the requirements. This laxity or ignorance was understandable. Farmers are more concerned about their chores and crops than about sitting down with pencil and paper trying to figure out their income. Filling out forms is a bothersome job for most people, and most of all for farmers.

In former years many conscientious farmers did fill out income tax forms and did pay whatever tax seemed to be required. They did not relish the task or the tax, particularly when down the line a half a dozen other farmers did not bother their heads about it. How many farmers there were down the line who did not fill out the tax forms and did not pay income tax is shown by the astoundingly low total tax paid by Canadian farmers in the boom years since 1939. Now the burden of forms and taxes will fall equally on all farmers, conscientious or not. The Income Tax Department sent out tax forms to the farmers by registered mail. The farmers signed for them, and they now know that the forms must be returned. It is a method, even a courtesy, which meets with the approval of good farmers throughout the country.

While Berlin Is Unquiet

At an ancient cloister an hour's drive from Munich into the quiet Bavarian countryside a nation-making conference has been in progress. Here, while headlines shout over Berlin, a new Germany is being planned. It is the West Germany to which the twenty-two delegates and eleven states of the three western occupation zones have pledged themselves, with the pressure of British and American approval. When the plans are formulated, they will be presented to the Constituent Assembly which is scheduled to open at Bonn in September. The retreat at which the German representatives are meeting was built by King Ludwig of Bavaria as a replica of Versailles. It is to be hoped that the designs for the new nation will have at least the degree of permanency and success which the Versailles Treaty of 1919 had after the first war.

Pulp Wastage

The pulp and paper industry in Canada is our fourth greatest, according to the gross value of the products. More than most industries it depends on raw materials and uses them (our forests) at an alarming rate. Are we being too extravagant, can we afford to sustain the pace established during the war when we supplied more than half the world's production of newsprint to more than forty countries? The chief user of our pulp and newsprint is the United States. In 1945 we produced $189,000,000 worth of newsprint paper and exported $179,000,000. That did not leave much for ourselves. Canadian newspapers still have to ration their meagre stocks of newsprint.

Last week the Milwaukee Journal produced a Sunday edition of 190 pages. It printed 430,000 copies of the edition, which weighed three pounds. The Ottawa Journal estimates that this one edition would need all the pulpwood from 65 acres of forest. The Journal remarks that if the larger Chicago Tribune put out a similar edition, the yield of 150 acres of forest would be required. It asks how long Canadian forests can keep on supplying papermills and printing presses at a mounting rate of consumption.

Forestry authorities like Major-General Howard Kennedy say that the supply of pulpwood has been seriously diminished and that something had better be done about it. One thing that should be done is to curb the size of newspapers. Canada cannot afford to let the Milwaukee Journal produce a 190-page edition. There are occasions when free enterprise should be restricted, and that is one of them. We consider that such consumption of newsprint—even by a reputable paper like the Milwaukee Journal—is wanton and wicked and not to be tolerated.

Corn Roasts—A Passed Pleasure

The Kerry Dance has nothing to do with corn roasts except that there is a song of that name which has poignant lines something like this: 'Oh, to think of it, Oh to dream of it, Fills my heart with tears'. Corn roast days have gone by as definitely as the days of the Kerry dance, unless one takes both in ersatz form. Corn is no longer a dime a dozen, nor butter twenty-five cents a pound. Gone are the days when a print of butter is set on the ground handy to the fire and various hands roll cobs of corn around in the yellow gold before transferring it dripping sweetly to the maw.

We do not regret the passing of the corn roast over-much, much as we like corn (cobs without the corn-borer, of course). Corn roasted over an open fire at a jamboree was, to our taste, burnt and dry. We always found it more edible if boiled. The ersatz form of the corn roast—three or four cobs for each person, instead of a dozen; boiled not roasted; munched from a sitting position on a comfortable chair and not gulped from a crouched ape-like stance too near the fire and smoke; and a good blob of margarine instead of a precious sliver of butter. That will please us quite well.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A politician comments "Prices are not really high—they merely seem high". In our opinion, one of the most perfect illusions ever known.

A scientist says that a mosquito can live for eight days without food. But it doesn't.

We read that six quarts of oil will cover a square mile of ocean. By that time it would be as thin as the veneer of civilization.

An amateur boxer in Michigan kissed his conqueror in the ring after the bout. Well, he got in one good smack, anyhow.

Newspaper photographers armed with the apparatus of their trade must be disgruntled at the paradox of being kept out of courts held in camera.

Every cloud has a silver lining. Knut Hamsun, the Norwegian author who collaborated with the Quislings during the war, has now completed a novel based on various psychiatric examinations he has undergone since the war in an attempt to unearth his Quisling libido.

In a Western Ontario newspaper we see the headline "Diplomatic Privileges Flaunted". There are a good many speakers who do not seem to know the difference between "flaunt" and "flout", but we are amazed that a newspaper should fall into such an error.

"Of Cabbages And Kings"

By PETER ELIOT

THAT the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, and other top-grade theatrical companies, on their extensive tours in the United States, had done more to cement friendly relations between the English speaking countries than many other visitors, is the opinion expressed by Sir Gerald Campbell in "Of True Experience". To show that he was not alone in this opinion, he tells the following story:

"It happened at a large 'informal' dinner given in honour of a distinguished English visitor. Several of us were asked to make a few remarks with the coffee, and complied, but were pushed beautifully into the shade when a charming American lady rose to say that, though she did not approve of speeches at informal dinner parties, could not resist the temptation of saying that Great Britain had recently sent some wonderful Ambassadors to her country. The distinguished guest stroked his chin and fiddled with his tie as he looked up at the chandeliers awaiting mention of his name, only to hear the charmer finish with the words, 'I refer to the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company!"

◆ ◆ ◆

"ANOTHER company which did a good job on the Pacific coast," continues Sir Gerald, "was the Stratford-on-Avon Players. From Vancouver to San Francisco they played to full houses but their commander-in-chief, Archibald Flower, was hesitant to risk taking an expensive outfit to Los Angeles, since reports on the standard of culture of certain sections suggested that Shakespeare might not be appreciated and he could not afford to lose too heavily. I asked him for time to think it over because I was going to see that evening a well-known American writer, just returned from Hollywood where her latest novel had been filmed for a silent movie. I should have valued her opinion as to the popularity or otherwise of Shakespeare, but I did not have a chance, after all, to get it because everyone gathered round her waiting with (cocktail) bated breath for her to tell about the new-fangled talkies, and whether they would ever amount to anything.

'Certainly not.'

'Why?'

◆ ◆ ◆

'BECAUSE those people just don't know how to talk. The girl who took my heroine's part was beautiful but, my God how dumb. The director urged her to say something in order to pep up, but it took her twenty minutes to and when it came out, it was, 'Unhand me, you big slob!' in a voice which would wreck any machinery! All the same I continued to persuade Archibald Flower to take the plunge which, like a good Cassius, he did—and with a more satisfying reward than the original Cassius received, for they played to full houses in Los Angeles for three months. Movie stars flocked to their theatre to learn diction!"

◆ ◆ ◆

"ONCE when Johnson was praising Burke's talk (writes Hugh Kingsmill in Samuel Johnson) Boswell interjected that Burke could listen, too. Johnson would not have this, and his answer shows that he expected complete silence from the company whenever he was speaking. 'So desirous is Burke to talk, that if one is speaking at this end of the table, he'll speak to somebody at the other end.'

"One evening, when Langton was present, Burke started topic after topic, but before he could begin to develop them, Johnson made them his own. As Langton and Burke were walking away, Burke praised the brilliance Johnson had shown. Langton agreed, but added he could have wished to hear more from Burke. 'Oh no,' Burke answered, 'it is enough for me to have rung the bell to him.'"

LEWIS Carroll's famous "Alice In Wonderland" made a very casual and unspectacular appearance in the Macmillan's publishing history. "Its author"—writes Charles Morgan in "The House Of Macmillan"—the Rev. Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, mathematical don at Christ Church, made arrangement with the Clarendon Press to produce the book at his expense, and the first references to it in the Macmillan files are on the subject of binding. There was never an author more elaborately careful than Lewis Carroll for the details of production or one that can have more sorely tried the patience of his publisher. The beginning was harmless enough. He wanted "Alice" to be a table-book and thought that red would be most pleasing to childish eyes; the edges were to be cut smooth but to be ungilded—though he afterwards liked the gilding used on a new impression. He was anxious, he said, to have fifty of the two thousand copies as soon as possible, as his young friends were all growing out of their childhood so fast, and one copy was to be bound in white vellum for Alice Liddell."

◆ ◆ ◆

MORGAN goes on to tell how the edition was peacefully printed by the end of June 1865, and forty-eight copies were given away before the storm broke. The author, dissatisfied with the printing of the text and of the Tenniel illustrations, recalled them, cancelled the whole edition, and shipped of the 1952 unbound sheets to Messrs. Appleton of New York. Some of the presentation copies were not returned and have since made fantastic prices at auction, with the result that a year seldom passes even now in which no one sends to the Macmillans a copy plainly marked "86th thousand" and an offer to part with it for a few hundred pounds. There have been bibliographers, too, who have maintained as contrary to human nature that a man so sensitive to the appearance of his book should have allowed the defective sheets to go to New York, but it was by no means contrary to Dodgson's nature.

SOMERSET Maugham has an admirable series of appraisals in the "Atlantic Monthly" on "The Ten Best Novels." Of Gustave Flaubert, he says:

"First of all he worked hard. Before starting on a book he read everything he could find that was pertinent. He made voluminous notes. When writing he would sketch out roughly what he wished to say and then work on what he had written, elaborating, cutting, rewriting, till he got the effect he wanted. That done, he would go out on his terrace and shout out the phrases he had written, convinced that if they did not sound well to the ear, there must be something wrong with them. In that case he would take them back and work over them again until he was at last satisfied.

In one of his letters he writes: "The whole of Monday and Tuesday were taken up with a search for two lines." It is no wonder that Madame Bovary took him fifty-five months to write!

Letter To The Editor

APPROVES THE GORDON LETTER

Sir: Mr. Gordon really has an excellent idea to place the city hall in Victoria Park, with the basement space used as a market hall. Set well up to the base of the hill it would be a splendid location.

Would Mr. Gordon please list even one economy practised by the Board of Education or the City Council? It would please us ratepayers "mightily" to know that one of our dreams is being realized.

By the way, why didn't Mr. Gordon see that one of these items such as moving the delectable C.P.C. from centre of the town was done while he was in office? Or might that be termed an afterthought?

Mr. Gordon complains that there is little action taken by Council, that Mr. Dodds and Mr. Swanston are overworked. Does he refer to their private business or public business? If such is the case, why did those aldermen permit themselves to be nominated?

And some other aldermen, he states, are inexperienced. Yet? Why did those lacking business acumen accept nomination? Surely not the salutary here! Could it be for their own advancement, glory? These questions come to our minds when reading Mr. Gordon's splendid letter. But will these aldermen answer for themselves? Never. Mum is their strong word while they fumble.

And, while I'm writing, there's another subject. Why do not some members of the Hospital Staff take a course at other hospitals in Ontario that are managed at a profit as some profess to be? We taxpayers weary at mounting costs—mounting everything.

What did your readers think of the sports last Sunday evening at the band concert, who donated 3 cents each for the furtherance of sport? Not even one quarter for good music. Let us hide our heads for shame.

A QUESTION MARK.

Bangling The Language

(SATURDAY REVIEW OF LITERATURE)

FOR some years, the popular impression has prevailed that the English-American language has been steadily expanding in range, variety, and colour. Every so often we see impressive lists of new words. But very little is said about the fact that many useful words are dying out each year because of increasingly lazy habits of writing and speaking.

A recent edition of Shakespeare, for example, provided explanations for twenty-four hundred words which had long since passed out of general usage. True, a large number of these words deserved to die, but this still leaves a fair number of words which are as indispensable to the language today as they were when Shakespeare used them.

If economy of expression is a virtue, then we have injured the language through the loss through disuse of such words as flinders (combining fragments and splinters); janglesome (combining nerve-wracking and quarrelsome); lanken (combining leaness and lankiness); keek (combining peeping with slyness); maffle (combining stammering and blundering); sloomy (combining dullness, laziness, heaviness, and sleepiness all at once).

Only sloominess in our thinking could be responsible for the fact that, although we use the word "smattering", we have neglected the much more useful noun from which it is derived, smatters, to describe small matters or trifles. Similarly, we use the trite expression "smash it to smithereens", but overlook the word smither, an excellent way of describing a tiny fragment. We use "bereave", but what about reave? ("To reave the orphan of his patrimony" — Shakespeare's "Henry VI".)

If one of the proofs of a virile language is its ability to generate verbs with striking power and pithiness, then we have been enfeebling English by neglecting such trenchant verbs as to tolter—move with slowness and heaviness; to storme—walk up and down while pondering some decision; to rax—reach and stretch at the same time; to bangle—fritter away an inheritance by carelessness and stupidity; to gowl — weep in anger rather than sorrow; to spuddle—assume pompous airs in the execution of a minor grotesquely; to thrump—bump into people in a crowd; to slorp—eat gluttonously and with monstrous sound effects.

Picturesque, time-saving expressions we have bangled over the years would include barrel-fever or jugbitten to describe the disease of alcoholism, or, even more directly, the noun bouse, which combines souse and booze. Consider these lost gems: gowk—an open-mouthed fool; jabbernowle—a slow thinker and a bore; chuff—a Shakespearian favourite to describe someone who converts his extra wealth into extra chins: mome—someone not quite arrived at, but well on his way to, the status of a blockhead; sumph—the same man upon becoming a blockhead; scroil—a slick, mean fellow; bummel—a smalltime tramp; dumble—short for dumbell.

Is it too much to hope that words such as these may be restored to the language? Far from it; we have only to consider that a large number of words which had virtually disappeared towards the end of the nineteenth century have been since rediscovered and are in common use today.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Man that is born of a woman is of few days, and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not. (Job 14: 1, 2.)

◆ ◆ ◆

What is man, that he should be clean? and he which is born of a woman, that he should be righteous?...He wandereth abroad for bread, saying, Where is it? he knoweth that the day of darkness is ready at his hand...

Let not him that is deceived trust in vanity: for vanity shall be his recompence. (Job 15: 14, 23, 31.)

◆ ◆ ◆

As for man, his days are as grass: as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth. For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone; and the place thereof shall know it no more. (Ps. 103: 15, 16.)

◆ ◆ ◆

Surely every man walketh in a vain shew: surely they are disquited in vain: he heapeth up riches, and knoweth not who shall gather them.

And now, Lord, what wait I for? my hope is in thee. (Ps. 39: 6, 7.)

Believe West Will Determine PC Leadership

WINNIPEG, Aug. 30 — (CP)— Western Canadian delegates to next month's National Progressive Conservative Convention believe that their votes may be the determining factor in election of leader to succeed John Bracken.

However, so far there has been no indication that the West will come out solidly in support of any one candidate.

Pre-convention talk is concerned almost entirely with the chances of two men, John Diefenbaker, member of Parliament for Lake Centre, and Premier Drew of Ontario, although neither has publicly declared he will be in the running for the leadership.

Should the Drew-Diefenbaker candidatures be placed before the convention, Saskatchewan is expected to come out fairly solidly in support of the Lake Centre member, partly from a favorite son angle, but even more so from a feeling that Mr. Diefenbaker is a capable and outspoken supporter of Western rights.

Mixed Support

In Manitoba, on the other hand a survey has indicated mixed support for the Saskatchewan member of Parliament. Younger elements in the Progressive Conservative group have indicated they favor Mr. Diefenbaker, but a number of the elder memebrs have said Mr. Drew is their choice.

Their possible support for the Ontario Premier, however, is said to be dependent on his personal platform granting concessions to the Prairie Provinces.

Some public support for Mr. Diefenbaker already has come from Ontario. It is on this fact that a number of Western Canadians base the belief they can swing the voting to the man of their choice.

They say that if Eastern delegates split between Premier Drew and Mr. Diefenbaker, the ultimate winner may have to depend on the Western vote.

Little Chance Parliament Have Defence Committee

OTTAWA. Aug. 29 — (CP).— There is a slim chance Parliament will have a committee on atomic energy at its next session, but less chance it will have one on defence. Opposition members have pressed for both sporadically since the end of the war.

Towards the end of the last session Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South) drew from Trade Minister Howe the promise to consider establishing of House Committee on Atomic Energy. Whether it goes beyond that is very doubtful.

Opposition requests by Mr. Green and others for a Defence Committee have met even less encouragement.

On both scores the government feels the threats to security in a troubled world are too large to have its ace experts exposed to a flood of questions that could easily, if inadvertently, let loose some facts that should not be loose.

There is also, to a greater or a leser degree, the fear that questioning would bring out some facts or opinions that could embarrass the policy the government is following. There are those, for instance, within the three regular forces who consider Canada's present and contemplated standing strength inadequate.

Future of UN

Top government officials here feel the coming session of the United Nations General Assembly in Paris may hold the key to the future of UN.

The dissension-wracked organization will have up for consideration a number of controversial issues, and on their disposal may turn the UN's fate.

After it is over, one official said, "we'll be in a better position to speculate on the future of the UN."

Shuffle: There is some speculation here that Transport Minister Chevrier is headed for the External Affairs portfolio when Hon. Louis St. Laurent leaves that job for the Prime Ministry.

Observers consider it significant that Mr. Chevrier is going to the United National General Assembly in Paris next month as No. 2 man to Prime Minister King. He will take over as head of the Canadian delegation when Mr. King leaves in mid-session to attend the Empire Prime Ministers' conference in London.

George Raft Still Talks Of Retiring

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30 (AP). —George Raft, who has waxed philosophical these days, still talks of chucking the movie business to tour the world.

By this time, you have probably learned to take stars' retirement talk with more than one grain of salt. Fred Astaire and George Brent are among those who have said they were quitting, and both are still treading the sound stages. But Raft seems semi-serious about his intent. His words:

"I've always said I will quit the picture business before it quits me."

Although Raft pictures have always drawn well at the box office, he is worried about the future.

"With film business the way it is, you've got to have star names to draw the people in," he reflected. "I haven't been with a top cast for 10 years.

"People look at one theatre and see Katharine Hepburn, Spencer Tracy, June Allyson, and somebody else in something. Then they look at another theatre and see George Raft in something. Which picture do you think they are going to see?"

Report 46 Fatalities At Weekend Heat Blamed For 20 Drownings

By The Canadian Press

The heat wave's last blistering hours received direct blame for three week-end fatalities in Eastern Canada while several drownings were attributed indirectly to the hot spell.

A Canadian Press compilation today showed 46 persons died of unnatural causes in Eastern Canada during August's last week end.

Twenty persons were drowned, 15 met death in traffic mishaps, three suffered heat-stroke, two were shot and there was one death each from scalding, a fall, a tonsil operation and a logging accident. In addition, police said a young Toronto mother, Mrs. Pearl Isrealson, 28, with her little son clutched in her arms, leaped from a viaduct and both were killed. Police said the woman brooded over the death of her husband, Birrell, in a traffic accident near Thessalon, July 6.

A young Montreal Canadiens hockey player was drowned while swimming near his home at Clark City, Que., about 300 miles north of Quebec City. He was Allan Leonard, 19, whose contract was bought last season by Canadiens from New York Rangers, another National Hockey League Club.

Also in Quebec province, Dione Cartier, 16 months, of Montreal was drowned near Brownsburg; Camille Poirer, 50, lost his life while swimming in Montreal's Back river; and a man identified only as LaFrance was drowned at Las Des Plages near Papineauville.

Twin brothers Gerry and Ross Lockey, eight, were drowned while swimming in the Otter River near Tillsonburg.

Other drownings were: Richard Ardley, Windsor, near Chatham; William O'Sullivan, in Cook's Lake, near Timmins; Alias Dorsey, 30, Brantford, in a swimming pool seven miles west of Brantford; an unidentified woman, believed to be an American, near Wallaceburg; Maurice Ethier, 24, Ottawa, in the St. Lawrence River at Cornwall; Sharon Oswald, six, in Lake Huron at Hillsborough, Ont.; Mona Mayne, 16, in undertow at Port Colborne; Elmer J. Rinn, 42, Toronto, in the Nottawasaga River at Wasaga Beach; Melvin Sheardown, 28, in the Humber River near Brampton.

Stewart Flewelling, 16, was drowned while swimming with companions in the Conestogo River a few miles north of Drayton, Ont.

Inflated rubber inner tubes were a factor in two drownings. Fred Bailey, 25, a non-swimmer, rolled off a tube at Hamilton and was drowned. Nine-year-old Neil Meir of Hamilton lost his life at Ipperwash, when a tube on which he was riding overturned and dumped him into three feet of water.

Double Fatalities

The Timmins area of Northern Ontario had two double fatalities. Roland Trudel and Roger Lahie of Ramore, Ont., were drowned when a truck plunged into Swan Lake. Mrs. Ranson Joy of Timmins and her 19-month-old daughter, Dora, were killed and Mrs. Joy's husband suffered severe injuries in a collision between an automobile and a taxicab.

Sidney Tapp, 37, and Howard Sharpen, 32, were killed when an automobile and a street-car collided in the Toronto suburb of New Toronto. The street-car motorman, Robert Boustead, and a third occupant of the car, F. Beyer, were injured.

An automobile carrying a wedding party crashed into a ditch near Glace Bay, N.S. Mrs. John Vaters, 22, matron of honor at her sister's wedding was killed. The groom, Roy Campbell, and a wedding guest, Mrs. Robert Moore, were injured.

Near Brampton, the crash of an automobile into a tree killed Norman Spargo, 32, of Toronto and injured four other persons.

Other Victims

Other victims of traffic accidents were: Peggy Ann Becker, 16 months, run over by a backing automobile at Niagara Falls, Ont.; Abraham Lunlinsky, 71, Montreal, hit by a street-car; Francois Tardif, 72, East Angus, Que., struck by a bus; Kenny Wilson, 25, Windsor Mills, Que., in a collision between a motorcycle and an automobile; David Cowan, 53, struck down by an automobile in Windsor; John Kidd, pinned under an overturned bread truck near Peterborough.

W. J. Mead, 62, Hespeler, knocked down by an automobile near Galt; Cletus McCrank, 29, who fell from a tractor seat an Venosta Que.; Caddy Norris, 53, injured in a street accident at St. Andrew's, N.B.; Paul Conseillier, struck by a Quebec City bus.

The extreme heat was blamed for the death of Jake Rhodes, 82, at Kitchener; of three-months-old Shirley Travis at St. Catharines; and of Seaman John Lydon, 29, of Toronto, at Brockville.

Omer Pelletier, 16, of Edmundston. Mrs. Agnes Cameron, 74, died in a fall from a third-storey window of her home in the horse frightened June Hammer, Montreal suburb of Verdun. A four, and she stumbled into a bucket of hot water which fatally scalded her near Kitchener. Richard Ashur, six, died during a tonsil operation at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Montreal reported two fatal shootings. Guy Ayotte, 14, died in what police said was his father's William Tell attempt to shoot a hat off the boy's head. The shot pierced the youth's forehead. Police also said that a revolver discharged accidentally in a restaurant during an after-wedding party killed Mabel Dickson 13, sister of the bride.

B-A Ousts Kingston, 14-10 To Advance In OASA Play

B-A beat Kingston 14-10 at the Bowl on Saturday night to take their OASA Intermediate "A" series in two straight tilts. A big crowd saw a fair fray, replete with arguments, in which B-A broke lose for six runs in the sixth to clinch it. The visitors had a little margin in hitting and fielding, but B-A bunched blows in the right spots, including homers by Crowe and Hawkes, Burton's triple and doubles by Leether and Crowe. Ron Akers pitched steady ball and Bob Strickland, who took over in the eighth, proved a puzzle to the scrappy visitors. Smith was ejected in the fourth for arguing too hotly, and Sharpe finished on the Kingston slab.

Crowe had three hits in five tries, and Hawkes and Leether two in four each, with Starr getting a pair in five attempts. Ball was the big Kingston clouter with a homer, triple and two singles in six, as Rawley and Belwa had three bingles apiece. A catch by Ball in left was a fielding feature. Arguments slowed up the fairly even contest.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The main attraction at the club this week is the open mixed doubles tournament for the Black Memorial Trophy to be held on Wednesday, Sept. 1, the first round commencing at 9.30 a.m. Let's hope we have a fine day for it—bright, but not too hot. Although this tournament is only two years of age it is considered one of the big events locally, and it is the premier mixed doubles tournament of the province.

While we had a big entry last season, we have about one-third more this year. We expect that all of the greens will be in use all day. A cordial invitation is extended to all to motor out to the greens on Wednesday and see some of the finest lawn bowlers in action.

Tonight we play the last stage of the men's club singles at 7.00 o'clock.

Tuesday night at 7 o'clock the novice singles competition will get under way and then on Thursday night Group No. 1 and No. 2 continue with the schedule.

The winners on Friday night were: (1) C. Renaud and E. Pritchard; (2) G. Soulby and G. Hewitt; (3) K. Shadgett and B. Benson.

The winning skips on Saturday night were: (1) H. Taylor; (2) J. Harrison; (3) P. Moore.

Westclox Takes PWSU Series Against Toronto

Westclox edged out Toronto Young Motors 5-4 at the Bowl on Saturday afternoon to sweep their PWSU intermediate "A" playdown series in two straight. They had won the opener 3-1 in Toronto earlier in the week, and now will probably go into provincial semi-finals. A fair-sized crowd braved the heat to see a swell struggle. Errors hurt R. Hayden's cause as she hurled six-hit ball with three strikeouts and two walks. H. Waite started for Westclox, gave way in the fourth to M. Downer, with N. Kennedy going in in the seventh and probably saving the game for the Clockers.

The Toronto team had the tying run on second at the end, and it was a tight tussle throughout with some good ball shown. J. Vass shone in the field, with M. Hawthorne also good. J. Fisher and A. Fleming went well defensively for the losers. V. Dorsett led the locals at bat with two hits in four attempts and J. Childerley got two safeties for the Young Motors.

The teams:

Kingston Locos Get Second From Batawa

KINGSTON, Aug. 30—(CP)—Paced by the six-hit pitching of Howie Garrison, Kingston Locos captured the second straight game in the Central Ontario Baseball League semi-final series by edging Batawa, 6-4, here Saturday.

Schedule for the senior "B" Petes' lacrossers winds up this week. Scarboro Grads play the locals here tonight at nine in Miller Bowl, it being the Grads' "home" game. Manager Muck McWhinnie has a strengthened squad, which recently beat Oshawa, so it might be a good game. And Oshawa are here Friday to finish it up. Then the playoffs. Looks like Orillia and the Petes in one set of group semi-finals, and Huntsville against Oshawa in the other, but we haven't all the playoff dope yet. Our intermediate and minor lacrossers are hot into playoffs now, also.

* * * * * *

A number of athletes have told us they agree with Don Hendren's advice to avoid the team water bottle and thus cut down chances of disease. A gridder, who played with him last season and will be out with the locals again this fall, was emphatically in accord with the thought. And one of the Petes lacrossers said he was all for it too, but felt that the use of a water bucket, a dipper and dixie cups for the individual players was the answer. A good thought, at that. It certainly wouldn't cost much money or trouble and would give the guys a cup of their own for a drink during a game, when resistance is down and sweat is up.

Westclox Get Series

Westclox girls made it two straight over Young Motors of Toronto on Saturday aft in the Bowl to sweep their PWSU intermediate "A" playdown series. Did it 5-4 with both clubs going well. Norma Kennedy was rushed to the rescue in the late innings as the Toronto team threatened to extend the series, and she probably saved the day. But H. Waite and M. Downer did okay, too. V. Dorsett let the hitters, and J. Vass and M. Hawthorne were good in the field. It is likely that Coach Frank McCormack's crew will step into Ontario semi-finals now.

At the Bowl on Saturday night, a hefty gallery saw B-A beat Kingston 14-10 to oust them two straight in OASA intermediate "A" playdowns. Haven't heard what team they meet next. Ron Akers was his usual steady self on the slab, but Bob Strickland was added as insurance in the eighth and his whistler battled the opposition but for one in the ninth. Crowe, Leether, Hawkes and Starr all hit well. First Kingston flinger was chucked out in the fourth for arguing too strenuously. Ball was their big batter. Like most Kingston clubs, they crabbed about everything, yelling blue murder if the umps call their runner out—even when he was out by two steps! It got tiresome.

Petes Beat Napanee

And in Riverside on Saturday afternoon, the intermediate Petes opened their OBA intermediate "A" playdowns with a comfy 9-5 victory over Napanee. Not too much to spare, but enough. They go again in Gibbardsville on Wednesday. Jack Turner had a scrappy outfit on deck and they hustled all the way. Kicked some, but came up with four twin killings to cut down Napanee threats. Roy Armour pitched neatly, as Dugan, White, Sullivan and McRae had two blows apiece. White drove three home with a triple to right, and McRae belted a long three-run homer to centre in the fifth. Gerow led the Naps at bat with three for five. A tidy tussle.

* * * * * *

Those surprising Kingston Locos continue their late-season surge, and they defeated Batawa 6-4 in Kingston on Saturday. To make it two in as many starts of their best-of-five COBL semi-finals. The third tilt likely tonight in Bella Villa. Begins to look like the Petes will be in action in the finals by the end of this week, and making the long hauls in the four-of-seven serial to the Limestone City. Despite six errors behind him, Garrison threw a good game to gain the verdict. Gordie Muffitt, supposed to be on the shelf for a space yet, went in for Bata but gave way in the eighth to Peacock. Cosgrove, Mulholland and Watson each had two bingles.

That 10-Mile Grind

Excessive heat Saturday held down the entries in the Harriers' Club 10-mile road race from Lakefield to Peterborough. However, those who competed made a good showing, with W. A. Thistlewaite of Norwood the winner. Did the distance in 78 minutes, 50-4 seconds, a little slower than Jack Martin turned in last year. Jack was second this time and B. Crowder third. Thistlewaite and maybe Martin will train now for the 26-mile marathon in Hamilton in November. Club's next event will be a meet against Oshawa Shamrock Club in the near future. Quite a few entrants backed out of the Saturday run here.

Trojans Get Series

Al Menzies' young peewee Trojans trekked to Kingston on Saturday and won 19-14 to take their OBA playdown series in two straight games. They hit hard with runners aboard, had good fielding and steady pitching. Whatman threw for seven innings and earned the win. Frizzelle finished up neatly. Jenkins went the route for the losers. Gary Kearns, besides fielding well, banged out two home runs, while Ball and Turner of Trojans hit a homer each. The whole team turned in a nifty performance, and may go into semi-finals now.

East City Wins OBA Series From Trenton

East City trounced Trenton 21-10 here on Friday to take their OBA bantam "A" playdown series in two straight games. Bunching hits and cashing in on extra base blows in the right spots, they rolled up the count, especially in a big fourth frame. Withers hit two homers and two singles in five, while Byrne got four hits in five appearances, Pammett getting two for four. Hinton and Mitts each hit safely twice for Trenton. McGrath and Scriver pitched well for East City, the latter taking over in the sixth. Seven East City batters went down swinging, but 11 of the visitors struck out. The teams:

Petes Victors In First Over Napanee

By FRED MAYBEE

Peterborough defeated Napanee Saturday 9-5 at Riverside in the first of a best-of-three series in the OBA intermediate "A" playdowns. Four double plays by the locals featured the game as Sullivan and Conway proved a star keystone combination afield.

Roy Armour twirled fine ball for the locals, scattering seven hits and working steadily with men on base. His support was good throughout. Peterborough came from behind to win as White drove in three runs in the fourth with a triple and McRae lined a long homer to centre in the fifth with two aboard. McRae, White, Dugan and Sullivan had two hits apiece to lead the attack, while for Napanee Gerow with three hits for five, Jocko, Scarlett and the Greens looked best. The teams meet Wednesday in Napanee.

FIRE-PROOF KITCHENS

The accent on fire safety in post-war home building has boosted use of fire-proof materials for floor and wall covering in the kitchen where most home fires start.

THERE'S NO REASON why a coal miner shouldn't turn out to be a star golfer. Still, when one does, it's news. Maker of the news at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., is Alex Scott, trim six-footer who puts in 7½ hours a day, six days a week, in an anthracite mine and puts in his seventh day on the golf links. Alex isn't content to be just a run of the mill golfer. He means business and he has his eye on the National Open—if it comes east next year. This summer he broke the course record at the Wyoming Valley Country club with a 62. Alex was overseas with the 17th Airborne Division during the war and there was no time for golf.

In the classified pace Nancy Budlong, owned by Stan Blewett of Peterborough, was the winner, with a fourth and two firsts.

Ingleside, owned by Ken Oshier of Pembroke, took the 2.22 class in the afternoon with a third and two firsts. And in the other afternoon event, the 2.28 class, Princess Harvester, owned by Ed Stanbury of Campbellford, won all three heats in an entry of eight horses.

On Friday night Jimmy Brewer swept the 2.20 class with three firsts and broke his own record. And in the Saturday free-for-all he broke it again, romping home in 2.09.

Brooks Climb To 1st Place Down Cards In Twin Bill

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooklyn's Dodgers have accomplished what many experts said would be impossible.

In last place July 2, Burt Shotton's amazing Brooklyn club was perched in first place today following a tremendous two-month drive out of the National League cellar.

They did it the hard way too, sweeping both ends of a doubleheader from their arch-rivals, St. Louis Cardinals, 12-7 and 6-4, Sunday. A crowd of 33,826, largest St. Louis crowd of the season, saw the Dodgers extend their latest winning streak to five straight.

Of course, the Brooks needed help. They got it from Pittsburgh Pirates who knocked off the erstwhile leader, Boston Braves twice, 6-1 and 5-1.

As a result, the Brooks found themselves three percentage points ahead of the Braves, who lead the third-place Cards by 1½ games. Pittsburgh established itself as a definite pennant threat by climbing within three games of the top.

Robinson Sparkplug

As in many of their victories during this spectacular surge which saw them win 39 out of 55 games, the Dodgers were paced Sunday by Jackie Robinson, their star Negro second baseman. Robby cracked out six hits in the twin bill. He was simply poison to the Cardinals hurlers in the opener when he hit for the cycle. He started with his 10th home run of the season, and followed with a triple, double and single in six times at bat.

Robinson also stole a base, his 17th of the season. Incidentally, all have come during the last two months. He did not steal a single base in his first 50 games.

The second game went 10 innings before the Brooks put over the clincher. A pinch single by Arky Vaughan drove in Pete Reiser with the winning run.

Forces Overtime

Stan Musial did his best to keep the Cards in the game. It was his triple with two out in the last of the ninth that forced the game into overtime. It scored two runners and deadlocked the game at 4-4. Musial, who collected four hits for the afternoon to raise his league-leading batting average to .382, cracked his 34th home run in a losing cause in the opener.

Rookie Bob Chesnes of Pittsburgh bagged his 11th triumph against only three defeats limiting the floundering Braves to seven hits. A four-run rally in the seventh inning won the nightcap for Vic Lombardi.

Cincinnati's Reds extended the New York Giants losing streak to six straight whipping Leo Durocher's men in both ends of a doubleheader by the same 3-2 score. Pinch-hitter Danny Litwhiler singled home the winning run in the last of the ninth in the first game, and pinch hitter Augie Galan did the same in the fifth inning of the second game. The nightcap was called with two out in the last of the fifth because of rain.

Divide Pair

Chicago's tail-end Cubs divided a pair with Philadelphia Phils, winning the second game 10-4 after Walter Dubiel of the Phils won a 1-0 hurling duel from Bob McCall of the Cubs.

The American League race remained unchanged as every club divided doubleheaders.

Boston's pace-setting Red Sox split with St. Louis Browns in Boston, winning the opener 10-2, but losing the nightcap, 12-4. A three-run homer by Ted Williams and a grand slammer by Birdie Tebbetts helped Joe Dobson win his 14th game for the Sox. Les Moss, Don Lund and Al Zarilla banged four-baggers for the Browns in the nightcap.

The runner-up New York Yankees gained a split with Detroit Tigers at the stadium, winning the second game 11-10, after Detroit had come from behind to win the opener 9-6. The Tigers, trailing 9-0 in the nightcap, came up with five runs in each of the sixth and seventh innings to take a 10-9 lead. However, Bill Johnson socked a two-run homer in the eighth to win for the Yankees.

After Bob Lemon had pitched the third-place Cleveland Indians a 6-0 shutout over Washington Senators, the Nats came back to win the second game 5-2.

Lemon racked up his 18th victory of the season and his ninth shutout with a three-hitter in the opener.

The fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics defeated Chicago White Sox 5-4 in the first game, but the American League cellar-dwellers came back to win the second game 7-2.

Carl Scheib pitched and batted the A's to a victory in the first game. He tripled and scored the winning run. He also slammed a pinch-hit homer in the second game.

Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene, Ont., was charged with the second game loss.

Batting Jackie Robinson and Arky Vaughan, Dodgers—Robinson clouted a home run, triple, double and single to help the Dodgers defeat the Cardinals in the opener 12-7; Vaughan's pinch single drove in the tie-breaking run in the 10th to give Brooklyn a 6-4 triumph in the second game.

Pitching, Bob Lemon, Indians—Blanked Washington Senators 6-0 on three hits for his ninth shutout of the season and his 18th victory.

Rescue Student After 14 Hours In Cold Water

PORT STANLEY, Aug. 30. — (CP).—James Keene Lambie, 20, London University student, clung to an overturned dinghy for 14 hours in 50-degree water before he was rescued off this port Sunday.

Suffering from shock and exposure, the chemical engineering student is in bed under doctor's care. His condition is favorable.

Eyewitnesses only 75 yards away failed to heed Lambie's help signal.

"I didn't want to let the boat drift away because I had just borrowed it to try out," the young man told rescuers.

He said he waved his paddle as distress signal after the craft turned over and people on the breakwater "just waved back."

Lambie started out at 7:30 last night to test the boat with the object of buying it. When he failed to return at midnight one of the most extensive lake searches was started.

Join Search

Hundreds of Orchard Beach residents ranged the beaches on foot and in cars all the way to Port Bruce, and at daybreak boats from Port Stanley joined the search, while dozens of other craft stood ready at Port Bruce, Port Talbot and Port Burwell.

Two planes added support from the air. One took off from Yarmouth and the other flew in from London.

While the search was being organized the frail dinghy was being inexorably carried east and out into the lake on a prevailing current.

While the youth clung to the bow, the craft swung back in toward shore abreast of Orchard Beach. Lambie was not able to manoeuvre it closer than 100 yards from shore, and the drift gradually pulled the boat out into the lake.

When rescued by one of two navy boats which took part in the search, after clinging to the boat all night, Lambie was almost five miles off shore and six miles east of Port Stanley.

BRAMPTON, Aug. 30 — (CP). — Walter Litello, 17, of Toronto, was arrested here Saturday night on a charge of assault. He was with six other Toronto youths police said might have been members of Toronto's notorious "Beanery Gang."

Tries Tell Stunt Father Kills Son

MONTREAL, Aug. 30—(CP).—Provincial Police said Sunday night that Alexandre Ayotte, 51, tried to play William Tell by shooting a hat off the head of his 14-year-old son Guy but instead fired a fatal bullet through his forehead.

Ayotte was held as a material witness after the shooting at dusk Saturday outside his one-room shack in suburban Ville Lasalle.

Police said that Ayotte, father of 12 children, was sitting out side of the house with his wife when Guy handed him a rifle and asked him to shoot a hat off his head.

The father agreed. The boy covered his head with his raincoat, balanced a board on top of his head and placed a battered fedora on top of that.

Then, as Guy's mother watched, the father took aim from his chair six feet away and fired. The boy fell to the ground wounded, and died shortly afterward.

Netherlands Has Special Mass Said For Council

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 30 (CP)—A special mass for the World Council of Churches now in session here was celebrated in every Roman aCtholic Church in the Netherlands on Sunday, although the Roman Catholic Church has refused to participate in the Council.

The Archbishop of Utrecht, in an episcopal letter, wrote that the Roman Catholic Church could not carelessly ignore the "great and sincere desire for unity" out of which the World Council had been born. Therefore, in addition to special prayers, he called for the solemn mass "that all might share in this unity."

Sunday, a day of rest from discussions, an ecumenical oratorio called "The Song of Unity" was sung for the World Council at the Old Church here—after rehearsals lasting more than a year.

Dr. Reinhold Neibuhr told the Council on Saturday that Communism will abandon use of force when it has gained its ends.

Dr. Niebuhr, a minister of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, and a member of the Faculty of Union Theological Seminary, New York, was reporting on the deliberations of a Council group on "The Church and the Disorder of Society."

Positive Attitude

He said there was a "remarkable degree of concensus" in the group, which will make recommendations to the Council, that the Church could not take a "negative attitude" of Communism.

He said this attitude was taken "in view of the fact that this Communistic revolt expresses the discontent of vast masses of insecure people, and that we ourselves as churches everywhere had to recognize our involvement in the injustices and insecurities which Communism seeks or promises to cure.

"This was one point on which we were agreed."

Dr. Niebuhr said he proposed to the group that it should regard Communism as "both better and worse than Fascism on the basis that Communism was a Christian heresy and Fascism and Nazism were anti-Christian paganism."

Blames Church For Jewish Failure

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 30—(AP).—Ecclesiastical leaders said today the World Council of Churches will go on record acknowledging the guilt of the Christian Church for at least part of the racial strife over Palestine.

But the Church will avoid any questions of political opinion on the question, said Dr. Conrad Hoffman, secretary of the 'Church and Israel' sub-committee of the world council assembly. The committee is drafting recommendations on the Jewish question for submission at the plenary session of the council this week.

"We of the Christian Church must feel our guilt in the fact that we have failed to solve the problem of anti-semitism," Hoffman told reporters.

"Christendom failed to prevent the annihilation of 6,000,000 Jews by Hitler — a third of the entire Jewish people," he said. Hoffman, New York Presbyterian lay consultant at the world council, dclared: "We failed to provide any plans for the rescue of the Jews from Hitler."

"We thereby provoked the present pressure on Palestine." Hoffman said he felt the Jewish question was "an inescapable problem for the Church and I don't believe the council can evade it."

He said he personally believed it was not true that all the Jews in Palestine are "ardent Zionists. They are that only by force of circumstances."

Cattle Judging Begins At 'Ex'

TORONTO, Aug. 30—(CP). — The Canadian National Exhibition today started its first full week with the kids taking over the big fair in annual "Children's Day."

For many it will be the last big event before school opens.

One of the highlights for the children will be the amateur diving and swimming championships for youngsters ranging up to 15 years old. Thirty-four events are scheduled, with most entrants from Toronto.

The agricultural aspect of the fair gets under way in earnest this week, when cattle judging begins. Judging of dairy products, grain, vegetables and honey begins today. The international cat show also opens.

With the lessening heat, which may have kept many away, attendance is expected to boom. Spectators and marchers collapsed all over the grounds Saturday during the annual Warriors' Day parade, when the temperature reached more than 180 degrees in the sun.

At least 25 heat prostrations, none of them serious, kept the St. John Ambulance Association busy up to mid-afternoon and then they lost count. The official figure of 100 (in the shade) was believed a record temperature for a CNE day.

Earl Mountbatten of Burma took the salute at the grandstand as 10,000 fighting men marched past. The veterans swelled attendance for the day to 256,000. This was some 15,500 below the same day for 1947 and brought the two-day attendance to 362,000, compared with 375,500 for the opening two days last year.

7 Auto Crashes Investigated By City Police

It may have been the hot weather, but the accident record seems to indicate motorists in the city were getting into more trouble than those in the country. Just one minor accident was reported for the district by provincial police on Sunday.

On the other hand, city police had to investigate seven auto accidents within seven or eight hours on Saturday. There were none reported for Sunday.

Possibly the most spectacular of the wide variety of week-end motor mishaps was on Water St., North, at noon Saturday. The car driven by Ralph McQuade, R.R. 4, Peterborough, traced a 200-foot-plus course skidding along the pavement, then the road shoulder, before finally crashing through steel and wooden fence posts and coming to rest in the Otonabee river near the Auburn dam on the outskirts of the city.

The accident happened when McQuade failed to make the small curve on the highway. The car skidded more than 150 feet on the highway and another 50 feet on the shoulder of the road. It struck a steel fence, snapped three steel posts and a wooden one, went through for another 24 feet before coming to rest with its four wheels in the river. When it was pulled from the water, damage was found to include: split radiator, crumpled grill and two fenders, both bumpers broken, running-board curled back, and hood damaged. PC C. J. McGillen investigated.

Cyclist Injured

Only injury of consequence was to 61-year-old Stephen Benze of 617 Rubidge St. Cycling near Charlotte and George Sts., the elderly man was in collision on his bicycle with a truck Saturday driven by George Levitt, 298 Wolfe St. PC's Gordon Trennum and Ernest Beatty carried the injured Benze to the curb and a police car took him to St. Joseph's Hospital. His injuries were broken ribs and possible internal injuries.

Hit-and-Run Damages

A hit-and-run artist left fender damage to the car of N. B. Hills, 490 Dickson St. on Saturday night. The car had been parked on Charlotte St.

Another victim of hit-and-run work was the car of M. Forsythe, R.R. 1, Peterborough. It was parked Saturday evening on Aylmer St. near Lansdowne while Mr. Forsythe was attending the Exhibition. Fender and running-board were damaged.

About $50 damage resulted from a collision about 7.40 p.m. Saturday at Princess and Aylmer Sts. Cars involved were those of Joseph Duffy, R.R. 5, Lindsay and Delbert Fife, Monaghan Rd. South. The Duffy vehicle had been parked on Princess St.

An accident near noon Saturday happened at the busy Hunter-Water Sts. corner with a collision between the cars of Stewart Ley of Orillia and Albert F. LeMoyre, 90 Hope St., Port Hope. The LeMoyre car was undamaged. Damage to the Ley car was dents to the rear bumper, trunk, trunk panel and a broken tail light.

Two city buses collided with each other at the corner of Sherbrooke and Aylmer Sts. Saturday evening about 7.15. Drivers were B. Williams and J. Vilneff. Damage to the big vehicles was slight in each case.

Very slight damage was caused two cars in collision on No. 7 Highway Sunday night about 5.30. They were driven by Howard Quinn, Otonabee and E. Goodrich of Castleton. The accident happened near Keene and was investigated by Provincial Constable George Henderson.

Speed Essential In Salvaging Scarred Timber

Plans are being completed rapidly for the salvage of millions of board feet of timber from the 180 square miles of bushlands burned over in the huge Mississagi and Chapleau area forest fires during May and June.

Aerial sketching and photographing under the direction of the Department of Lands and Forests of which Hon. Harold Scott is minister, of the devastated townships was completed last month. Since then ground crews, using these maps and photographs, have been laying out sections for salvage. Their work has been augmented by that of rangers from the insect laboratory at the Soo, who have been investigating the progress of timber-destroying insects in the burned out area.

Both the ground survey and the insec investigation are nearing completion, and it is expected contracts for taking out the salvagable timber will be made soon. It is reported there will be many bids from Ontario lumber firms for the contracts.

The surveyors' reports indicate some of the damaged timber must be taken out quickly if it is to be of any use. The entomologists say bores have made more progress into the timber than was thought possible.

Meanwhile, fire fighters are busy trying to prevent another epidemic of fires. Two new blazes were reported in widely separated sections Friday, and they bring to six the number of outbreaks to be discovered this week. None of the six is large but it is feared the continued dry weather may give one of them a chance to spread disastrously before rangers are able to reach the scene.

JUST A BIT INFORMAL for a member of "royalty," is Queen Irene Gerwatoska, 5, as she publicly kisses King Raymond Stednick, 2. The youngsters were crowned in a New York playground contest for the most handsome boy and the prettiest girl.

Weekend High Of 95 Degrees Hit On 3 Days

Peterborough citizens in common with other residents in southern Ontario and Quebec breathed with relief today as the thermometer took a 15-degree dip. At 9 a.m. today the temperatur was 74 and it remained at that figure at 12 a.m.

Cooling 15 - mile - per - hour winds from the northwest overnight brought welcome respite from last week's heat wave which kept temperatures in the upper 80's and well into the 90's. According to the records it was the hottest spell since 1936.

Early today the sky was overcast although no rain had fallen up until noon. In contrast to the last six days downtown shoppers had lost that harassed look and were able to go about their business without perspiring at every step. In fact, very few shirt sleeves or shorts were to be seen. Most of the women were clad in slacks and jackets. And one of them complained to her companion about the coolness of the air.

The sizzling weather began a week ago Friday, when the temperature was 80. It jumped five degrees over the week-end registering 85 on the 21st and 84 on the 22nd. Then the heat wave struck in earnest. On Monday and Tuesday it was 87 and it was 90 by Wednesday noon, hitting the high-mark of 96 before the day was out. Unofficial readings were much higher. Thursday's high was 94 and Friday, Saturday and Sunday baked the citizens in a blazing 95.

There were no reports of Peterborough people falling victims to heat prostration. A couple of elderly folk had bad tumbles on the street but these were put down to the victims' ages as much as the heat.

Sales Up 75 Percent

Ice retailers reported a booming business. The largest firm in the city did a record business on Saturday with an uninterrupted stream of business from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Another ice dealer estimated sales up 75 per cent.

Soft drink companies said they were swamped with orders.

"Our business more than doubled," said a manager of one firm. "We were kept so busy we could not really keep up with the demand. The chief slowdown was a shortage of cases and bottles." The bottle shortage and the booming business were both confirmed by another firm.

Ice cream sales were just about doubled, according to a survey made by The Examiner, and consumption of bottled milk, at city restaurants and other eating places, more than doubled.

Tomato Crop Damaged

Chief damage due to heat was caused to cauliflowers and tomatoes. According to a well-known local market gardiner, the foliage on the plants was not enough to save many of them from the scorching sun. Many of the tomatoes were blistered.

As a result of this damage to the tomato crop all across southern Ontario, including the canning crop, the market is said to be firm today.

On Sunday local beaches were packed with families who had fled their homes in an attempt to remain cool. A number of lily-white skins showed that some of them were out for the first time.

The weatherman promises cool weather for the rest of today and Tuesday so those people who haven't been sleeping too well during the recent tropical weather will have a chance to catch up on their lost slumber.

Peterborough Girls Capture Fourth and Fifth In Des Moines Competition

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 30 — (Special to Examiner). — Peterborough's two teams survived the preliminary competition but finished fourth and fifth in the finals of the National AAU synchronized swimming meet at the Golf and Country Club pool here Sunday. St. Clair Recreation of Detroit, Mich., won the team championship to take the national crown from the defending champions Town Club team of Chicago.

Peterborough's team totals were only ten-hundredths of a point apart at 90.85 and 90.75. The winning St. Clair squad score, 113.60 points; the two Town Club squads from Chicago amassed 109.10 and 104.85 points respectively.

By unanimous decision of the judges, the Peterborough girls were awarded a special sportsmenship trophy in recognition of their splendid co-operation during the meet and their fine sportsmenship at all times.

Third Annual Meet

A record crowd of 1,987 persons attended the final session of the team competition Sunday night. This year's meet was the third annual competition in the synchronized meet.

One Peterborough team presented "In a Persian Market" as its theme. The nine-girl team of Beverley Rumary, Joan Coombs, Marilyn McInroy, Isabel Crary, Joan Peterson, Norma Gant, Margaret Buck, Doreen Graham, and Jill Groombridge were attired in black swim suits with small light chains about their ankles and wrists.

The second Canadian group represented "butterflies" and was composed of Iris Forbes Reilly, Jean Millard, Lillian Groombridge and Marilyn McInroy.

Their costumes included skirts shaped as butterfly wings and made a fine impression on the audience.

The entire Canadian group won the hearts of the spectators and the awarding of the Sportsmenship Trophy met with huge approval.

Placed Fourth

Iris Forbes Reilly and Jean Millard captures fourth place in the National A.A.U. synchronized swimming duet championships on Saturday night.

The Canadian girls, who snared the national junior championship earlier this year, stroked to 104.90 points in the field of seven finalist duos.

The title once again went to Alice Miscus and Marilyn Stanley of the Detroit, Mich., St. Clair Recreation Club. They retained the title won in 1947 in Chicago.

Second behind the Miscus-Stanley 112.40 total were Ann Neky and Shirley Walruth of the Elmwood Aquagals, Detroit, who tallied 108.65.

Third with a close 108.35 was another Detroit pair, Connie Dodoroff and Dolores Mitman of the St. Clair Recreation Centre.

Canada's representatives in the national competition also put on an exhibition before the 1,000 persons at the Des Moines Golf and Country Club — viewing the cool water proceedings in 95-degree Iowa weather.

Saturday's Race Free-For-All Set New Record

Local men who know the harness horses were agreed that it may be a long time before a Peterborough crowd sees as thrilling a race as the first heat of the free-for-all at the Exhibition Saturday. In fact they toss the two other heats into their opinion of that feature of the night card.

They were not greatly surprised by the performance of "Black Lock" owned by W. F. Fritz of Brighton in lowering the track record to 2.08 for the mile and defeating Hugh Stewart's "Stewart Worthy."

It was recalled that "Black Lock" went a mile and a sixteenth in the Derby Day races at New Hamburg, Aug. 14, in 2.15 for what was reported to be a new Ontario record.

Time For Mile 2.07

His time for the mile was 2.07, a full second better than his time for first heat Saturday night. At New Hamburg in western Ontario, the Fritz stallion (by Bennett Volo), was fourth in the first heat which was won by "Jimmy Brewer", owned by N. Deremo, winner of the 2nd and 3rd heats Saturday night. "Black Lock" finished in front in the second and third at New Hamburg. These are recent race facts which were probably not known to the great majority of the local crowd.

"Stewart Worthy" turned into the home stretch in the first of the free for all with a narrow lead that looked like a safe margin in the run to the wire. But, Al Pacey shook up the Fritz horse, went to the whip, and nipped Hugh Stewart's horse close to the wire with Jimmy Brewer nearby for third. The thrill of that race was worth the price of admission. President Stewart appeared to be a little over-confident in that finish, but that was only an impression.

The second heat taken by "Jimmy Brewer", although a second slower in 2.09 found "Stewart Worthy" pocketed at the head of the stretch. Mr. Stewart tried to get through in the middle of the track, decided not to take a chance on a narrow opening, and then drove to the pole position but that move was too late.

The third heat, with Black Lock drawn, sustained at the finish the thrills of the two others. "Stewart Worthy hit the top of the stretch with a lead of at least four lengths in front of "Jimmy Brewer". He appeared to have that one sewed up but he didn't have the leg to hold his margin. The Dermo horse closed fast on the outside and "Peter K. Lee" drew up to second place in the three horse finish.

Mr. Fritz asked to have his horse drawn in the third for the reason that it had developed "thumps" from the heat a kind of heart condition from the combination of strenuous racing in weather that was still hot at 10.30 p.m.

The followers of the harness horses will keep that free-for-all a long time in their memories. That first heat was a grand finish, and the two others were nearly on par with it in thrills for the crowd.

Cornet Soloist Captures Medal

Wilfred Jones, R.R. 4, Peterborough, won first class bronze medal for the best cornet soloist at the Salvation Army music camp, Jackson's Point, Lake Simcoe, during the week of Aug. 16-21; he was also placed third in the conducted baton competition. Tommy Farthing won the second class medal in bass playing and Albert Wilfong, second in bass drums. Albert Stevenson was a runner-up in the cornet class. Drummers Terry Hoffman and Murray Manders, students of Harold Barton, also made a very commendable showing.

The music camp comprised more than 150 students and 20 instructors from Eastern Ontario and Major C. Watt, head of the Peterborough Temple, said he was very gratified at the splendid showing made by Peterborough musicians and credit should be awarded to Arthur Shadgett, band leader, for his untiring instructional work throughout the past year, which assisted in making such a fine showing possible.

ONE OF TWO competing teams of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club which were awarded fourth and fifth places at the international meet in Des Moines on Sunday evening were, left to right, Shirley Moldaver, Norma Gant, Jill Groombridge and Marilyn McInroy. St. Clair Recreation Club of Detroit won the championship.

Two Outboard Motors Removed From Boats

Outboard motor thieves have been at it again in the Kawartha Lake district. Two more motors were reported stolen over the week-end.

One was owned by Walter Wright, 163 Morrow St. It was taken from his boat which was on Chemong Lake sometime Sunday. The motor had been left on the boat about Saturday midnight. Its loss was discovered by the owner about seven o'clock Sunday night.

The other reported theft was of a 5 horsepower motor taken from a boat near the cottage of Ralph Standish, 618 Gilmour St., located on Stony Lake. It was reported this morning to provincial police.

FIELDS PARCHED

For the first time this season fields of grass in the countryside around Peterborough presented a parched appearance Sunday from the concentrated sunshine and lack of moisture of last week.

BLOOMS AFTER 10 YEARS

Horticulturists must be keen on their hobby. Mrs. G. C. Northey, Aberdeen Ave., has waited 10 years for her night blooming cereus to flower. It did so on Sunday night. The bloom, all white, was seen by many neighbors.

THREE-IN-ONE

Robert Hendry, 313 Maitland Ave., while preparing breakfast on Sunday morning found an egg with three yokes. Mr. Hendry had broken one egg into the frying pan and it was in every way normal. He then thought he would have a second egg, and when he broke it into the pan he found it contained three yokes. So the congenial Robert had four yokes for his Sunday morning breakfast instead of the usual two. Seldom is it reported that eggs contain three yokes, although double-yoked eggs are not unusual.

LOCAL ASKS CONCILIATION

Negotiations between Local 293 UPWA-CIO and the Quaker Oats Co. over the terms of the new agreement, have reached a deadlock and the union said today it asked for conciliation. The negotiating committee has been meeting with the company since August 10. The old contract expires on August 31. Among other demands the local wants a 40-hour week, or a five-and-a-half-day week with all time worked after noon on Saturday paid at time and a half; wage increases; two weeks vacations with pay after one year; a union shop; the probationary period cut from six months to 30 days; the "no strike" clause taken out of the agreement, as well as other clauses relating to bonuses and revised rate classifications.

BIG CLEAN UP JOB

Groundsmen were cleaning up the litter of paper at the Exhibition park today. It looked like a week's job. A few wilted asters and Reeve M. H. Johnston's tall stalk of corn were the only remnants of the flower and vegetable show. Merchants and manufacturers were taking away the last of their displays, and the cattle barns were empty.

SIX HOUR SHOW

C. A. J. Duranceau, 280 Simcoe St. owns a plant of the cactus family called the night-blooming cereus. It stands 10 feet high and its 13 blooms open for six hours only out of the year's 8,688. Its flowers opened at 10 p.m. on Saturday and closed at 6 a.m. on Sunday and if all goes well, they will appear again in one year's time.

Work Started On New Arena

Hugh Wilson of Cannington arrived today at the Park St. arena site ready to go to work. He was heading a group of workmen who were all ready to begin erection of the skating and hockey rink that is promised for next winter.

Mr. Wilson is the contractor for this job. He was greeted by Ald. H. Dodds who was on the ground at 8 o'clock. Lumber as promised was on hand, and apparently the stage was fully set for the men to go to work. The committee has been patiently waiting for the sound of saws that was heard this morning, and the action invoked early in the arena campaign by Ald. Dodds was manifestly getting under way. Another pending engagement is the completion of the structure in a drive that is being planned for September.

Cyclist Injured Driver Fined $25

John W. Moore, 487 Thompson Ave., was today found guilty on a charge of careless driving and fined $25 and $7.50 costs by Magistrate A. E. Gee in court. The charge was laid by city police following an accident May 25 in which 17-year-old Betty Schaeffer, 124 Albertus Ave., was struck on her bicycle by the car of the accused and dragged some 70 feet.

She told the court that the accident had caused leg and thigh cuts, bruises and shock. She was in hospital for a month as a result of the injuries.

The accident happened near the corner of George and Princess streets, opposite an open, barricaded manhole. The car struck the girl on the bicycle as it was passing this obstruction.

The accused, in his evidence, told the court that he had not seen the girl until he had almost struck her with the car. He carried her to a doctor's office nearby for treatment.

In levying the fine, Magistrate Gee said: "With the way many boys drive their bicycles—weaving in and out of traffic—it is a surprise that there are not more accidents between bicycles and cars. However, in this case, the girl was apparently driving along on George St. in the normal manner."

Lowe Herd Entry Took Seven Firsts

A local Shorthorn herd, showing at Peterborough for the first time last week, won high placings in the Exhibition judging. This was the entry of Clifford Lowe, R.R. 3, Peterborough, and was established about a year and a half ago. Only other showing made to date has been at the Millbrook show, where the Lowe animals just about cleared the field in the Shorthorn division.

The wins of the new herd, totalling seven firsts, included: champion and reserve champion senior bull, reserve senior female, reserve junior female and first place for get-of-sire.

Accordionist Wins Amateur Contest

Only five months in Canada, George Johnson, accordionist, was the winner in the amateur talent contest at the Exhibition Saturday night. Second prize went to Miss Lillian Wood, Otonabee St., a musical whistler, and third to Don Landry, Reid St., baritone singer.

The contestants appeared in the final program of the CHEX entertainment feature on their own platform south of the manufacturers building. Mr. Johnson came to Peterborough from the Old Country.

Winners of the fiddlers' contest were: Norman Sweet, Water St., who was awarded first prize; Jack Patton, Bethune St., and Miss Muriel Hillis, Peterborough RR 2. Miss Hillis was one of two girls in the group of nine fiddlers taking part in the finals. The amateur entertainment section attracted a score or more of singers, dancers and what can you do, with a large audience following this open air and free feature provided by CHEX.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION I have come to you before and now again. My mother used to make an old-fashioned pickle. Large cucumbers peeled and cut up, and salted overnight, then add chopped onions and spices and add sweetened vinegar. I cannot find recipes and you help me?

A Mustard dressing was added at last. J. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Old-Fashioned Cucumber and Onion Mustard Pickle

Sixteen very large cucumbers, 8 cups spirit vinegar, 1½ to 2 quarts very small onions or medium onions quartered, 4 tablespoons mustard seeds, 4 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons mixed whole spices, ¾ cup sifted flour, ¼ lb. mustard, (1¼ cups), 1½ teaspoons tumeric (this is optional), 2 cups water. Peel the cucumbers, remove large seeds, and cut into desired shapes. Peel onions and if medium-sized cut ito quarters. To them add 1 cup salt, sprinkling it over every layer and let stand overnight. Drain well. Mix vinegar, sugar, mustard seeds, whole spices, and pour over the drained cucumbers and onions and cook until just barely soft. Mix together the flour, mustard and turmeric and stir into a smooth paste with the water. Stir this into the boiling hot vinegar and pickles, stirring constantly, and let simmer 5 minutes, while stirring, then pour into sterile jars and seal at once.

I hope this is something like the recipe you are wanting—I know it is good; my great Aunt who was a farmer's wife used to make gallons of it every year.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Could you print your recipes for icebox cookies? I would like them to have nuts in and maybe a little fruit. Tony.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER

Refrigerator Cookies

Use either 1 cup butter or half and half butter and a good quality shortening, 1½ cup brown sugar, 2 eggs, 3 cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each baking powder and vanilla, ½ cup finely chopped nuts, or ¼ cup chopped nuts and ¼ cup finely chopped fruits such as glace cherries or raisins or dates. Cream the butter very well, and gradually beat the sugar into it until they are a light mass. Beat eggs until light and add. Sift the flour and measure it then add the salt and baking powder and sift again and sift into the first mixture. Add vanilla. (do not be tempted to add any other liquid.) Form into rolls about 2 inches in diameter; wrap these in waxed paper and chill until stiff. With very sharp knife slice thinly and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 10 minutes, watching the baking closely.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I want a lemon filling for tarts or between layer cakes — no more than 2 eggs please. Gretchen.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Lemon Filling (Double This If Used For Filling A Pie Crust)

Blend together 3 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 2-3 cup sugar, and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Stir this into ¾ cup boiling water and cook in double boiler, stirring until thick, then for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat 2 egg yolks, and pour the cooked mixture over them, stirring, and return to heat and cook 2 minutes, stirring. Elizabeth Eleanor Thornton Weds Cecil Ferguson

Banked with baskets of flowers at the chancel, St. Andrew's United Church, Millbrook, was the setting for a pretty late summer wedding on Saturday afternoon, when Rev. G. C. R. McQuade, in a double ring ceremony, united in marriage Elizabeth Eleanor Thornton, Reg.N., younger daughter of Mr. E. C Thornton and the late Mrs. Thornton, Millbrook, and Thomas Cecil Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ferguson of Peterborough.

Homer Oullette played the wedding music and the guest pews were marked with flowers tied with white satin baby ribbon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length dress of white slipper satin, made on princess lines, with insets of venetian lace in the skirt, which extended into a short train, and att he midriff of the fitted bodice. It had a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves pointed over the hands, and was fastened with self-covered buttons in the back to the waistline. She wore an heirloom gold necklace set with pearls, and her fingertip veil was held in place with a coronet of seed brilliants. Her cascade bouquet was of dark red gladioli and bouvardia, and white satin slippers completed the ensemble.

Attending the bride were her two sisters, Mrs. E. L. Burnham of Peterborough and Mrs. Lavergne Gibson, Millbrook, the former wearing turquoise blue and the latter beauty rose taffeta, their dresses being fashioned alike with floor-length bouffant skirts, fitted bodices, finished with scalloped pepums, short sleeves with scalloped edge, as had also the little Dutch hats, in matching material and shade with their dresses. Long taffeta gloves were worn, and they carried cascade bouquets of gladioli, Mrs. Burnham's in rose tone and Mrs. Gibson's in cream with red centres. The groomsman was Carlisle Ferguson of Peterborough, and another brother, Douglas Ferguson, and a brother-in-law, Lavergne Gibson, acted as ushers.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's father, her aunt, Miss Augusta Thornton, wearing silver grey crepe, with matching hat and accessories, and corsage of pink gladioli. Mrs. Ferguson, mother of the groom, also wore a grey ensemble, and her corsage was of gladioli in coral shades. Pouring tea at the damask - covered bride's table, centred with the three-tiered wedding cake, were the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Annie Ferguson of Peterborough, and an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Roy Bryson of Hamilton. Serving the more than fifty guests were fellow members of the bride's graduating class, Mrs. Dean Cutmore, Miss Pauline Keilty, Miss Nora Whetung and Mrs. Alfred Grant of Peterborough; also Mrs. Clarence Ball, Millbrook, and Miss Mary Dawson of Peterborough.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left by motor for their honeymoon in Haliburton, the latter choosing for travelling a silk crepe dress in smoke grey tones, with matching hat, and wine accessories. They will reside in Peterborough.

Cecelia Langevin Weds R. W. Martin

In St. George's Anglican Church on Saturday, Cecelia Mabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Langevin, became the bride of Robert William, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Martin. Rev. E. C. Moore officiated, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. J. Cooper sang "O Perfect Love".

Wearing a gown of white embossed satin with sweetheart neckline and finger-tip sleeves, the bride was given away by Mr. Len Watkins. The bride's full length veil was of white net, caught with a silver sequin coronet, and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Bridesmaid was the bride's sister, Miss Rose Langevin, who wore a blue net gown with a blue shoulder length veil, and carried a bouquet of rapture roses.

Best man was Maurice La Fave, cousin of the groom, and ushers were Edwin and George Martin, brothers of the groom. The reception was held at the home of George Martin where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of grey crepe with wine accessories and a corsage of roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a dress of navy blue crepe with navy accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip for which the bride wore a cream flannel outfit with black and white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. On their return they will live at 467 Braidwood avenue.

Low-Calorie Dinner

Broiled calves' liver and bacon and tomatoes (meat 200 cal., 4 oz. tomato 25 cal.)
Corn on the cob (1 med. cob 90 cal.)
Sliced cucumbers and celery hearts (15 cal. each average serving).
Fruit cup of peaches, cantaloupe and grapefruit (125 cal.)
Clear tea or coffee (no cal.)

High-Calorie Low-Cost Dinner

Green split pea soup
Split broiled wieners
Whole tomato stuffed with coleslaw
Potato salad
Peach pie with cheese. Coffee

One-Burner Dinner

Devilled egg and sardine salad
Diced buttered beets
Potatoes in parsley sauce
Cantaloupes and ice cream
Coffee.

Directions.—I have suggested split pea soup because it is a great satisfier. A minimum of meat (or none) may be served when a soup like this is prepared from stock left from boiling meat a day or two previously.

For instance, I had boiled a pork hock to use ground for sandwiches, so I used this stock in which to boil 1 lb. soaked gree split peas. During the cooking I added 1 cup finely chopped celery leaves, 1 medium onion chopped finely, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and salt and pepper to taste, plus about ½ cup chopped bacon from the butt end of a smoked side.

To cook all the items in the one-burner dinner boil the washed eggs, and potatoes and beets all with skins on, in one large pot until done, then they can be peeled. After the potatoes are heated in the cream sauce, the buttered beets can be quickly warmed through.

Toronto Church Setting For Revoy-Eames Wedding

HAVELOCK, Aug. 30.—(ENS). —Century Baptist Church, Toronto, was the scene of a marriage of interest Friday evening when Margaret Helen, only daughter of Mrs. Eames and the late John Eames, of Toronto, became the bride of Cecil Joel Revoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Revoy of Havelock.

Gladioli and ferns formed a lovely setting for the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Robert Eames, brother of the bride. The wedding music was played by Mr. A. Penny and Mr. Earle Crowe, soloist for the "Youth for Christ Movement" in Toronto, sang "Because" prior to the ceremony and "Together With Jesus" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. James R. Eames, the bride wore a gown of heavy white satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice gathered at the back in V-shape, full skirt and long sleeves that came to a point over the hands. The overdrape on the front of the skirt was edged with lace. Her embroidered silk net veil was in coronet style, caught with wax white lillies. She carried a cascade of American beauty roses and white gladioli with a large bow to match the roses.

Miss Gladys Hill of Toronto was maid of honor and Miss Helen Revoy of Toronto, formerly of Havelock, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They were gowned in blush pink swishy taffeta and turquoise moire respectively, fashioned alike with fitted bodice, side bustles and full skirts. Their headbands were of gladioli petals. They carried bouquets of gladioli and roses to match.

Sharilyn Mulligan, three-year-old niece of the groom, was flower girl and looked lovely in yellow moire with back bustle. She carried a muff of yellow roses and peach plumes.

The best man was Mr. Gerald Mulligan, brother-in-law of the groom. Mr. Donald Eames, youngest brother of the bride, and Mr. Ross Lee of Newmarket, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the banquet hall of the church where the bride's mother received the 65 guests wearing a suit of turquoise corded silk, with a hat of beige straw and corsage of red and white roses with a white plume. The groom's mother assisted, wearing a gown of London-mist crepe with a hat of black lace straw and corsage of sweetheart pink roses with matching plume.

The bride's table was attractive with a beautiful lace cloth, white gladioli, white tapers and centred with a large prettily decorated three-tiered wedding cake.

During the reception Mr. Earle Crowe sang the "Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mr. Penny.

Rev. Robert Eames was master of ceremonies and gave the toast to the bride. Mr. Gerald Mulligan gave the toast to the bridal attendants.

Later the bride and groom left on a short trip to New York and points east. For travelling the bride wore a soft red peplum suit with beige accessories. They will reside in Peterborough.

Those from Havelock attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Revoy, sons Donald and Robert, Mrs. Samuel Southward and Mrs. William Laing.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Must Assert Independence When Family Is Enslaved

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 28 years old and have never had a boy friend or tried to make friends because of my father being so strict. Even when my brother took me to a show a few times my father would never believe that we went where we said we did, accused us of going to immoral places and picked on my mother until we stopped going, out, to save her from being so mistreated.

Dorothy Dix

Now I would like to get married, but I don't expect any boy to put up with my father's actions. Would you advise me to leave home, or just bear with Father's treatment? I am self-supporting. Earn a good salary.

MISS M.

ANSWER: I think that any woman of 28 who has earned her own living for years is being weak and silly if she lets an overbearing parent dominate her. Your father is a cruel tyrant who has deprived you of all the pleasures of youth simply because he gets a kick out of enslaving you. It gratifies his ego to have the whole family, your mother included, so afraid of him that they dare to defy him.

To this column come innumerable letters from women who are no longer foolish young girls. They have never been allowed to have a date, or to have a boy friend, or to go to any place of amusement without Father sending somebody along to spy upon them. And these fathers invariably make their daughters turn over to them every cent they earn.

Lacking Courage

Surely at 28 year of age you have acquired sufficient knowledge of life to realize how you are being enslaved, and you are simply lacking in courage to stand it. You must know that the longer you put off asserting you independence, the harder it will be. You will have small chance of ever marrying, because Papa will keep away the young men until your youth is gone.

My earnest advice to you is to make a strike for freedom while the going is still good.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a divorced woman of 26, with a pretty little blue-eyed, blonde girl. I thought that marriage would be a bed of roses, but I found that it was full of thorns.

Now I am in love with another man, but his mother thinks he is entitled to someone who has never been married, and he doesn't want her to find out that he is going with me. I think enough of him to give him half of my pay check. He used to come to see me every night, but now he only comes once a week and I sit and wait for him, very lonely and downhearted. My mother and friends think he is playing me for a sucker. What do you think?

DESPAIRING DIVORCEE

ANSWER: I fully agree with your mother's and friends' estimate of you if you let this deadbeat hold you up for the money you work so hard to earn, and that you must need for yourself when you have a child to support.

Why any woman could could be silly enough to think that the man who sponges on her loves her and intends to marry her and make a home for her, passes all comprehension. A man who really loves a woman wants to protect her, not rob her. Just to bring a little common sense to bear on your problem, if you can.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, August 31

The auguries are for a pleasant and prosperous day, with all things moving smoothly toward desired objectives, hopes and wishes, in business, professional, domestic and social relations, where loyalty and devotion to ideals and aspirations are calmly kept well in hand. However, a proclivity to overdo, to be carried away by enthusiasm or recklessness, to force the issues against shrewd policy and tact, could be detrimental. Keep the emotions and impulses, the temper, under firm leash.

For The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are justified in expecting a happy, progressive and lucrative year, with many pleasant and profitable associations, with business, and other plans based on good will and friendly interest, fourishing. New interests, desired change or agreements, devoted service, are sure to win recognition and reward. Nevertheless, an inclination to force the issue, to use power rather than prudence, resort to emotional and impulsive, perhaps angry and rash conduct, could defeat cherished objectives.

A child born on this day should be talented, versatile and ambitious, with a pleasant personality and congenial disposition. It could undermine its best efforts by rash, intemperate, or impulsive behavior.

Howell Pitches Syracuse To 2-1 Triumph

By The Associated Press

The fine pitching of Millard (Dixie) Howell, 28-year-old righthander of Syracuse Chiefs, is highlighting the Chiefs' bid for an International League playoff berth.

Howell hung up his 15th victory Sunday as he pitched the Chiefs to a 2-1 triumph over Toronto Maple Leafs in the second game of a doubleheader. The Chiefs also won the opener, 10-8 in 13 innings on Clyde Vollmer's 29th homer of the season with a mate aboard.

The triumph was Howell's fourth straight and his seventh in his last nine starts. He allowed the Leafs six hits. Frankie Davis snapped a 1-1 tie when he doubled home Frankie Drews in the sixth inning.

Howell also played a big part in the opening game triumph. Tied at 6-6 going into the 12th inning, the Leafs tallied twice but the Chiefs tied it up in their half when Howell hit a two-run pinch hit single.

Down Orioles

The triumphs enabled the fifth-place Chiefs to pull within a game of the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings who beat Baltimore Orioles, 5-3, in the first game of a doubleheader, called at the end of seven innings because of rain. The second game was washed out.

Ed Kazak homered for Rochester and Bill Martin for the Orioles.

The up-and-coming Jersey City Giants took both ends of a twin bill from the league-leading Montreal Royals, 5-1 and 4-0. Hub Andrews stopped the Royals on three hits in the opener and Jack Kraus blanked the league-leaders on six singles in the nightcap. The victory was the Giants' ninth in their last 10 outings.

Newark's runner-up Bears divided a doubleheader with Buffalo Bisons, winning the first game, 5-4 but losing the second, 8-3. In the opener Anse Moore hit his 22nd homer of the year and in the finale, Coaker Triplett clouted two round-trippers.

Thistlewaite Takes 10-Mile Road Race

W. A. Thistlewaite, Norwood member of the Peterborough Harriers Club won the second annual Lakefield-Peterborough 10-mile road race put on by the club Saturday afternoon. He ran the course in 78 minutes, 50.4 seconds, but failed to break the record set last year of 75 minutes by Jack Martin.

Starting at the Hydro office in Lakefield, D. McNeil set the pace for two miles and then, running along with Thistlewaite, they opened up a good margin, Crowder coming along behind. At the four-mile mark, Thistlewaite took over the lead and held it till he finished at St. Paul's Church.

Despite the heat, the runners ran a good race and showed courage sticking it out. They refused to have the run cancelled, though a small entry started out, many failing to show up. Next year, the entry list will be opened to the province. Thistlewaite now goes into heavy training for the "around the bay" 26-mile marathon race in Hamilton in November. Jack Martin may accompany him. Times:

W. A. Thistlewaite, 78 mins. 50.4 secs.

D. McNeil, 80 mins.

B. Crowder, 91 mins.

The harriers' next event will be a track meet against the Oshawa Shamrock AC. More about this later.

Argos Defeat Beaches 13-8; Tigers Triumph

By The Canadian Press

Happiest among those citizens glad to see the end of the heat wave are the football players, who somehow don't relish carrying 20 pounds of personal equipment in 100-degree temperatures.

Well over 100 of them tried it in Hamilton and Toronto Saturday, and the effort should have floated both stadia away in pools of good, honest sweat. Instead, there were a couple of well-played exhibition games, with Toronto Argonauts, beating Toronto Beaches Indians, 13-8, and Hamilton Wildcats, walloping Windsor Rockets, 36-3.

The only senior league game was played in comparatively cool weather in Regina, where Winnipeg Blue Bombers edged Regina's Saskatchewan Roughriders, 14-13. The victory put all three teams in the Western Canada League in a first-place tie, each with two points after the first round.

The official temperature reading was 100 at Toronto as 4,397 fans paid $6,505 for the benefit of Ontario's crippled children to watch Argos beat Beaches Indians for the city championship. The heat helped build up a heavy casualty list, including Argos' Joe Krol, who twisted an ankle, but only Steve Rusnnyk, promising Argos halfback, will be benched for any time with a broken collarbone.

Scores Two Touchdowns

Blonde Royal Copeland scored two touchdowns for the Dominion champions, who open their regular Big Four schedule next Saturday against Montreal Alouettes in Toronto. Don Durno converted both and Ken Whitlock, the Argos import from Virginia State College, punted a single point.

For Beaches Indians, a combined Ontario Union entry of last season's Toronto Indians and Balmy Beach, Ernie Becker counted a major when he fell on a goalline fumble. Don Crowe kicked their other points with a placement.

Wildcats ran away from the Ontario Union Rockets at Hamilton in 99-degree heat. Hometowner Walter Gibb was the high scorer with a touchdown and three converts, but Jim Oldenberg, Wildcats 225-pound halfback from Buffalo Canisius College, scored one major and passed for two others.

Buffalo West Side Rowing Club won the senior eights, a ¾-mile dash, beating out St. Catharines.

Grace Lenczyk Keeps Women's Open Golf Title

RIVERSIDE GOLF CLUB, Saint John, N.B., Aug. 30 — (CP). — Miss Grace Lenczyk was still the owner of the Canadian Ladies' Open golf championship today, but her 3 and 2 triumph Saturday over Mrs. Eddie Bush of Wilmington, Del., was one of the toughest fights of her career.

Down five holes at the start, the 21-year-old girl from Newington, Conn., had to battle all the way for victory in the 36-hole all-American final.

She did not gain the lead until the 24th, then lost it again just as quickly. But a brilliant sweep of four holes in a row carried her to a winning finish on the 34th.

Wild with her approach shots and her putting, Miss Lenczyk was down five holes at the sixth. Then she got down to business, won the next three holes in a row and finished the morning 18 all square.

The 27th found her one down, with Mrs. Bush threatening to take the title and the Duchess of Connaught Golf Cup.

The champion squared it again with a birdie on the 28th, lost the 29th, then pulled steadily ahead.

She took the 30th with a birdie and breezed to win on the 31st when Mrs. Bush trapped her second and holed out with a five, one over par.

The Wilmington golfer's drive bounced into the woods on the 32nd, and Miss Lenczyk had no trouble taking it with a par five.

Mrs. Bush then gave the match away on the 350-yard par four 33rd hole as she three-putted. She tried hard on the 34th with a nice second from behind a tree, but Miss Lenczyk had no trouble matching her par four and retaining the title she won last year at Toronto.

The champion shot a medal score of 146, even par for the 34 holes played, while Mrs. Bush took 148.

CCF Holds Camp Combines Study With Relaxation

HALIBURTON, Aug. 30. — Ninety officers and leaders of CCF associations and clubs from all parts of Ontario began a 10-day period of learning-and-loafing here on Saturday. The CCF Summer School at Deer Lodge will combine a course in policies of Canada's Socialist Party with a varied social and recreational program. On Lake Kashagawigamog, the camp is located in one of the most lovely spots in the Haliburton Highlands.

Main objective of the school is to acquaint the leaders with all phases of CCF Federal policy as drawn up at the recent Winnipeg convention. In addition to educational studies, the participants will enjoy periods of healthful relaxation and sport.

Lectures and discussion groups will be held every day, according to Joseph W. Noseworthy, chairman of the school. It will give the leaders an opportunity to become acquainted with each other as well as increasing their knowledge on CCF aims and objectives.

Daily programs have been drawn up to provide the leaders with opportunities to take part in discussions. In this way, Mr. Noseworthy said, they will be beter versed in CCF policy.

High on the list of studies will be the Federal policy, according to the chairman. It is the aim of the school, he pointed out, to acquaint the leaders with the policy so that they in turn will return to their ridings to pass this knowledge on to the rank and file. It will help them to talk intelligently on the subject by election time.

Federal policy lectures will be given by Lorne Ingle, research director of the national office at Ottawa. A second course on the "Principles of Socialism" will be given by David Lewis, national secretary.

Other lectures during the school will be given by educationists. Prof. H. M. Cassidy of University of Toronto will speak on "Issues in Social Service." Prof. E. M. Falardeau, of Laval University, will lecture on "French-Canadian Attitudes to CCF," and Prof. Eric Havelock of Harvard on "International Affairs."

The school was officially opened by Mr. Noseworthy in a short discussion on the program. E. E. Jolliffe, provincial leader, who was slated to discuss "The Future of the CCF," failed to arrive due to car trouble.

Ukrainians Honor

KIRKLAND LAKE, Aug. 30 — (CP)—Ukrainians from all over this Northern Ontario district met here Sunday to honor Most Rev. Isodore Borecky, Bishop of the Greek-Catholic diocese of eastern Canada.

After a pontifical mass in Holy Name Church, the bishop led a procession to the cenotaph. At a dinner in the bishop's honor, Reeve Ann Shipley of Teck township welcomed visitors from Val d'Or, Malartic, Rouyn, Noranda, and Duparquette in Quebec and from Kapuskasing, Timmins, Ansonville, Holtyre, Cobalt and Englehart in Ontario.

"You have suffered the misery of false government," the reeve said. "Here in Canada we have the freedom you have longed for and with your help we will keep it like this."

Chambers Gives Committee Bentley Link

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) —The Congressional spy hunt shifted to New York today for Whittaker Chambers' own story of having landed a government job while drawing pay as a Communist agent.

The new development was unfolded by Chambers himself in secret testimony before the House of Representatives un-American activities committee.

It led Rep. Richard Nixon (Rep. Calif.) to claim that for the first time the committee now has a "definite, probable link" between the pre-war Red underground described by Chambers — a senior editor of Time Magazine—and the wartime Russian spy activities related by Elizabeth T. Bentley.

Nixon, who summoned reporters to Capitol Hill late Sunday to hear the latest turn of events, said Chambers got his government job from two people Miss Bentley accused.

Nixon declined to go into more than the bare details.

Asks For Job

Nixon said Chambers told the committee that he went to two of the people Miss Bentley named as members of this group and asked to be put on the federal payroll.

Within 24 hours, Nixon said, Chambers was given a job and stayed on it several months "while actually still a $35-a-week undercover man for the Communist underground."

In its report issued Saturday night, the committee mentioned Miss Bentley's testimony about two spy networks and added:

"There is every reason to believe that the committee has merely scratched the surface of these activities, that more of these groups exist than have been disclosed by available witnesses, and that such groups are still within the government."

Say Sir Henry Gurney Commissioner Malaya

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—An informed source said today Sir Henry Gurney has been nominated as the new high commissioner for the Malayan federation.

Sir Hendry, 50, onetime chief secretary of the Palestine government, now is working in the colonial office in London.

Delay in announcing his appointment has been due to the fact that several government departments—notably A. V. Alexander's defence ministry and Ernest Bevin's foreign office—have had to be closely consulted, the source said.

Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones now has obtained these departments' acceptance, the informant added, and Sir Henry's name has gone forward to Prime Minister Attlee's office for formal royal approval.

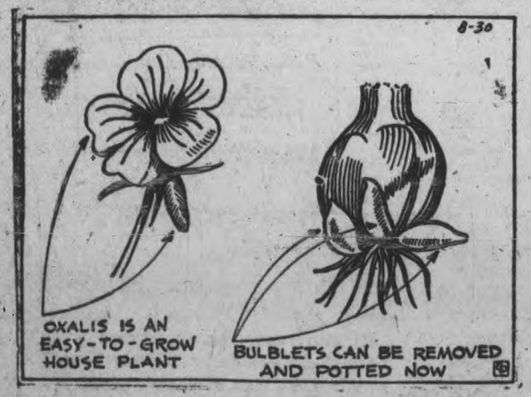
Pot Oxalis Now For Winter Blooms



By DEAN HALLIDAY

THERE are many varieties of Oxalis which are winter flowering and are desirable for growing in pots indoors.

Some varieties, such as Oxalis cernua, have a semi-trailing habit making them especially suitable for hanging baskets.

Oxalis in general have the reputation of being one of the easiest plants to grow. The flowers are small and dainty, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The plants are very free flowering.

Like Freesias, Oxalis should be potted now for winter blooms. It usually takes from eight to 10 weeks for them to reach the blooming stage. Whether potted or not, the bulbs will usually start growth with fragile shoots. Therefore, they must be handled carefully to avoid damage to the starting growth. Nurseries generally ship the bulbs in late August or September.

Use 4-inch pots for single bulbs. Many people plant 3 or 4 bulbs in an 8-inch hanging basket. When planting, cover the bulbs with an inch of soil. They prefer a light, sandy loam into which peat or leafmold has been mixed. The container holding the bulbs can be placed where it is wanted during the flowering period for the bulbs do not require a starting period in the dark.

Water the bulbs sparingly until growth has started, then water them normally which means only sufficiently to keep the soil fairly moist.

Winter-flowering Oxalis should be kept dry in their pots from spring until early fall. After the leaves die down, let the pots dry thoroughly in a warm place.

In August each year, re-pot the new bulblets which will have developed, as illustrated.

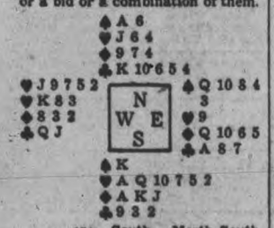
MAKE HIM READ WRONG

MANY A contract depends upon one side making the other have a wrong reading of the cards. This is so more often through maneuvers of the declarer to fool the defense than through defenders' tactics to mislead the declarer. The reason is that a defender often is afraid of the damage that might come from misguiding his partner, whereas it does a declarer no harm to hornswoggle the dummy. But sometimes the pair on the defense manages to bamboozle the declarer through either a play or a bid or a combination of them.



...er: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	2 ♠
3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥

After the spade 5 was won by the singleton K, South saw the necessity of winning a trick in the dummy so he could use the spade A for a club discard and then try the diamond finesse. His chance to do that apparently lay in finding the heart K in the West or having that card be a singleton. So he laid down the heart A and then led the 2. If West had played low, the J would have been put in. West, however, came in with the K and then led the club Q.

Right there came the crisis of the deal. If the dummy covered with the K, the contract would have been home, since the A would win that and a club return would have put West in with the J. But South decided that West probably had three clubs and East the A either as a singleton or in a doubleton. He therefore played low from dummy, hoping the A would have to play the next time. When the J was now led, he ducked again in dummy, trusting that the A would play. When it did he was overjoyed.

But his pleasure was short-lived. East had played the A voluntarily, not compulsorily, as South learned when the 8 was then returned, West ruffing for the setting trick.

Note that the defense caused South to read East as more likely to be short in clubs then West, since East's first bid of spades had shown length there. Also note that the defenders had several chances for mistakes—by playing low on the second heart lead, by East letting the club J win or by East not returning the third club.

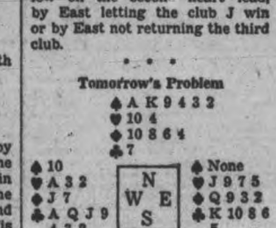
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

How should South play for 6-Spades after West, who had made a 3-Club overcall, leads the A of his suit?
